FRANCE IGNORES A LAST REQUEST FROM GERMANY

Will Hold to Her Programme for Complete Enforcement of Treaty Of Versailles.

ATTITUDE IS FIRM

PARIS, Oct. 25.—(By John De Grant, United Press Staff Correspondent.)—France will ignore Germany's latest requests for resumption of conversations for settlement of the reparations problem, Premier Poincare told the Cabinet to-day.

There will be no weakening in the French attitude of its uncompromising firmness toward the German Reich, Poincare indicated.

Hold to Programme.

Despite the grave internal situation in Germany, France will hold to her programme for complete enforcement of the Treaty of Versailles. With France in complete control of the Reparations Commission, there seemed little doubt but that the Commission would reject the German appeal, declaring Germany's inability to pay at present.

Breach is Discussed.

It is learned here that the Reichstag has changed its plans and held only an informal session at which the breach between Bavaria and the Reich was frankly discussed by Chancellor Stresemann and others, including the Bavarian representative.

It was tactily agreed that the situation should be left for consideration by a sub-committee of the Reichstag at its next session.

The action of Major Louis, French representative from the Rhineland Commission in urging the Palatinate Diet to separate from Berlin was resented by many members of the Diet, including Socialists.

Talk of Treason.

The Diet finally passed only a declaration of autonomy in a form that indicated its condemnation of Bavaria's breach with the Reich, according to despatches.

The presence of Reichswehr troops in Saxony to support General Meuller in preventing Communists from defying the Central Government was resented by many persons, who fired on the troops. Many arrests were reported.

HON. A. K. McLEAN IS HEADING FOR BENCH

OTTAWA, Oct. 25. — (Canadian Press).—The decisive victory of Hon. E. J. McMurray in North Winnipeg will, it is expected, have the effect of hastening the appointment of Hon. A. K. McLean to the Exchequer Court Bench and the opening of the Halifax seat. Mr. McLean's appointment to the Exchequer Court has been rumored for some time, and delay in making it is attributed in some quarters to the reluctance of the Government to engage in by-elections which could be avoided.

LIGHTEN HOME WORK AND NOT ABOLISH IT

TORONTO, October 25. Canadian Press. — Following criticism over the report of the statement that he was going to eliminate home work for school pupils, Hon. G. Howard Ferguson stated to-day that he did not say he would abolish home work.

"What I did say was that I would advocate elimination of unnecessary subjects and thereby lighten it," he said.

Czecho-Slovakians Seeking Assistance to Vacate Germany

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(Special). — A hundred thousand Czecho-Slovakians living in Germany have appealed to their own country, a Central News dispatch from Prague said to-day.

The Czecho-Slovakians in their appeal said living condition in Germany were intolerable. The Government at Prague has reported to be preparing to bring their countrymen back and house them temporarily in a former prisoner camp near the city.

Delay is expected because of German requirements that all perscons leaving the country must have passports.

LOST 5 YEARS THROUGH BLOW

Clock Turned Back Half Decade Through Knock On Head — Crushed Under Beer Truck.

ST. CLOUD, Minn., Oct. 25.—The blow on the head that knocked Arthur E. Whitney, Federal prohibition agent of Minneapolis, under the wheels of a beer truck at New Munich, Monn., on Wednesday night, fracturing his skull, also turned the pages of his life back five years, it was revealed.

Whitney was overseas 27 months during the World War, was gassed three times, and a victim of amnesia. His life after the last gas attack was a blank.

After the war, he landed in New York and obtained a job as a Federal prohibition agent. There he met a young woman known as Mrs. Ann Whitney, who has lived in St. Paul with him for the last two years.

When Whitney, at a local hospital, regained consciousness, for the first time since the blow, standing beside the bed was Mrs. Luella Whitney, whom he married in Grafton, N. D., in 1912, and who bore him two sons.

He said he knew nothing of Ann Whitney, nothing of the baby soon to arrive, nothing of the almost complete divorce proceedings between himself and Luella, and nothing of how he was hurt.

Whitney had a faint idea that he had been a Government dry agent, however. He asked his wife how the boys were and apparently did not realize the passage of time.

Physicians say Whitney will recover.

BIG RUGBY GAME HERE SATURDAY

Peterboro Rugby fans will have the chance of seeing a good game at Riverside Park on Saturday when the Y.M.H.A. team of Toronto will clash with the Peterboro Juniors in a junior O.R.F.U. game. It is a sudden death affair, the winners going into the next round in the series, and with so much at stake, there should be a whole lot of excitement wrapped up in the contest. The Peterboro youngsters showed fine form in their exhibition game against Lindsay last Saturday, when they ran up a score of 47 points, and as they have been practising faithfully this week, they should trot out a snappy aggregation. The Y.M.H.A. team have won their group in Toronto, and come here with the reputation of being a fast, sturdy and well-drilled aggregation. The Petes, however, are confident of taking a fall out of the Toronto squad.

The local team has to guarantee the expense of the visitors, so that it is up to the fans to liberally patronize Saturday's fixture.

TALK ON ARC WELDING TO LOCAL ENGINEERS

J. B. Minns, B.A., B.Sc., of the Apparatus Sales Department of the Canadian General Eelectric Company, Toronto, will address the Engineering Institute of Canada, Peterboro Branch, in the Chamber of Commerce to-night, on "Application of Arc Welding."

Mr. Minns will illustrate his lecture with a series of reels of miving pictures. The meeting opens at 8.15, following dinner in the Empress Hotel at 6.15.

This is the second of the season's lectures in the local Branch.

MANY MILLIONS DUMB ANIMALS ARE TORTURED

American Urges Law To Compel Using Device to Produce Instant Death In Traps.

HUMANE CONFERENCE

NEW YORK, Oct. 25. — A mass martyrdom of some 20,000,000 dumb animals every year in North America alone is going on without protest right under the eyes of the public, and more than 6,000,000 steel traps, which inflict agonizing tortures on animals without killing them outright, are annually sold, according to Commander Edward Breck, former official naval historian, big game hunter and author of many books on nature studies.

Commander Breck made this statement at the American World Humane Conference at the Hotel Astor. In an address on the cruelty of trapping, he, as an expert professional trapper among his other vocations, pleaded earnestly for a trap which would kill wild animals outright.

"Furs are by no means a necessity, except possibly in the Far North," he said. "In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred they are worn from choice and fashion. It is not at all difficult to imagine the horrors of the torturing steel trap—horrors which make the heart stand still.

Calls Martyrdom Needless.

"Totally needless, then, is the mass martyrdom of some fifteen to twenty million of dumb animals every year in North America alone still going on right under our eyes, if we but open them. And bearing in mind this needlessness of furs and of the use of the steel trap, since there are good traps which kill at once, I consider the legal use of the steel trap as the most terrible scandal in history, not excluding the World War and the Spanish Inquisition. Those things came to an end. This thing is as rampant to-day as it ever was, and more so.

"Often the miserable victims are eaten alive by other beasts. Sometimes they gnaw their own limbs off in an effort to get free, are frozen to death, or, in a large majority of cases, die in the throes of torture. I have used these steel traps and I assert, with no desire to exaggerate, that very nearly half of the animals found in the traps have died a lingering death of torture. What shall we do? My own idea is to carry on an intensive campaign of education; to get all the societies of our kind together and concentrate on this one thing, and especially to get the Legislatures of all the State and Canadian Provinces as well as Congress itself to pass a blanket law against the use in any way of any trap which does not kill instantly."

Columbia University Criticized.

Columbia University's use of the $100,000 Henry Bergh Foundation for humanitarian purposes was criticized by Dr. Francis H. Rowley, chairman of the Committee on Slaughterhouse Reform.

"Many of us have wondered if Columbia University has not regarded humane education as beneath the dignity of such an institution," said Dr. Rowley. "Perhaps that is the reason the fund has been put to the use it has. The University regards the problem with a lack of emotion that is not in keeping with the spirit of the humane movement as a whole."

Dr. Samuel McCune Lindsay, in charge of the legal bureau, defended the University, saying that, owing to the smallness of the income it had been compelled to specialize in a small field. The money, he said, was being used to analyze all American humane legislation for animals, children and prisoners, with a view to enabling the staff to draft humanitarian laws that would be both constitutional and enforceable.

A report of a committee on the need for organized action against rodeos and Wild West shows says, in part:

"It is folly to think that these shows can be carried on without some degree of cruelty. The public does not understand the vicious torment to which the animals in these exhibitions are subjected. It is not by any means unusual to see steers dehorned, their legs and necks broken and their bodies otherwise mutilated in steer-roping and bull-dogging stunts."

Guy Richardson, of Boston, secretary of the Massachusetts S.P.C.A., declared that practically all trained animal acts were made possible only by cruelty, and urged laws to prevent them. He criticized statements of Dr. William T. Hornaday, director of the New York Zoological Society, that it is no more cruel for an ape or a dog to work on the stage than for an acrobat, and that a sound whack for an unruly elephant, bear or horse is just as helpful as for an unruly boy who should be shown that order is Heaven's first law.

"The drunken dogs, baboon orchestras and singing pigs are made to perform by brutality," said Mr. Richardson.

Mrs. Mary Madden Fiske, the actress, appearing before the conference, spoke of the horror encouraged by wearing furs, and said she did not understand how kindly, intelligent women continue to wear them.

WILD BANDITRY NEW YORK NETS $10,000 OF GEMS

Four Daring Auto Bandits Stage Robbery When Streets Are Thronged With Traffic.

SHOOT UP STORE

NEW YORK, Oct. 25. — Wild western banditry, unknown to-day even in mining camps on the other side of the Rockies, was staged within a stone's throw of a busy east side corner in New York just as the streets were thronged with homegoers in the evening when four men tried to shoot out the lights of a Third Avenue jewelry store, shattered its plate glass window with their bullets, extended their reign of terror to a lunch room adjoining, and got away clean with $10,000 in diamond rings.

Policemen and detectives who at once swarmed to the scene within easy hailing distance of the elevated station at 116th Street, and the busy crosstown traffic there—learned that the desperadoes had operated from a stolen car. Beyond that there was not the slightest clue to them or to the loot with which they fled, while terrified onlookers were ducking and dodging the reckless spray of steel which rained into the jewelry store and the lunch room.

Adolf Silberman, proprietor of the store at 2116 Third Avenue, his son, Emanuel, and David Russolli, a friend, who were in the rear when a storm of bullets appraised them of the attack, escaped injury despite the reckless marksmanship. So did a half dozen patrons in Joe's lunchroom next door, into which four pistols spat bullets when there were incipient signs of a sortie to help the beleaguered jeweler. But glass was shattered in both places and the bullet scarred plaster looked as if a tide of real battle had passed that way, so that those who surveyed the damage afterwards marvelled that no one was hit.

Tried to Shoot at Lights.

The four got out of their big black touring car quietly enough, made their way easily across the sidewalk, and opened hostilities with a precision suggesting that each has been drilled for his part. Two turned their weapons against the big show window, the other two posting themselves in the doorway tilted their pistol barrels and blazed away at the glowing bulbs near the ceiling.

As the elder Silberman sprang toward the front of the store, the arc of one weapon was lowered and a business like voice ordered him to get back if he wanted to live. He paused, and just then one of the pair on the sidewalk shouted an "All right."

The words meant that each had seized a tray of glittering rings. They raced across the sidewalk, dumped the gem-set rings on to the tonneau floor, flung the trays into the gutter and sprang into the car.

Satisfied that Silberman, his son, and Russoff were thoroughly cowed, the other pair bricked out, pausing long enough to grab a ring tray each from the window and then rejoined their companions in the car.

Just as the car was about to dash away one of the quartette saw the little crowd in the lunchroom moving for the door. He jumped back to the sidewalk and in a final show of bravado opened fire at random. A bullet crashed through the lunchroom window and sent the patrons of Joe's scurrying to cover under the tables and behind the lunch counter.

Sped Away in Auto.

Apparently satisfied then that there would be no interference, the man entered the car, which sped south on Third Avenue and was lost to sight. Patrolman Sullivan of the East 104th street station was the first to arrive. He notified Detectives Summer, Enright and Lane. A passer-by who had managed to get the number of the bandit car turned it over to the police.

The detectives learned that the car was the property of Louis Acusta of 20 West 129th street. About the time of the robbery, Acusta reported to the police of the East 126th street station that his car had been stolen from in front of his residence half an hour before.

GERMAN REBELS ADVANCING ON CAPITAL TODAY

SITUATION IS GRAVE

LONDON, October 25. (Special) —A Central News despatch received from Berlin shortly after three o'clock this afternoon, says large bands of Communists are marching on the German capital, and that the police have been rushed out to intercept them.

The despatch says that the Communists are also assembling in strong force in Lichtenberger district of Berlin, but the police have surrounded the whole neighborhood and are not allowing anyone to pass through their cordon.

Serious trouble is expected to-night, the message adds.

RENEWED ACTIVITY.

Treves, a Central News despatch from Berlin said to-day.

French colored cavalry were reported patrolling the streets.

Coblenz reports that a Rhineland republic was proclaimed this morning at the former quarters of the United States forces in Germany, in Andernach, ten miles northwest of Coblenz.

It was proclaimed also at Arhweiller, near Coblenz, as well as at Soden, Bizal and Omistenheim, small towns situated respectively in the districts of Wiesbaden, Bonn and Rudesheim.

At Aix-la-Chapelle the police this morning attacked Regierung Palace, the only remaining public building in the hands of the Separatists. Five policemen and two Separatists were killed during the fusillade.

Later thirty five members of the police force called at Belgian headquarters and requested that they be disarmed.

MANY CASUALTIES.

Berlin hears that heavy fighting has been going on in Aix-la-Chapelle between the Rhineland Separatists and citizens loyal to the German Reich since daybreak to-day.

Many have been killed and wounded.

The fortunes of the rival parties were wavering, and it was impossible to tell which would remain in control of the city.

Separatists started the fight in the attempt to regain the heart of the city from which furious citizens drove them in the fighting of the last two days.

"The situation in Hamburg is still tense," a message says to-day.

Strong detachments of soldiers and marines are stationed in the suburbs with orders to use ruthless measures in quelling any 'communist' outbreaks.

THE INSPECTORS WANT MORE CASH

Deputation Wait on G. Howard Ferguson This Morning.

TORONTO, October 25. Canadian Press. — Representing 115 county schol oinspectors in the Province of Ontario, a deputation waited on Premier G. Howard Ferguson at the Parliament buildings this morning and requested that their salaries be increased from $3000 to $4000.

"We do not want to have too much of our time taken up making both ends meet," said Mr. Jordan. He argued that inspectors at present are paid less than priucipals of the public schools they supervise.

The premier replied that while he could not state definitely what action he would take he promised that he would meet their requests to some extent at least.

CROWN PRINCE WOULD RETURN TO HOME LAND

NO DECISION YET

BERLIN, Oct. 25.—(By Carl D. Groat, United Press Staff Correspondent).—The former Crown Prince has urgently requested that he be allowed to return to Germany, it was learned to-day.

After vigorous correspondence between the Prince and Chancellor Stresemann, the Chancellor laid the matter before one of the recent numerous sittings of the Cabinet for a decision.

Socialists are considerably embarrassed by the appeal, and no decision has been reached yet.

Some members of the Cabinet admit, however, they cannot advance any especially good reason why the Prince should not return.

Holland Agrees.

The Dutch Government has agreed to the Prince's request to leave Holland, it is understood, on condition he will not ask to return to his refuge in Wieringen.

In his new application the Crown Prince, as he is still called by most Germans, urged consideration of his former arguments.

As a German citizen, the Prince argued, he cannot be refused a shelter in his homeland.

Would Avoid Ovations.

The Prince said he would enter Germany quietly by motor car, avoiding any ovations.

In addition, the Prince said in substance:

"In these trying times, as a loyal German, I want to be in my home country to participate in the reconstruction of the Fatherland."

Foreign observers said it was conceivable that the application might be acted upon favorably, although it was admitted that the Prince's presence in Germany might be hailed as a rallying signal for the Monarchists.

SAY SETBACK IS BUT TEMPORARY

Spontaneous Outbreak by Separatists in Rhineland Premature And Defeated Leaders' Plans

PARIS, Oct. 25. — (By John De Gandt, United Press Staff Correspondent).—The establishment of the Rhineland Republic has reveived a "temporary set-back," Herr Josef Matthes, Separatist leader, said today in an interview with the Constance correspondent of Le Matin.

Matthes said the Rhine revolt was entirely spontaneous and that the proclamation of the separate republic was made prematurely. This, he said, was the reason of its primary set-back.

"Our original plan was to send an ultimatum to Berlin on October 28, demanding peaceful separation," Matthes said. "In the event of refusal, we would, of course, have declared our independence, anyhow.

"The plan was entirely secret. Even the authorities of the army of occupation were ignorant of it.

"While Dr. Borten (another Separatist) and myself were negotiating, Leo Deckers and other Separatists in Aix-La-Chapelle started the movement. Their reason was the knowledge that Berlin was about to proclaim an autonomous Rhineland."

Fierce Fighting.

Forty persons were killed, including the Chief of Police, in fierce fighting at Crefeld, between Germans loyal to the Berlin Government and Separatists, a despatch from that city said to-day.

The Separatists were in complete control of Crefeld to-day, the despatch said.

RUGBY.

There will be a practice of the Peterboro Junior O.R.F.U. team at Central Park this evening at 5 o'clock. In view of Saturday's game a full attendance is requested.

LITTLE MOTHER IS OVERWORKED

Twelve Year Old Girl Charged With Care Of Eight Children Willing To Part With Two.

DETROIT, Oct. 25.—Being a mother of eight children is a task big enough for a grown woman, but for little Mary Kraatz, 12 years old, caring for her eight small brothers and sisters and acting as nurse to her mother, who is seriously ill, has become a burden too great to bear.

That is why Monday afternoon, with tears in her blue eyes, Mary stood in the doorway of her home at 3305 Goldner street, and told officers of the Juvenile Detention Home that the Kraatz family did not want Ralph and Kenneth home again.

"You keep them, Mr. Officer," the child said, as she dried her hands on her mother's kitchen apron which hid her bare feet.

And Mother Agrees

Mrs. Kraatz agreed in the child's decision on the two boys, who, three weeks ago, started out in search of adventure and did not come back home. Ralph, 10 years old, has been at the Juvenile Detention Home for two weeks because officers found the boy attempting to steal a loaf of bread. Kenneth, 9 years old, eluded officers until Monday afternoon, when his family was notified that he had been found and was ready to come home.

"I suppose it's all my fault," Mary said. "I just couldn't do the dishes all alone and everything else, and when I tried to make the boys work they just ran away. My goodness! The baby has been sick, too. Boys are kind of no account, anyway, and they can just stay where they are!"

Then Mary told the officers that Kenneth, in a moment of confidence, told his sister he, not Ralph, had really stolen the loaf of bread for which Ralph is held.

What Kenneth Said

"Kenneth told me that, and I wish they wouldn't scold Ralph for what his brother had done. Kenneth said he could run so fast the officers only got Ralph, who didn't see them coming."

The two boys, bare-footed and without coats, had been living in barns around Junction avenue and eating such scraps as they could beg or purloin from sympathetic persons for three weeks.

"Gee, we wish Mary had some of these hero socks," was their only comment.

MITCHELL WAS IN PETERBORO CITIZENS SAY

Port Hope Gunman Made Purchases in East City Day After Shooting at Chief Brown, Declare Hunter St. Tradesmen.

WANTED A DRINK

Mitchell, the Port Hope hold-up man, passed through Peterboro on the day after the shooting, according to an East City resident, interviewed to-day. "I would bet $10 he was the man," this man said.

Mitchell appeared in the Ontario House, Port Hope, on Monday, Oct. 15, and threatened the proprietor with a revolver, taking $10 from him. He then commandeered a car which took him to Howard's farm on the Peterboro road.

Chief of Police John Brown, of Port Hope, formerly of this city, promptly set out on the trail and cornered Mitchell in the pantry of the farm house. The hold-up man fired through the door and the Chief replied in kind, without effect. As Mitchell had a clear view of the kitchen and had him at a disadvantage, the Chief returned to Port Hope and called for Provincial police assistance. The wanted man escaped through a window and disappeared. Police, asked this morning, said he had not been traced since.

Mr. Wyatt Saw Him.

Joseph L. Wyatt said a man answering Mitchell's description, appeared in his store at 6.30 on the evening of the Tuesday following the hold-up and purchased an overcoat. The man was partially intoxicated at the time, and asked where he could get a drink. Mr. Wyatt smelled the liquor.

The man weighed 200 pounds and had a chest measurement of 45 inches. He told Mr. Wyatt he was going to Lindsay. The coat he bought from Mr. Wyatt was green, and he paid cash, although he did not appear to have much money. He told the store man, "I am a poor man and I want you give me the things as cheap as you can."

Charles Primeau, who has a shoe store next to Mr. Wyatt at 51 Hunter Street East, said this man bought a hat from him and left his old hat in the store. "He looked like a man from the bush." Mr. Primeau said. The name in the hat coincided with the place where Mitchell lived in the United States before coming to Port Hope, and upon this principally the Peterboro tradesmen base their suspicions that their visitor was the gun man from Port Hope. He asked Mr. Primeau where the G.W.V.A. Hall was situated, and told him he was going to Toronto. A short time before he told Mr. Wyatt he was going to Lindsay.

A lady residing in Peterboro gave a description of the Port Hope man which does not quite tally with the description Mr. Wyatt gives. Mitchell did beautiful work in decorating, the lady says.

"If I was sure of a million dollars if he was the man, I believe I would get it," declared Mr. Wyatt.

PRUSSIA, FACING WOES APPEALING TO PUBLIC

"One Warm Meal a Day For Every Person," is Slogan for Winter—Use Potatoes for Food, Not For Brandy.

(By GUS M. OEHM)

BERLIN, Oct. 25 (United Press).—At least one warm meal a day for every Prussian during the coming winter is the slogan announced by the Prussian Government.

Pointing out the great need for community co-operation because of "results growing out of the war, the Ruhr occupation and the crash of the mark and high prices," the Prussian Ministry, promising food for everybody who needs it, appeals for aid from those who have aid to give.

"Only he who breaks bread with the starving has a right to sit at his covered table in his warm dwellings," the appeal declares, stressing the fact that great sums of money are needed to feed the thousands who will be without work this winter.

"Our plans must be put into immediate execution," it continues. "Every man whose hearth is still warm, whose pantries are still filled, who can supply his own daily needs, should be glad to aid those whose power to work is breaking down through hunger. He must make it possible to shield our children, old folks and prospective mothers from want.

"The Prussian Government will mobilize its technical relief organizations in the shortest possible time to carry out its plan of establishing community feeding centres in every city and village The poor people, the suffering middle classes and others in need must have at least one warm meal a day."

Food Instead of Brandy

Germany has taken steps to insure a potato reserve for the winter—at the expense of the brandy industry. The Food Ministry, pointing out that the coming potato harvest will not live up to expectations and that the potato is Germany's cheapest and most utilized food, has instructed the Railroad Ministry temporarily to refuse to deliver potatoes to distilleries, flake factories, starch factories, dried potato and other alleged non-essential industries.

Much of the present potato crop has been plundered by individuals and organized bands, who have gone into the fields by the thousands, carrying away tons upon tons of potatoes. This has discouraged the agricultural barons, who threaten not to plant a new crop.

Announcing the program "Potatoes for Food," the Government has taken a direct slap at the distilling business, which must now obtain potatoes either by private automobiles or other non-Governmental delivery means. The railroads, until enough potato reserves are gathered to insure a sufficient winter supply, must refrain from delivering to them.

This step is considered a serious blow to alcohol distilleries, but is greeted with approval by the populace.

A man may build a reputation by talking, but he cannot construct character that way.—Seattle Times.

OLD EMPLOYEES RECEIVE A PURSE OF GOLD

TORONTO, Oct. 25—The lunch hour at Laura Secord Studios to-day was the scene of an interesting event in connection with the Tenth Anniversary of Laura Secord Candy Shops, when three of the oldest members of the staff were presented with purses of gold. These three Mrs. McGowan, Miss Rose Pardee and Mr. James Currie have been associated with the white shops since the first store was opened on Yonge street, ten years ago to-day. Mr. Frank O'Connor, President, personally presented his three co-workers and spoke in glowing terms of their loyalty and co-operation, which in the early years of the shops had made possible their rapid development.

At this juncture the hundreds of employees surprised Mr. O'Connor by presenting him with a handsome gold headed cane as a taken of the esteem in which he is held by his staff. Mr. J. D. Hayes in a few words expressed the high personal appreciation felt by every co-worker not anly in the local studios and shops but in all States in Canada and United States.

Mrs. O'Connor received a magnificent bouquet of roses given by the employees. Mr. G. H. Ellston, secretary of the company voiced the regard in which both Mr. and Mrs. O'Connor are held as the heads of the Laura Secord Shop family.

The anniversary program of thsi company includes a sharing of the profits of the anniversary year with their employees in Canada.

CHEMISTRY IN HIGH SCHOOLS.

NEW YORK (Uniter Press)—At the spring meeting of the American Chemical Society, to be held at Washington, D.C., next April, a special committee will report recommending changes in methods of teaching chemistry in the high schools of the United States. Prof. Neil E. Gordon of the University of Maryland is chairman of the committee. It is said that the report will advocate radical changes.

REPUBLICANS' LITTLE COMEDY IS OVER AND PLAYERS SCATTERED

CONTROL WIESBADEN.

DUSSELLDORF Germany, Oct. 24.—Although the Rhineland Republicans took over several additional villages and towns yesterday somewhat meagre reports received in Dusseldorf today tended to indicate that the Separatists movement is dwindling in force. Coblenz and Mayence, which were in the hands of the Republicans, were taken back by their former administrations and it seemed apparent that the situation was reacting against the invaders at other places.

Five Police Wounded

German press despatches report that while the Separatists remain in nominal control in Wiesbaden, where they still ar, holding the provincial government building and the Rathaus, a general strik, has been declared and all the manufacturing plants have practically shut down, the stores ar, closed and nothing is functioning normally. During clashes there five policemen were wounded by th, Separatists.

Another despatch from Escawieller, near Duren, says the Separatists cleared out from th, town Tuesday. In describing their exit the message said: "The republic comedy is at an end and all the comedians have disappeared 'spurlos' ", meaning "without trace."

Lost — a Leader

What happened to Joseph Matthes during th, Coblenz melee is not yet clear. Reports today indicated he still was in Coblenz, but nobody seemed quite clear as to where he was. Rumors were current this morning that Matthes who since the original declaration of the Rhineland republic, has been chasing all over the Rhineland trying to keep up with the storm centre had decided to transfer his capital from Coblenz to Duren; but thus far he apparenlty has been unable to catch up with his ship of state in order effectvely to take hold of the helm. Since Sunday he has been hopping around the Rhineland map like an agitated flea. Nobody seems to be able to find him for many minutes at the same spot.

Workers Were Loyal

BERLIN, Oct. 24.—The attempt to establish a Rhenish Republic has failed, according to the Berlin news papers whose despatches represent the Separatists as having been expelled or voluntarily withdrawn from almost all the towns over which their flag had been hoisted. The failure of the movement is attributed to bitter opposition on the part of th, populace and the loyalty of both officials and workers.

Conflicting accounts are published of the attempt to establish a palatinate republic. Despatches from Frankfort report that a French representative on the Rhineland high commission informed the members of the Diet that the palatinate had been established as an autonomous state with a provisional government On the other hand, a despatch to Vorwaerts asserts that "all preparations have been made to establish the palatinate republic as a federal state of th, Reich."

Separatists Killed

COBLENZ, Oct. 24.—The position of the Separatists at the close of the fourth day since the proclamation of a Rhineland Republic at Aix-la-Chapelle is little improved, they nominally holding about one-fourth of the territories under foreign occupation. To-day however, was marked by the Republicans' most signal and costly victory, at Crefeld, where twelve Separatists were killed and fifty wounded and the peaceful occupation of Mulhim and a few villages, in the vicinity of Trier (Treves).

In many instances the occupation has been limited to the confine, of the city halls with the garrisons on the defensive, fighting not only for the existence of the Republic but for their very lives.

Prematurely Launched

Th, failure of the Separatists at Mayence and Coblenz, which were counted upon as certain adherents, the aimless and desultory offensives at various unimportant centres, the increasing effectiveness of the reactionaries' defence and the evident haphazard plans of a poorly-organized party itself rent with internal dissensions, in a prematurely launched movement make it appear doomed unless a change of attitude occurs on th, part of the troops of occupation which is not likely.

Remain Republican

COBLENZ, Oct. 24.—Rulesheim and Geisenhem have adhered to the Separatist movement. The Landrat of Rudsheim was asked to continue his functions on condition that he maintain no relations with the Prussian functionaries which he accepted The burgomaster of Geischem also remained on duty.

Martial Law in Mayence

PARIS, Oct. 24. — Martial law has been proclaimed at Mayence, says a Havas dispatch and circulation on the streets is forbidden between 9 p.m. and 6 a.m.

Broke a Window Stole $650 Coat

MONTREAL, Oct. 24.—Preventing a taxi driver from giving an alarm, by holding him up at the point of a revolver, three men operating in a large touring car, smashed the show window of the branch of C. Desjardins, of this city, and escaped with a fur coat valued at $650 and the dummy on which it was draped, early this morning.

This is the fifth robbery and the second hold-up to occur up town during the past fortnight.

BERNARD MARKSON GETS TWO MONTHS

Jury Found the Prisoner Guilty—Wanted to Address Court.

Bernard Markson, charged with publishing false news, was found guilty yesterday evening and sentenced to imprisonment for two months and a half, less the two weeks he spent in jail following his arrest. The jury retired for three-quarters of an hour.

Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., Crown prosecutor, conducted the prosecution, and the prisoner was defended by J. G. O'Donoghue, K.C. of Toronto. The Honorable Mr. Justice Kelly presided.

Following the closing of the defence case with the examination of Markson, he being the only witness called for the defence, Mr. O'Donoghue addressed the jury, claiming that no offence had been shown.

Mr. Hatton outlined the facts which he said had been proven and referred to the fact that while the offence is laid under a very old and little used law, it was referred to lately by Hon. G. Howard Ferguson in connection with rumors regarding the condition of banks.

Mr. Justice Kelly, in summing up the evidence, went into the case at length, occupying nearly an hour. This was necessary, he said, because of the unusual nature of the case and consequent unfamiliarity with it. The jury retired at four o'clock.

Sentence Passed.

The finding of the jury was "guilty, with a recommendation to mercy." Mr. Hatton moved for sentence and Mr O'Donoghue appealed for leniency in view of the unusual nature of the offence and the fact that his client had already spent two weeks in jail while awaiting trial in police court. Suspended sentence, he submitted, would vindicate justice, especially in view of the recommendation to mercy.

"I am convinced you are a very intelligent and active man," said Mr. Justice Kelly, addressing the prisoner, "and are quite in touch with what is going on, and the jury must have found that you could not have done what you did in ignorance of the real facts. I can not find any fault with that. If you were one who is not alert in such matters I would say you did it through ignorance. The offence is constituted by the falsity of the statements made.

"I quite agree with what Mr. O'Donoghue has said in that this is a new charge, but everyone is assumed to know the law. The jury found that you did this thing knowingly. That should warn you from your course. If you cannot rely on the truth you should not resort to falsehood. The maximum sentence I can impose under this section is one year. I want to have regard to the fact that the crime is unusual, and I also want to give some effect to the recommendation of mercy given by the jury.

Not to Be Winked At.

"Those so inclined must be warned that they must not go outside the realm of truth. I shall have to give you some punishment that will indicate to you that this offence cannot be winked at."

Following the pronouncement of sentence, counsel for the defence intimated that the case may be appealed.

Markson was stopped by his counsel in an attempt to address the court following sentence.

Judge Not Appointed For Trial of Delorme.

MONTREAL, Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press).—November 19 is the date tentatively set for the second trial of Rev. Father Delorme on a charge of having murdered his half-brother, a student of Ottawa University. The trial will be in the Court of the King's Bench here, and it was announced in the Court-House here yesterday that the regular court will be presided over by Mr. Justice Wilson. Nothing has as yet been decided regarding a presiding judge for the Delorme trial, but it is thought that Chief Justice Sir Francois Lemieux, who presided over the last trial of the priest, will again occupy the bench. The ordinary session of the court of the King's Bench will open November 2, and there are 75 cases on the roll.

REPRIEVE FOR ESKIMOS MIGHT MEAN RELEASE

MURDER INCREASES.

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—While there is undoubtedly a strong sentiment throughout the dominion against the hanging of the two Eskimos, of the Coronation Gulf district, who committed double murder, the prospect of ultimate repreieve is by no means bright. That some consideration should be given to the fact that the condemned men are a primitive people with little or no knowledge of the white man's law and to the further fact that there was some provocation for the first killing is realized, but on the other hand it is pointed out here that murder must not be allowed to go unpunished and that the murder of the mounted policeman could not have been done without knowledge of wrong doing upon the part of the perpetrator.

It is recalled that in the case of the killing of the two Oblate fathers in the north some years ago, the Eskimos, who did the deed, after trial and conviction at Edmonton, were sent north and released after instruction. It was hoped that these men, appreciative of the mercy shown them, would spread among their people information regarding the long arm of British law, and would do good missionary work in that respect. What the result has been is difficult to appreciate, but there have been more murders since then, and men who travel in the north, bring word from time to time of the growing danger to those who mix with the Eskimo people.

Commutation of the death sentence in this case would practically mean release of the Eskimos in as muc has it would be little mercy to such men to impose life imprisonment. Should release occur after all the ceremony of the long trial, and the expense connected therewith, it is feared here their contempt for the law might very well increase.

The report of the trial was carefully perused by the department of justice authorities here, and after consideration by cabinet council it was decided that the law should take its course. A messenger carrying the order-in-council is even now on his way via Porcupine to Herschel Island and the impression here today is there is little likelihood of a countermanding order.

SHIP SINKING OFF FLORIDA

Sprang a Leak on Way to Boston — Twenty-Four Passengers on Board.

JACKSONVILLE, Florida, October 25 (Canadian Press). — The Boston and Gloucester steamer Mascotte is sinking in four fathoms of water in Cape Canavaral, off the east coast of Florida, after having sprung a leak yesterday morning, according to a telephone message from the United States Coastguard Station at Cape Canavaral.

The coastguard cutter Yamacraw, of Savannah, Ga., is rushing to the steamer's assistance, according to information at the coastguard station, and was expected to reach her about midnight.

So far as is known, no lives have been lost, and it is expected that the steamer can be kept afloat until the Yamacraw arrives.

The Mascotte, a combination freight and passenger steamer of about 1,000 tons displacement, formerly belonged to the Peninsular and Occidental Steamship Company, but recently was sold to the Boston and Gloucester Steamship Company.

P. J. Saunders, vice-president and general manager of the P. and O. Company, said last night that the Mascotte was on its way to Boston, where it is to be re-conditioned and put into service between Boston and Gloucester.

A despatch from Daytona, stated that the Mascotte had twenty-four passengers aboard. The point of origin of the ship has not been ascertained.

Mr. Saunders said the last he heard of her was at Key West.

Efforts to communicate with the Cape Canavaral lighthouse were unavailing.

Members of the coastguard station, it was said, are standing by the Mascotte, and there is thought to be little danger of loss of life.

Held Up and Knocked Down, Then Searched.

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 24.— The police are searching to-day for an uniedntified man who held up and assaulted Dennis McRae, 513 Windsor avenue, at mid-night last night at Pelissier and Park streets. McRae says the man demanded a street car ticket from him. When told he had none his assailant knocked him down and then searched his pockets, McRae said, but left without taking anything.

Welsh Welcome in Pittsburg for Lloyd George! Leaves for Capital

PITTSBURGH, Pa. Oct. 24.—A true Welsh greeting was given Rt Hon. David Lloyd George, the war time premier of Great Britain, upon his arrival here to-day to be the guest of the city. Welsh organizations were out in force to meet the distinguished visitor at the station and to escort him on a ride of several miles through streets lined deep with residents, among whom groups of school children were conspicuous.

The reception commission was headed by Mayor William A. Magee and included Secretary Davis, of the U. S. Department of Labor at Washington, who is identified with Welsh activities and will accompany Mr. Lloyd George to Washington.

During the afternoon Mr. Lloyd George rested and at 6 oclock was the guest at a Welsh dinner before addressing a mass meeting at Syria Mosque. Leaving here at midnight, he is due in Washington tomorrow morning for a three days' visit.

FURIOUS GALE ALONG ATLANTIC COAST TOOK HEAVY SHIPPING TOLL

Many Small Craft Were Destroyed and Ocean Liners Delayed — Rum-Runner Beached and Set on Fire.

HALF CARGO LOST.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Furies of the deep, stirred by the north-east gale that blew from Monday night until noon to-day, took their toll in ships on the high seas and swept a destructive hand along the Atlantic shore.

The William S. McDonald, an adventurous alcohol carrying schooner from La Havre, N.S., battered by the gale through the night, was set afire and abandoned by her crew of seven, eighteen miles off Sandy Hook this morning. The crew were rescued by the tanker San Manuel.

The fate of the steamship that sent out a call for help Monday night, reporting she was in distress off the Delaware Capes, remained a mystery. This distressed vessel was at first reported to be the British steamer Westmoreland, but cable dispatches from London to-day said the Westmoreland was safe about 800 miles off the Irish coast.

Many Ships Destroyed.

Numerous trans-Atalntic steamers, buffeted and damaged by the seas, reported they would be delayed many hours in reaching port. The Laconia, from Southampton, the San Juan, from Porto Rico, the Maracaibo from Venezuela and the Frederick VIII from Christiania, the day's arrivals, were battered and damaged to some extent. The Maracaibo had lost part of her railing.

Hundreds of small craft, lying in harbors and coves along the coast were destroyed or swept to sea.

A first hand story of the adventure of the William S. McDonald, a three-sticked schooner, was told by her youthful skipper, Captain Morris Randall, of La Have, N.S., when he and his six men were brought to safety by the tanker San Manuel.

Randall, a fearless, swarthy-cheeked Nova Scotian, whose life has been spent on the sea, declared that in all of his sea-going trips he never had the thrills that came after the schooner fell into the teeth of the storm that swept down from New Foundland Monday night.

Cargoes of Alcohol.

He was at home in La Havre, October 3 when the owners of the schooner called him, asking him if he would undertake to carry a cargo of alcohol from Havana, Cuba, to Nassau, in the Bahamas. He agreed and then selected his crew—four adventurous youths and two seasoned veterans.

Down to Havana they sailed. The cargo loaded they set canvas and in weather so fair that it brought song from the throats of the crew they sailed back to La Havre, under new instructions from the syndicate that had chartered the McDonald from her owners. Arrived at La Havre Randall was told to sail back to the point off the American coast known as "Rum Row," where a schooner known as the Margaret Bacham would meet them and take their cargo, valued at more than $80,000.

It was fair weather still when the McDonald reached rum row. Some hours waiting and the Bacham arrived. Leisurely the transfer of the alcohol was started. Half of it was in the Bacham when the sun faded behind the clouds and it began to rain. Came then the gale, so furious that it blew the schooners apart.

Ran For Shore.

The McDonald, part of her rigging gone, wallowed about the heavy seas through the night and began taking water. Randall decided that it be folly to attempt to go on and after

New Lamp Burns 94% Air

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U.S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, F. S. Johnson, 246 Craig Street, W., Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

LANDSLIDE IN WINNIPEG FOR NEW MINISTER

Hon. E. J. McMurray Elected By 2810 Plurality Over Ald. Heaps—Others Swamped.

VOTE WAS LIGHT.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 24.—(Canadian Press). — The electors of North Winnipeg federal constituency to-day reaffirmed their allegiance to Hon. E. J. McMurray in the by-election necessitated by his recent elevation to the Mackenzie King Cabinet as Solicitor-General. So heartily was the minister's appointment endorsed that the deposits of Paul Gigejczuk, Independent, and J. A. Martin, Labor candidate without affiliation, were swept away in the landslide and the depos it of Alderman A. A. Heaps, nominee of the Independent Labor Party, was only saved by a matter of eleven votes according to unofficial returns.

Complete returns compiled unofficially give the Solicitor-General a total of 5,643 votes, or 1,834 more than he received in the general election of 1921, when his plurality was 715 in a four-cornered contest. His plurality to-day over Mr. Heaps, his principal opponent was 2,180. Mr. Heaps polled 2,833 votes. Mr. Gigejczuk and Mr. Martin whose candidature were never conceded much hope in political circles, polled 201 and 37 votes respectively.

Nearly two thousand voters less than in 1921 cast their ballots to-day the comparatively light vote being attributed to adverse weather conditions which kept many indoors. Snow which fell this morning later turned to a drizzling rain which with a strong cold wind made conditions very uncomfortable.

LETHBRIDGE October 25. Canadian Press. — Referring to the election of Hon. E. J. McMurray, Solicitor General, in North Winnipeg by-election, Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, in addressing a large audience last night said: "This is the end of a great day."

"After seeing the bumper crops in this district to-day and hearing the result of the election to-night, I cannot hear 'the wisper of death' anywhere," he said. Mr. Lapointe declared his faith in the party system of government.

"A western party is an impossibility, and I abhor suggestions sometimes made in the east of an eastern party to fight the Radicals of the west."

Mr. Lapointe and Hon. Charles Stewart, the Minister of the Interior, left last night for Calgary where they will spend two days.

Mr. Lapointe claimed that western Progressives failed to exert their influence from outside. Their place was in councils of the government. He threw out an invitation for them to enter, claiming that the Liberal party was wide enough for all classes and creeds.

GERMAN REQUEST FOR COMMISSION HEARING PRESENTS NEW CRISIS

Bulgaria Is Also Short of Houses

SOFIA, Oct. 24.—The Minister of the Interior to-day announced that no more refugees except Bulgarians will be allowed to enter the country, because of the serious housing shortage. This is the first time there has been a general ban on immigration.

Subject of Her Capacity to Pay Reparations Likely to Array Britain, Italy and Belgium Against France.

MAY OPPOSE IT.

PARIS, Oct. 24.— Germany's formal application for a hearing before the reparation commission on the subject of her capacity to pay is considered in authoritative circles as having brought the whole reparation problem to a new crisis. The German request was contained in a note presented to the commission this afternoon by Dr. Mayer, head of the German reparation delegation in Paris.

It is anticipated htat it will bring up an issue between the French delegates on one side and the British, Belgian and Italian representatives on the other, the three latter being known to favor a hearing for the Germans. The British and Italians have been inclined in this direction for some time and the Belgians are now said to believe that the time has come when the Germans should be allowed to sttae their case.

Premier Poincare, it is recalled, has all along contended that if any re-estimate of Germany's capacity to pay were made, it should be done by the reparation commission, but he has hitherto avoided committing himself as to whether the commission might properly take up that question in the present circumstances. In his last interview with Herr von Hoesch, the German charge d'affaires, he declared he would not consent to consideration of any such question by the commission until the passive resistance had entirely ceased.

It is understood that the French will regard the resistance as having ceased only when deliveries in kind are resumed on the reparation account. The Germans in their note to-day assume that the resistance will be considered as having ceased, but the deliveries have not yet been resumed, and if M. Poincare clings to his previous attitude, the instructions to the French delegation on the commission will be to oppose consideration of the German request.

The majority of the commission, it is understood, will not insist upon considering Germany's request that she be heard if France stands out

DRIVER ON CHARGE OF MANSLAUGHTER

Result of a Fatal Motor Accident—Arrested After Inquest.

AMQUI, Matane County, Que., Oct .24.—B. E. Bernier, a well-known merchant of this district, is facing a charge of manslaughter as a result of the accident on Sunday last when Antonio Poitras was instantly killed and there other young men in a carriage seriously injured.

Bernier was served with a warrant after he had been heard as a witness at the coroner's inquest which closed last evening after lasting twelve hours. Coroner Drolet, who presided, recommended a verdict of accidental death placing responsibility however on Bernier for driving his car under circumstances not conducive to safety.

The preliminary investigation was set for to-morrow and will be held in Rimouski before Magistrate Fiset.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1923.

PETERBOROUGH'S HOSPITALS.

Congratulations are due the staffs and Boards of Management of the city's two splendid hospitals—Nicholls' and St. Joseph's—on the fact that they are both included in the approved list announced by the American College of Surgeons after an inspection of the hospitals of the United States and Canada.

Peterborough as a city is likewise to be congratulated upon possessing two hospitals complete, efficient and well managed enough to be approved by the College of Surgeons—when other centres have not succeeded in having one hospital included in the list.

Only about half of the hospitals in Ontario were considered worthy to be listed, and it is a fine compliment to the equipment, medical staff, nurses and management of Nicholls' and St. Joseph's Hospitals that both came through the inspection with flying colours and have been officially endorsed.

The result only confirms, however, the general belief of the citizens that Peterborough is excellently served by her hospitals, and is most lucky to possess two such splendid institutions.

A GILBERTIAN CAMPAIGN.

Many social service organizations do not attain their fullest measure of success or produce the desired results because of their misfortune in falling under the leadership of those who allow fanatical zeal to override good juudgment and common-sense.

The Kingston branch of the W.C.T.U. cannot escape being regarded as one of those unfortunate organizations in view of the campaign it has been waging to have the City Council banish from the cricket grounds in the Limestone City a baseball scoreboard presented by a tobacco company.

The objection of the W.C.T.U. to the board is that, in addition to providing facilities for marking the score of baseball games, it advertised the company's wares.

There are similar boards all over the Province—at Riverside Park, for example—and so far as is known there has been no complaint from anybody until some of the leaders in Kingston decided that the advertising was hostile to the spirit of their organization and started a fight to have the offending board removed.

The Kingston Aldermen very properly declined to accede to the request, and the sign remains, advertising and all.

There has been a Gilbert and Sullivan flavour to the whole campaign that will not have escaped the attention of anyone with the least sense of humour.

PROTECT THE CHILDREN.

At Oshawa the other day two children, during the absence of their mother, got hold of some tablets containing a very small quantity of strychnine and swallowed a number of them, with the result that the youngest boy, aged two years and eleven months, is dead and his brother had a very narrow escape.

Tuesday a London baby boy, eleven months old, swallowed three pills that had been left on a window-sill—and died within an hour.

In how many homes in Peterborough is there a chance for a similar accident to take place?

It is to be feared that there are hundreds of households here in which the same carelessness exists, and the two fatalities this week should result in a general determination to banish such risks from Peterborough's homes.

The majority of pills and medicines of all kinds, while harmless to adults when taken in proper quantities are dangerus to children—in many cases fatally so.

They should be locked up or kept in a cabinet high out of the reach of little fingers, for all parents know that what gets into little fingers generally finds its way into little mouths.

Most people are careless about such things in their homes—and the tragedies reported from Oshawa and London should bring them up with a round turn.

Keep dangerous medicines under lock and key—and it is a safe rule to class all pills and tablets especially as dangerous.

WHY WE PAY MORE.

Figures as to the per capita fire loss in Great Britain as compared to that in Canada are such as to provide thinking Canadians with a subject over which to ponder.

In Great Britain, with a population of 46,000,000 people, the fire loss in 1922 was $30,812,000.

In Canada, with a population of 8,772,000, the loss in the same year was $54,390,600.

For the four years 1919 to 1922 the average loss per capita in Great Britain was only .84. in Canada it was $4.36.

Canada, with less than one-fifth the population of Great Britain, has a fire loss record 75 per cent. greater, a condition that is not conducive to attract business capital.

Think of it in this way: Suppose you support ten persons in your business and each employee is supporting five persons, that means fifty persons are supported by your business.

Multiply fifty by $6.20, the per capita fire loss of 1922, and your business, whether it be a store, a wholesale warehouse or an office, paid $310 for fire waste last year.

You may not pay it direct, but you pay through your grocer or baker or clothier, because that is the proportion by which Canadian business is penalized.

Furthermore you must add to the above charge the amount expended in fire premiums over and above what is paid back in losses, the amount expended in fire protection, fire brigades, fire appliances, etc., which will easily double the above figures.

No wonder it costs more for fire insurance in this country than in Great Britain.

Our fire losses are so much greater that higher premiums must necessarily be paid to take care of the loss.

Who is to blame?

Everybody more or less, for we all as people are notoriously careless about fire prevention.

Our places of business, our homes abound in fire hazards and we do little to have them removed.

The way to lower insurance is easy.

All we have to do is eliminate some of the fire risks and reduce the loss by exercising ordinary common-sense.

The rates will come down with the fire loss.

THE UNITED STATES AND EUROPE.

Answering Lloyd George's plea to the American Middle West for United States co-operation in assuaging the ills of Europe, the Chicago Tribune denounces the Treaty of Versailles, and says:

"The United States rejected a treaty of peace which it thought unjust, or at any rate destructive of peace, as it is now generally agreed to be. It negotiated a fair peace treaty with Germany, and this treaty does not contribute to food riots in German cities."

This is, at best, a half truth, says the Ottawa Journal. The United States was as much a party to the framing of the Treaty of Versailles as Britain, France or Italy. Its President was one of the Big Four who wrote it; and was the father of the League of Nations Covenant, to which Americans object most. The operation of treaty was entrusted to International Commissions on which the United States would have been represented had it upheld its President. But the United States repudiated its President and washed its hands of all trouble. It rejected the Anglo-American guarantee of security for France; it refused the mandate to look after Armenia; and it repudiated the league.

As a consequence the Peace of Versailles never had a chance. With America in an alliance with England to protect France, with American participation in the Government of Armenia and the operations of the League of Nations, the story of the past five years would have been different. As it is, it is all but certain that history will write down America as chiefly responsible for the evils that have held Europe and much of the rest of the world in their grip since 1918.

GERMANY DISINTEGRATING.

The disintegration of Germany seems to have begun.

Public attention today is generally centred upon the attempt to set up a Rhineland Republic. Yesterday, however, the eyes of the German world were on the split between Munich and Berlin. The menace in the Rhineland may have brought the Bavarians to their senses, and they may now make a belated effort to patch up their quarrel with Prussia. But all the elements of a first-class explosion are inherent in the situation; and it begins to look as if we would see a return to the Pumpernickel Principality epoch when Germany was a weird collection of fantastic States, producing poets and composers rather than soldiers and statesmen.

Whether the Separatist move in the Rhineland will prove a success—or a too-premature flash-in-the-pan—will soon be seen. The benevolent attitude of Belgium and France will give it its best chance. Nor does the natural resentment of the local German population seem to react against it with any vigor. Utter discouragement appears to have settled over this entire area—the prostrating discouragement to which the Germans are so peculiarly and despicably prone. They turn philosophically away from the sight of a new flag and the patronising armies of occupation to their beer and bands.

Disintegration—if it comes—will eliminate one peril from the northeastern frontier of France. There will be no well-drilled and carefully co-ordinated Pan-German revenge waiting to pounce on the French Republic at the first opportunity. But, on the other hand, there are likely to be far slimmer reparations. Premier Poincare stresses this point to-day. Certainly France cannot risk undoing her arduous job in the creation of a Rhenish Republic by imposing burdensome reparation taxes on that particular part of Germany. Then if Bavaria is to break away from Prussia, and Saxony is to set up a "red" Republic of its own, there will obviously have to be a re-allotment of the reparation obligations, with all the costly reductions to most-favored-States which this will imply.

There is also another possible danger. If the Reich disappears and Prussia is left alone in the midst of its ruins as the chief sinner to be punished and stripped, it is quite likely that the Prussian people too will despair, and that a German version of Sovietism may come uppermost. Such a Prussia would promptly repudiate all payments and tell the French to come and get what they could. Then it would infallibly hold its hands to rapidly recovering Russia. Saxony would rally as a ready-made "red" State. Here would be a problem which even the powerful France of Poincare would hesitate to tackle.

We shall get no fair view of events in Europe if we do not keep constantly in mind the grim fact that France, with her forty millions and her devastated provinces, has had ever since the Armistice two tremendous and menacing problems to face in how best to get both security and reparations from sixty-five million Germans. It was impossible to disassociate these two problems, and concentrate on either security or reparations. They had to be studied and solved together.

Politics compelled Poincare to always talk of reparations, but he always had security in his mind. The creation of a "buffer" State in a Rhineland Republic is a step toward security, but away from reparations. French influence, however, has always been thrown in favor of it, which shows which way the balance of official opinion lies. France possibly feels that she can pay herself a fair share of her own reparations out of the money she will save on her military establishment if Germany finally falls to pieces.—Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

It is to be hoped that world match trust reported from Stockholm will not be a striking success.

"The Peterborough purgatory may be followed by experience that in every deep there is a lower depth descending," says the Toronto Globe.

A contemporary referring to the possible strike of 14,000 British physicians, points out that it is a very dangerous undertaking. The patients may all get better when the doctors are away.

An aeroplane was sold by auction at Niagara Falls for $310. If it does not fly any higher than its price the purchaser will be out of luck.

Lloyd George seems to be wasting a lot of eloquence in his endeavour to secure United States action in solving Europe's problem.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Then blacksmiths might flatten out pieces of this London fog and make them into fog horns.

London sculptors might try taking the thickest of the fog and carving statues on it.

Some day you may read of thousands entombed as supports give way and London fog caves in.

Perhaps fogs are so thick in London they could roll the things out for asphalt paving.

By adding flavoring to the thick London fogs they could put in tubes and sell for tooth paste.

It would be getting too foolish to say London fogs are so heavy they can't see the French plans.

Everything is being made in Germany again. She is working on two new revolts now.

Italy has mobilized 40,000 more men. Perhaps instead of red tape they use spaghetti in Italy.

LABOR TO POWER.

WALLSEND, Eng., Oct. 25.—(Associated Press).—There will be a Government in this country in 1926 and Ramsay MacDonald will be Prime Minister, said Patrick Hastings, King's counsel and Labor member of Parliament, in the course of a speech to his constituents here recently. He deduced this from the fact that before 1910 Labor votes could be counted by a few thousands, but in 1918 the number was two and a quarter millions, while last year it was four and one-half millions. At that rate of progress, he said, there would be a Labor Government in power by 1926.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, October 25. — Sales of cattle at the Union Stock Yards on Tuesday were not as speedy as on Monday and only 1,518 were disposed of. This scarcely took care of the carry-over. Yesterday morning saw another fair run, the receipts being 1,373 cattle, 204 calves, 1,846 hogs, and 2,447 sheep and lambs.

With Tuesday's and yesterday's receipts the cattle on sale yesterday morning amounted to about 2,500 head, and the state of trade does not point to any chance of a clearance this week.

The exporters are still picking up a few loads, but at easier prices. One load of reasonably good steers went yesterday morning at $6.50 a cwt. This was viewed as probably 25 cents down from the recent average level. Another load sold at the same price, with Montreal freight added.

Good veal calves are holding steady, owing to the limited supply, and an occasional extra good calf brings up to 10 cents, and heavy calves most around 6 cents.

Lambs were quoted about steady yesterday, but the buyers are not too keen. Sales of ewes and wethers yesterday morning were generally at 11-1-2 cents, and bucks 10 cents a pound. Choice light sheep are selling at 6 1-2 to 7 cents a pound.

There is no stability to the hog market. Packers say they are taking a hazard on the Old Country bacon market for December in present purchases, and are not satisfied to go higher than the $7.75 a cwt. f.o.b. price. Outside packers who cater more to domestic consumption are taking hogs at 25 cents a cwt. higher than this. The general quotation yesterday morning was $8.25 a cwt. for the thick smooth.

EGG MARKETS.

OTTAWA, October 25 (Canadian Press). — The general situation with regard to eggs remains unchanged. Fresh specials are very scarce and firm. A sale is reported of a car of storage firsts at 32 1-2 f.o.b. Further shipments are being made for export.

Toronto specials 55, extras 48, storage extras 43, firsts 37 to 38, seconds 33.

Montreal specials jobbing 53 to 55, other grades unchanged.

Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta markets unchanged.

British Columbia local fresh strong, extras 59, firsts 57, at country points jobbing extras 65, firsts 63, storage firsts 35.

WINNIPEG LIVE STOCK.

WINNIPEG, October 25 (Canadian Press). — Receipts 2,180 cattle and calves, 1,200 hogs, and 360 sheep and lambs.

There was little activity on the cattle market yesterday morning, and with the exception of good butcher cattle, the general run of offerings were in poor demand and generally weaker. A few good feeder steers moved out around $3.50 with the better grades of killing steers ranging from $4.00 to $4.50. A few choice heifers made $4.50 to $5.00.

The hog market maintained a steady tone of Tuesday's close, the packers bidding $8.25 for thick smooths and $9.07 1-2 for selects.

Sheep and lambs continue firm, good killing lambs weighing up around $10.50, with a top of $10.75. Handy weight sheep made $5.00 to $7.50.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, October 25 (Canadian Press). — Cattle 14,000; better grades long fed steers and yearlings strong to 15c higher; top matured steers, $12.45; best yearlings, $12.10; numerous loads long-fed steers, $11.00 to $12.00; yearlings, $10.50 to $11.90; light yearlings upward to $11.00; she stock and bulls strong vealers steady to weak; stockers and feeders weak to 25c lower.

Hogs, 28,000; mostly 15c higher; close slow, weak at early advance; bulk good and choice, 230 to 250 pound butchers, $7.45 to $7.65; top, $7.70; desirable 170 to 220 pound average mostly $7.10 to $7.40; good and choice light lights, $6.75 to $7.00; bulk packing sows, $6.40 to $6.75; desirable weighty slaughter pigs, $5.75 to $6.65; estimated hold-over, 12,000.

Sheep, 22,000; fat lambs mostly 25c to 35c higher; sheep steady to strong, feeding lambs slow; steady to weak; bulk fat Western lambs, $12.75 to $13.00; fat natives to packers, $12.00 to $12.50; culls, $9.00 to $9.50; bulk yearling wethers, $10.50; top fat ewes, $6.50; feeding lambs, $11.50 to $12.25; top, $12.50.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKETS.

CHICAGO, October 25 (Canadian Press). — Reports that several prominent grain traders were to go to Washington to confer with Government officials about methods of helping farmers to get higher prices led yesterday to increased buying in the wheat market. Largely as a result, values although finishing unsettled, were at 1-2c to 3-4c net gain, with December $1.06 3-8 to $1.06 1-2 and May $1.11 to $1.11 1-8.

Corn closed unchanged to 5-8c down, oats 1-8c to 1-4c to 1-4c up, and provisions varying from 12c decline to 7c advance.

New talk of Government help gave an advantage to bulls in the wheat market, despite denials that a Board of Trade Committee had been appointed for the purpose of conferring at Washington.

President Stream of the Board of Trade said the Board had received no invitation to take part in any conferences. The fact, however, that offerings of wheat were light made the market sensitive to buying, and the trade was impressed with the relative strength which the wheat market had displayed of late while corn was undergoing a decline.

Profit-taking sales near the end of the day in the wheat pit brought about only a transient setback, support developing afresh during the final dealings. The late selling was based more or less on indications that winter wheat acreage, instead of being reduced this autumn, will show an actual increase in some parts of Indiana, Illinois, and Missouri. It was said also that a very heavy acreage was being seeded in Western Kansas and Nebraska.

With fine weather for drying the new corn crop and with twenty cars of new corn in yesterday's receipts here the corn market eased down notwithstanding the upward tendency of wheat values.

Oats, however, responded to wheat strength.

Provisions averaged lower because of lessened cash demand.

STERLING RATES.

Demand	4.5638
Cables	4.5663

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, October 25 (Canadian Press). — The local market for cash grain was quieter yesterday. There was no change in the flour market. Trade in millfeed was fair and the tone of the market steady. Prices for rolled oats were unchanged. A firm feeling prevails in the baled hay market. There were no further developments in the egg market. Demand is good for potatoes. The butter market was without feature. Prices for Eastern cheese declined 1-4 cent to 1-2 cent per pound in a weak market.

GERMAN REQUEST

against it, though certain members have expressed the opinion that the gravest crisis has been reached in the reparations problem and that it may be safely passed if the Germans are heard while if their application is refused the result will likely plunge Germany into an inextricable situation.

Reduce the Total.

In French circles the granting of a hearing to the Germans on the capacity of their country to pay would be thought tantamount to an admission that the total of reparation due from Germany may be further reduced, and it is gravely doubted whether the French premier has reached the point where he is willing to make such a concession.

The foreign office has not been officially apprised of the German document at a late hour; consequently an authoritative view of it could not be obtained. The reparation commission will probably take up the request at its regular meeting Friday, if Sir John Bradbury, the British representative, returns from England in time.

ANCIENT CHURCH CELEBRATES.

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 25.—(Associated Press)—Sweden's oldest and most magnificent cathedral, the edifice at Lund, has just observed the eight hundredth anniversary of its founding, with elaborate ceremonies. Delegates were present from churches in England, Germany, Norway, Denmark and Finland.

REBUILD WARSHIPS IN AMERICAN SHIPYARDS

BUENOS AIRES (United Press). —President Alvear appointed Rear Admiral Julian Irizar as chief of the Argentine naval mission to supervise the modernization in the United States of the Argentine battleships Rivadia and Moreno. Other members of the commission are Naval Captain Eleazar Videla, Lieutenants Arthur Saez and Alberto Teissaire and Engineer Francisco Sabelli. The ships will be ordered to the United States in February. In the meantime the commission will enter into contracts with American shipyards and obtain material for the two battleships, as well as for four scout ships of the Catamarca type, modernization of which will be carried out in Argentina.

Awarded Fair Honors For Two Years Running.

DOURO, Oct. 25.—Congratulations are extended Miss Jean Hamilton, S. S. No. 7, Douro, who won the certificate of honor at the recent School Fair. This award has gone to school No. 7 two years in succession.

¶ It is not always the high cost of living which makes your purse so thin; it is just as likely to be the hard work of thinking.

¶ You know people who seem to get better things than you do without spending any more money. The reason for this is no secret. Wise shoppers do not neglect good opportunities.

¶ To-day is someone's opportunity to stock up with clothing, food and luxuries, for the autumn sales are beginning. The stores are clearing their shelves to make room for new stock.

¶ Watch for the announcements of these autumn sales and of the goods that must be moved not because they lack quality but that the stores' turnover requires that they give way to the requirements for the succeeding season.

¶ You can effect many a saving to-day that will allow you many a luxury the day after to-morrow by watching the advertisements in the daily newspapers during this season of special merchandise offers.

¶ The habit of reading the advertising columns of your home paper is never more valuable than during this season between autumn and winter.

WARSAW VILLAGE AND THE DISTRICT

Young People of Cottesloe Held Debate—Accident to Boy — Pie Social a Success.

WARSAW, Oct. 25.—The Young People's League, Cottesloe, held a debate last Wednesday evening, the subject being, "Resolved, that the written word has more influence with the nations than the spoken." The affirmatives were Misses Humphries, May Stevens and Lulu Bell; the negatives Cecil Bolton, Stanley Bullock and David Forsythe. The judges were Mrs. Geo. Barr, Mr. E. N. MacDonald and Rev. Atkinson.

The winning side was left undecided, as the method of marking had not been agreed upon before starting. Marking each point made and left unrefuted gave the girls the lead. Marking as in the U.F.O. debates, viz., two to the affirmative for each point made and one for each point refuted, and to the negative one for each point made and two for each one refuted, brought the boys ahead.

Accident To Boy.

When John Lloyd got out of his wagon to open a gate, leaving his little boy of about 5 years of age in the rig, something frightened the horses. They ran away and the child was thrown out, sustaining some serious injuries. He was unconscious for several hours.

Special Cheese.

At the last cheese sale the Warminster factory cheese all went as "special."

Pie Social.

A pie social and concert were held on Monday evening. Rev. F. G. Weir was chairman, and after a short address, the following programme was given:

Recitation—Clinton Crowe, "Setting a Hen." Solo—Rev. F. G. Weir. Chorus—School. Recitation—Cressa Crowe. Solo—Henry Batten. Recitation—Fred. Crowe. Organ selection—Willa Darling. Solo—"Lullaby," Mrs. Charles Foster. Recitation—Miss Nellie Bullock, "Caleb's Courtship." Solo—"To Be a Farmer's Boy," Charles Foster. Recitation — "Paddy's Leather Breeches." Duet—Rev. F. G. Weir and Henry Batten. Recitation—"A Domestic Debate." Garfield Crowe.

Sandwiches and pie were served. The building was well filled.

Held Fowl Supper.

On Tuesday evening of last week the Warsaw Presbyterians held their fowl supper and entertainment in the Town Hall. An excellent supper was served.

At 8.30 Rev. Atkinson took the chair, and the concert was much enjoyed:

Opening selection—Warsaw orchestra. Solo—Mrs. Charles Foster. Address—Rev. F. G. Weir. Solo—Miss Freena Cooper. Recitation—Miss Cressa Crowe. Selection—Bethel male quartette. Address—Rev. P. L. Jull. Solo—Dr. Smith. Selection—Warsaw orchestra. Address—Pastor Chorley. Solo—H. Batten. Vocal duet—Mrs. Sutton and Dr. Smith, Lakefield. Address—Rev. Mr. Wesley. Vocal duet—Miss Batten and Mr. Henry Batten. Scotch reading—Hector Munro. Chosing selection—Orchestra.

Mission At St. Mark's.

The mission held in St. Mark's Church last week was none too well attended. The services, conducted by Rev. Mr. Hughes and Rev. Mr. Pickford of Brighton, who was once stationed here, were very inspiring. They closed with a communion service on Sunday morning. The mission is being carried on at Haultain this week.

To help out the material side of the church work, St. Mark's people are preparing an entertainment to be held in the Town Hall on October 30.

Send in Quilt Blocks.

The Methodist W.M.S. ladies are asked to hand in their quilt blocks for collating before the next meeting, November 1st.

Interesting Talk.

Mrs. Atkinson gave a very interesting talk on mission work in the Presbyterian Church Sunday evening.

News Paragraphs.

Mrs. George Taylor spent a week with Mrs. Osborn at Marmora.

Mrs. Wm. C. L. Lloyd and children will spend the winter mith Mr. and Mrs. David Miller.

J. Storms is moving into Mark Edmards' house.

Dr. and Mrs. Munro and several other Warsaw people attended the sacred concert in Lakefield Presbyterian Church on Monday evening.

Miss Cressa Crowe has been appointed to attend the convention at Napanee this week.

TO ELECTRIFY THE SWISS RAILROADS

GENEVA, Oct. 25.—(Associated Press)—A new water power plant is being constructed in the Alps at an altitude of 6,233 feet near Martigny, Canton of Valais, for the purpose of supplying electric energy to the Swiss federal railways.

A dam is being built across the Barberine cascade, whose waters flow into the River Rhone, to form an artificial lake of 40,000,000 cubic metres. The cost of the dam will be about 20,000,000 Swiss francs, but with the electric installation the amount will be run over 60,000,000 francs. A total energy of 60,000 horsepower will be supplied.

The work will be finished in 1926. It goes forward slowly, for at this high altitude the cold and the snow permit of only 100 working days a year.

FURIOUS GALE

a conference with his men decided to attempt to beach the craft on the Long Island shore and risk salvaging what remained of the cargo later.

Then the McDonald ran upon shoals. The heavy sea threatened to crush her at any moment. "Then," said Randall, "we prepared for the worst .It looked like five healthy young men and two old sea-dogs were going down to explore the seafloor. But the fates were against that."

A kindly, if furious sea washed the McDonald off the shoals and morning, gray and rainswept, broke. A distress signal was hoisted. "Then," said Randall, "we managed to make some coffee and our spirits were somewhat buoyed." A few hours later the funnels of the San Manuel appeared and drew closer. The San Manuel signalled that she would aid them and Randall and his crew prepared to abandon the ship.

Gave Ship to Flames.

Before they left the little three-sticker, however, the crew, obeying one of th strange laws of the runners of liquor, dropped a lighted torch into her hold. Soon they were safe aboard the tanker, watching the blue flames that enveloped the McDonald.

Randall and his men were heavily armed when they climbed aboard the San Manuel but readily assented to a request of the tanker's skipper that they turn their weapons over to one of the ship's officers.

Randall expressed a willingness to tell his story to United States' customs officials, for he said he had not violated any of the United States' liquor laws.

TRADE POLICY OF BRITAIN AT STAKE

Unionist Party Conference the Centre of All Political Interest.

LONDON, Oct. 24. — (Canadian Press).—The Unionist Party Conference at Plymouth to-morrow is the centre af all political interest for the moment and it is expected to have a momentous bearing on fortunes of party. It is stated that Premier Baldwin at the Cabinet meeting yesterday outlined to his colleagues what he proposed to say to the party chiefs.

Stories that the Premier intends to launch a full blooded protectionist program were watered down considerably today and the fact was stressed in some quarters that although the Conservative Party contains a considerable body of "whole hog," protectionists, there is also a large number who would not stand for any such drastic change in the country's adopted policy.

CROP REPORT

Report of Crop and Agricultural Conditions. Ontario Department Of Agriculture, Oct. 22nd., 1923.

Fall operations on the farm have been very much helped by fine weather which has prevailed very generally during the past week. Roots, vegetables and fruits have all been pretty well gathered up. Roots and vegetables have come out of the ground in good condition, and are all of high quality. Potatoes are reported as, on the whole, about an average crop. Prices range from 75c to $1.50 per bag for table stock. The local demand created by a desire to store the winter's supply is shown by the wide variation in prices which are being received by the growers. From Carleton County comes a report of one of the leading growers who harvested 8000 bags from 47 acres.

Fall plowing has been delayed on account of other farm work, and has also been held up in some sections by the fact that the ground is too hard. Good rains are very much needed both to put the land in shape and to replenish the water supply which has become very low on farms in many sections of the Province.

The milk flow has kept up very well considering the season, and the dryness of some pastures. From both the extreme east and extreme west of the Province shortage of milk for human consumption is reported. The price being offered is 2.40 per cwt.

Live Stock condition are variable. Hogs have been shipped to market so freely that very often animals are shipped which are not in good condition, and hence bring only the lowest market prices to the great disappointment of the producers. The importance of proper finishing for shipment to market in order to secure the highest of whatever the market is offering, is being only too slowly appreciated. Cattle are bringing from 2½ to 5c per pound, but there is a fairly good demand for dairy cows. Several carloads have been recently shipped to the western provinces.

Not much grain is moving to market at present. There is a wide variation in the prices quoted for hay. As low as $6.00 to $10.00 per ton being received in Old Ontario, while in Kenora and Rainy River Districts hay is being sold at $17.50 to $20.00 per ton.

Labor is still very scarce, much more so than usual at this time of year. The campaign recently put on through the Soldiers' Settlement Board to secure positions for men who came out especially to work in Western harvest fields has been successful in locating a large number of vacancies in Ontario for farm work, but, up to the present, men have not been available to fill these vacancies.

NOT COLLECTABLE

Money Loaned for Race Track Gambling

HAMILTON, Oct. 24.— Judge Gauld gave judgment against J. W. Livingstone this morning in an action brought by him against Frank Staunton to collect $15 which defendant admitted was loaned for the purpose of gambling on the Thorncliffe race track, the Judge ruling that money loaned for that purpose could not be collected. An interesting feature in connection with this case is that some time ago Mr. Livingstone borrowed a considerable sum of money from W. Bessey on a race track and then refused to pay Bessey sued and the court returned the same judgment in favor of Mr. Livingstone which was given against him this morning.

BOY BETRAYED HIMSELF.

MONTREAL, Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press).—A Philadelphia boy of 15, caught in Montreal, is going back to Bridgeburg, Ont., in charge of E. Catlow, of the Michigan Central Railway Police, to face the charge of stealing ten tickets worth $80 from the Bridgeburg agent's place.

Efforts to get a refund on one of the tickets at the Windsor Station betrayed the little traveller.

WARN HARVARD BIG KLAN DRIVE

Members Ku Klux Klan Have Already Organized In University, Authorities Advised.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. Oct. 24.—The Harvard drive for a larger Ku Klux Klan branches to start shortly declares The Crimson the college daily which adds that the entrance into the university of a Klan organization is already a fact and that it is ready to give the university authorities information as the membership of this body.

Moreover, The Crimson declares this Klan branch "has lately looked with no aversion on the scheme of founding a branch of the Kamelia (the womens section of the Klan) at Radcliffe College.'

Matthew Luce, the university regent said to-night so far as he knows there is no Ku Klux branch at Harvard. It is admitted, however, that there may be a number of members of the Klan in the university.

The Klan has been holding forth in the yard for the past two years, according to the Crimson.

There are indications, the paper continues that the next few weeks will see the largest drive yet for Klan membership in the yard. As yet the branch has worked under considerable secrecy, but in this drive the Harvard public may expect to see the Klan pursue a more open policy, leading probably to a formal statement of its aims.

The Crimson's editorial declares the best way to kill the Klan is to laugh at it.'

The article goes on: "Whether or not the action of the university last year in decreeing the policy of non-discrimination tended to increase Klan membership is an open question. The plank in the Klan's national plat form bearing on the subject is well known and what part of it the Harvard branch stands for may be only question of degree.

"But it is certain that the decision of last Spring was a signal for violent demonstrations in meetings of the Harvard Klan. Yet in the final test the decision was reached to attempt no active participation in the domestic issues of the university.

"Such policy has apparently been pursued during the first few weeks of college. The Klan as such has not interfered with social or religious organizations, and the Harvard public lulled possibly into a false sense of security has wondered at the apparent inactivity."

MISSION SERVICES EMILY TOWNSHIP

'The Finest Man' Capably Dealt With By Rev. E. W. Roland.

OMEMEE, Oct. 25.—A large congregation attended the Methodist church, on Sunday evening, when the pastor, Rev. E. W. Rowland preached from the subject announced a week ago, "The Finest Man in Emily Township," taking for his text, Matthew 7-16, "By his fruits ye shall know him." Mr Rowland discoursed on what the qualities of the finest man should be: sociability, kindness to dumb animals, honesty in all things, hospitality in the home, combined with affection and helpfulness, sympathetic to those in trouble, neighborly. The finest man always turns a deaf ear to scandal. is not profane and has the love of God in his heart. The speaker ended a sermon which will linger long in the memory of those who heard it, by singing, "Breathe on me breath of life." The choir rendered two numbers in keeping with the theme of the evening.

Mission Services.

The missoin week services in this parish are being largely attended. The first four days of this week, services are held at St. James and St. John's churches, Emily. Friday, Saturday and Sunday will conclude a splendid series of meetings. On Sunday morning at 8 o'clock communion service will again be held, followed by a mission service at 10.30. At 3 pm. a women's meeting will be held followed by the regular Sunday evening service. Rev. Reid of Toronto will address each meeting.

The Missionary convention for the Lindsay district will be held in the Methodist church, Omemee, on October 31, with an afternoon and evening session. Miss Sparling, missionary on furlough from China will address the evening session. Tea will be served by the ladies of the church.

Long before the fashion of outdoor sports, Pond's knew these two skin essentials

Two things a woman's skin must have in order never to betray fatigue and the effects of weather—

First—the kind of cleansing that not only keeps for you always the charm of fresh transparent skin but in addition, daily restores your skin's essential suppleness.

Second—the kind of protection that not only never fails but actually beautifies—that by its special property renews each time the smooth freshness of youth under the powder and rouge.

For years Pond's centered their whole effort on this vital problem for women until they finally perfected two entirely different creams to meet these two requirements —Pond's Cold Cream and Pond's Vanishing Cream.

First appreciated by the women who tax their skin most—the actress and the sportswoman—today millions of women are using the famous Pond's method to offset the coarsening of everyday exposure. Buy both creams tonight in jars or tubes at 50 cents each at drug or departmental stores. The Pond's Extract Co., 146 Brock Avenue, Toronto, Ont.

Try this famous method

Every night or whenever you come in from an outing—With the finger tips apply Pond's Cold Cream freely. The very fine oil in it softens your skin and penetrates every pore. Let it stay on a minute —now wipe it off with a soft cloth. The black that comes off shows you how carefully this cream cleanses. Do this twice. Your skin looks fresh and is wonderfully supple.

Edward Thayer Monroe

From charming Peggy Wood—"I have always had the best results from using Pond's Two Creams."

Then before you powder—Smooth on Pond's Vanishing Cream very evenly—just enough for your skin to absorb. Now powder. How velvety your face feels. Nothing can redden or coarsen it. The powder is even and smooth over this flawless base. The compliments of your friends will prove to you how wonderful for your skin these Two Creams are.

Belleville Masons Entertained by Local Lodge, And Banquet Followed Degree Work — Enjoyable Tea and Concert.

CAMPBELLFORD, October 25. — A very delightful evening was spent in Campbellford's new Masonic lodge rooms on the occasion of the visit to the Ionic Cahpter by the Quinte Friendship Chapter ot Belleville.

About 50 Companions were present, with the Most Excellent Past Grand First Principal Col. Ponton, and several Past First Principals, also Comp. Rev. C. E. Clarke, formerly of Campbellford.

The Royal Arch degree was exemplified in a very impressive manner with Ousic.

Companion Lond provided one of his famous banquets, after which a programme provided by the Quinte Friendship Chapter was enjoyed to the utmost . This Chapter, which is the baby Chapter of the district, brought their own orcestra, pipers, and entertainers.

Ex-Comp. R. J. Allen acted as toastmaster in a very pleasing manner. The toast, Grand Chapter and Grand Chapter Officers, was neatly proposed by Comp. Rev. F. E. Mallott, and very ably responded to by Most Ex. Comp: Ponton and Rt. Ex. Comp. I. A .Humphries. Both of these speakers xcelled themselves by their eloquence.

The toast, The Town of Campbellford, was proposed by Rev. C. E. Clarke, and responded to by Mayor A. J. Meyers.

The Newly Exalted Candidates was proposed by Rev. A. S. Keene. Belleville, who did not want to go home, and responded to by Comps. Ardele, Lloyd, and Twigg.

The Visiting Companions was proposed by Comp. G. A. Kingston in a great flow of oratory, and responded to by Comp. R. Ponton and Ex. Comp. Ewing.

Ex. Comp. J. O. Henity, in a burst of speed and humour proposed the toast to Ionic Chapter, and Ex Comp. R. J. Allen responded, assisted by Rt. Ex. Comp. Free, Ex. Comps. O. C. Watson, Robert Bell, and Wesley Stephens.

The speeches were interspersed with solos by Ex. Comp. John McIntosh, Comp. Bankier, and Comp. Harvey, McKay, Repell, and Albert Johnstone delighted the audience with his pipe selections, while the orchestra rendered some delightful selections.

"Auld Lang Syne" brought to a close a Masonic evening long to be remembered.

Tea Meeting.

The annual tea meeting under the auspices of the Stanwood Methodist church was held on Tuesday evening, Oct. 23rd. Supper was served in the basement, beginning about 6 o'clock and the tables were copiously laden with fowl, salads, pies, cakes, etc., reflecting great credit upon the culinary skill of the ladies of the community. The large crowd was most efficiently managed by the officials and members of the congregation and all prsent spoke in the highest terms of the splendid manner in which they were catered to, although some had to wait long and patiently their turn at the tables. It was nearly nine o'clock before all were satisfied, and when the programme commenced the auditorium of the church was crowded to the full extent of its capacity, many being unable to find seats and returning home after tea. There were present friends from Havelock and Belmont, Rylestone, Zion, English Line, Burnbrae, Campbellford and Seymour West, besides practically the whole of Stanwood community, witnessing the popularity of the Stanwood tea meetings, in consideration of the fact that many other social gatherings were being held in adjacent communities on the same evening.

The programme was of the very highest order. The chair was occupied by Rev. J. E. Glover, B.A., pastor of the church. After opening with a verse of "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," the chairman made a few remarks thanking the people for their presence and co-operation in making the gathering such a success. The double male quartette from Campbellford Methodist church then rendered a beautiful selection and were heartily encored. This quartette was composed of Dr. H. O. Richardson, Messrs .Smith, Parrish, Collison, McGuire, Lowe, Lucy and Cowell, the latter acting as accompanist for all the sections by the Campbellford Methodist choir An address was then given by Rev. H. S Bennett, B.A., of the Campbellford Baptist church, who spoke on the "Past, Present and Future," with special reference to the local church at Stanwood. We cherish and revere the memory of those who have gone before, we rejoice in the work accomplished by them. But we cannot live in the past. We live in the present and look towards the future for greater achievements. Mr. Bennett quoted, in closing, the following stanza of a familiar poem:

Lives of great men all remind us,
We can make our lives sublime,
And departing leave behind us
Footprints on the sands of time.

A solo was then rendered by Mr. Collison, and was so splendidly sung that he was encored. A Havelock quartette, composed of Messrs. Campney, Chiles, Wilkinson and McBirney was present and delivered four excellent numbers. They were accompanied by Mrs. Campney. Mr. John Storrie sang very acceptably, and was accompanied by Mrs. Storrie. Mr. Walter Lowe gave a cornet solo, much enjoyed by all, entitled "One Fleeting Hour"

Rev. Wesley Elliott, of Campbellford Methodist church, then delivered a humorous and instructive address, his subject being "Our Shadow, or Influence." He impressed the fact that all of us, whether they will or not, are casting a shadow or influence about them .Our influence can either bless or blight and it is our duty to use it to bless and brighten the lives of those over whom we cast our shadow.

A duet, "The Battle Eve," was then sung by Mr. Parrish, and Mr. Collison, followed by a solo by Mr. Lucy and a mixed quartette, "Home Sweet Home," by Messrs. Richardson and Lucy, Mr. Richardson and Miss Hoover, all of which were greatly appreciated.

The chairman then thanked all the talent from Campbellford and Havelock who so very generously assisted in the programme.

The proceeds of the evening were $155.15.

I O O F Social Evening

At the regular meeting of the Campbellford No. 248 I.O.O.F. held on Tuesday evening, Oct. 23, the degree of Brotherly Love was conferred on six candidates in the presence of nearly 100 members, by the degree team of Stirling under the leadership of Bro. Farrell. Excellent music was furnished by Frankford's I. O. O. F. orchestra After the degree work the members adjourned to the dining hall, where an excellent lunch was served, after which an enjoyable program was rendered. This was composed of music, recitations, songs, new and old. Visitors were present from Stirling, Frankford, Belleville and Peterboro. The leaders of the orchestra were Messrs Ford, Fraser and Salten.

Campbellford Girl Honored

Miss Geraldine Hankinson of the Bell Telephone staff here was the recipient of many usful presents at a miscellaneous shower at the home of her parents, Grand Road. Miss Hankinson's marriage to Mr. Horton of Rochester is to take place Oct 31, in St. Andrew's church. About 100 guests assembld to do honor to the bride-to-be. The presents consisted of aluminum (9 pieces) silver ware, blankets, comforters, trays, handsome dishes of all kinds, table linen, candle sticks. fancy work, towels, trunk, pillows and other articles. The guests spent the evening in cards and dancing, a dainty lunch was served and party broke up about 1.30.

Exciting Runaway

Thre was quite an excitement on Wednesday morning when the delivry horse owned by Mr. Joel McArtur, west side butcher took a notion to run away. The horse was hitched to the butcher cart and standing in the yard at the rear of the Windsor Hotel. All at once it made a break, rushed out into the Arthur, west side butcher took a nowhich he just missed hitting Mr. J. C. Birmingham's truck in front of his hardware store, but caught the wheel of the rig between it and the fender of a car close by. The car was the stronger and the horse freed itself from the cart, smashing it up badly when he made a wild dash across the bridge. The driver, who was pretty well frightened, escaped street, and headed for the bridge,

News Paragraphs.

Residents of town miss the sound of the whistle of the Campbellford Cloth Co's mill on Fridays and Saturday. The mill is on short time, working only the first four days of the week.

Word has been received from Mr. and Mrs. Hubble, who went to Windsor. They have got nicely settled and Mr. Hubble likes his position fine.

BAVARIA WON FIRST ROUND

Discussion of Strained Relations With Berlin Held in Camera.

BERLIN, October 25 (Canadian Press). — Bavaria carried her defiance of the Central Government and her allied federated states to a successful culmination yesterday, when she succeeded in defeating a plan engineered by the Socialists, which aimed to have yesterday's session of the Reichsrat, or Federated Council, open to the public and its proceedings made a public record.

The meeting of the Reichsrat was called to consider the strained relations between Bavaria and the Central Government.

Dr. von Preger, the Bavarian envoy in Berlin ,who represented his Government in the absence of Premier von Knilling, informer Chancellor Stresemann that Bavaria did not propose to have the issue discussed in open sitting, as he did not consider herself as occupying the prisoner's dock, and must therefore insist that the Reichsrat discuss the matter in executive council, as originally contemplated; otherwise, he informed the Chancellor, Bavaria would decline to participate in the discussion, and would also refuse to be represented indirectly.

PREMIER KING GAVE ADDRESS

Renews Plea for Investment of Capital in Canada.

LONDON, Oct. 25. — (Canadian Press).—Premier King of Canada, at the Chamber of Commerce last night, renewed his plea for the investment of British capital in Canada.

Canada needed men and money, he said, in reviewing the Dominion's recent great growth in mineral production, agriculture, manufactures and fisheries.

The Duke of Devonshire made reference to the sensational speech of Premier Smuts on Tuesday night, and said he was profoundly thankful to the South African statesman for having made it.

"While we have our responsibilities to our own parliaments," said the Duke, "we have our responsibility to contribute to the welfare of others."

M'MASTER WILL GO TO HAMILTON

Decision to Remove University Endorsed at the Baptist Convention.

MONTREAL, October 25 (Canadian Press). — "Resolved, That this convention approves the recommendation of the Board of Governors and Senate to remove McMaster University to Hamilton on the four conditions stated in their report, and authorises them to consummate negotiations in a mutually satisfactory agreement; said agreement to be subject to the approval of a later regular or special convention."

This was the resolution passed here yesterday afternoon by the Baptist convention of Ontario and Quebec with but one dissenting vote.

Its passage is regarded as the first tangible step towards the effecting of the proposed move which has been a matter of discussion among Baptists for the past few years.

EFFORT TO BRING PEACE TO WORLD

TORONTO, Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Consciousness of the obligation of the Scottish rite of Free Masonry to endeavor to bring peace to the world and produce a better condition of society, and confidence in the destiny of the craft in general, formed the keynote of speeches at a banquet tendered last night by the local Scottish Rite Lodges to the Supreme Council of the Order, which is holding its sessions in this city.

George H. Ross, Sovereign of the local Scottish Rite Chapter, and chairman of the evening, made special reference to the long and faithful service given by Sir John Gibson, Grand Commander of the Scottish Rite in Canada. Sir John, in reply, spoke enthusiastically of the growth prospects and field of opportunity for the Order in the Dominion.

MONTREAL, Oct 25—The gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways for the week ending October 21st were $5,936,715 being an increase of $61,594 or one per cent as compared with the corresponding week of 1922. The gross earnins of the Canadian National from Jan 1 to October 31st have been $198,982,685.49 being an increase of $17,445,344.62 as compared with the corresponding period of 1922.

Heavy Shipments of Wheat From Elevator.

FORT WILLIAM, Oct. 25. — (Canadian Press). — Wheat, oats, barley and flax weres all represented in yesterdays shipments of grain while one boat took out 1,500 tons of screenings. The total number of bushels of grain that went down the lakes was 2,435,000. Among the boats to load grain to-day is the Barge Marcia, the first boat of the Pittsburgh Steamship Co.. to come to the Canadian head of the lakes this season the company having been one of those that has consistently refused to comply with the Inland Water Freight Rates Act until the recent ruling of the Grain Commission.

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 24.—Owing to the fact that Premier Ferguson will be unable to attend on October 31 the annual meeting of the Western Conservative Association has been postponed to November 1.

FILLED MORE THAN 100,000 GRAIN CARS

Both Railways Make a Record in Aggregate of Loadings.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 25.—Topping the 100,000 mark, cars of grain loaded by the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways since the commencement of the crop year September 1 have aggregated 104,526 as compared with 97,548 cars handled during the corresponding period of last season. The loadings represented 144,958,960 bushels against 135,243,422 bushels last year. For Tuesday loadings aggregated 3,829 cars compared with 2,405 October 23, 1922. Marketings totalled 4,692,157 bushels against 3,517,732.

Canadian National Trainmen's Grievance

FORT WILIAM, Oct. 25.—A recent accident on the Canadian National Railways may bring to a head the discontent that has been simmering along railway employes since amalgamation of the Canadian Northern Railways and the Canadian Government Lines under the Canadian National. The dispute is over seniority among the train men of the two companies. The C.G.R. being the younger company advance men, was more rapid and the men stepped into the position of engineers and conductors after far fewer years of service than they did on the older line. There are rumors that injunction may be asked for against employes of the C.G.R. taking precedence over Canadian National men who have had longer service though they have not attained the rank on the railway.

ITEMS MILLBROOK AND THE DISTRICT.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 25.—Mr. and Mrs. Norman Moncrief, their little daughter, Jean, Misses Lena, Letitia and Mrs. J. E. Elliott, of Peterboro, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Connell, Manvers, on Sunday.

Mr. Erle B. Laing, formerly manager of the Bank of Toronto, Bethany, has been transferred to the Gaspe branch, and has moved his family to Quebec preparatory to taking up his duties in his new community.

BURIED IN REGINA.

REGINA, Oct. 25.—Marked by a simple but impressive service the funeral of John K. McInnis, pioneer business man of Regina, was held yesterday afternoon. Pioneers, civic officials and hundreds of citzens attended. The pall bearers included four ex-mayors.

EMPRESS BRITAIN DOCKS.

QUEBEC, October 25. Canadian Press. — The Canadian Pacific Steamer Empress of Britain from Southampton and Cherbourg, with 454 passengers, 111 saloon, 138 second and 205 third class, has arrived and docked at the Quebec terminal pier at 6:30 o'clock, after having made a quick and pleasant trip across the Atlantic.

MURDERED AFTER DANCE.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 25.—Charged with the murder of John Kulyk, following a dance at Stuartburn, Manitoba, on October 6, John Boduk and Nick Sedor, Tolsted district farmers were committed for trial yesterday. The charge probably will be heard at the Assizes now in session here.

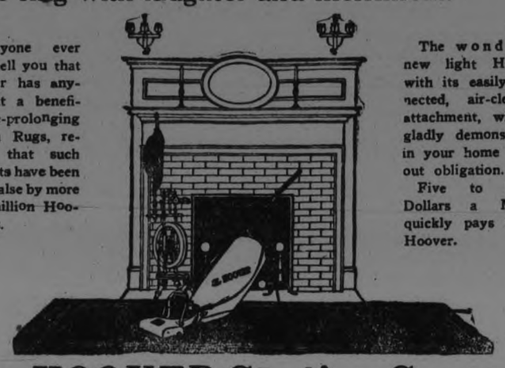
If anyone ever tries to tell you that a Hoover has anything but a beneficial, life-prolonging effect on Rugs, remember that such statements have been proved false by more than a million Hoover users.



The wonderful new light Hoover, with its easily connected, air-cleaning attachment, will be gladly demonstrated in your home without obligation.

The HOOVER Suction Sweeper

The perennial beauty of a valuable rug is the reward of frequent and thorough cleaning. Such cleaning is easy to perform with the Hoover because it beats as it sweeps, as it suction cleans. All injurious embedded grit is fluttered out by gentle beating. All stubborn litter is detached by swift sweeping. All loose dirt is withdrawn by strong suction. Only the Hoover combines these three essential operations, and it is the largest selling Electric Cleaner in the world.

You may have a Hoover placed permanently in your home for a nominal sum, and its purchase arranged on convenient terms. You may also have it demonstrated for you at any time, either in your home or in our Store.

ANNUAL CONVENTION RELIGIOUS COUNCIL

Many Delegates From Peterboro and District —Good Speakers on the Programme.

NAPANEE, Oct. 25.—The 58th annual convention of the Ontario Religious Education Council is meeting in Napanee this week, opening at 3.30 p.m. on Tuesday, and continuing until Thursday night. Two hundred and thirty delegates had registered by Tuesday evening, and more are expected to arrive on the following days.

Mayor Alexander McGregor, accompanied by the Municipal Council, had seats on the platform at the opening session, and extended a very cordial welcome on behalf of the citizens and churches of Napanee, to the "guests of the town," offering them its freedom, and urging the delegates to take advantage of the cars which have been cheerfully placed at their disposal by the owners, taking them gladly to their billets, or to any part of the town as they might desire. The formal address of welcome was read by Mr. Grange, K.C., municipal clerk, and Mr. W. S. Kirkland, president of the O.R.E.C., made suitable reply.

Speakers on the programme include Prof. F. W. Kerr, of Manitoba College, Winnipeg, who is a strong advocate of effective religious education; Rev. Frank Langford, of Toronto, who has charge of the opening "worship period" at each session; Mrs. J. J. Eaton, Toronto, who specializes on work in the children's division; Misses Mary Allison and May Gemmell, on 'teen age girls' work; C. F. Plewman, who is secretary of the Ontario Boys' Work Board; Prof. Yohan Masih, president of Indore College, India, who received a warm welcome and most attentive hearing when he spoke for the first time on Tuesday evening; Rev. C. W. Demille, general superintendent of the O.R.E.C., local clergy, and many others.

Rev. Roy Rickard, of the Picton District, who possesses a fine voice, and is an accomplished musician, has charge of the musical part of the convention.

A splendid spirit of optimism, an eager desire to learn, an intense earnestness, and an atmosphere of real spiritual significance has marked the convention from its start.

Excellent hot meals are served both at noon and evening in Trinity and Grace Methodist Church, with banquets followed by "after dinner" addresses and discussions, each night at the tea hour, in these two church and St. Mary Magdalene Church also for workers in special groups.

Among the delegates registered from the central district of Ontario are: Mrs. Richard Matchett and Miss Florence Fallis, Cavan; Mrs. J. E. Elliott, Mrs. G. F. Annis, Miss Florence Werry, Bowmanville; Rev. L. S. and Mrs. Wight, Tweed; R. J. Thompson, Plainfield; Rev. J. O. Totten, Shannonville; Misses Muriel Embury, Marian Blatherwick, Shannonville; Rev. J. E. Beckel, Castleton; Rev. A. H. and Mrs. Foster, Madoc; Mrs. Adolphe Chapman, Brighton; Mrs. Stevens, Campbellford; Miss Hazel Cannon, Cobourg; Rev. J. N. Norton, Cobourg; Robert Michie, Greenbank; Mrs. A. Sampson, Oshawa; John Allen, Port Perry; Mrs. W. G. Harris, Peterboro; Misses Laura Wiggins, Gladys Young, Havelock; Rev. H. B. and Mrs. Herrington, Cordova Mines; Miss Helen Morgan, Miss Mae Stephens, Warsaw; William Paul, Peterboro; C. L. Cowan, Picton; Mrs. F. W. Young, Miss Nellie Martin, Picton; Miss Lillian Payne, Bloomfield; Rev. W. P. and Mrs. Rogers, Norwood, and many others.

BIG CRIMINAL POPULATION.

BUENOS AIRES (United Press)—Out of a population of less than 2,000,000, Buenos Aires has 81,944 known thieves, according to police statistics. In addition 357,000 others are classed as "delinquents," and are kept under almost continuous surveillance by the department of personal safety.

DR. R. L. KING IS ELECTED ALDERMAN

The Prince Albert Daily Herald of Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, carries in its issue of October 16 a cut of Dr. R. L. King, brother of Dr. D. C. King of this city, and winner of an aldermanic seat in a spirited civic contest that brought out the heaviest proportionate vote in the history of the city of Prince Albert.

The keen race for the aldermanic vacancy, made available by the death of Ald. J. S. Fowlie, was brought to a whipping finish, with Dr. King receiving a total of 340 votes, a majority of 36 over his nearest competitor, H. D. Davis, who polled 304 votes. A third candidate, W. G. Tickle, received 48 votes in the contest.

The Herald remarks that a notable feature of the contest "was the large number of residents, some in the city 15 to 20 years, who presented themselves to the various committees working outside or at the poll itself, only to find that because they had failed to register, their names were not on the voters' list and they were unable to vote."

AN ACTIVE BOY, INDEED.

WOULD HONOR FABRE.

Admirers Have Revived the Campaign of 1914.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25—(Associated Press)—Admirers of Henri Fabre, the Provencal naturalist, have revived a campaign started in 1914 but interrupted by the world war, to celebrate the hundredeth annversary of his birth and to erect a monument to him at his home, village of Serignan, France.

It is proposed to remove Fabre's ashes from the country churchyard and lay them at rest in his own "Harmas," the garden celebrated in his writings as the setting for the greater part of his wonderful studies in the insect world. There the monument will be placed also, under the perpetual care of the government of the republic, which has taken over this old home of Fabre's as a national museum and entomological laboratory.

The present movement is under the patronage of Mr. Millerand, president of the French republic. The chairman of the committee in charge of the project is Henry de la Paillonne, Serignan, Vaucluse, France.

Man's Own Poison Causes Rheumatism, Says Authority

Smashes Many Foolish Fallacies---The Idea That Eating Meat Causes Rheumatism is no Longer Accepted--Should Keep the Poisons Moving Out.

"Man Poisons Himself by the Absorption of Certain Substances That Should be Eliminated, This is the Cause of so Much Rheumatism," is the Statement of Well Known Authority.

Many pet theories about rheumatism of the joints, that is chronic arthritis, have been smashed during the last few years. The old idea of meat causing rheumatism is ridiculous; just think of the large numbers of vegetarians who suffer from rheumatism; these people never eat meat. Cases have been known where people living entirely without meat were great sufferers from rheumatism. These people would go so long without meat they would become so weak they would not have sufficient strength to throw off disease. Just so soon as they began to improve and with the help of good medicine like Dreco, were well in a short time.

Great harm has been done by the ordinary rheumatism medicines because they not only disturb the stomach, but often fail to relieve the pain or contain something that relieves the pain for the time being, and the disease is as bad or worse after taking such medicine.

There are a great many medicines on the market for rheumatism; but do you remember seeing anything about taking care of rheumatism of the joints after the patient has had the disease for several years?

Dreco is a remedy that many sufferers take after they have tried about everything else for rheumatism. No claim is being made that one bottle or two will cure the disease, but it removes every particle of stiffness and every twinge of pain if you keep it up.

Martha Hurley, 59 Gerrish street, Halifax, says:

"For several years I suffered from rheumatism, my joints would stiffen and crack till the pains were terrible, and at times I could hardly walk. My appetite was very poor. The amount of food I ate before taking Dreco would hardly keep a bird. Now I can eat most anything. I feel much stronger. The pains in my joints have greatly improved. Can sleep through the night without being disturbed. I am thankful for Dreco for it has done the work after everything else I have taken has failed. It hits the spot and has done me good in so many ways.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Peterborough by Bond's Drug Store. Go there today and ask for Mr. Vaughan, the Dreco Expert, and let him explain the merits of this great remedy. There is no charge and he will tell you honestly if he believes Dreco will benefit you. Dreco is also sold in Lakefield by E. H. Northey, in Campbellford by J. E. Bifks, and by a good druggist everywhere.

SAVE FUEL COSTS

LET YOUR GAS OVEN COOK FOOD, DON'T LET IT COOK YOU, SAYS WYER

WASHINGTON, Oct 25.—Insulate your gas oven.

It will give you the same service with about one-half the gas and at greater comfort to the cook.

This is the advice of S. S. Wyer of the Smithsonian Institution here, who declares that $2,000,000 worth of fuel is being wasted every day in the United States.

The principle is the same as covering your furnace with a heavy coating of asbestos. This, he says, will give you better heat and at less cost.

Coating the gas oven with asbestos or other insulating material will keep the heat in the oven and will cook the food instead of cooking the cook.

Artificial gas is man-made by transmutation of crude, dirty, inert coal in energetic gas. Natural gas is made by nature and is transmitted to the consumer in its natural state.

Heating Values

The heating value of natural gas is about twice that of manufactured gas. Because of its higher thermal value, natural gas requires twice as much air for combustion as is required by the other; otherwise the two gases are handled just the same in the home appliance.

Natural gas does not have a distinctive, offensive odor like manufactured gas and this makes the detection of leaks more difficult.

Large volumes of gas, to be burned, must have some of the air mixed with the gas before it reaches the flames. The ordinary range has a mixer, which permits the air to be sucked in by the aspirating action of the gas.

The air shutter must be adjusted until a clean blue flame is produced. A yellow flame with this type of burner is an indication of waste.

Burners.

Grid or open-top stoves are desirable for good service so as to get the most direct path for the heat from the flame into the food.

Many natural gas cook stoves have solid tops and burners as far as three and a half inches away. This is wrong. Such stoves always waste gas and frequently will not give any service when the pressure is low. The flame tip should just strike the bottom of the cooking vessel to get the highest efficiency. To do this, the burners should be only one and one-fourth inches below the vessel.

Natural gas appliances should always be adjusted for low pressure only, and only low pressures—one to two ounces—used. This saves gas and gives better service during the inevitable low pressure conditions when the demand is greater than the supply.

Flues are always desirable on gas room heaters and gas water heaters. If the burners are not correctly adjusted, carbon monoxide gas may form and an adequate flue is good insurance against accident.

Radiants in radiant fire heaters should never be operated so the radiants glow more than three-fourths of the distance from bottom to top.

Never use gas in any coal-burning appliance; it will always be wasteful.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NEWS

The chief difference between a modern Chamber of Commerce and the old-time Board of Trade and similar organizations is involved in the moral of one of Aesops' famous fables. "Look before you leap," is applied to every problem which confronts this modern form of civic commercial organization.

The old-time organization used to conduct its affairs on the town meeting plan. Off-hand resolutions were freely passed endorsing, without mature thought, all manner of public matters, or condemning action, where such a resolution seemed to be needed. To-day, neither an endorsement, nor its opposite, are given until there has been a thorough analysis of the facts, a study of results and experiences in other cities, and a weighing of all factors and conditions entering into the problem. The final result, therefore, almost invariably conforms to the requirements of good business, and actually gives emphasis to the needs of the community in a way which appeals to the common-sense of keen business men.

That is why the judgments rendered by a modern Chamber of Commerce are respectfully received by the leaders in all walks of life. The Chamber of Commerce has no power; it can have tremendous influence. It must treat its work in a scientific manner, just as manufacturers, merchants, professional men, bankers, and all others treat their work scientifically. That is why men are hired for such organizations whose training and experience equip them to study problems and to follow them out in forecast in all their ramifications before making decisions. That is why the modern organization gives its board of directors the right of fixing its policies and making important decisions in the name of the organization.

A live Chamber of Commerce embodies the business and civic interests of a live community. It needs a large membership if it is to be thoroughly representative. It needs a well-chosen membership if it is to lead public opinion, and, above all, it needs a loyal membership if it is to be a force and not merely a name. It is made up of numerous interests and is rightly the advocate of those interests up to the point where they claim more than the community can afford to give them. Then always a live Chamber of Commerce will represent the interest of the people as a whole rather than the interest of the more favored groups in a community. It is greater than any group; greater than all its groups. It is greater than any man in it; greater than the sum total of its members.

To any piece of work that it is doing it brings the worth and the influence of its previous efforts under, perhaps, different conditions and other leaders. Men come and go but the community abides, and the greatest vitalizing force in any community in a free democratic country to-day is the intelligent organized public opinion generated by its Chamber of Commerce.

"I Was Terribly Weak After Baby Was Born"

Mrs. H. McClure, Norwood, Ont., writes:

"After my baby was born, I was terribly weak and run down, with pains across my back. I had heard so much of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food that I decided to try it. Three boxes proved enough to make me quite strong and well again. I also used Dr. Chase's Ointment for a rash which broke out on the baby, and the rash disappeared completely in a short time."

MOLES AND WARTS LEAD TO CANCERS

Some of the Dangers Pointed Out at Medical Conference.

CHICAGO, October 25. Canadian Press. — Fifty thousand lives can be saved each year if the medical profession co-operates with the public in fighting the menace of cancer, declared Dr. John Wesley Long of Greensboro, N.C., one of America's leading cancer specialists at the Congress of the American College of Surgeons.

As for the causes of the disease, Dr. Long declared that they have not yet been discovered.

While none of the doctors could state that cancer was caused by any one thing they were able to point out a few cancer dangers among them:

Irrigation caused from habitual smoking of a short stemmed pipe; irritation is purely mechanical and partly due to nicotine. A broken, rough tooth, causing irritation of the mouth. Eating food that is too hot, or drinking liquids that scorch the oesophagus. Too much sunlight in a dry, windy country where alkali dust irritates the skin. Moles or warts which stand high enough to be easily irritated .

WATCH TICKS HINDER RADIO OF BISHOP McDOWELL'S SPEECH

CHICAGO, Oct .25.—Bishop William Fraser McDowell's watch ticked so loudly last Sunday night while he was addressing the Sunday Evening Club that radio transmission of his remarks were affected, according to complaints from New York State and Milwaukee, Wis., received to-day by the club.

The Bishop was talking about how small the world is, and the ticks of his watch were plainly heard by the radio receivers. A bishop's watch may be as discreet as any watch and the burden of complaint does not alone fall upon it, say the correspondents, who informed club officials that an offending watch had interfered in previous radio transmissions.

EAST SEYMOUR COUPLE CELEBRATE 50 YEARS HAPPY MARRIED LIFE

Mr. and Mrs. William Stewart Enjoy Golden Jubilee Surrounded By Family and Friends — Have 14 Grandchildren Living.

BURNBRAE NEWS

BURNBRAE, Oct. 25.—On Tuesday evening, October 23, Mr. and Mrs. William Stewart, who reside on the Menie Stock Farm, celebrated the golden jubilee of their marriage.

The parents of the jubilarians came from the same part of Scotland, Aberdeenshire, Mr. Stewart's parents settling first for a short time in the city of Kingston, Frontenac County, and the parents of Mrs. Stewart, settling in Seymour East, on the farm now owned by Mr. Percy Oddie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Oddie, who celebrated their diamond jubilee a couple of weeks ago.

Mr. Stewart was born in Kingston on January 2, 1850, and came to Seymour East with his parents in 1852, and has resided here ever since.

Mrs. Stewart was formerly Miss Jane Milne, born July 24, 1854, in Seymour Township.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart were married in the city of Belleville on the 23rd of September, 1872. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. J. H. Smith, at that time minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. They were attended by Mr. Walter Todd, and Miss Jemima Stewart, Mr. Stewart's sister, who is now Mrs. Walter Todd, of Campbellford. Mr. and Mrs. Todd were present at the celebration Tuesday evening.

To Mr. and Mrs. Stewart were born seven children. Three are deceased. The other members of the family were all present—James of Menie, now with the parents on the home place; William, in the employ of the Hydro Commission, Campbellford; Jessie, (Mrs. George Dunk), Rylstone; Lillie (Mrs. John Haig), of Sterling. There are 14 grandchildren living and four deceased.

A Presentation

The family and guests numbering in all about 50 sat down to a splendid supper, after which they retired to the spacious parlour, where Mr. James Stewart read, on behalf of the family, the following address:

"Dear Father and Mother,

"On the occasion of the 50th anniversary of your marriage, we have gathered together to rejoice with you, and to congratulate you, on your arrival at a golden milestone on the road of life.

"It is a rgeat pleasure to us who have now homes of our own, to gather tonight under the old, parental roof, where our youthful days were spent to celebrate your golden jubilee. We are exceedingly grateful that you have been spared to us. We acknowledge the loving providence of God, in the long life given you together in the marriage relationship.

"Tonight, after 50 years of mutual struggle and helpfulness, you are still hale and hearty, and able with considerable vigor, to do your daily duties.

"At this time, which testifies to a special providence of God, in your lives, we, as a family, recognize the debt of love we owe to you, and wish to assure you that we hold you in our love and esteem. We wish you to accept this purse of gold as a tangible recognition of our gratitude to you.

"Trusting that your griefs may be few indeed, and may God who spared you thus far, spare you still for many years to come.

(Signed)
"James Stewart
"William Stewart
"Mrs. George Dunk
"Mrs. John Haig
"Mrs. George Fry and family."

The presentation was made by Marie Stewart, granddaughter.

Mr. Stewart replied in a suitable manner, stating that the happiest days of his life were when his children were about his knees. The next happiest time was when he saw them all settled in homes of their own. He thanked them for their love and esteem and wished that they all might be spared to celebrate their own golden jubilee.

Have Common Interests

The Rev. J. J. Black, B.D., pastor of St. Andrew's Church, Burnbrae, where Mr. and Mrs. Stewart have been lifelong members, called upon Mr. Alex. Hume to give an address. Mr. Hume and Mr. Stewart have been intimate friends for many years, their common interest in the raising of pure bred Ayrshire cattle bringing them together on many occasions.

Mr. Hume congratulated him on the 50th anniversary of his wedding, and, commenting on the success of his life as a breeder of pure bred Ayrshire cattle, attracted a great deal of his success to the woman who has been his helpmate through the years. Mr. Hume said he was considered the veteran breeder of Ayrshires in Canada today. He congratulated him for the fine spirit he always showed to those who were competing against him. The rivalry was always friendly. In conclusion, Mr. Hume expressed the wish that the son would have as good success in live stock breeding as the father has achieved.

Mr. Stewart usually carries away a good number of prizes yearly at the Canadian National Exhibition. In 1893 Mr. Stewart took his cattle to the World's Fair in Chicago and carried off three first prizes, three seconds, and five thirds, the best showing of any breeder of Ayrshires in Canada.

Musical Selections

After a short address of congratulations by the Rev. J. J. Black, the remainder of the evening was spent with music and singing, the groom of 50 years ago playing several selections on the violin and singing a couple of Scotch songs.

Personal Mention

Mr. Walker Stewart, Miss Mabel Stewart, and Mrs. McLennan, of Guelph, will spend this week visiting relatives in Seymour East.

Mrs. Walter Twigg and son, of Toronto, are spending this week at home with her father, Mr. Norman Messon, Seymour East.

Mr. James Kerr, of Rylstone, passed away at his home on the 11th concession, Seymour, about midnight Tuesday, after a long illness. Funeral service will be held in Rylstone Church by the Rev. J. J. Black, on Thursday afternoon.

BALDWIN SPEECH MAY CLEAR MIST

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Rarely has a speech by a British Premier been anticipated with greater interest and curiosity with greater interest and curiosity than that which Stanley Baldwin is to delver at Unionist Party Conference at Plymouth to-night.

Rumors and speculation that are appearing regarding line he will take and various subjects with which he will deal, count thousands of words, but whatever may prove to be contents of speech it is regarded in advance by the Thirteen hundred Conservative delegates who gathered at Plymouth yesterday as certain to be of first rate importance and likely to decide fortune of Mr. Baldwins party for long time to come.

What people throughout country probably most wish to hear is some definite pronouncement tending to clear way through international political fog and economic fog. Speeches by Premier Smuts of South Africa and Ambassador Harvey of United States on Tuesday have set nation talking as to prospects of conference to discuss possible settlement of Europe's troubles.

Although some reports express belief that Mr. Baldwin himself would like to have made proposal for an international conference which Smuts advanced, others suggest that South African Premier spoke with fore knowledge of government.

EXCRUCIATING PAINS, CRAMPS

Entirely Remedied by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Eberts, Ont. — "I started with cramps and bearing-down pains at the age of eleven years, and I would get so nervous I could hardly stay in bed, and I had such pains that I would scream, and my mother would call the doctor to give me something to take. At eighteen I married, and I have four healthy children, but I still have pains in my right side. I am a farmer's wife with more work than I am able to do. I have taken three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I feel that it is helping me every day. My sister-in-law, who has been taking your medicine for some time and uses your Sanative Wash, told me about it and I recommend it now, as I have received great relief from it."—Mrs. NELSON TOTT, R. R. 1, Eberts, Ont.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for ailments common to women. It has been used for such troubles for nearly fifty years, and thousands of women have found relief as did Mrs. Yott, by taking this splendid medicine.

If you are suffering from irregularity, painful times, nervousness, headache, backache or melancholia, you should at once begin to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is excellent to strengthen the system and help to perform its functions with ease and regularity. C

SILVER JUBILEE LOCAL MINISTER

Several Entertainments In Honor of Rev. J. J. O'Brien.

Following out the celebration of the silver jubilee anniversary of Rev. J. J. O'Brien, pastor of the Church of the Sacred Heart, there have been several pleasant entertainments this week in his honor. On Monday afternoon, the school children of the parish trained by their teachers, put on an enjoyable little concert in the basement of the church. At eight o'clock on Monday morning also, Rev. Father O'Brien said a solemn requiem Mass for the souls of the faithful departed of the parish assisted by Rev. J. Finn and Rev. P. Butler.

Yesterday morning, at 10:30, a solemn High Mass was celebrated in the Sacred Heart Church, by Rev J. J. O'Brien assisted by Rev. J. McAuley of Ennismbre as deacon and Rev. K. Corkery of Cobourg as sub-deacon. Rev. P. Butler acted as Master of Ceremonies. Present in the sanctuary were His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, Very Rev. Dean Kelly of Trout Creek, and Rev. M. Cline of Toronto. An eloquent sermon was preached by Rt. Rev. Monsignor McColl of the church of The Immaculate Conception, followed by a presentation from the priests of the diocese, made by Monsignor McColl, and an address read by Rev. F. O'Sullivan of Port Hope.

Mid-day Banquet

After celebration of Mass, a banquet was held in the school attended by the following clergymen; Bishop O'Brien Monsignor McColl, Dean Kelly of Trout Creek Rev. M. Cline of Toronto, Rev. C. S. Bretherton of Hastings, Rev. Peter McGuire of East City; Rev. M. McGuire of Douro; Rev. J. O'Sullivan of Wooler; Rev. F. O'Sullivan of Port Hope; Rev. P. J. Galvin of Downeyville; Rev. P. Kelly of Victoria Road, Rev. J. McAuley of Ennismore Rev. V. McFadden of Parry Sound, Rev. Joseph Ferguson of Warkworth; Rev. J. Corrigan of Stirling Rev. J. McCarthy of Norwood, Rev. M. O'Brien of Huntsville; Rev. John O'Leary of North Bay; Rev. T. Crowley of Sault Ste. Marie; Rev. Jas. Guiry of Lindsay; Rev. K. Corkery of Cobourg; Rev. H. McHenry of Parry Sound, Rev. Dr. O'Leary of Toronto; Rev. P. Costello; Rev. J. Power Rev. J. Collins, Rev. J. Finn and Rev. P. Butler of the city Laymen present at the banquet were Dr. Jas. V. Gallivan and Dr. M. Roche of the city and Mr. A. W. Holmes, architect of Toronto.

Evening Concert

Last evening a large number of the parishioners and visiting clergy attended an entertaining concert given by the Young Ladies Sodality in the basement of the church. The programme included an opening chorus by the Sodality Juniors, a vocal solo by Miss Helena Heffernan and vocal quartette, Miss Heffernan and Messrs. Kearns and Kirkcaldy, and a playlet presented by the young ladies, entitled "In Search of Happiness," in which the following members took part: Miss Frances Collins as the girl; Miss Eileen Foley as the mother, Miss Minnie Allen as Wealth, Miss Rose Black as Pastime; Miss Josephine Collins as Society; Miss Louise Letellier as Knowledge Miss Frances Woodhouse as Fame, Miss Annie Centille as Love; Miss Clarilda Paquette as Industry and Miss Mabel Desautel as Religion. Miss May Rose acted as stage manager.

An interesting item on the programme was the excellent playing of the Sacred Heart orchestra, composed of Messrs. Armstrong McCarthy, Richea and Collins.

After the programme concluded, the young ladies of the Sodality presented Father O'Brien with a hand some smoking set and address and Father O'Brien's mother received a beautiful bouquet of roses. Father O'Brien, in acknowledging both gifts, referred to his mother as his "best and longest chum and pal."

On Friday evening of this week the jubilee festivities will conclude by a repetition of the children's concert for the benefit of their parents.

KING ELOQUENT AT CONFERENCE

A Quebec Judge Says Canada's Premier Seems Inspired in Addresses.

QUEBEC, October 25. — Canadian Press. — "The Right. Hon. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister of Canada and his colleagues at the Imperial conference in London hold the leading place in comparison with other representative bodies of statesmen from the different dominions of the British Empire," said Hon. Judge P. A. Choquette, who returned yesterday on the Empress of Britain, after having been on a two months' trip abroad in which time he visited England, Scotland, France and Belgium.

Hon. Judge Choquette said in the course of an interview that Hon. Mr King and his cabinet ministers attending the conference, are making a splendid impression on the English public. "I attended two meetings at which Premier King spoke," said the Judge, "and I was amazed at his eloquence. He seemed to be inspired in the delivery of all the addresses which he is making in England at the present time. His eloquence of speech, his rhetoric and diction, his comprehensive illustrations and concrete arguments in his many talks in connection with the interests of Canada and the part she is playing in world affairs, have equalled the best efforts ever made by the late Sir Wlfirid Laurier. The only thing which is lacking in the present premier's appearance upon the public platform, is the princely physique and carriage of the deceased statesman. In all other things he is equal to the occasion in every respect.

RACE OFFICIAL DIED OF WOUND

Fred. W. Gerhardy, of Detroit, Shot By Trainer at Akron.

AKRON, O., October 25 (Canadian Press). — Fred W. Gerhardy, of Detroit, prominent race track official, died in a hospital here last night from wounds received on Saturday, when he was shot by Marion Webb, a trainer.

Peter Callen, Toronto, another official who was shot at the same time, was reported on the road to recovery.

Gerhardy was 60 years old. He was shot twice, one bullet passing through his breast and the second through the arm. He appeared to be improving until yesterday, when his condition suddenly took a turn for the worse.

As he continued to sink, oxygen was administered.

An autopsy was held last night.

The body will be taken to Detroit by his widow and son to-day. Funeral services will be held there on Saturday afternoon.

Deputies at the jail said they would not inform Webb of the death until to-day, when the police announced he will be charged with first degree murder. He is held without bond on a charge of shooting to kill.

UNDERWOOD BIDS FOR NOMINATION

Eighty Years Since the South Elected a President

NOCONA, Texas, Oct. 25.—Senator Oscar W. Underwood, of Alabama ,formally opened his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination here yesterday afternoon.

From the platform of his train here he said:

"I have come to ask something of you; I have led the Democrat party in both houses of congress for years. I am a southern man, bred and born. We are approaching the time when the Democrat party must name the man to carry its banner in the next election. It has been eighty years since the south carried the banner of Democracy. It has been eighty years since the south elected a president of the United States.

OFFERED PICK OF HAREM.

VIENNA, Oct. 25.—(United Press).—Here is one incident Kaiser Wilhelm II. didn't mention in his memoirs:

When Wilhelm took his Orient trip in 1889 he stopped in Constantinople. He visited his friend Abdul Hamid, the Sultan. During the visit Abdul Hamid permitted all of his harem women to parade before the German Emperor without veils. Whereupon Hamid said to Wilhelm: "Majesty, choose one of these women for yourself." The Kaiser replied, "Majesty, I thank you very much for your offer, but I will first ask the Kaiserin which I should choose."

The foregoing is one of many bright spots in H. H. Hussert's "Memoirs of a Sleeping Car Conductor," being published in The New Vienna Tageblatt.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Clive Roberts Barton

THE NEW SQUEALY-MOO LANDER

All the Squealy-Moo Landers gather ed around to have a good look at it.

Farmer Brown bought an automobile. Charlie and Bob, the farm horses, were often too tired after working all day to be driven into town at night. And Farmer Brown and Mrs. Brown liked to go to the movies.

So they got a nice little black car, shinier 'n a new stobe, and kept it in the wood-shed.

All the Squealy-Moo Landers gathered around to have a good look at it, and they passed remarks, you may be sure.

"And it copied my eyes!" miewed Thomas Mouser. "They shine more brightly at night than they do in the day time. I should be the one to say 'Copy cat'."

"Speaking of copying," mooed Missez Cow mildly. "I hear it has a horn, although I don't see any. Perhaps, like mine, it has been cut off."

"I don't care about it copying," remarked Goosey Gander, "but I have heard that these things have dreadful ways. Whenever they meet anyone on the road, they run over him. In fact, many a time in my wanderings, I have stood directly in their path and hissed my scorn, daring them to touch a feather. But always the same thing happens—they honk impudently back at me and tear right along. If I were not a good jumper I should not be here to speak of it!"

All this time the little black automobile stood silently regarding its visitors. Never a word did it say, but a few drops of water ran down its nose and they did look like real tears.

"I think it's a shame!" said Nancy and Mister Dodger. The fairyman and the Twins were near enough, as usual, to hear the whole affair.

"Never mind!" he said wisely. "Just be patient, my dear. Sometimes we have our own way to make in the world. Wait and see!"

A day or two later the Twins had reason to remember Mister Dodger's words. For all the Squealy-Moo people had their heads together again.

"It was this way," Nancy heard Mister Rooster say. "Chucky Chicken crossed the road and tried to cross back again. And rather than hit him, the new automobile skidded into a muddy ditch and couldn't get out again. Charley and Bob had to pull it out with ropes."

"My, my!" cried all his listeners. "Wasn't that splendid of it!"

"Say!" quacked Daddy Duck. "Did you ever notice what a fine voice it has?"

"I'm sorry its horn has been cut off," mooed Missez Cow kindly.

"What did I tell you?" said the fairyman to the Twins. "The little car has won their hearts by doing a kind act."

The Million Dollar Doll

By C. N. and A. M. Williamson
Authors of "The Lightning Conductor"

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY:

Juliet Divine, a beautiful show-girl, known as the Million Dollar Doll. In reality, however, he is not with the Doll but

Teresa Desmond (Terry), Juliet's unbelievably innocent half-sister, whom the Doll sent to masquerade as herself. Ever since a kindness Miles did her in childhood, Terry had made him her Dream Prince, and they are now madly in love with each other, although he believes her to be the notorious Juliet Divine.

Paul di Salvano, a handsome Italian, formerly the lover of Miles' wife, has deserted her for

Rose Callahan, a somewhat ordinary young heiress, now traveling in Europe with her father.

Betty Sheridan, Miles' wife, frantic at Paul's desertion finds herself in danger of losing her husband also and goes to Algiers where Miles' yacht is lying.

Eustace Nazlo, a wealthy Greek, meeting Miles and the "Doll" recognizes Terry Desmond whom he knew and loved in New York. He it is who warns Betty that her husband's companion is not a show-girl, but a convent maid.

Miles, enjoying a brief sojourn at Bousaada with Terry, and his faithful old servant Mrs. Harkness as chaperone, receives a wire that his wife is in Algiers, demanding to see him. On his way there he is overtaken by Nazlo who informs him that the "Doll" is really Terry Desmond.

CHAPTER LXXV.

The Only Way Out

Mrs. Miles on board "Silverwood" gasped Harky. "Oh, sir, this is strange news Are you sure?"

"Quite sure. I've seen and talked with her," replied Nazlo, addressing himself now to Mrs. Harkness, though he knew that Terry listened. "You must excuse me for being abrupt, but I have to hurry and say what I've got to say. I know Mr. Sheridan's been expecting his wife to divorce him and he thought she was in New York. But I'm surprised he didn't tell you what called him suddenly back to Algiers. But he didn't know what brought Mrs. Sheridan, until I gave him a message—by her request. You see, I've known her for years. She's decided not to divorce her husband, and nothing will induce her to change her mind.

"I don't doubt Mr. Sheridan will try to bribe her, but he won't succeed. And owing to circumstances which we needn't go into just now, the law wouldn't allow him to divorce his wife, even if he tried. Naturally this is a blow to him, as he wants—he confided in me—to marry. He won't be able to do that while Mrs. Sheridan lives; which means,——" he turned to the girl—"dear Miss Desmond—that if you wait for him you'll grow old waiting."

Terry had told herself that she must not marry Miles, but suddenly she knew that she would have married him in spite of everything, if he had been free. Perhaps it was well that he was not to be free—well for his own good, because he was saved from her.

"Oh, my poor child" gasped Mrs. Harkness.

The old woman had been divided in mind between her strong wish for the girl's happiness as well as "Mr. Miles," and her equally strong disapproval of such an unsuitable match. But now she forgot all scruples. She hated that wicked little cat of a Mrs. Sheridan more than ever. "My poor child" she moaned. "What will you do? Everything is upset."

"I don't know what I shall do," said Terry. "I'll have to wait till he—Mr. Sheridan—comes back, and I can talk to him. I can't decide now."

"But he and I agreed that you'd better decide," Nazlo urged. "He can do nothing for you, Miss Desmond—less than nothing My poor girl, you're in a bad position. It won't do Mrs. Harkness—that is the name, isn't it?—can tell you that. All the raison d'etre for being on the yacht is gone. Mr. Sheridan can't offer you anything except money—that is, if he's an honourable man he can't, now he knows who you are— —"

"He know who I am?" the girl broke in.

"He said he hadn't known. But he knows now— —"

"You told him" she caught the man up. And a giddiness came over her as she thought what the words meant—more far more than Nazlo could guess. Miles knew At this very moment, the thing she had longed to tell and dared not, was in his mind. What would he think—what would he say when he came back—her Prince?

"Yes, I told him," Nazlo admitted. "I must confess I did Sheridan an injustice. I thought he'd known all along—who you are, and everything else which is still a mystery to me; why you came with him on this trip and all that. My child, I was never the wicked wolf you believed me, when you ran away. I lost my head that night, and you didn't give me time to explain. I've been looking for you half across the world. It almost bowled me over to see you at last, or I wouldn't have gone. And not to have a chance for a word You made me suffer all right. If I deserved punishment, I got mine But I didn't deserve it, I swear — — Oh, Mrs. Harkness, I want you to hear all this. In a way, you're this child's guardian—the only one she's got. I want to take the job over. I want to protect her. Maybe Sheridan meant well—in the end. But he's down and out now. He'll never be free, Teresa, I ask you to marry me. Never a word shall be said against you, never a finger pointed. Everything I have shall be yours—and I tell you my name's a protection.

"You'll be Mrs. Eustace Nazlo. That means you'll be out of this mess, the same as if you'd never been in it. You'll be saved You don't care for me. But I hope I can make you. And you do care for your good name—Now, Mrs. Harkness, you've heard me out. You're a wise woman, with experience of this world and—I guess—respect for the next one. What do you advise for Miss Desmond?"

He had half sat, half knelt, on the sand near the girl and the old woman. Now it was to the latter he turned, knowing that Terry's answer, if it came quickly, would not be what he wished and meant in the end to have.

Harky stared, almost dazed by the burst of eloquence which she understood only in part. Her heavy brows drew together in an anxious frown, her long-lipped mouth hung slightly open. She had not consciousness of self. She felt overwhelmed with the news about "Mr. Miles," and its consequences for her adored nurseling, her master. Only secondary was her interest in the girl, but even so, it was strong.

Prayerfully she wished well for her charge, yet far more she wished "Mr. Miles" to be happy, not only happy but honorable and right-living. If it were true that he wasn't to be free, even in the repulsive half-freedom which divorce meant to her mind, then it was clear, for both their sakes, that he and this love of his must part.

"Miss Desmond—Miss Desmond" she echoed, mechanically, "Miss Divine, you're talking about. And I— —"

"Miss Desmond's her real name," Nazlo cut in quickly. "But we won't stop to discuss that part of the story now. What I want in a hurry is your advice to her. What's it to be, Mrs. Harkness? Isn't the best way out for her, to marry me?"

"With God's help, I—I say it is" the old woman stammered. "It does look like the best—it looks like the only way out, for Mr. Miles' good, as well as for hers"

RECITAL HERE ON A STRADIVARIUS

Hear Jules Falk at Opera House, October 29, Auspices Rotary Club.

Only a few real facts concerning the violin makers of the old Italian city of Cremona are known generally. Referring to the violin the question is often asked of professional violinists: "Is that a Cremona?" without apparently knowing that the word Cremona bears no significance to the violins made in that city. The school, however, was known as the Cremona School and gave to the world such marvelous specimens of violins as made by Stradivarius, Nicholas Amati, Joseph Guarnerius del Jesu, Joseph Guarnerius filius Andrea, Petrus Guarnerius, John Baptiste Guadagnini, Carlo Bergonzi and many other illustrious names which will shine as long as the violin will be played.

Antonius Stradivarius, regarded as the greatest violin maker of all times, was born in 1644 and died in 1737. His work room was the scene of constant toil and during his lifetime upward of fifteen hundred instruments are supposed to have been produced by this master, although the most accurate records show only five hundred and forty of these instruments in existence at present. Under the tutelage of Nicholas Amati, the boy from the very first showed an adaptability which did not escape Amati's notice. Between 1660 and 1665 he apparently felt the desire to become a creative factor in the world of art; and leaving the workshop of Amati, began to make violins to which he affixed his own label. The form of these violins bore closely upon the lines of his preceptor; and not until 1690 did he begin to make violins of larger dimensions. The violins bearing date from 1690 to 1799 were of a larger pattern, though retaining the approximate width of the violins made prior to that time. From 1700 on he developed the violin of larger proportion. This model, patterned during the so-called "golden period" of his career, is the model used mostly by his imitators. Even the Japanese, during the recent war when the output of the large factories in Germany were closed to the world, were quick to see the opportunity, but produced violins of a rather inferior standard.

One of the most beautiful specimens extant of the work of the great master Antonius Stradivarius is now owned by Jules Falk, the noted violinist, who will play a recital here upon the instrument on Monday evening, October 29. The violin was made in 1723 by Antonius Stradivarius for his great friend the Count Salabue and fabulous offers have been refused by Falk for it. At this recital Vanette van Sweringen, the eminent soprano, will be associated with Falk.

YOUR HEALTH

By Dr. Clifford C. Robinson

THE EMERGENCY KIT

Prevention is the watchword in all ranks of health seekers. An emergency kit, home doctor or first aid outfit is a blessing. But a little advice on using it may be of help.

Cuts, scratches or bruises, lame arms or sunburned shoulders may call for a little help, and if you try to be too strenuous and overdo "the thing" you may have to take care of a severe case of fatigue or fainting. "Sick stomach," from overeating, is also down on the program and a summer cold may come your way unsought. This is about all unless you have a more severe case to attend to, such as a bad cut or wound which may require the use of a tourniquet.

One-half ounce tincture of iodine in a strong bottle, to be applied on cuts or wounds by means of a small swab made from a small stick and a tuft of cotton. Two-ounce carton of absorbent cotton. A spool of zinc oxide adhesive tape, one inch wide. A large collapsible tube of plain petrolatum or zinc oxide or plain boric acid ointment. Any abrasure or burn from heat or acid or friction should be smeared with ointment and protected by small pieces of gauze held in place by tape.

Five or 10 yards of bandages are also necessary, and are helpful in many ways. Also put in your kit a small vial of aromatic spirits of ammonia. A teaspoonful in two ounces of water (about one inch in a common drinking glass) is a good stimulant for fainting, nervous shock or collapse.

Use a sedlitz powder for your sick stomach and make up your mind not to overeat again. Don't forget the little scissors, some safety pins and a ball of twine. Do it at once and practice safety first.

THROUGH WITH DUELING.

VIENNA, Oct. 25.—(Associated Press)—Pre-war duels in Europe often were serious affairs, but post-war dueling has become largely a farce. Military men have come to a more sane view of the "field of honor," and civil courts are taking the place of meetings at dawn with a brace of seconds and a doctor in attendance.

A farcical duel is reported from Budapest. Both principals were directors of prominent banks. They duly appeared on the field of combat, faced each other, and cocked their revolvers. When the signal was given, one man shot his bullet into the ground and the other did not fire at all. Unreconciled, the contestants left the field.

QUIZ CORNER

ALBERTA.

A.—Alberta is the most western of the Canadian Prairie Provinces. Its southern boundary adjoins Montana; its western boundary is the crest of the Rocky Mountains. Its eastern boundary is the 110th meridian west from Greenwich, which is also the western boundary of Saskatchewan. Alberta comprises an area greater than that of any country in Europe save Russia, and more than twice the combined areas of Great Britain and Ireland. Its northern boundary passes through the Shetland Islands and north of Petrograd; and its southern boundary passes south of the English Channel, through France a few miles north of Paris, through the southern portion of Germany and the middle of Central Europe. The Province embraces 162,765,200 acres There are some 105,000,000 acres of agricultural land available. Of this enormous area only about nine per cent. of the land available for cultivation has as yet been brought under the plough.

NO doubt when unexpected guests arrive in unexpected numbers, you, too, are obliged to borrow silverware—or to set your table with odd and unattractive pieces. But this annoyance is unnecessary!

The sensible thing is to have enough silverware of your own. And in 1847 Rogers Bros. Silverplate you can provide that enough quite reasonably. Six tea spoons in the beautiful new Anniversary Pattern cost only $3.75. Other pieces—table forks, table spoons, butter spreaders—are priced as moderately.

But, for all its inexpensiveness, 1847 Rogers Bros. Silverplate is both beautiful and durable. Its quality has been recognized through three-quarters of a century. Purchase to-day the pieces you need most. On a later occasion add to them in the chosen pattern. Dealers everywhere have the newer 1847 Rogers Bros. patterns in stock.

BALTIMORE TIE JUNIOR SERIES

Won Their Fourth Game By 9-5—Only 373 Spectators—Umpire in Overcoat

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 24. — Slugging their way to victory over the Kansas City Blues of the American Association here this afternoon 9 to 5, the Baltimore Internationals climbed to even terms in the junior world's series. Each club now has four victories and the ninth and deciding game at minor league championship will be staged to-morrow.

The Orioles had on their batting clothes and hit three Kansas City pitchers — Wilkinson, Thormahlen and Saladna—at opportune times. Wilkinson, who started for the Blues, was wild and got himself in trouble with base on balls. Jack Ogden, Oriole right-hander, pitched the entire game for Baltimore, and except for homers by Wright and Brief, who accounted for three runs, was very effective.

The Blues were the first to score, getting two runs in the second inning on one hit. Baltimore tied the score in its half of the second and added two in the third and one in the fourth.

In the sixth the Blues threatened for a minute when they pulled up to within one run of Baltimore by registering twice on a double by Becker and a homer over the left field fence by Brief. The Birds came right back in the seventh and Cobb, Baltimore catcher, broke up the game with a homer over the left field fence with Maisel and Sheedy on the bases.

The game was played under weather conditions so damp and disagreeable that Umpire Chill, of the American Association, officiated in overcoat and gloves. Only 373 spectators paid to see the game and the receipts amounted to $547.

PILLETTE'S SLUMP HIT TIGERS HARD

Counted on to be Big Star, Youngster Skidded Badly and Finished Deep in Rut.

DETROIT, Oct. 25.— Herman Pillette, of the Detroit Tigers, was the biggest pitching disappointment in the American League during the 1923 season. Counted upon to keep the Cobbmen right up in the rare, Pillette failed utterly to come through.

In his first year in the majors, the Detroit pitcher completed the campaign alongside of Faber, Rommel, Shocker and Bush. His record was 19 victories and 12 defeats. He was a sensation, being the best-looking youngster among the 1922 crop of hurlers. Great things were expected of him this season.

But Pillette fell down. And with a team that finished second he was only able to turn in 14 triumphs against 20 beatings. He lost more games than any other pitcher in the junior organization. True, many of them were low-score whippings but they counted as losses just the same.

At the start of the chase, Detroit was conceded to have an almost even chance to cop the pennant. Many critics considered it a sure bet. But illness and injuries, which turned the team into a misfit club, raised havoc and spoiled whatever chance the Tigers may have had to nose out the Yankees.

Pillette's failure to duplicate his 1922 performance also hurt the Tigers' efforts to lead the circuit to an appreciable extent. In fact, had the youngster displayed the same brand of ball as characterized his work last year, the team piloted by Cobb might have given the Huggins crowd a real battle for honors.

Pillette, however, is not to be considered as a "flash in the pan." Far from it. No doubt the past season was just one of those "off years" that crop out in a pitcher's career every now and then. Next year may tell a different story. Cobb thinks so.

SAYS QUEEN'S HANDED OUT ROUGH STUFF

The Toronto Telegram charges Queen's rugby team with deliberate roughness in Saturday's game at Varsity Stadium. In the following reference to alleged rowdyism in lacrosse the Telegram turns the point against Kingston and its rugby methods:

"Kingston Standard which may or may not know a lacrosse stick from a snowshoe, rises to emit a moan over "the disgraceful kind of rowdyism in evidence at the games."

Thus it is that Canada's national game is maligned by people who don't know what they are talking about. Lacrosse is no parlor game. It is a game in which bumps are given and received. But in the hundreds of games played in the O.A. L. A. series this year it is doubtful if any one of them showed as much deliberate rough stuff as Queen's rugby champions furnished in Saturdays' game at Varsity stadium.

Players may punch their opponents in the jaw and then refuse to leave the field on the order of the official if the game is football and nobody cares. But if a stick is raised in anger in lacrosse, a howl goes up from the pacifists and echoes all over Canada. Furthermore, the casualties in one football game will outnumber the serious injuries in lacrosse for a whole season. But it has become fashionable to talk of lacrosse as a rough game and folks who know nothing of lacrosse and little of any other sport must fill the vacant space in their columns somehow."

The words "Advertising Charlie" was the only other information on the tag, not even the date nor the time released.

McTIGUE MAY CO ABROAD.

NEW YORK, October 24. - The boxing firm of McTigue & Jacobs, consisting of Mike McTigue, world's light-heavyweight champion, and his manager, Joe Jacobs, is facing dissolution. Champion and manager will journey their separate ways next August, unless a radical change for the better is affected in the present relations between the two. Reports of this have been current for some time but not until yesterday was this verified. When Manager Jacobs admitted that while everything was satisfactory right now, it is probable that he would sever relations with the boxer when his contract with McTigue expires next August. The reason for the break, Jacobs said, is McTigue's desire to return to Ireland and enter upon a business career there.

In the ten months remaining before the contract expires, however, Jacobs plans to keep McTigue busy. He has signed McTigue for a world's light heavyweight championship bout against Gene Tunney, the American champion, in Madison Square Garden on December 10. Jacobs also is planning to open negotiations for a bout between McTigue and Georges Carpentier here, providing the title holder beats Tunney in their Garden battle. Several other matches also are under consideration by Jacobs.

ERECT NEW STANDS FOR QUEEN'S GAMES

KINGSTON, Oct. 25.—A new stand with an accommodation for 900 will be erected at the Queen's Stadium for the coming rugby games, and seating space for 300 more will be attached to another stand. Additional bleachers on each side of the gates are being put up as the requests for seats are far in advance of all the seats which at present are available. Coach Shaughnessy, of McGill, has informed the Queen's executive that he intends to defeat Queen's here next Saturday as a much stronger team will represent the Red and White than at Montreal two weeks ago. Toronto University has requested a reservation of 1,500 tickets for the return game here on November 3.

Carpentier Hasn't Lost Wallop

Frenchman Proves His Right to Sit With Ring's One-Punch Heroes

An Open Target for a Right-Hand

BY JOE WILLIAMS

Georges Carpentier is again in the headlines. By flattening his little playmate, Joe Beckett, in a round the Frenchman has come back to a point where a match with Tommy Gibbons in America, long planned is not entirely illogical.

It is plain that Carpentier can still drive that famous straight right hand home with devastating power. As long as he can swing that right with force enough to drop a man he will be a dangerous fellow to exchange punches with.

Carpentier will always be a colorful fighter, and interesting perfomer to watch. Apart from his hitting ability he is in no sense a great fighter. He knows little about defense and is helpless in the clinches. But he has other virtues that offset these crudities.

Eternally aggressive, keep for the fight, Carpentier stakes all on a single whirl of the fists. With him it is win quickly or lose quickly. He is the gambler of the ring. When he fought Dempsey in the memorable battle of the century it was clear that he must fight carefully and cautiously if he hoped to win. But he did nothing of the kind. He rushed the Manassa man-eater from the start and for a few breathless moments had the champion tottering. By his sheer daring and audacity Carpentier, though knocked out, emerged from that fight a hero.

A One-Round Kayo Star.

Among other things Carpentier, when he passes on, will be remembered for his one-round knockouts. The Frenchman, fighting for the European championship, stopped Bombadier Wells in a round. Twice he has stopped Beckett in a round. No matter how inferior the opposition, it takes extraordinary punching skill, plus perfect timing, to finish your man in a round, with a punch.

That fact was brought home with convincing clarity when Dempsey dropped Firpo seven times in the first round of their recent fight, and yet failed to score a knockout before the bell.

One-round knockerouts have been few and widely spaced in pugilism. Even Bob Fitzsimmons, called the greatest and sharpest hitter of them all, made no great record in this respect. The only first-class man he stopped in a round was Peter Maher, and Peter was nearly through at the time.

Some One-Round Finishes.

Terry McGovern—Terrible Terry, they called him—ended an international battle with a single punch. That was when Pedlar Palmer, British lightweight champion, invaded America intent on trading blows with the American. The trade was ridiculously one-sided. McGovern landed once and the battle was over.

A fight of equally short duration made Joe Gans champion of the lightweights. Facing Frank Erne, titleholder, Gans feinted with his left and as Erne stepped in the Baltimore negro crossed his right to the jaw, and Erne dropped in a heap, dead to the world.

When McCarty Was Killed

Grim-faced tragedy stalked into the ring the day Arthur Pelky scored a one-round knockout against Luther McCarty, at the time the most promising young heavyweight in the game. Pelky was supposed to be a set up. The bout appeared so one-sided in advance that it attracted little attention. McCarty was careless and Pelky landed the first blow, a windmill sweeping right to the jaw. McCarty dropped, was counted out and died a few minutes later.

Dempsey's most spectacular one-ground knockout was at the expense of Fred Fulton. It was an important event in Dempsey's career because it led to a title match with Jess Willard.

There are many who still hold that Dempsey actually stopped Willard in the first round of their match, but was deprived of the distinction through an inexperienced referee.

Oxygen Would Help Athletes Smash Existing Records a Physician Says

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—If Luis Angel Firpo had been given a shot of oxygen just before the fatal second round of his fight with Jack Dempsey in New York, the South American probably would have won the heavyweight championship, Dr. F. H. McMeecham, Avon Lake, Ohio, told the United Press yesterday. Dr McMeecham is attending the meeting of the National Aanaesthesia Research Society here, and is regarded as one of the leading anaesthesists of the country.

Oxygen is a powerful stimulant and if properly administered athletes could out-do themselves and send present world's records toppling, Dr. McMeecham said.

For Track Athletes

"Take running, for instance," he said." "If runners were given oxygen for a few moments before they enter a race they could lower existing speed records by a considerable margin. The oxygen would give the runner his second wind—and you would never see him dropping at the tape. He would finish with a great burst of speed and be as fresh as when he started.

"If Firpo had been given oxygen during that minute's rest he would have come up for the second round with his second wind, a clearer head and we might have had a chase to Argentine to re-claim the title."

BUYS SYRACUSE PITCHER.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 24. — Manager Jack Dunn, of the Baltimore International League Club, announced to-day that he had obtained pitcher Clifford Jackson from the Syracuse club by the waiver route. The Stars asked waivers on the big right-hander ten days ago and Dunn was the only man to claim him. Jackson formerly starred for the University of Illinois.

Young Caddies Please George; Don't Boss Him

NEW YORK, Oct. 25. — Lloyd George, noted British statesman, visiting America, expresses surprise at the youthfulness of the home grown golf caddies.

Over here caddying is a youth's job. Mostly it is done by boys still in the grade schools. In England and Scotland the work is done by elders.

"Well, I'll enjoy this round," remarked the distinguished visitor. "I won't have to be so very careful about offendng the superior golfing sense of my caddie, which is the predicament I usually find myself in when I play at home."

SPEAKER LEAVES FOR TEXAS

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 24. — Tris Speaker, manager of the Cleveland American League team, left here last night for his home in Hubbard City, Texas, after a ten days' fishing trip in Canada. Speaker said the Indians again would train at Lakeland, Fla., next spring.

The older pitchers again will be sent to Hot Spring, Ark., about two weeks in advance of the other players' departure for Lakeland, he added.

SCHOONER COLUMBIA READY FOR HER TRIP

GLOUCESTER, Mass., October 24 Canadian Press).— The schooner Columbia, the United States challenger for the International Fishemen's Trophy, was put overboard from the marine railway here this morning after the completion of the repairs to her shoe, and it was announced that she was ready for her trip to Halifax to meet the Canadian defender Bluenose, next Saturday.

McTIGUE VS. TUNNEY.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. — Mike McTigue and Gene Tunney to-day posted weight and appearance forfeits for their 15-round match at Madison Square Garden December 10 for the world's light heavyweight title. Under the agreement both are to make the class limit, 175 pounds, at 2 p.m., the day of the bout. Both McTigue, whose title will be at stake, and Tunney who holds the United States' light heavyweight crown, are preparing to begin training.

ARMY'S MAIN GRID HOPES

HEWITT SMYTHE. MULLICAN.

With Notre Dame, Yale and the Navy on their schedule, not to forget Arkansas and Alabama, good teams from the south, the West Point Cadets are in for a rugged season. Fortunately Captain McEwen, coach, seems to have a formidable squad of footballers. Eastern experts look for the army stars to have one of their greatest years. In Captain Mulligan the Army has a great tackler. Quarterback Smythe has few equals in the east; Garbish, All-American centre of last year, is still his tremendously effective self, and the acquisition of Hewitt, former Pittsburg line demolisher, has given the Cadets a full-back of extraordinary ability.

TEACHERS WITH TEAM ON ROAD

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 25.— Notre Dame professors accompanied the foot ball eleven to West Point and Princeton and conducted recitations throughout the trip. This is the usual practice here and results have always been worth while. Perhaps in this fact there lies at least part of the explanation of the foot ball success of this institution.

In other words Notre Dame athletes are no less students than other undergraduates. To be eligible to play foot ball they must pass 70 per cent tests that are held twice monthly.

It is a plasant place, Notre Dame Situated in beautiful rolling country outside of South Bend, it has the rural environment that makes Princeton so delightful. Students live in seven dormitories, called halls, and each hall has an athletic system separate from the university. Teams are developed in all sports and the intramural contests held throughout the year excite as keen interest as the intercollegiate games.

Eligibility Rules Strict.

For the varsity elevens, eligibility rules are very strict. The Western Conference standards and the more idealistic of Eastern restrictions are employed. Inasmuch as Notre Dames' preparatory school is located at the University, the Rockne foot ball system is applied there. Every year boys thoroughly imbued with the system that Knute Rockne teaches are coming up to the hall teams and thence to the varsity.

The atmosphere is very broad although Notre Dame is strictly a Roman Catholic institution. The priests who teach there are committed to poverty vows and accept no pay for their services. This year about 30 per cent of the 1,800 students are Protestants and about 9 per cent Jews. Knute Rockne himself is a Protestant.

Working with Rockne, holding up his hands in every way, Notre Dame has adopted a rigid code of athletic morals and forced them upon other institutions of the West. Rockne's early ambition was to make of Notre Dame an exemplar of athletic standards that would bear comparison with the best. And this he has accomplished.

Rockne A Wonder.

As for the success of her foot ball teams, instructors out West say that Rockne keeps about two jumps ahead of them. He has a constructive foot ball mind, is a wonderful strategist and a profound thinker. And at the same time he is the first to admit that he owes a lot to Glenn Warner, and in lesser degree, to other coaches. East and West who have developed the game. With him it has been a case of selection to fill out his own ideas, which are many and varied.

He is an amiable autocrat at Notre Dame. His word is law in athletics, but his rule is largely a rule of love and respect. He is a self-made man, coming to Notre Dame without a cent and, at the start, paying his way by janitor duties. He is magnetic, and in personality thoroughly delightful. His men on the practice field is decisive but always quiet, always dignified; and he imparts to his men at once just what he wants them to do, just how and why.

Living together on the campus his foot ball men are always ready for call, and if Rockne decides on a practice game the day before Christmas he presses a button and gives orders. Until last year he taught chemistry, but he gave that up because of press of coaching work. Besides foot ball, he coaches track, base ball and hockey.

IGAN SETS ON CATTLE

osis Eradication Faster Now Than Other State.

stern states, where many contain 100 or more ani- ber found to be tuber- runs as high as 20 per of these herds are usually act to furnish a certain k to city dealers and they to replace the diseased once. As a result they Michigan to replenish their ials at the State Depart- iculture declare that the these eastern dairymen ends to outrun the supply stock.

hog growers profit by the n of bovine tuberculosis. Since nouncement two months ago llsdale, Antrim, Charlevoix and counties had been placed on ed accredited list—the honor erculous free counties—the acking concerns of the nation eed to pay a premium of 10 r hundred live weight on hogs counties on this list. Hills- y, being on the edge of the will of course profit more hog premium than the ac- counties farther north. It is Hillsdale growers have al- y received premiums aggregating than $8,000, as compared with appropriated by the county of supervisors for the eradication which placed Hillsdale on the ed list.

Blessing in Disguise

Rich, who is in charge of portion of the cooperative work, points out that the of diseased animals is also aise the standard of Michi- from a production stand- whenever a farmer loses a imal, he replaces it with a Dairy herds in the state proved eventually in any e eradication campaign is speeding up this improvement, according to Dr. Rich. Thus it appears that stern necessity may prove somewhat of a blessing in disguise.

It is said to be no longer difficult to persuade farmers that their cows are not being needlessly sacrificed. So many counties have requested the work through their boards of supervisors that more than a score are now on the waiting list. If sufficient funds were provided, the entire State could be covered within five years, it is estimated by Dr. Benjamin J. Killham, State veterinarian.

The drive is being centered in Eaton County this month. Livingston County will be revisited early in November. Shiawassee, Ingham, Jackson, Calhoun, Kent and Wayne counties are next in line, in the order named. It is expected the campaigns in these counties will not be finished before next May or June. Other counties on the waiting list are Marquette, Schoolcraft, Chippewa, Cheboygan, Presque Isle, Otsego, Crawford, Kalkaska, Leelanau, Benzie, Ogemaw, Wexford, Oceana, Mecosta, Muskegon, Ottawa, Clinton, Allegan, St. Joseph and Monroe. Some of the counties to be visited during the next six months have been covered once, but the order is determined by the dates on which the boards of supervisors appropriate funds, and therefore cattle in some sections are tested twice before those in others are tested at all.

Michigan Sets The Pace

That the eradication work in Michigan is proceeding more rapidly than in any other State is indicated by the report of the Bureau of Animal Industry, United States Department of Agriculture, for August, 1923. During the month 4,553 herds, containing 36,126 animals, were tested in Michigan. In New York, second on the list, 1,374 herds, containing 28,178 animals, were tested during the same period. In number of animals already once tested and found disease free, Michigan, with 225,798 is second only to Missouri. In number of herds on the waiting list, Michigan is second only to Ohio. The report shows that in this State 37,087 herds and 401,745 animals are waiting.

Tuberculosis eradication from Michigan cattle began in an organized way in July, 1917, through a co-operative arrangement between the State and the Federal Government. For several years the work was carried on with pure-bred herds, whose owners volunteered to place their cattle under supervision. In the interests of efficiency the system was discontinued in July, 1921, and what is known as the area plan was substituted.

Under the present system entire counties are covered through intensive campaigns. The county board of supervisors must appropriate funds to defray the transportation expenses of the men engaged in waging the drive, as well as to pay the salary and expenses of a veterinarian, who spends full time in the county. All indemnities for diseased cattle are borne by the State and Federal Governments.

"Honor List" The Goal

By July 1, 1921, testing was in progress in seven counties, with one waiting. A year later testing was in progress in 11 counties. In three of the 11 all cattle had been once tested, and ten counties were waiting. By July, 1923, testing was in progress in 14 counties. In five of the 14 all cattle had been once tested, and four of the 14 were classified as modified accredited areas.

To be classed as "modified accredited," a county must have less than one-half of 1 per cent of diseased animals. In Jackson County, which has been twice tested, the per cent was found to be about 1 on the second test. Should the next campaign show the percentage to be less than 1, it would not be necessary again to test the entire area. Instead, the infected herds would be quarantined and retested. As soon as the percentage of infection in the county goes below one-half of 1 per cent, the county will be added to the honor list. This is the procedure to be followed in each county.

The state pays an indemnity equal to one-half of the appraised value of each diseased animal. This appraised value can not be more than $60 for a pure bred, or $30 for a grade. The Federal indemnity amounts to one-third of the difference between the appraised value and the salvage, or the amount received for the carcass of the condemned animal. This complicated method of computing the indemnity ordinarily gives the farmer nearly the amount at which the animal is appraised, say officials.

Slaughtering is under the supervision of representatives of the State and Federal governments. Nearly all the reactors found in Michigan are slaughtered in Detroit.

Reports of the State Department of Agriculture show that 11,535 cattle were tested in the fiscal year ending July 1, 1919; 18,038 in 1919-20; 44,984 in 1920-21; 158,457 in 1921-22; and 274,014 in 1922-23. The percentage of reactors has varied between 2.22 and 3.56, depending on the section of the State in which the work has been carried on. In the year 1922-23, the number of animals condemned was 6,090.

Men engaged in the eradication work are employed either by the Federal Bureau of Animal Industry, the State Bureau of Animal Industry, or the separate counties.

Cobourg and District

COBOURG, Oct. 25.—The headquarters at Port Hope of the Durham Fruit Growers' Association, which draws a part of its membership from this district, is a busy place. While the apples are being brought in steadily at one end of the big fruit house, in another part men are busy at work turning out barrels to be used for the big crop. Over 15,000 have already been turned out and these will all be required. The adding of a number of new members has given the club a fresh impetus. Ten gangs of pickers are engaged in the district gathering in the crop, and altogether there are busy days for the association.

On Pension List

Mr. Allison, who is well known to the travelling public through having faithfully performed the duties of station agent at Garden Hill for the past 39 years, has now been placed on the pension list, it is stated, and may make his future home in Lindsay.

Hand Crushed

Mr. John McMurdo, who is employed at the Dominion Wheel and Foundries here, had his hand accidentally crushed one day during the week, and will be laid up for some time.

Real Estate Deal

The sale is reported of Mr. George Teal's farm, a mile and a half northwest of Colborne, by Mr. Kissick, an agent of the E. A. Strong Farm Agency, to Mr. W. E. Amsden, of Toronto, who is to take possession of his new property about the middle of next month. It is stated that there is a considerable demand throughout the lakefront district for small farms and many changes are taking place.

Going to Los Angeles

Mr. F. M. Hughes, son of General John Hughes, of Durham County, has resigned his position as manager of the Royal Bank at Moose Jaw to accept the appointment of assistant cashier in the Pacific National Bank at Los Angeles, Cal. He has been at Moose Jaw for some years. Friends throughout Durham County wish him abundant and continued success in his new field of labor.

Fleming-Thompson

A wedding of interest through the province, as the groom, Dr. Eric G. Fleming, was one of the cast and a member of the executive of the P. B. I. Company in its Canadian tour during the first peace years, took place in St. Luke's Church, Chelsea, London, England. The young doctor, who was formerly of Cobourg, took as his English bride, Olga Isabel, youngest daughter of the late Mr. Greaves Thompson and of Mrs. Thompson, of Yorkshire, England. Mr. William Boyce, Belleville, was in attendance upon the groom. The bridal party are spending their honeymoon in France and Belgium. The groom was president of the Medical Society of Toronto University in 1920 and 1921 and took a keen interest in theatrical work. During the war he served in France with the Canadian Machine Gun Corps.

Anniversary Services

The Cobourg Methodist Church, of which Rev. R. F. Stillman, formerly of Omemee, is pastor, is preparing to celebrate its 99th anniversary next Sunday, when services of an especially interesting character will be held. The time is drawing near when the centennial anniversary of the beginning of Methodism in Cobourg will be celebrated here, no doubt with ceremonies befitting so auspicious an occasion. This church has had a large number of noted men as pastors, and in the history of its hundred years has much of interest to disclose.

Successful Canvass

A thorough canvass of the Methodist constituency in Cobourg has just been made and a census taken as it were, of all members and adherents of Methodism. This, it is expected, will materially advance the membership and activities of the church.

Formerly of Cobourg

Rev. H. A. Benoliell, Collingwood, who has been conducting a mission in Hastings Anglican Church, is a former curate at St. Peter's Church here, and has many friends in Cobourg.

Going to Toronto

Next Sunday Rev. Canon F. J. Sawers, M.A., rector of St. Peter's Church here, goes to Toronto, where he will open a week's mission at St. George's Church in that city.

Local Hunters Making Plans

Already the call of the wild and to the wide stretches of northern game preserves is being heard by local nimrods who are beginning to make ready for the annual trips. It looks as if a greater number than usual will take in the hunting this year.

Not Talking Hockey

Silence so far describes the hockey situation in Cobourg, and local sports have not yet got down to hardpan in arranging for the winter game. However, it is expected, that their enthusiasm will rise as the mercury falls, and Cobourg will be again on the map as regards hockey in this district.

A Presentation

The members of St. Andrew's Church, Grafton, assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Kellogg in Haldimand Township for the purpose of making a presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Everett Kellogg, whose marriage took place recently. At an opportune moment Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg were presented with a handsome library table. This was accompnaied by an appreciative address, which was signed on behalf of the various activities of the church by Rev. S. H. Moyer, pastor, on behalf of the session, W. F. Blacklock, on behalf of the congregation, Dr. H. Hutchison, on behalf of the choir, and Janie Clouston, on behalf of the Y.W.M.S.

Sudden Death at Trenton

The funeral took place yesterday at Trenton of Mrs. Annie Willard, of Watertown, N.Y., who had come to that town to visit her mother, Mrs. Hutchinson, and passed away after a few hours' illness, only a few days after she had arrived there. The sad news was received throughout the district with many expressions of regret.

Young People's Convention

Mrs. Wolfriam, of Castleton, presided over the convention of the young people's societies of the Brighton district which convened at Frankford on Thursday, Oct. 18th, and was well attended. Rev. R. A. Whattam, president of Bay of Quinte conference, gave an impressive address at the morning session.

Round Table Conference

The convention was privileged in having the presence of Rev. F. Langford, general secretary of Sunday schools for the Methodist church, who conducted a round table conference, which was very helpful.

Addresses were made at the afternoon session by Rev. J. S. I. Wilson, B. A., B.D., Brighton; Rev. H. W. Foley, B.A., B.D., of Salem circuit; Rev. and Mrs. Bick, Wooler, and Rev. W. R. McWilliams, returned missionary, who represents the Brighton district in Japan. Mr. McWilliams and family are at present staying at Wicklow with Mrs. McWilliam's father, Mr. W. Winter.

Mr. F. Wessels conducted a hearty song service which opened the evening session. Rev. Messrs. McWilliams and Langford gave good addresses. A consecration service, conducted by Rev. Mr. Beckel, of Castleton, concluded on uplifting convention.

Bayside Convention

White's Church on the Bayside circuit in the Quinte district, was the scene of another gathering of young leaguers the same day. Mr. F. C. Mitchell, of Spencer's, presided. After the devotional period, conducted by Rev. Jas. Batstone, Mr. G. H. Holton, conducted a helpful discussion of problems that confront the young people in their league work. The gist of the matter brought out in this discussion was crystallized into helpful and practical suggestions in an address given by Mr. F. W. Lewis, Toronto.

The ladies of the church served a bountiful supper at six p.m.

The evening service was thoroughly helpful in its character. Rev. H. B. Kenny, Belleville, gave an earnest address. Rev. F. E. Malott, Rev. J. O. Totten, Rev. W. E. Henry, Mr. F. W. Lewis, Mr. R. C. Sidenius all contributed to the success of the meeting and the inspiration of the young people.

MRS. A. SEWELL MET SUDDEN DEATH

Was Guest at Marriage Ceremony Earlier in The Day.

OWEN SOUND, Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press.)— Mrs. Arthur Sewell, prominent resident of the village of Markdale, dropped dead shortly before midnight last night in the very room in which the marriage of Emerson McCullough and Miss Violet Aikins was solemnized earlier in the day at the home of the bride's parents. After the ceremony a reception was held, at which Mrs. Sewell was a guest. She had been subjected to several fainting spells during the evening, but they were not considered serious. While refreshments were being served late at night, Mrs. Sewell was seized with a heart attack and succumbed before medical aid could reach her.

POKER PLAYER'S FINE.

BERLIN (United Press).—A year and a half ago, when the mark was still something to carry around as a medium of exchange, a group of players were arrested during a session. A half year later they were tried. Each was fined 15,00 marks—quite a sum in those days. Today—after a year—they receive their notices to pay 15,00 marks plus 3,000 marks court costs. And 15,00 marks today is one-tenth of a mill gold.

ODD CHARACTERS FINE SCENERY IN "TO THE LAST MAN."

Big Paramount Picture Made on Site of Fatal Feud in Arizona

Some of the most rugged scenery in the world and probably the most primitive inhabitants of North America are featured in Paramount's new picture, "To the Last Man," a Zane Gray production, coming to the Regent Theatre for three days beginning today. Lois Wilson, Richard Dix, Noah Beery, Frank Campeau and Robert Edeson are featured. The picture was made in the Tonto Basin, Arizona.

The story is based on the Pleasant Valley War, a feud between cattlemen and sheepmen fought in the late eighties in which both factions were wiped out literally to the last man.

The picture opens with a chance meeting between Gaston Isbel and Lee Jorth, leaders of the rival factions. Jean Isbel, son of Gaston, comes to Arizona from Oregon to aid his father. He meets Ellen Jorth, daughter of his father's enemy, and falls in love with her. Later he traces cattle rustlers to Jorth's ranch thus precipitating a raid on the Isbel home. In the battle, Guy Isbel is killed and one of the children mortally wounded.

Gaston Isbel is treacherously murdered and the Isbels are ambushed while pursuing the Jorths and practically wiped out. Jean, the last of the Isbels, continues the fight, killing the last of the Jorth sympathizers and ending by marrying Ellen, Jorth's daughter, thus terminating the fued.

The picture includes scenes of the most rugged grandeur. Some of the descendants of this last man take part in the mob scenes. It is a picture of rapidly changing situations and it has all the atmosphere of the original story.

AT THE CAPITOL.

There were big crowds at the Capitol Theatre yesterday for the latest Harold Lloyd comedy, "Why Worry?" a farce staged about a South American revolution, with the giant John Aasen as Colosso, making one of the stars in a riotous picture that gives the popular Harold plenty of scope for his funmaking talents. The picture is not like any of the other Lloyd triumphs, as it does not carry a moral of any sort in its mirthful situations. It is pure, unalloyed farce comedy of romance and adventure, staged in the midst of a red-hot South American revolution.

Lloyd acts the part of Harold van Pelham, a rich, young idler who kept himself and a score of doctors and nurses busy taking care of his health, which was perfect, but, having nothing to do but think about himself, he imagined he had everything but smallpox.

He sought health and quiet seclusion in the tropics, accompanied by his valet and nurse, who had fallen madly in love with him. Their destination was Paradiso, and they arrived there just when Jim Blake, an American renegade, started a revolution against the existing government. Harold was put in jail, where he met the giant Colosso, suffering from a toothache. Harold earned the eternal gratitude and companionship of the big giant by pulling the latter's tooth in a real Harold Lloyd episode of whimsical fun. The nurse, in the meantime, flees from the amorous attentions of Blake, and disguises herself in boy's clothes. By ruse and strategy, the girl and the sick hero and the towering giant rout the revolutionists. There is plenty of uproarious mirth in the episodes showing the ways and means by which the three outwit their adversaries, calling into play such helps as a cannon constructed of a long iron tube, fired with cocoanuts, and an ancient harrow to simulate above a wall, the spear-heads of marching soldiers.

DOCTOR IN CONSTANT ATTENDANCE AT CAPITOL.

For the benefit of patrons who laugh themselves sick at Harold Lloyd in "Why Worry," the management has arranged to have a doctor in attendance at each showing of "Why Worry."

AT THE ROYAL.

ALICE CALHOUN TELLS OF THRILLING SCENES

Vitagraph Actress Locked in Safe Overwhelmed by Doubts as Suffocation Threatens.

(By ALICE CALHOUN)
Heroine in "The Midnight Alarm," At Royal Tonight.

To be locked in a steel vault was my novel and dangerous experience in the making of a thrilling scene in "The Midnight Alarm," a Vitagraph special production, which will be exhibited at the Royal Theatre tonight. The danger was doubled by the fact that this section was demanded while the scene was burning and flames threatened to drive my rescuers away and leave me to suffocate.

David Smith, my director, is such a terrible man for realism that he insisted on a practical vault being built for the scene. He said he wanted me to be in the same predicament as if the scene were actually sliced from life. He wanted me to feel as if I was actually living through the adventure. I did.

I confess I was just a wee bit nervous when the time came to be locked in. I had looked around the scene and had spied a strange man with mechanic written all over him standing by.... I asked Mr. Smith who he was. And he told me that he was an oxy-acetylene expert, who was present to help if anything went wrong. Right then I began to think of all sorts of things, but it was too late to back out. I stepped into the vault.

I heard the inner steel doors clang behind me as the large outer doors thumped shut. Then I heard the bolt slide over and tumbler whir. I was locked in. Some one tapped the combination with a hammer and put it out of commission.

I knew I was now locked in until they could burn through and let me out.

It was very hot in there, and that made me think some more. I knew that they were going to set the offices on fire. I wondered what they would do if the flames got beyond their control. What would they do if the cutting flame didn't work as fast as they expected and the heat of the fire drove them away from the vault door? How long could I stand the heat in the vault that was now becoming oppressive without being overcome?

The air was now stale and pounding. It was difficult to breathe. It got hotter and hotter. I wondered if I could stand it. I loosened my cape and waist. But this did not give me any relief. I had to breathe faster and faster, but there did not seem to be enough oxygen in the air.

I was frightened, but I kept telling myself I must not become panicky. There was no danger. But I would have given anything for a breath of fresh air, cool and sweet. I wondered why Percy Marmont, the leading man, who was burning through the door, did not call to me. It would be cheering to hear some one was still there.

Then I became aware of a hissing sound. Suddenly the hissing sound turned to a roar. I realized they had pierced the door. Mr. Marmont called to me. He told me they were progressing rapidly. He shouted to keep my courage up and that they would have me out in a jiffy. I called to him to hurry, but I could not make my voice audible above the roar of the oxy-acetylene flame.

Waiting seemed endless. I crowded near the inner door. But the flying sparks drove me back.

I thought I would faint from the heat. I just knew my make-up would be ruined. Mr. Marmont kept calling to me, but I couldn't answer. Smoke began to come through. It made it more uncomfortable. Then I heard Mr. Marmont cry: "She's fainted!"

That made me angry.

"I have not," I shouted back as loudly as I could. I heard them laugh at this sally. And their laugh made me feel so much better because I could tell from the sound of it they were nervous about it, too.

The smoke made me cough until tears streamed from my eyes. I was sure I could not stand it any longer.

"It's through," shouted Mr. Marmont. There was a lot of banging as he kicked the burnt-out combination through. The next thing I knew there was a rush of thick smoke, and Mr. Marmont rushed in and carried me out.

The next day we saw this scene on the screen. Although I protested I was not frightened a bit, I was glad we did not have to retake the scene.

"MARRIED LOVE" COMING DIRECT FROM MASSEY HALL TO THE ROYAL

"Married Love," which is now playing at Massey Hall, Toronto, has been contracted for the Royal Theatre. Manager McGeachie announced today that he has secured this production immediately following Massey Hall. It will start its Peterboro run on Monday next at usual prices. It has been written especially for the screen by Dr. Marie Stopes, author of the famous book of the same name which has been the cynosure of public interest for the last few years. Dr. Stopes' book being as it was so startlingly original and radical, was at first the target of severe criticism and disapprobation in some quarters. However, the medical world and the more liberal minded of the public were quick to sponsor Dr. Stopes' work, and now in many countries Dr. Stopes' book has become a household word.

Dr. Stoppes, an eminent figure in the medical world, was the victim of many vicissitudes and whims of fortune before happiness became her lot. The first venture into matrimony was the source of great unhappiness and disappointment, and left her more or less embittered towards the opposite sex, and especially towards the institution of marriage. But time gradually healed the wounds, and in due course Dr. Stopes was woed and won, and finally found herself once more embarked on matrimony, and this time that happiness and bliss of which the poets prate about was vouchsafed to Dr. Stopes. The fair medico, however, was ever urged on by feelings of humitarian uplift and it occurred to her that some work written with the understanding that comes from medical science on the one hand, and empirical knowledge on the other, would perhaps accomplish much to improve the conditions and results of matrimony as present extant.

KILLS FATHER WITH BOLO.

MANILA, Oct. 25.—(Associated Press).—Because he too actively backed up his declaration that "You can't kick my dog around, even if he is an old hound," Benito Andal is in jail, Pedro Andal, his father, is dead and Patricio Andal, Benito's brother, is in serious condition at a hospital.

Benito took exception to his brother Patricio's treatment of Benito's dog, and drew his bolo. The father of the boys intervened, receiving bolo wounds of which he died within a few minutes. Patricio was badly wounded. Benito was arrested by the constabulary and now faces a charge of murder.

MORAL—ADVERTISE!

VIENNA—A brooch a woman found in a park here two years ago resulted in a lot of trouble for several folks the other day. Short of cash, the finder brought forth the pin and showed it to a couple of friends. The three went to a jeweler's. He offered her $5. Another jewelr raised the ante 50 cents and got it. Police heard of the transaction. The finder got 14 days, her friends a week each, and the jeweler 5 days. Yet the original owner never claimed his property.

MARRIED LOVE by Doctor Marie Stopes

Author of the Celebrated Book of the same name

FROM OUT of the haze of ignorance and reticence of the last few centuries, there breaks the light of Dr. Marie Stopes Book and Motion Picture which is dedicated to the adolescent population of all nations and is hoped to some small extent to increase the joys and diminish the sorrows of marriage.

WEDDING BELLS

On Tuesday, October 23rd, the marriage was solemnized by the Rev R. B. Grobb, at All Saints' Rectory, of Myrtle Irene Schweir, and Sidney Youngs, both of this city. The young couple left for Windsor, where they will reside.

BERRY—WESTALL
The marriage was solemnized at 10 o'clock this morning, at the home bride's parents, 283 Park street, of Florence Ada, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Westall, to Douglas B. Berry, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Berry of Montreal. Rev. W. Harold Young officiated. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion in pink and white with a profusion of 'mums and ferns.

The bride wore a gown of cocoa colored canton crepe and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses and lily of the valley. The bridesmaid, Miss Isabel Westall was attired in sand colored crepe and carried sunset roses. Mr. B. Berry of Montreal acted as his brother's best man

After a dainty wedding breakfast, Mr. and Mrs. Berry left via the 11.58 train for a honeymoon in the Laurentian Mountains, after which they will reside in Montreal. The bride travelled in a wrap of dark brown, with hat and shoes to match

The bridegroom's gifts to the bride was a platinum bar pin set with diamonds to the bridesmaid a gold bar pin with three sapphires to the best man an Eversharp gold pencil.

BENJAMIN—BURRITT.
The following wedding notice from a Toronto exchange will be of interest to local readers. The bride was the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Burritt, former residents of this city:

At the Church of the Messiah, Toronto, Rev. W. R. Ramsay Armitage officiating, the marriage was solemnized of Grace Winnifred, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Burritt, and Mr. George C. Benjamin, only son of Mrs. Benjamin and the late L. Z. Benjamin, Q.C., of Montreal. The bride was in a French frock of brown Elizabeth cloth, with hat to match, and she carried a shower of ophelia roses. Miss Muriel Burritt, as her sister's bridesmaid, wore silver grey canton crepe, large black picture hat and carried Richmond roses. Mr. Herbert B. Ganton was best man. After a reception for the immediate relatives at home of the bride's parents in Rathnally Avenue, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin left on a motor trip. They will reside at 74 Stibbard Avenue, Toronto.

OBITUARY

MRS. ANNIE MARSHALL.
In the passing away last evening of Mrs. Annie Marshall, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Wm. George Graham, 308 Frederick ave., the city lost one of its oldest and most respected citizens.

Although Mrs. Marshall, who was in her 85th year, was a woman of quiet and unassuming character, she was known and loved by a large circle of friends. She was one of the old stock whose kindly and charitable qualities, whose sterling character and Christian life, endear them to all with whom they come in contact, and her death will leave a place not soon to be filled in the hearts of those who loved her.

Mrs. Marshall's husband, the late John Marshall of Smith township, predeceased her 26 years ago. She resided with her daughter, Mrs. W. G. Graham, for the past 20 years.

She leaves to mourn her loss three daughters and one son: Mrs. Wm. G. Graham of Peterboro; Mrs. E. Mitchell of Burk's Falls; Mrs. C. McCaffrey, of Omemee, and Robert of Peterboro.

The funeral will take place on Saturday, from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. W. G. Graham, 308 Frederick avenue, to the Little Lake Cemetery, at 2 p.m., Rev. A. J. Langford conducting the services.

MRS. A .E. CHAPMAN.
HASTINGS, Oct. 25.—On Monday, Oct. 24th, the many friends of the family were pained and shocked to hear of the death of Mrs. A. E. Chapman, who had been ill about three weeks.

Deceased was born in Campbellford and moved to Hastings with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Brennan, where they made their home.

She was a consistent member of the Roman Catholic church and was always ready to assist in any good work.

She was a quiet, unassuming woman, devoted to her husband and children, and highly esteemed by all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance.

She leaves to mourn her loss, besides her sorrowing husband, one daughter, Miss Helen and two sons, W. H. Chapman, of Hastings, and J. R Chapman, of Keene.

ROBERT WEAVER.
The death occurred yesterday at 6 o'clock of Robert Weaver, aged 51 years, after a short illness from pneumonia. He was employed by J. E. A. Fitzgerald for the last eleven years. He leaves to mourn his loss a sorrowing wife and eight children, two boys and six girls—Mrs. D. Lane, Mrs. Jas. Edwards, Mrs. Olie Taylor, Lila, Gwen, and Violet, at home, and Lorne and John, all of this city; also a sorrowing father, Thomas Weaver.

MURILLA FREEBURN.
The death occurred this afternoon at 1 o'clock of Murilla Freeburn, wife of John E. Hamblin, 254 Munro Ave., after a lingering illness. She was born in Smith Township 58 years ago. The deceased was a faithful member of the Mark Street Methodist Church, and also an active worker of the Ladies' Aid and W. M. S. while her health permitted.

There are left to mourn her loss her husband, J. E. Hamblin; four sons: Ernest W. and Percy C. of Toronto, Walter S. and Herbert E. of this city; four daughters: Mrs. W. H. Bolton of this city, Mrs. R. S. Huston of Otonabee, Ruby and Lillian at home; three brothers: Vernan of Montreal, Melville of Hamilton, and William of this city; two sisters, Mrs. C. H. Chapman of Toronto and Mrs. M. C. McIlwain of this city.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, 254 Munro Avenue, on Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Rev. R. Bamforth will officiate.

RUM RUNNING IS BEFORE MEETING

All Aspects of Problem to Come before Conference

LONDON, Oct. 25. —(Canadian Press.)—Rum running in the United States' territorial waters and treaty-making rights of the British Dominions came before the Export committee of the Imperial Conference this morning.

It is understood that Great Britain's modified attitude, more favorable to acceptance of proposals for right of search up to the twelve mile limit, still holds. No decision either way, however, will be made until all aspects of the problem come before the full Imperial Conference next week.

In connection with treaty making powers of the British Dominions it is believed visiting Premiers will uphold Canada's right in concluding recent fisheries treaty with the United States.

ANNUAL MEETING OF ASSOCIATION

The annual meeting of the Women's Art Association was held yesterday afternoon in the studio at the Conservatory of Music, when reports of the year's activities were presented by Mrs. J. B. Mann, recording secretary, Mrs L. J. Petit, convenor of the Art and Literature section, Mrs. W. McKee Bingham for the Dramatic section, Mrs R. Gliddon, convenor of Music and Lectures ,and Mrs. G. Porter, treasurer. The reports in every instance showed an interesting and worth-while season's work.

Officers for the ensuing year were elcted as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. McKay, of Toronto. Honorary vice-presidents, Mrs, A. E. Sherwood and Miss F. Hatton. President, Mrs. F. C. Neal. 1st vice-president, Mrs. V. Eastwood; 2nd vice-president, Mrs R. Gliddon; 3rd vice-president, Mrs. G. N .Gordon; 4th vice-president, Mrs. W. R. Widdiss; recording secretary, Miss G Reinhardt; corresponding secretary, Mrs. B. L. Barnes; treasurer, Mrs. G. Porter; assistant treasurer, Mrs. W. Sangster. Convenors of committees: Dramatic, Mrs. W. McKee Bingham; Music and Lectures, Mrs. R. Gliddon; Press, Miss Geraldine Glover; Refreshments, Mrs. H. Morphet and Mrs. E. W. Borbridge; Art and Literature, not yet appointed; Exhibition, Miss Cameron Edwards; Needlework, Mrs. W. H. Pretty, Archivist, Mrs. J. B .Mann; Telephone, Mrs. W. H. Pretty; Members' Representatives: Mesdames Moir, Waddell, Cruikshank, Langley, Hodgson, Fowler, McIntosh, Mowat, Munro, Petit, and Miss M. Rush. Representatives to Local Council of Women: Mesdames Hodgson and Bentley and Miss M. Rush.

Year's Work.
The review of the work of the society for the past year, presented by the recording secretary, showed a year of more than ordinary activity, with proportionate increase in interest and membership.

The report referred to the exhibit of water colors by Miss Katherine E. Wallis, the series of musical events arranged by Mrs .Gliddon, including an enjoyable Christmas Twilight Musicale, a talk on Robert Burns by Rev. A. MacKenzie, a review of his travels in the Old World, by Rev. R. B. Grobb, an evening concert by the Hambourg trio, and an afternoon talk by Mrs. Jean Blewett.

The efforts made by Mrs. Bingham, "who gave unstintingly of her time and effort" in the work of the Dramatic section, received special mention ,and the study of Canadian Literature, led by Mrs. L. J. Petit, was commended in high terms.

Mrs. W. H .Pretty, in the Art Needlework class, reported the purchase of a new loom for weaving, and Mrs. W. R. Widdiss was praised for her carrying out of tea arrangements during the season.

The report concluded with the following paragraph:

"During the year, our association has been greatly assisted and inspired by the presence and counsel of Miss Katherine Wallis, and we regret that she has had to leave us. We are glad to report that the cast of "Mercury" is now in the possession of the Art Association, and that Miss Wallis before leaving, very kindly spent a good deal of time in repairing and bronzing it. A new pedestal is required to complete it.

"At the conclusion of the season's activities in the spring, the executive spent a very pleasant day at the summer home of the president, Mrs. F. C. Neal."

Yesterday afternoon's meeting concluded with a social hour, during which tea was served, Mrs. R. Gliddon and Mrs T. Cruikshank acting as hostesses Vocal solos were given by Mrs. W. R. Widdis and Miss Dorothy Engel, and Miss Garrette gave an instrumental selection.

Today's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, Oct .25.—(United Press:)—Price changes in the early dealings in the stock market were insignificant in individual stocks affected by special developments. Famous players hardened slightly in response to the statement issued by company officials denying that they no longer owned appreciable holdings of the common stock.

Corn Products advanced fractionally on the news of the re-opening of its Edgewater, N.J. plant, which had been forced to suspend operations owing to the drouth in New Jersey.

Bethlehem Steel showed a small gain at 47 1-4, reflecting the unexpectedly small falling off in earnings set forth in the report for the third quarter.

Opening prices: Studebaker 96 5-8, off 3-8; U.S. Rubber 33 1-4, up 1-8; U. S. Steel 88, off 1-2; Bethlehem Steel 47 1-4, up 1-8; Congoleum 145 1-2, up 5-8; Baldwin 117, off 1-2; Famous Players 64 3-4, off 1-4; Northern Pacific 50 3-4, off 1-8; Corn Products 124 5-8, up 1-4; American Sugar 5 1-2, off 1-4.

Society

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the G. W. V. A. held their regular meeting Tuesday evening, when various items of interest to the society were discussed. The ladies decided to assist in the Veterans' Hallowe'en dance, and made arrangements for the holding of a card party on November 2nd. It was also decided to take advantage of the offer of The Designer magazine, to contribute $20 toward the society's funds if 50 subscriptions were secured for the publication. Anyone wishing to help the society in this way by taking a subscription to the magazine is requested to telephone Mrs. R. J. Devey or Mrs. Joseph Welsh.

Mrs. Ernie Brownscombe and son Douglas, of Sharbot Lake, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Brownscombe, Murray Street.

Mr. J. R. Nesbitt, who has been acting accountant at the Dominion Bank here, has been transferred to the St. Thomas branch and leaves for his new home on Saturday. Mr. Nesbitt will be succeeded by Mr. S. R. Thompson from Otilila.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Edmonds and daughter Peggie, 191 Sherbrooke Street, returned home last night, after a pleasant two weeks' vacation in Detroit. Mr. Edmonds met many of his former office staff on the C.P.R. there, and recounted old experiences and good times.

Mrs. W. A. Sanderson is spending the winter in Georgia with her daughter, Mrs. (Dr.) Mattis.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas B. Berry of Montreal, are in the city to-day for the Berry-Westall wedding.

Mrs. Walter Hughes and Mrs. A. E. IN MEMORIAM.
In loving remembrance of our dear mother, Mrs. S. Haines, Hall's Bridge, who departed this life, Oct. 25, 1922.
Each day brings back to memory,
Of our loved mother gone to rest;
And we who think of her the most,
Are those who love her best.

With her beautiful hands toil-worn,
Folded across her breast,
When the Master sees them,
He shall give her the promised rest.

But at last in the autumn,
Her tired and weary feet,
Have climbed that hill to heaven,
And entered the golden street.

GERMANY WILL ACCEPT OFFER FROM AMERICA

All Nations Will Now Get Together in a Round Table Conference.

A FOOD SHORTAGE

By Carl D. Groat, United Press Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN, Oct. 26. — America's offer to participate in an impartial inquiry into Germany's capacity to pay reparations has been met by a fresh declaration from Chancellor Stresemann that Germany will abide by the results of such an examination.

The Chancellor, in a speech at Hagen reiterated the willingness of his Government to submit the whole question of Germany's capacity to examination by an impartial commission as suggested by Secretary Hughes in his New Haven address. At the same time Stresemann warned France what she can expect if she rejects the United States offer.

"We already have offered more than we can fulfill," the Chancellor asserted and we cannot stand dictatoral treatment much longer."

Stresemanns speech strongly appealing to Nationalistic settlement had a steadying effect on the country. It las accompanied by strong action in Berlin where Gen. Van Horn military dictator for the Berlin area preemptorily forbade the currency printers to carry out the strike they announced yesterday. The Government demanded printing of still more notes to meet the needs of the country for currency.

It was planned to print three hundred quadrillions of marks a week in notes of huge demoninations.

The bread situation in the capital was somewhat improved today but the shortage of potatoes was serious.. Barefoot beggars were seen haunting the residential districts where heavy iron bars and netting have been put on many doors and windows to guard against petty thievery.

Up to France.

London reports the salvation of Europe has been checked squarely up to France, a majority of the British press and public alike believed to-day. Following the exchange of telegrams between Foreign Minister Curzon and Secretary Hughes, in which the United States agreed to participate in an international economic conference provided all the European allies chiefly concerned in German reparations are represented, opinion here considered the fate of Europe as depending on the attitude of Premier Poincare.

Eleventh Hour Effort.

The attention of the whole of Europe was centred on Paris as the first news of the negotiations for the conference was made public.

A majority of the British press agreed this eleventh hour effort for a settlement is absolutely vital if Europe is to be salvaged from desperation.

"We hope and earnestly believe that France will accept the invitation for a conference," the Daily News asserted to-day.

"France is now faced with the prospect of defeat with no reparations and no security," the newspaper said, "for a disintegrated Germany cannot pay."

"We believe the turning point in this long tragic history finally has been reached," the newspaper concluded.

Heed the Appeal.

The Daily Express advised Premier Poincare to heed the appeal of Prime Minister Baldwin in his speech at Plymouth last night, in which the British Prime Minister warned France to consider, "once, twice and thrice" before rejecting the invitation for a world conference with American participation.

"And if the conference is to be more than a coroner's inquest it must assemble immediately," this newspaper asserted.

The Daily Mail declared that America's response to Great Britain's suggestion "is cautious, vague and cold." This newspaper denied that France is leading Europe to disaster, declaring that Italy is prosperous and that a German collapse will not necessarily mean the collapse of all Europe."

The Chronicle regretted that American action "had been delayed so long."

KIWANIS CLUB HEAR ADDRESS ON MARKETING

How the Farmers of This And Other Countries Are Putting Themselves On Better Footing.

MOVEMENT SPREADS

That the farmers of the country have made more rapid progress with in the last five years than they did for many years previous was one of the important statements made at to days Kiwanis Club luncheon by Mr. H. B. Cowan of the Rural Publishing Company. Mr. Cowan was the speaker of the day and his remarks were based on "the new revolution in agriculture.' Kiwanian John Meyers presided and any person who deserved a fine was taken care of by Kiwanian Walter Kidd. Today's guests included Mr. T. Dutton of this city, Mr. William Horsey of Toronto Mr. R. R. Richley of Port Hope and Colonel Mignault of Montreal.

President J. A. McKone reported that the Kiwanis Club Musical Revue is making rapid strides towards completion and its presentation in Peterboro on November 20th and 21st should be one of the musical treats of the season. Rehearsals are held several nights each week with good results.

On phase of the Kiwanis Club movement is represented in an endeavor to foster better relations between the city and country. For this reason the remarks of Mr. Cowan were very timely and informative at a time when much is heard of cooperative marketing and pools of all kinds.

Mr. Cowan said he has been connected with the agricultural industry for twenty-five years and for a long time he concluded that the farmers were asleep. However in the five years they have more than made up for lost time with beneficial results to themselves and the community in general. The speaker said he was often inclined to think the farmers were better posted than the city man. They take a daily newspaper and know the city viewpoint, but in many cases the city man is not familiar with the viewpoint of the farmer. Speaking of cooperative marketing, Mr. Cowan said the farmers to-day were making rapid strides in the wake of the raisin, orange, and tobacco growers of the south Next year, the speaker, anticipated the formation of wheat pools in the western provinces on a similar scale. This would result in better prices for the farmers and every body would share in the beneficial results that would follow. In the past cooperative marketing had broken down because the farmer's failed to stick together when rival companies entered the field with higher prices. In Denmark the farmers are bound by a legal agreement to sell to the cooperative concerns. This agreement is binding in the courts.

In British Columbia the fruit men have signed contracts to sell on a cooperative basis and other producers are preparing to take a similar step. In Ontario sixty per cent of the honey producers sell their product through a cooperative organization. Reference was also made to the cooperative dairy movement which has its headquarters in Peterborough. In New Zealand a plan has been submitted to the legislature which if carried will link up the dairy interests of that country and bring them into direct competition with Canada. We are waching this, said Mr. Cowan and planning to off set the effect.

TO HONOR A KNOWN HERO OF WORLD WAR

ROME, Ga. (United Press)—A memorial in honor of Charles Graves America's "known hero" of the World War, will be unveiled here Armistice Day.

The body of Graves, which has lain in Antioch Cemetery for months has been moved to Myrtle Hill Cemetery in preparation for the ceremony. The body now lies within a stone's throw of where Mrs. Woodrow Wilson is buried.

A representative of General Pershing, Major General David Shanks, commanding general of the fourth corps area, and other high army officers, together with Congressmen and State officials of Georgia and Tennessee will be present at the unveiling of the memorial.

Makes Mars Mad!

Following the destruction of all of Germany's big guns under terms of the reparations treaty, allied forces are now putting "finishing touches" on what was once the Krupp proving grounds at Essen. Photo shows some neat work on Big Bertha turrets, lying amid their shelled and dynamited ruins.

GENERAL ELECTRIC CO. APPROVES PURCHASING CONTROL OF THE C.G.E.

This Means An Advantage Not Only To Shareholders of Canadian Concern, But Also To The Country—Expansion Promised

NEW YORK, October 26 (Special to The Examiner). — The directors of the General Electric Company to-day approved the proposal to purchase the control of the Canadian General Electric Company already had approved the plan.

The offer made to the shareholders of the Canadian General Electric by the American General Electric interests with a view to obtaining the control of the former, is $62.50 cash, New York funds, and one $50.00 share of 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock of the Canadian Company in exchange for their common stock.

If the plan is acceptable to a sufficient number of shareholders to warrant the execution of the plan, the present $2,000.000 preferred stock outstanding will be called in at 115.

In its place, common stock to the same amount will be issued to the American corporation at the same price.

Convert Common.

The present common stock of the Canadan General Electric will be converted as the holders elect, into one $50.00 share of preferred and one $50.00 share of common. Stock not accepting conversion remains unchanged, excepting that the change into $50.00 share holds.

The offer depends upon a sufficient number of acceptances and the necessary voting support to carry out the plan, and holds good until 15th December.

Expanson of Enterprise.

W. G. Ross, one of the local directors of the Canadian General Electric Company, who attended Wednesday's meeting in Toronto, when the offer was approved by the Board, stated in that connection, "the sale of the control of the company will be af advantage not only to the shareholders, but to the country. It means an expansion of the enterprise in Canada, and will create an export business which hitherto has been barred under the arrangement between the American and the Canadian companies."

Take 2 General Electric

The letter addressed to the shareholders of the Canadian Company by A. E. Dyment, the President, reads:

Your directors have for some months had under consideration the desirability of a closer relationship between your company and the General Electric Company, a corporation of the State of New York, with which your company has from its formation maintained important contractual relations, such closer relationships to be based upon the entry by the American corporation into your company as a controlling shareholder.

Effective Co-operation.

Such a community of ownership will result in a very much more intimate and effective ro-operation between the organization of the two companies than can be obtained under the present contractual relationship and in the opinion of your directors after careful study of the requirements of your company's business, particularly with reference to technical progress, manufacturing efficiency and commercial standing, is essential to the maintenance by your company of a foremost position in its field of activity. The experience of the two companies over a long period have indicated clearly the importance of bringing about such closer relationship and efforts have been made in that direction on different occasions during the past ten years, but until now no plan has been devised which appeared practical from the standpoint of both comapnies.

Not Increase Capital.

As it is not desired to increase at present the outstanding capital stock of your company, it is necessary, in order that American corporation may procure the requisite interest in your company that it should acquire some part of their stock from the present shareholders and your directors as a result of negotiations of some duration aranged for an offer from the American corporation to the common shareholders of your company on terms which must be regarded as very advantageous.

In exchange for each fully paid $100 share of the present common stock of your company, the American corporation offers the sum of $62.50 in cash New York funds and one fully paid $50 share of an open issue of new preference stock of your company bearing a cumulative preferential dividend of seven per cent. per annum, having a fixed preferential claim to repayment of capital in the extent of a winding up retirable at any time at a premium of fifteen per cent. and having voting power only when and so long as dividends have fallen into arrears and such arrearages of unpaid dividends have not subsequently been paid up to date.

Rearrange Securities.

On the acceptance of this offer by a sufficient number of shareholders, steps will be taken to rearrange the capital securities of your company in such a manner as to permit of the due completion of the transaction. The present preference stock of your company will be retired at a premium of fifteen per cent., such being the right of your company under the terms of its issue. The stock so retired will be replaced by the issue to the American corporation at a premium of fifteen per cent of an equal par value of the common stock of your company, thus retaining unchanged the present condition of your company as regards cash, as

NO FUND FROM WHICH TO PAY POLICE FORCE AFTER NOV. FIFTEENTH

Council's Appropriation Of $25,000 For Year will Then Have Been Exhausted, And Finance Minister Phelan Declares He Will Sign No More Pay Cheques.

TEST OF AUTHORITY

Just who has actual control over police expenditures—Council or the Police Commission—is an issue again looming on the horizon of civic affairs for November, as the pay sheets for the fifteenth of that month will have more than exhausted the department's appropriation of $25,000 for 1923, and Council's finance minister, Ald. Phelan, declares he'll sign no more police pay cheques in such circumstances.

Ald. Phelan's attitude seemed to find support with his brother aldermen present at last night's council meeting, excepting, perhaps, Ald. Fife, who thinks that a little diplomacy at the beginning of the year might have brought Police Commissioners and Council together in mutual agreement on the question of police department costs.

Would Retrench

Imbued with a desire for retrenchment early in 1923, the then new council clipped $3,000 from off the Police Commissioners' estimates of $28,000, requesting in effect that the latter cut their cloth to suit that appropriation of $25,000 for this year.

But the Commissioners contended that to efficiently police this city the full amounts of their estimates must be forthcoming, and on those lines the department has since been conducted.

And so, the interesting situation has developed that for the last six weeks of this year, from the standpoint of police department appropriation by council, there'll be no funds with which to pay this city's guardians of the peace, thus impelling a test of power and authority between council and commissioners regarding the cost for maintenance of the police force.

Other municipalities besides Peterborough have sought from Legislature control of police maintenance, but, as Ald. Halloway pointed out last night, former Attorney-General Raney claimed municipal councils have control inasmuch as they have authority to cut the commissioners' estimates. However, city solicitor Wearing holds that Mr. Raney's opinion is wrong, although "I may be wrong," he qualified. And he conveyed the impression that the whole situation is shrouded in more or less uncertainty.

Submits Figures

Ald. Phelan submitted to council his memo of expenditures for the police department showing payment to date of $23,660.75, leaving a balance of council's $25,000 appropriation amounting to but $1,339.25. Then the half month's pay list alone due October 31 will eat up $974.19, leaving a balance of $365.06; but adding to this latter sum $509.19 for accounts of 1922 paid this year swells the balance in hand to $874.25 with which to carry on until the end of the year. With the pay sheet due on November 15 the department's total expenditure to that date will exceed by some $100 our appropriation, of $25,000, leaving unprovided for six weeks' pay for the police, to say nothing of other expenditures that may crop up, stated Ald. Phelan, between now and the year's end. And where is the money to come from? he asked of the city solicitor.

Will Stand Pat

Ald. Phelan reiterated that he would sign no more cheques after the $25,000 appropriation is exhausted, and he reminded council that he was simply standing pat by council's decision at the beginning of the year. "The Commissioners made no effort to reduce expenditures as requested," he went on to say, "unless it be not to replace Adjutant Buntin when he resigned. On the contrary, $824 was expended alone on repairing the police car." Not estimating any other charges for police protection from November 15 to December 31 but those for the force's salaries, Ald. Phelan pointed out that police protection would cost the city close on $28,000 (the Commissioners' estimates), nearly $3,000 more than council's appropriation.

A Grave Mistake

Ald. Fife contended that Council made a grave mistake by rescinding the committee appointed to meet the

THE WEATHER.

The recent rainfall totalled .94, or nearly an inch. It came down gently and was quickly absorbed by the parched earth. This was the heaviest rain we have had since the first week in June, and since that date there has been a decided shortage in the rainfall in this section. The total for this month to date is 1.53.—W.P.

Paid $714,000 for Provincial Highways in Carlton County

OTTAWA, Oct. 26.—(Canadian Press). — It cost the Province of Ontario $714,000 to construct Provincial highways in the County of Carleton during 1922. This includes only the mileage of the Ottawa-Montreal, Ottawa - Prescott, Ottawa-Kingston and Ottawa - Pembroke highways in Carleton, and does not include amounts paid by the Province towards the construction of Provincial county, county or suburban roads in the county.

GAVE ADDRESS TO ENGINEERS

Interesting Paper on Arc Welding Before Local Engineers.

An interesting technical paper dealing with Arc welding was presented last night at the meeting of the Peterboro Branch of the Engineering Institute by J. B. Minns, B.Sc. Mr. Minns is in the apparatus sales department of Canadian General Electric Company, Toronto, and was able to explain in detail the various types of equipment built for Arc welding by his company. Numerous slides illustrated the apparatus and methods, and a film showed the Arc traversing different classes of work. The meeting was presided over by E. R. Shirley, vice-chairman.

Mr. Minns, describing some of the advantages of electrode welding, said it is the only method by which metal can be deposited overhead. Regarding the difference between carbon and metallic electrodes, the carbon is not favord as deposits are likely to be carried into the metal, and greater skill is necessary in its use. Carbon is also hotter and makes working uncomfortable for the operator, with a consequent lowering of efficiency. Metallic electrodes consist of rods up to 3-16 of an inch in diameter used with a current of 75 to 100 amperes with 50 to 30 volts.

"Some manufacturers," Mr. Minns said, "prefer a covered electrode. Where this is used the covering melts and forms a protective slag over the weld, keeping off the oxygen. It is the American practice to use the bare electrode, which is said generally to produce just as good results as flux covered electrode. The greater expense, therefore, of the latter is not justified and experienced welders think the flux unnecessary." In order to obtain good results care must be taken in the preparation of the work. No matter what the material used, a satisfactory weld cannot be made unless care is taken in preparation.

New Equipment.

Mr. Minns showed a number of slide photographs of the latest welding equipment put out by his firm. The automatic arc welder appeared to be the most important, making it possible to deposit the metal more uniformly than in hand welding. It also saves the ends of the electrode wire which are lost in hand feeding and which amount to 10 per cent. to 25 per cent. of the total consump-

RESIDENTS SAY RAIL VIBRATION IS A NUISANCE

But Such Tremors Cannot be Eliminated Ald. Meyers Holds, Adjacent To Railway Tracks,

COUNCIL IN SESSION

Residents along the Canadian National's tracks through the city are complaining to Council that with the advent of heavy locomotives and trains on this division, it is quite a job to keep pictures in position on the walls of dwellings, while one citizen emphasizes the vibration experienced from this heavy rolling stock by declaring it's sufficiently severe to almost shake one out of one's bed. And in this connection, last night, Ald. Maher proposed that the C. N. R. officials be requested to ballast their roadbed here to the depth of some fifteen inches and lay heavier rails, as they are doing on the main line.

Mayor Taylor—"I don't live far away from the C. N. R. tracks and their trains do not bother me."

Ald. Meyers while admitting that to his knowledge pictures on walls of homes near the tracks are shaken by the passing of trains, still in his opinion neither ballasting nor heavier rails would eliminate the vibration complained of.

Ald. Fife pointed out that the Company have at Council's request, made considerable improvement regarding whistling of locomotives, and he took exception to more letter writing on this new complaint and nagging about vibration which probably cannot be avoided.

However, on motion by Ald. Maher and Turner, the Company will be written that Council appreciates marked improvement regarding the noise by locomotives heretofore complained of, and requesting that the roadbed in this city be ballasted as suggested by Ald. Maher, and heavier rails laid.

Road Improvement

Property owners on Weller street asked that road conditions be improved to prevent flooding of their properties by surface water after heavy rains and each spring. This went to the Board of Works.

Extend Garbage Area

A petition from property owners in North City asking to be included in the garbage collection area next year was sent to the Property Committee.

Notice of Suit

A summons was to hand inviting Council to defend suit by George T. Evans to collect $100 damages to his car sustained when the Sanitary Ice Co.'s truck collided with it on Englebourne Avenue last summer.

The Ontario Safety League advised Council that cost for surveying the river front with a view to prevention of drowning accidents would approximate $25.

Bought a Mixer

On motion by Ald. Stocker and Meyers Council endorsed the Board of Works' puchase from Joseph Grady of his cement mixer, providing the City Solicitor reports machine to be free

BIG ELEPHANT IGNORED ORDERS BY WIRELESS

LONDON, Oct. 25— (United Press).—Elephants are less amenable to wireless control than are battleships and airplanes.

When Syed Ali, mahout and best friend of Jumbo, of the Regent's Park Zoo, tried to make his hefty charge do his stuff by wirelessed commands, the pacyderm wasn't sufficiently interested even to smash up the receiving set.

A herd of wireless-controlled elephants would comprise as powerful a tactical arm in India or Africa as did European tanks in the late war.

Mahouts could drive their herds over an army of spear-armed enemies with ease and safety from secluded broadcasting stations.

Hence the recent test on Jumbo was of more than mere scientific interest.

Jumbo was lured to the horn of the receiver by an armload of sugar buns.

While his master's voice came out of the set in the accustomed accents of authority, Jumbo continued to munch buns, When the armload was exhausted the big beast moved majectically away.

The experiment will not be repeated. The strategy of warfare in India and Africa will remain unchanged.

U.S. Willing to Participate in Conference on Reparations

CURZON MAKES PUBLIC EMPIRE'S INVITATION FOR WASHINGTON'S AID

Message on October 12 Followed President Coolidge's First Public Statement on the European Situation — Presented in the Name of the British Empire.

HUGHES ACCEPTS.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press).—The British Empire acting as a unit through the British Foreign Office extended a formal invitation to the Washington Government to co-operate in an attempt to settle the reparations difficulties.

Correspondence made public tonight by the Foreign Office showed that the invitation was sent on October 12 following the first public statement by President Coolidge on the situation in Europe.

The invitation went forward through the British Charge d'Affaires at Washington, "in the name of the whole British Empire as represented at the Imperial Conference."

The news came almost as a complete surprise to the public and newspapers.

The secret had been well kept, especially considering the presence in London of all the Empire representatives, who must have been aware of the move, which undoubtedly was discussed in the confidential debates in the Imperial Conference on Foreign Affairs.

Lord Curzon's request is for the participation of the U. S., in any form, either official or unofficial, or, alternatively, to participation in an inquiry by a special commission appointed bp the reparation commission, whether the government's move was prompted by General Smuts, or whether General Smuts' famous speech, was intended to lend weight to the government's move, is not known, but it will be noted that General Smuts' proposal was for a conference of all the powers, including the neutrals, not merely those interested in reparations.

In his reply to Lord Curzon, Secretary Hughes indicates that the United States is willing to take part in an economic conference, in which the European allies chiefly concerned in German reparations participate for the purpose of ascertaining Germanp's capacity to pay and an appropriate plan for payment. He emphasizes three points, however, first that while the United States has no desire to see Germany relieved of her responsibility for just obligations, regard must be had for German's capacity to pay and for the fundamental conditions of German's rehabilitation; second, that such conference should be advisory; and third, that the question of the inter-allied debt is entirely separate from the question of reparations.

Hope Stirs Faintly.

No official opinion could be gleaned at the foreign office to-night but the general view seems to be that there is not a sufficient advance in Secretary Hughes' attitude, as revealed by the corespondence, ts to warrant a very strong hope that the suggested conference will materialize.

It is feared that France will still opose any such suggestion more especially as Mr. Hughes so firmly maintains the position that the question of the inter-allied debt must be treated separately from that of reparations, confirming that the new president has no more intention than his predecessor of forgiving the allied debts.

The publication of the correspondence was clearly planned to synchronize with Premier Baldwin's statement of his government's policy as regards the reparations question, and to attract some of the lightning likely to strike the government on the realization that, apart from this new policy to secure United States' cooperation, the British Government's policy is still that of waiting for France to move.

Curzon's Telegram.

The telegram from Marquis Curzon, secretary for foreign affairs, to the British Charge d'Affaires, at Washington, On October 22, says:

"The information which reaches the United States will have acquainted the United States government with the extremely critical economic position that has arisen in Europe owing to the failure to find any solution for the reparations problem which daily becomes more acute as the financial and political condition of Germany grows worse.

Krupp Released For Seven Days

UNIONISTS ASK FOR REFORM OF UPPER CHAMBER

Would Abolish Some Hereditary Seats and Make House of Lords More Representative.

ANTICIPATE LABOR.

PLYMOUTH, Eng. Oct. 25.—(Unionist)—A resolution asking the government to proceed immediately with the reform of the House of Lords was unanimously adopted today at the National Unionist Conference at which some 1,200 delegates were present.

While the party put forward no definite plan for the proposed reform, many ideas have been advanced previously for making the House of Lords more representative. One of thes, ideas was for abolishing some of the hereditary seats in the Upper Chamber and the election of members to take them who represent various interests in the country Many members of the Unionist Party are anxious to get through a reform in the upper house as quickly as possible in order that they may have material to hold their own against the laborites.

Heated debate preceded the adoption of the resolution, Lady Astor supported the motion so candidly that severa ties she was interrupted. She declared that one of the things the country was "up against' was that so many members of the House of Lords thought they had a hereditary right to legislate. This evoked loud cries of "No.' from some of the other delegates.

GRAIN TRAFFIC REMAINS HEAVY

On Both C. N. R. and C. P. R. Lines Through Peterboro.

LINDSAY, Oct. 26.—The grain rush over the C.P.R. and C.N.R. from the lake ports still keeps up. The rush from the head of the lakes to the terminals has been unprecedented. Millions of bushels have been shot from the elevators into boats that started on their way down the lakes, and while a larger quantity than usual has been put through the American port at Buffalo records show that during the past year Georgian Bay ports have been maintaining their strong position in the Canadian trade, according to the latest figures showing the gross receipts of grain shipped during the period August 1, 1923, to July 31, 1923 from Twin Cities at the head of the lake.

For the Canadian ports, Port McNicholl comes second with 25,131,226 bushels, and Midland a close third, with 22,816,608 bushels All of this grain finds an outlet through Lindsay and Peterboro.

About 40 per cent of the entire Canadian grain shipments are made through Buffalo elevators and thence to the Atlantic seaboard by American railroads. The situation is one of the most striking arguments in favor of increased elevator capacity at both Midland and Port McNicholl and increased facilities for handling the business over the C.P.R. and C.N.R.

This year will doubtless show a decided improvement in the amount of grain handled via Midland and Port McNicholl to Montreal. The C. N.R. are providing larger quantities of modern cars, and if Montreal can take care of the traffic there will be a record season to report this year.

British Premier Defends Government's Policy

"GOD'S ARMY IS ON THE MARCH" AFFIRMS SMUTS

World Wide Public Opinion Is Arraying Its Imponderable Force Against Great Armies.

DEFENDS LEAGUE.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—General Jan C. Smuts the South African premier, to-night delivered another speech in which he reinforced his previously plain-spoken sentiments on the alleged effect the Franco-Belgian policy was having on the situation in Europe. The occasion of the speech was a dinner of the League of Nations union given in honor of the visiting overseas premiers.

Alluding to the status of the League of Nations, Gen. Smuts justified its avoidance of big international disputes on the ground that it was a small city and there were a number of Herods waiting to destroy it. He advocated waiting until the League had reached adult stature and representel all nations, and not merely a majority of them.

History's Fearful Pace

"Hisory is moving a a fearful pace' said the premier, "and very soon the League may be the only rallying point left for a distracted world, and even its enemies may come to welcome its intervention."

With reference to the dispute between Greece and Italy, General Smuts said some very "hasty and unpleasant work had been done, but fortunately not by the League of Nations.

Depicting what he termed the lamentable conditions in Europe the South African premier declared that, despite the gloom, he still believed elementary human feelings and sympathies eventually would come into play. A great transformation al ready had begun.

Opinion Forming

"While many think along the old linesof great continental armies and combinations of force,' the premier continued "world wide public opinion is being formed, which is sapping and mining their whole position. Against armies of force there is being mobilized a still greater army of the imponderables, whose influence always is decisive in the end. God's army is on the march."

General Smuts predicted that Fascism, like Bolshevism would fail and pass away and give way to the ideals of the League of Nations.

Endorsed at Home

CAPE TOWN, South Afria, Oct 25.— (Canadian Press Cable via Reuters)—Premier Smuts' speech in London on the Ruhr situation is endorsed by the South African press and the papers declare that Smuts has given a clear lead on the question. Volksom says Premier Smuts has spoken very plain words and every Africander will agree with his remarks on France's attitude. This paper expresses pleasure particularly at Smuts' condemnation of France's use of black troops against Germany and says that behind Premier Smuts' words stands the British Empire.

Action Against Bank For Employees' Fault.

SHERBROOKE, Que., Oct 25.—A civil action is being instituted by the Paton Mfg. Co. of this city against the Canadian Bank of Commerce for the recovery of a sum of about $20,000 involved in a shortage of accounts by an employee of the company. It is claimed that the employes of the bank were at fault in not following instructions relative to the cashing or depositing of cheques as between the company and its subsidiary water-power company.

BALDWIN APPEALS TO FRANCE FOR APPROVAL OF ALLIED CONFERENCE

Addresses Poincare As the Incarnation of the Republic, and Urges Him to Consider Interests of the World Before Refusing to Agree.

CABINET IS UNITED.

PLYMOUTH, Eng., Oct. 25. —(Canadian Press).—The British Prime Minister, speaking here tonight before the 5,000 delegates of the Conservative party convention, sounded a warning to the French Premier, M. Poincare, to consider "for himself, for his nation, for us and for the world" thrice before he refused the invitation extended by the British Government to the Allies to accept United States participation in a conference for a settlement of the German reparations question.

Declaring that the position was grave, he considered it inconceivable that anyone could refuse to take advantage of such an opportunity.

Dissatisfaction over the present fortunes of the country, which generally centres on the Government in pwer has been growing, and the demand to know what the Government purposed to do about the continental muddle and domestic troubles, principally unemployment and the distress of farmers, had become clamorous.

How far Mr. Baldwin satisfied them remains to be seen; for much of the ninety minutes he gave to a carefully prepared oration he devoted to generalities. The most important news he gave was concerning the Government's renewed attempt to form a conference with the United States participating, to consider Germany's finances, coupled with the declaration that his Cabinet has a definite policy thereon.

Will Build Cruisers

There were two or three items of news one of them being that the government intends to lay down cruisers as one of its measures for the relief of unemployment. That the cabinet is working out relief for agriculture was as much information as the premier gave the farmers but he restated the government's intention to spend £50,000,000 on work to help the unemployed, most through local authorities.

The premier brushed aside for the time all sweeping plans for imperial preference as far as they embrace a policy of protection by declaring the government still was bound by his pledge that there would be no fundamental changes in the fiscal policy. During his address the premier also sought so drive a decisive nail in the coffin of the rumor that he was flirting with the idea of money inflation.

Sympathy for Law

The prime minister began by saying that all thoughts would go out to the leader Andrew Bonar Law, who had sacrificed himself for the cause. He then plunged into the question of Germany.

"We have been accused of having no policy," he said, "that all depends on what the people mean by the word policy. We have a definite policy as regards debts, reparation and guarantees the security of our allies and the fulfillment by Germany of her obligations.

"We know what our policy is. The statesmen on the continent know it, too. But higher than the need of a definite policy is the need of securing a common action and carrying that policy into effect."

Referring to a Punch cartoon, picturing him drifting in an airplane, he said: "We are not drifting, but looking for a safe place to land. All Europe is drifting in an airplane, and if they do not find a safe place to land and find it soon, they will all crash."

Dealing with the question of why the government did not follow up its note August 11 to France, Mr. Baldwin explained tht hardly had the reply to that note been received when it became obvious that the passive resistance of Germany was

1500 Men Out of Work in Windsor

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 25.—Efforts to relieve the unemployment situation here where, according to one member of the finance committee of the council, more than 1,500 men are out of work, may lead to orders by the council for commencing several municipal projects within the next two weeks. Construction of an eight-room addition to Assumption street Public school, a sewage system in the south-eastern district, and other projects are under consideration by the committee, which is to meet on Friday with a committee from the Trades and Labor Council to discuss relief measures.

Low Not Worried About Shipment of Grain.

REGINA, Oct. 25. —Hon. T .A. Low, Federal Minister of Trade and Commerce, apparently does not take the deadlock existing in the conference between Cleveland ship-owners and representatives of the Canadian Grain Comkmission as serious.

At the conclusion of his address at the Canadian Club to-day he was handed a despatch from Cleveland stating that a settlement had not been reached at the fourth meeting.

"What is that?" he asked, reaching for the despatch. "Oh, it's from Cleveland."

He handed the report back, chuckled and turned away.

THE Y.W.C.A. APPEAL.

The objective aimed at is so small and the public's sense of obligation to the Young Women's Christian Association is so great that the success of the financial campaign which starts next Monday would seem to be assured.

The Y.W.C.A. is asking the citizens of Peterborough to assist it to the extent of $1,500.

That is a very small return for the community service rendered by the institution.

To many girls whose homes are not located in Peterborough the Y.W.C.A. represents a safe, comfortable home.

To other girls whose homes are here it represents a rallying place where health is built up and where the influences are all for the moral betterment of those who take advantage of the opportunities offered by the splendid building.

If it were only for the number of girls who have learned the most useful art of swimming in the Y.W.C.A. pool, the city would stand indebted to the Association for a much greater amount than the small objective which next week's campaign will seek to reach.

The campaign should be a complete success in view of the very fine work that has been and is being carried on by the Y.W.C.A. in Peterborough.

THE CASE OF THE ESKIMOS.

The movement to secure a stay of execution in the case of the two Herschel Island Eskimos convicted of murder is gathering momentum and there is hope that the authorities at Ottawa will be prevailed upon to withhold the final order for the execution until communication with the Arctic is re-opened in the spring.

There is much about the case that suggests the wisdom of not being in too great a hurry to carry out the sentence.

The Eskimos, of course, must be taught to respect the law of Canada, but at the same time there is a duty upon the Government of educating them to understand that law, and to recognize that Canada stands not only for the sacredness of human life but for justice, calmly and impartially and fearlessly administered.

It may be that those on the spot know much more about the case than the rest of us can possibly ever know and that the ends of justice will be best served by the carrying out of the death sentence.

But no harm will have been done in staying the execution until the spring.

The report that a hangman accompanied the judicial party and that part of the gallows were carried along ready to be set up as soon as the sentence was passed grates upon the ears of Canadians generally.

SAFER MATCHES.

The Fire Marshals of Canada at their meeting in Winnipeg took a strong stand in favour of the more general use by the people of this country of "safety matches."

The marshals have had reason through their experience with fires in sections of Canada to know that the ordinary match so generally used here is a very prolific cause of fires.

Children get at them, mice chew them, they drop on the floor and are stepped upon, they are a constant menace as compared with the safety match which can only be ignited by striking on the box.

But the ordinary match is cheaper and hence universally used and realizing that fact the Fire Marshals have suggested to the Dominion government that the tax on the safety kind should be removed or at least substantially reduced, in order that people may be induced to use safety matches in preference to the better known but more dangerous match.

The Government may or may not act upon the suggestion but the action of the fire experts in discussing this matter and in considering it of sufficient importance to warrant a recommendation to Ottawa should have an educational value in bringing before the Canadian people the wisdom of using more safety matches or at least of being much more careful than they hitherto have been in the use of the every day brand.

THE MARKSON CASE.

The conviction of Bernard Markson by a jury and his sentence of two months in jail by Mr. Justice Kelly on a charge of publishing false news should contain a useful warning to a good many people who are not as careful as they should be in investigating rumours that they take a delight in circulating.

Markson went further than the ordinary individual inasmuch as he gave his distorted views of industrial conditions wide publicity by publishing them in a Labour paper circulated throughout the province.

He apparently accepted street gossip and hearsay stories as the foundation for his indictment of Peterborough and sent his article to a journal which not only made no attempt at the verification of the Markson charges but, according to Markson's own statement, added colour to the article through the headings used.

The lesson that is suggested by the case is first, of course, that there is a law against the spreading of false news and that such an offence is, in the words of the trial judge, "not to be winked at", and secondly that there is too great a tendency on the part of many people to make charges and circulate stories that have nothing but the merest gossip behind them.

It is stories of that kind that destroy reputations, that hurt public men, that cause runs on banks.

The fate of Markson will be a warning to many people to be sure of their facts before they give publicity to rumours about which they have any doubt.

TRIAL BY JURY.

The Crown Attorney of Middlesex County is reported to have asked the Provincial Attorney-General for a special court for a retrial of Sydney Murrell and "Slim" Williams, on the charge of murdering Russell Campbell in a bank hold-up, says the Hamilton Spectator. The people of the district are clamoring for action of this kind, and are also demanding "more effective action in the pursuit of William Murrell and Ernest Norton," who are wanted in connection with the murder. If this special court is not held, the new trial will not take place till the next assizes in January. That, it is felt, is an unnecessary postponement of justice.

Recent murder trials in various places have excited considerable comment. People are beginning to harbor misgivings as to whether the jury system is adequate to meet the changed conditions of the times. It is becoming increasingly difficult to secure convictions where the culprit's life is at stake, in spite of the strongest evidence of guilt Modern juries shrink from sending a fellow-creature to death, however vicious he may be. It is an indication of the finer sensibilities of our time, an evidence of increased humanity. While this does credit to the heart, it is a dangerous tendency. Conviction in a murder trial is always more or less a matter of speculation in these days.

The question of capital punishment is one for future settlement; in the meantime the law stands, a life for a life, and should be respected. Without prejudice to the merits of this particular trial in London, it must be said that of all forms of murder, the murder which accompanies robbery is the worst, from the ethical standpoint, as well as from the point of view of public safety. Armed bandits are of all classes the least deserving of sympathy. They are deadly parasites against whom society, for its common protection, must take the most drastic procedure. If sentiment is to enter into the consideration, the sentiment should be entirely on the side of the victims of their brutal lawlessness. A conscientious jury must give every consideration to the accused whose fate rests in its hands; but it has a duty—an often unpleaant, but nevertheless imperious public duty—to discharge. Justice is a stern thing, requiring virile qualities in those who are called upon to return a verdict. The responsibility is great and distasteful, but there is no escaping it, if British justice is to sustain its traditional reputation

AN AMERICAN VIEW.

Protection is again an issue in Great Britain. Certain manufacturers, alarmed at the influx of Continental goods made by labor paid in depreciated currency, are demanding a high tariff on these products. A tariff that was high enough would not only restore to them the British market, but might also subsidize them so that they could afford to compete with cheap goods in foreign markets. But what they are seeking primarily is protection in the home market.

This idea is being opposed by many who say that free trade has been a blessing to Great Britain, and will be again when the world settles down. A protective tariff which would keep out foreign goods would raise prices at home, and while it might cause more employment for a time, in the end it would cause no general increase in consumption, since it would not increase the country's total wealth.

These free traders have a far different remedy for the ills which afflict Great Britain. Many of them are ceasing to put any trust in the quick recovery of Europe and the restoration of the Continent's purchasing power which would cause a renewed demand for British goods. Even the recovery of Germany, it is being understood, would mean the competition of German goods against British in a world too poor to buy extensively.

These men have therefore sought another solution, and they have found one which may work. The Government seems to be considering it seriously, and the Dominion Premiers gathered in London are interested.

Great Britain has some 1,300,000 unemployed who, it appears, are likely to continue without jobs for a long, long time, and to be a drain on the employed, who, of course, pay the taxes which support the jobless. But the British Empire is full of work that needs doing, and the Dominions lack both labor and capital. If some way can be found to send even a large part of these unemployed to other parts of the Empire, and to start them in production, so that they will not burden, even in the beginning, the states to which they migrate, they can start almost at once to produce wealth. Thus an addition would be made to the exportable wealth of the Dominions; and if, either with or without a system of Empire preference, this wealth could be marketed in Great Britain, it would cause a demand for and a flow of British products which would help mills and factories to hum.

Such a program would be expensive at the start, but eventually the money would be recovered, whereas the amount spent by the British Government in doles to the unemployed will never come back.

Nor should the United States be forgotten as a helping factor. There are thousands of good workmen, mechanics especially, in Great Britain, whom we could put to work if they could finance their passage, and if our immigration laws would let them in. Washington knows it, and is trying to find a way of providing entrance for such men. Great Britain has a surplus which she is not likely to want again for a long time, and to take them off her hands, far from impoverishing her, adds to her resources. It is very doubtful if a protective tariff is the panacea for Britain's ills; but a redistribution of her population would tend to produce a permanent cure.—Detroit News.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

ORONTO, October 26. — A run of 15 cars of Western cattle was landed at the Union Stock Yards yesterday, and this accounted for most of the total run of 588 cattle. The other receipts were 29 calves, 384 hogs, and 189 sheep and lambs. For the four days 9,519 cattle came in, and up till Wednesday night 8,180 were sold. With last week's carry-over counted in there were over 1,600 cattle on the market yesterday morning.

Most of the Western cattle were stockers and yearlings were quoted from 3 to 3 1-4 cents. Many of these had through billing, and it is likely they will be sent from this market for sale. One load of butchers about 1,000 pounds each went to Swift's at $4.75 a cwt. There were no good butchers in the market, and commission men thought they would be fortunate if half the offering was disposed of yesterday.

Calves were not much of a market. A few good ones sold at 10 and 10 1-2 cents a pound, and heavy, coarse ones at 6 to 7 cents.

If yesterday morning's market can be taken as a criterion lambs were a quarter easier, with tops at 11 1-4 cents. The week's closing price is about at a spread from 11 to 11 1-2 cents, for the ewes and wethers, and 9 1-2 to 10 cents for bucks.

A few fat sheep sold yesterday morning at 4 to 4 1-2 cents, but the handy choice sheep are 2 cents a pound higher.

Packers admitted higher prices for hogs yesterday, and quoted $8.00 to $8.35 a cwt. f.o.b. for the thick, smooth. The larger proportion of the sales are going through at the higher price.

WINNIPEG LIVE STOCK.

WINNIPEG, October 26 (Canadian Press). — Receipts, 2,330 cattle and calves, 1,060 hogs, and 330 sheep and lambs.

Trading was more active on the cattle market yesterday morning, but bidding showed little change. Killing steers ranged from $3.00 to $4.50 ;butcher cows, choice, $3.25 to $3.50; feeder steers, $3.25 to $3.50.

Sheep and lambs firm; top lambs, $10.75 to $11.00; sheep, $5.50 to $7.50.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, October 26 (Canadian Press). — The feature of the domestic cash grain market yesterday was the weaker feeling in spot supplies of oats and prices for all grades were down 1 to 1 1-2 cents per bushel. A steady feeling prevails in the flour market. A fair trade was done in all lines of millfeed and rolled oats were steady under a fair trade demand. There was no change in the baled hay market. There was a strong undertone in the egg market. A good trade was passing in potatoes. Trade in butter was quiet. The tone of the cheese market continues weak.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKETS.

CHICAGO, October 26 (Canadian Press). — New upturns in the price of wheat yesterday resulted chiefly from reports of threatened damage by frost in Argentina and from continued gossip that the United States Government would take some action likely to enhance grain values.

The market closed unsettled, 3-8c to 7-8c net higher, with December $1.07 to $1.07 1-4 and May $1.11 5-8 to $1.11 3-4.

Corn finished 3-8c to 1 1-4 up; oats at 1-8c to 1-4c gain; and provisions varying from 5c decline to 17c advance.

Knowledge that the wheat crop in Argentina is at a critical stage of development gave special emphasis to word of unseasonable cold weather, and bullish sentiment was further increased by the fact that leading commission houses kept their patrons on the alert for Washington news, touching expected measures to help grain growers. Regardless of whether some of the proposed plans were considered wise or unwise, the immediate effect in the market here was to restrain speculative selling and to encourage buying.

For the most part, price gains that the wheat market scored, were held during the late dealings, although some reaction was witnessed. Talk of prospective calling of an economic conference to be participated in by the signatories of the Versailles Treaty, including the United States, was construed by some authorities as a bullish factor. On the other hand renewed uncertainty existed in regard to whether United States vessels would keep in hauling Canadian wheat eastward on the Great Lakes.

Some Canadian wheat was reported as being brought into the United States duty paid.

Unfavourable weather and disappointing husking returns tended to lift the corn market, and so, too, did sympathy with wheat. Oats showed a little firmness in response to the upturn in other cereals.

Provisions were quiet and displayed no significant change.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, October 26 (Canadian Press). — Cattle, 10,000; most killing classes strong to 1c higher; fed matured steers closed weak; top matured steers, $12.40; best yearlings $12.35; bulk fat cows, $3.25 to $4.50; bulls, 10c to 15c higher; bulk vealers around $10.00 to packers.

Hogs, 34,000; closed slow; steady to 10c lower; bulk good and choice 240 to 325 pound average, $7.55 to $7.65; top, $7.70.

Sheep, 20,000; killing lambs 25c higher; native lambs, $12.50 to $13.00; most Western fat lambs, $13.00 to $13.25; feeding lambs mostly $11.75 to $12.25.

FABULOUS TURNIP.

PETROLA, Ont., Oct. 25.—L. H. Mellon, living on the 11th concession of Brooke, raised a turnip this year which is something of a curiosity. The leaves were 7 feet 6 inches in diameter and the root itself was three feet in circumference around its smoothest part. It was sixteen inches long and weighed twenty-two pounds. The leaves and turnip together weighed forty-four pounds.

DRUGGIST MAY BE HEIR TO FORTUNE

Winnipeg Pole Is Asked to Show Credentials.

WINNIPEG, October 25.—Claimant to a fortune of $30,000,000, J. Ladurovitch, a Winnipeg druggist, has been called to Buffalo, N.Y., to establish his claim. The bulk of the fortune is in property, but $1,000,000 is in cash.

The druggist's grandfather, F. Bolly, a Polish citizen, died 30 years ago in Buffalo. The first information that Ladurovitch had of the immense wealth was contained in a newspaper despatch from Warsaw to a local newspaper. He started an investigation and to-day was asked to show his credentials to solicitors for the estate in Buffalo.

A sister in Poland, it is believed, is also a claimant to the money and property.

The Balance Kicked the Beam

Mutual Life Assurance means insurance at net cost. To profit-participating policyholders, it means a very low cost because Mutual Life profits reduce the amount of money that must be paid in by the policyholders as premiums.

Here is a case, based on a $10,000, twenty-payment life policy, taken out in 1903 when the policyholder was 35 years of age. At the end of the twenty-year period, he decided to accept the cash value of his policy. He accordingly surrendered the policy and received a cheque from the Mutual Life of Canada for $6,923—$1,141 more than he paid in.

In the 20 years during which the policy had been in force he had paid in as premiums a total of $5,782. That is to say, he received all the money back that he had paid in, and $1,141 besides.

He had enjoyed $10,000 of insurance protection during all these 20 years, the most active period of his business life, and in the final analysis, Mutual Insurance cost him nothing and paid him interest on his money.

If, instead of accepting the cash surrender value of his policy, this policyholder had decided to continue his insurance beyond twenty years, no further premiums would have been required and he would have received a dividend cheque for his profits annually. In addition to this, the cash value of the insurance would have continued to increase, so that the average annual cost of the insurance over the whole period would be counterbalanced more completely every year.

Blames Autos For the Immoral Youth.

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 25.—(United Press).—Automobiles are lowering the morals of school children, Chief of Police John B. Hammond charges in a letter to the board of education here.

"Boys and girls crowded together in automobiles induce familiarities that should not be tolerated and are a menace to future welfare and happiness of the American home," Hammond said.

"Immorality, dating back to high school days and induced by automobiles is the cause of most of divorces among young couples," he stated. "These cases are not confined to the ignorant—the educated, in fact, predominate."

High school "scandals" here and in other cities were cited by Hammond to support his charges.

COURT OF CLAIMS WILL HEAR CASES INVOLVING BILLIONS

Amount Involved in Arguments Now Pending Is Approximately $2,500,000, Mostly Arising Out of World War.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—(Associated Press).—The Court of Claims has reconvened with a calendar of cases for the winter term which, in the aggregate amount claimed and the novelty and importance of the issues involved, exceeds all litigation ever before pending against the Government at any one time. The amount involved in the cases now pending is approximately $2,500,000,000, mostly arising out of the World War.

Claims filed against all departments of the Government, among which are a large number that never have reached the court, include the following: the War Department, in which claimants have filed claims involving approximately $5,000,000,000; the Bureau of Internal Revenue, which has before it claims for rebates and refunds aggregating many millions; the Shipping Board, where the amount of cancellations alone amounted to over $850,000,000; claims for patent infringement estimated by the Department of Justice at $800,000,000; claims made by the railroads which as filed with the Railroad Administration amount to approximately $2,250,000,000; claims proportionately large arise from the Housing Corporation, War Risk Bureau, Food and Fuel Administrations, and there are also a large number of claims of a miscellaneous character.

The variety of the claims is almost unlimited. They include actions for requisitioning of ships and railroads, transportation of troops, ammunition and supplies, infringement of patents for high explosives, submarine boats and torpedoes, wireless and radio apparatus; contracts for anti-aircraft engines and guns, military and naval supplies and ammunition, appropriation of camp sites and naval bases, together with contracts for manufacturing and acts of commandeering of almost endless diversity.

Many novel and interesting questions are raised in the court, especially in suits for infringement of patents. The petition of one inventor claims $1,000 000 for the little pocket books of stamps which are sold at every post office. Another claims that as early as 1905 he invented a gliding machine involving the principles upon which every airplane operated by the Government is constructed, and if successful he may recover $10,000,000. The sum of $995,000 is asked for infringement in the manufacture of torpedoes, and about $30,000,000 for radio apparatus.

One test case is brought by a savings bank to determine the liability of the Government for stolen Government bonds and coupons, and if successful will result in other suits which, it is estimated, will swell the Government's liability to $150,000,000.

Claims are made for injuries to person and property by mail trucks, and reimbursement is claimed by farmers for destruction of lands and crops by alighting mail planes. Owners of intoxicating liquors whose supplies have been confiscated by prohibition enforcement agents seek indemnity in money damages.

In preparation for the disposition of such a tremendous accession of new business the Court of Claims has so cleared its dockets that not only pending suits, but actions based upon these war claims, are receiving immediate attention. All cases are disposed of as rapidly as they are prepared and presented by counsel.

DR. CALDWELL'S LAXATIVE
SYRUP PEPSIN
Keeps him in good health

Clogged-Up? Here's Quick Aid

NEVER mind what you are using now for constipation. For all you know there is a better remedy! The next time you are clogged up try Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, a laxative successfully used for 30 years, the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. Olive L. Purdy of West St. John, N. B., found Laxative Syrup Pepsin most beneficial, and J. W. Smith, 119 Strathcona Av. N., Hamilton, Ont., says it is the best remedy he has ever used. The list of successful users of Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is naturally large as over 10 million bottles are sold annually.

Formula on Every Package

Get yourself a bottle at a drug store, the cost being less than a cent a dose. Take a spoonful at bed time for a few nights and we guarantee that the most chronic constipation will be relieved, or refund your money. A few doses in succession soon train the stomach muscles to act for themselves. Many, however, take it once a week and in that way keep the bowels regularly open. Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin, unlike harsh physics such as calomel, "candy cathartics," salt waters and powders, is a simple vegetable laxative composed of Egyptian senna and pepsin with tasty aromatics which are entirely harmless.

This Remedy Guaranteed

It has been accurately proven that a constipated person is only 75 per cent efficient. It slows you up; makes you dull and lazy. Take Laxative Syrup Pepsin the first day you do not have complete bowel movement. Take it, guaranteed, for constipation, torpid liver, dyspepsia, biliousness, sour stomach, headache, lack of appetite. A spoonful at the first sneeze or sniffle will kill a cold overnight. Half the ailments of winter start with constipation followed by a cold.

IS ROMAN MEAL ADVERTISING TOO TECHNICAL FOR WOMEN?

A would-be critic said: "Roman Meal advertising is too technical for Canadian women." Like most critics he was expressing his prejudice towards, not his knowledge of, Canadian women. For two years, we have been telling mothers that refined foods like white flour, refined cereals polished rice, while pretty to look at, are lacking in vitalizing elements, essential to young and growing bodies. We have been teaching that disease comes from "denatured," refined foods. We have been recommending more milk and eggs, leaf vegetables, fruits, and Roman Meal.

Selection of proper food is the most important function of the mother or housewife. Canadian women know this and we have reason to know, Mr. Critic to the contrary, that thousands and thousands of women have learned from our "too technical" advertising that Roman Meal is the most valuable food in the larder for the family. Because of this "too technical" advertising, a new and more proper dietary is now the rule in thousands and thousands of Canadian homes to the great benefit of old and young, especially the young. Your grocer sells Roman Meal.

LAKEFIELD MEN READY FOR HUNT

Thoughts Turning to the "Trails and Watches" As Season Approaches.

LAKEFIELD, Oct 26.—The hunters are making ready for the days (now so near) when they will take to their happy hunting grounds and enjoy again the free life and exhilarating atmosphere of the wilds. There are many arguments overheard by the man on the street as to the relative attractions of Parry Sound, Jack's Lake, Apsley, Dummer, Turtle Lake and all the other numerous spots in this county and others. It is the annual holiday of many men, looked forward to from year to year as a period of recreation and good fellowship. Enough anecdotes are accumulated to last till once again the season opens.

If some one gifted with a facile pen could collect these tales, he would have enough material, both truth and friction for several thrilling books.

Anniversary Sunday.

The anniversary services of the Lakefield Baptist church will be held on Sunday next (Oct. 28). Rev. W. S. Edgar of Gilmour Memorial church will speak at both services. There will be special music by the choir.

Taught Lakefield School.

The late Andrew Shearer of Keene, whose death took pjlace last week, was the pricinpal of the Lakefield pulic school between forty-five an dfifty years ago and will be remembered by many of the old timers in the village. The public school comprised four rooms only at that time and was considered a very fine structure. Mr. Shearer, who was a school master of note, made many warm friends in the village who regret to hear the news of his death.

C.W.L. At Home

The Catholic Woman's League are holding an At Home in Lakefield House on Tuesday, October 30. Cards and dancing will provide entertainment for both young and old.

WEEK OF FOX HUNTING.

SEVEN SPRINGS, N.C., (United Press), Oct. 25.—Fox hunters of the entire State of North Carolina will gather here Thanksgiving week for a monster chase. Parts of four counties will be beaten up by the hunters.

The affair will be of such magnitude that highway officials have promised special attention to roads leading here so they may be in good condition for the army of sportsmen, horses and hounds.

In the vicinity of the Southwest the hunt will reach its climax. More than 150 gray foxes are estimated to have their habitat on a small peninsula formed by a bend in Southwest creek, and local sportsmen have promised to lead their guests into this "happy hunting ground."

State officials, business men, planters and others are expected to participate in the week's sport.

DINERS KISS HANDS THAT FEED THEM IN SOFIA RESTAURANT

Restaurant Is Kept, Waited On and Cooked For By Women of the Russian Nobility.

SOFIA, Oct. 25.—(Associated Press).—There are not many restaurants in the world where a diner kisses the waitress' hand before he proceeds to order his dinner. But there is such a public restaurant in this city, and it is probably the only one of its kind in the world.

This restaurant, called the "Russki Restorant," is kept, waited on and cooked for by Russian women of the nobility, some of whom used to have "salons" in Petrograd under the empire, to which princes, generals, diplomats and savants regarded it an honor to be admitted.

Driven to the ends of the earth by Bolshevik persecution, these particular "prinzessen, comtessen, serene Englisch altessen"—as Svengali called them in "Trilby"—settled down to the business of their wrecked lives in this little corner almost beneath the shadow of the beautiful equestrian statue of the "Czar Liberator," Alexander II.

It is somewhat disconcerting to American eyes to see a tall Russian who seems to have seen better days rise from his table when the waitress comes to take the order, salute madame's hand with his lips in the best manner of a courtier, then resume his seat and address himself to the prosaic business of ordering his meal.

And the food—served in the open air under the trees in the summer—suggests enough of an approach to American ideas of what is good to eat that Americans and Englishmen, to say nothing of other "Europeans," are among the best patrons of the "Russki Restorant."

The prices are enough above the average to make the place rather exclusive, and the waitresses are pronounced, by Americans at least, to be entirely satisfactory.

MISSING STEAMER MAY BE RIDING OUT GALE

DELEWARE BREAKWATER, Del., October 24 (Canadian Press).—No word came from the sea or elsewhere to-day regarding the fate of the steamer Westmoreland, which is reported to have sent out an S.O.S. call in the midst of the severe northeast storm on Monday night while 38 miles off Deleware Capes.

The call was heard by the wireless operator aboard the Danish steamer Phoenix, which has arrived at Newport News.

The Westmoreland, according to her Philadelphia agents, carried a crew of about sixty.

ANXIOUS TO KEEP AUSTRALIA WHITE

To This End Commonwealth Hopes For Immigrants From Britain.

At the "Ceilidh" of the Gaelic society, held in Toronto on Saturday evening last, Hon. J. H. McColl, ex-Senator, Bendigo, Australia, brought greetings from the Scots of the Antipodes. Hon. Mr. McColl, who paid a brief visit to Peterborough last week, is a cousin of Rt. Rev. Monsignor McColl of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, East City. He is now seventy-nine years of age, and has lived in Australia for seventy years, going out as a boy from Scotland. For twenty-nine years, prior to 1914 and up to his seventieth year, he was active in Australia's public life. The Toronto Mail & Empire speaks of him in its Monday issue:

"Mr. McColl is specially interested in the processes of dry-farming now rapidly being adopted in Australia, especially in the States of Queensland New South Wales, in which much success has been achieved. Senator McColl some years ago studied methods of dry-farming, irrigation, etc., in Wyoming and other Western States of America in the interest of his Government, and his report is considered a valuable document in this matter.

"On Saturday night he spoke at some length on the need of immigration into Australia. The Commonwealth had sent about 300,000 men overseas to the Great War. Of this number 60,000 were killed and the number of other casualties was very large. To make up to some extent for this serious loss of the flower of their young manhood—for there had been no conscription, no draft in Australia, the very best had gone voluntarily—a strong effort was being made to direct the stream of emigration from Britain. They desired most anxiously to keep Australia white and British, and had to depend on the Motherland to give of its surplus men and women to fill up the gap.

"They did not grudge their men to the great cause. When Britain was at war Australia was at war; and they would do again willingly what they cheerfully had done before; but they were not militarists. They desired peace. They would, however, never shirk their duty in the cause of right, but would always be found part and parcel of the great Empire in maintaining its integrity and its essential unity. They loved the Union Jack. He and many of his people at home looked to the Imperial Conference for some commercial arrangement whereby, by preference or otherwise ,inter-Imperial trade and commerce would be expanded; whereby the natural resources of the Empire would be developed Imperially to the mutual benefit of all the Commonwealths and colonies, and in a manner worthy of their great sacred Empire-trust. Some plan whereby the unemployed of Britain could be utilized on the rich areas of the British Commonwealths ought not to be beyond the wisdom of the conference to devise."

1,000 GRAIN CARS OF ADVANCED TYPE

C. N. R. Putting Them in Service to Expedite Movement.

MONTREAL, October 25. — To aid in the rapid movement of grain from the Great Lake ports to Montreal, St. John and Halifax, the Canadian National Railways are now placing in service 1000 box cars of a new type.

By means of a special axle design and improvements in the general design of the car itself, these new cars will be able to carry 61 tons or more than 2000 bushels of grain each. This maks a considerable advance on the average type of box car whose loading capacity is—with new axle design—about 46 tons or approximately 1500 bushels of grain.

The box cars are being built for the Canadian National Railways by the Canadian Car and Foundy Co., at Montreal, and the National Steel Car Co., of Hamilton, Ont. The Montreal firm already has delivered 271 cars and is making deliveries at the rate of 35 cars per day. The Hamilton company is now ready to commence deliveries and will continue to do so at the rate of 15 cars upwards per day until the order is completed.

TRANSPORTATION RECORD.

MONTREAL, Oct. 25. — What is declared to be a world's record in the transportation of grain was reported to-day at the head office of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

During the previous 24 hours there were moved east from Winnipeg for the lake front 1776 loaded cars. The best previous record, also held by the Canadian Pacific Railroad, was 1579 cars, sent east on October 25, 1921.

During the current week the Canadian Pacific Railway has handled 10,832 cars as against 9,767 moved during the corresponding period of last season, a daily average of 1547 cars in comparison with a previous average of 1395.

STORM DELAYS BOATS.

FORT WILLIAM, October 25. — A stormy night with driving sleet delayed navigation for a few hours last night, but to-day the weather has cleared and vessel movement is carrying on as usual. As a result of the delay only three boats are reported as being under the spouts to-day, eleven vessels clearing today with 1,556,000 bushels of grain, the biggest cargo being that of the Glenshee, which took 320,000 bushels of wheat to Tiffin.

CANADA DEFENDED BY HON. G. GRAHAM

Had Never Repudiated Legal Obligation on Railways or Otherwise.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press Cable) — Hon. George P. Graham Canadian minister of railways and canals, spoke at a meeting of Canadian Chamber of Commerce in London this afternoon. Referring to railways Hon. Mr. Graham said Canada had never repudiated or questioned any legal obligation she had anywhere in the world. He wished the fact to be distinctly understood that in no sense had Canada, under the present goverment or past governments, ever suggested declining to meet her legal liability.

Canada took over certain railways Hon. Mr. Graham continued, on specified agreements by which she was prepared to stand not wishing to deviate one lota in favor of herself.

Dr. J. H. Grisdale, deputy minister of agriculture Ottawa, gave an address on 'Canadian Farm Products." He referred to the difficulties attending the export of wheat to Great Britain. He said one of the difficulties was a lack of direct transportation from the producer in the dominion to the consumer on this side of the ocean.

Much of the Canadian wheat passed through American channels, Dr. Grisdale said and in transit was meddled with and lost a good deal of its quality while some Americans gained a considerable sum of money. It was possible, he said, that there would be direct transportation for Canadian wheat in the near future.

Dr. Grisdale's address was exhaustive and of an illuminating character and was closely followed. He explained experiments in tobacco growing in Canada and said the Dominion could produce ost excellent Virginia leaf. Many pounds of this tobacco came to Great Britain but it was felt that Canadians should be able to ship much more to the mother country.

The possibilities in the Dominion for beef production were limitless, Dr. Grisdale said. He emphasized the value of the Canadian bacon industry and the opportunities for trade in bacon in this country. He said that next year Canada would send a larger quantity of bacon to Great Britain than she had sent for some years past.

BALDWIN APPEALS

breaking down. The government had good reason to believe that, in giving up passive resistance negotiations might be resumed. Inquiries on that subject were made but while awaiting a reply President Coolidge made his statement in that United States, offering American participation, if invited by all the allies in an allied conference, or to be represented by experts on a committee of experts under the auspices of the reparation commission.

Agreed On Policy

"When people speak about our want of policy,' continued the premier, "I think they mean our failure to effect that common action necessary to bring to a successful end the troubles in which Europe today is enmeshed. We have lost no opportunity of endeavoring to secure that common action. In all statements that have been made, in all documents that have been published are represented despite what our opponents say her, or elsewhre the view of a cabinet absolute and entirely united."

On learning of Mr. Coolidge's statement a note was sent to the allies strongly urging an affirmative reply.

"I had the pleasure of meeting Monsieur Poincare," the premier went on, "and establishing with him relations which make it not too difficult for me to say what I am going to say now. He represents today the opinion of practically the whole of France, and I beg of him to consider for himself, for his nation, for us and for the world, once more and twice and thrice before he refuses this invitation.

Germany Must Pay

"As for Germany the government's policy has been clear all along —reparations, the just penalty of war. But for her to pay, her currency must be stabilized, her finance controlled and adequate guarantees of payment secured. The amount of Germany's payments must be ascertained in the light of her present and future position; the destruction of Germany must put back for years powers of reparation. Nor could we contemplate the breaking off of any part of Germany into separate states for that would at once break the treaty of Versailles.

"The position is grave but it is in conceivable that if any opportunity is presented, as it is, for a settlement here should be anyone who could refuse it."

Unemployment was one of the principal topics of the premier's speech. There was one weapon the government would not use he declared.

Denies Inflation

There is no truth whatsoever in the stories that the governmen will depart from what is understood in this country to be sound financial policy," he said. "That is a point which should be clearly understood abroad because great harm is being done to British credit by loose talk about inflation. The government is not in the present circumstances pursuing a policy of active inflation, and certainly does not propose to proceed in the direction of inflation I hope that ghost is dead.'

Germany could only pay reparations by an enormously increased export trade. In the opinion of the premier, and there was danger that the British market might become the shock-absorber of Europe. He had no doubt parliament would protect the country from the dumping of accumulated stocks from the Ruhr. On exact measures for the relief of unemployment the premier was not specific. He promised that the greater part of £50,000,000 for public works would be spent this winter.

"I am pleased to be able to announce," said the premier, "that the Government has decided to lay down several light cruisers in replacement of the County Class cruiser—a replacement which is many years overdue and the building program is instrict conformity with the terms of the Washington conference

It is merely anticipating work which in any case must have been undertaken in a couple of years. I think the exigencies of the situation more than warrant the steps we are taking."

BEST PROGRAM BY MARRIED LADIES

Secured Most Points in Methodist Young People's League Contest.

OMEMEE, Oct. 26.—The contest, which has been going on in the Young People's League in the Methodist Church for the past four weeks, came to an end on Tuesday evening when the meeting was conducted by the young men of the society.

The meeting, which was in charge of Mr. Gordon Bradley, opened with a rousing song service, Miss Eva Race being the accompanist, after which with Master Floyd Parsons as pianist the service was conducted. Following an earnest prayer, offered by Mr. Ira Switzer, the Scripture lesson was read by Mr. Harold Weir, after which Messrs. Elwood Harrison and Bert Edwards, of Bethel, rendered a much appreciated duet entitled "Drifting."

The minutes of last week's meeting were read by Mr. Harold Lang, and on motion, confirmed. The topic for the evening was ably handled by Mr. Irwin Connell. Then followed an instrumental duet by Messrs. Harry Jackson and R. Hancock, which delighted the gathering and made necessary an encore to which Mr. Hancock responded with an euphonium solo. A new version of "When the Minister Comes to Tea" was recited with boyish vigor by Master Lawrence Cunningham, after which Rev. Mr. Rowland was called on for the cirticism and decision on the various programmes given.

Following are the points given and the attendance at each meeting:

	Pts.	Att.
Oct. 1st Young ladies††	39	52
Oct. 8th Married ladies	41	67
Oct. 15th Married men	40	106
Oct. 23rd Young men†	38	94

Mr. Gordon Bradley (chairman) gallantly arose after the decision had been given and after acknowledging defeat, on behalf of the young men, in a neat little speech, thanked all those who had assisted in the programme and wound up by inviting everyone present to attend the social evening which they will put on a week from Tuesday when a splendid programme will be given by the married ladies and married men, assisted by the girls and boys of the league.

The meeting came to a close with the singing of "Blest be the Tie That Binds," followed by the mispah.

A. Y. P. A. Meeting

The Anglican Young People's Association met last Monday evening when the rector, Rev. Mr. Weir, gave a splendid talk on "The Foundation and History of the Church of God." During the evening Miss Marion Dixon rendered a solo in good voice which was much appreciated by all.

NEWS TRENT RIVER AND THE DISTRICT.

TRENT RIVER, Oct. 26.—The I. O. L. tea and entertainment was a great success. There was a large attendance. Mr. Turner, of Campbellford, held the lucky ticket for the set of dishes. After the entertainment dancing was indulged in.

Mrs. Tom Sedgwick was one of the lucky number who discovered one of the balloons sent out from Toronto, travelling a distance of 125 miles, and dropped in the yard a few feet distant from the house. The discovery was made the third day after leaving the city but Mrs. Sedgwick thinks it must have exhausted and fell the day previous to when discovered. Mrs. Sedgwick read the notice attached by the tag and mailed as directed to Toronto but has not had any reply as yet.

Mr. Hallowell and relatives have returned to Toronto from their cottage.

A much-needed rain fell during Tuesday night and continued part of Wednesday.

Mr. W. Allan, of Toronto, has been down to his residence here for a couple of days returning again to the city.

BREACH O.T.A. NOT CRIMINAL

Jury Says Police Used Fire Arms Without Justification.

TORONTO, Oct. 26.— (Canadian Press.)— That John Gogo came to his death on the morning of October 6, 1923, at the foot of Leslie street by being shot by a revolver in the hands of a Toronto police constable, who was on duty apprehending a party of men in the act of breaking the Ontario temperance law by unloading liquor from the boat Hattie C. to motor vehicles.

The Ontario Temperance Act, being an Ontario law, and its breach not a criminal offence, the jury finds that police officers ,possibly though not fully understanding their instructions regarding use of firearms, made use of them without justification.

Such was the verdict returned last night by the coroner's jury which, under direction of Chief Coroner Graham investigated the fatality which on early morning of October 5 terminated the trip of a whiskey boat from Belleville to Toronto.

CURZON MAKES

"There does nto appear to be among the European powers that unity of thought which either renders common action feasible or will be successful in finding an early solution. His Majesty's government have during the past nine months made a series of proposals to their allies for meeting these difficulties, none of which has been so fortunate as to meet with a measure of acceptance sufficient to bring about common action. And yet without such action, not merely Germany but Europe, appears to be drifting into economic disaster.

U. S Interested.

"In these circumstances His Majesty's government have for long entertained the belief that the cooperation of the United States government is an essential condition of anp real advance towards a settlement. The United States by reason of her position and history, is more disinterested than any of the European powers, at the same time she is directly and vitally concerned with the solution of the European problem, if for no other reason, because it involves the question of the inter-allied debt.

"When Mr. Hughes made his declaration in December last both Great Britain and Germany made it clear that they would warmly welcome proffered assistance. And whenever the suggestion has been revived it has met with the hearty approval of His Majesty's government.

"The French government hitherto have taken a different view. This lack of unanimity is so far as His Majesty's government are aware the sole reason why the proposal has not been proceeded with.

"His Majesty's government were already engaged in formulating an inquiry to the United States as to the manner in which, in the opinion of the latter, united action,which is the common desideratum, could best be brought about, when they read in the press yesterday morning a declaration reported to have been made by President Coolidge that the United States government would rest on their proposal of December last.

Welcomes Proposal.

"The government warmly welcome this declaration and hope that they are justified in deducing from it that if the European powers will join in such an inquiry America will render the promised cooperation. If the government have rightly interpreted the president's statement, and if they may count upon an encouraging reception being given to such a proceeding, they will not hesitate to invite the immediate cooperation of their allies in Europe in an invitation to the United States Government to assist in the proposed inquiry by deputing a delegate, whether official or unofficial to participate therein.

"If on the other hand it were proposed to hold such an inquiry although complete unanimity had not been forthcoming at this end, might His Majesty's government and the majority of the allies still hope for American cooperation?

Refer to Commission.

"Alternatively, if it were proposed that such an inquiry should be entrusted to the reparation commission, or to a body appointed by it, would America still be willing to participate?

"It is in the firm belief that the American government have it in their power to render great services to the security and peace of the world that His Majesty's government, speaking in the name of the whole British Empire, as represented in the Imperial conference, now assembled in London, desire to associate themselves with the renewed proposal of the president, and they will be glad to receive from the American government any suggestion that the latter may be disposed to offer in reply to the questions I have ventured to put."

Forward Relief to Labrador Fishermen.

OTTAWA, October 25. — Canadian Press. — The sum of $109, public contributions which were sent to the Minister of Marine and Fisheries in aid of distressed fishermen on the Canadian Labrador Coast, has been forwarded to the director of the Quebec Provincial Bureau of Public Charities, at Quebec, who has the matter of relief in hand.

It was stated by the Department of Marine and Fisheries to-night that supplies of food have already been sent to a number of families at Old Fort Bay, St. Paul's River, Brador Bay, and Blanc Sablon.

IMPATIENT WOMAN MAIMED FOR LIFE

Crawled Under a Freight Train With Her Baby—Hand and Foot Were Ground Off.

DETROIT, Oct. 26.—(Canadian Press). — A woman's impatience placed two lives in jeopardy late yesterday afternoon and if she does not pay with her life the cost will be almost as great, for she will be maimed for life with one arm cut off at the shoulder and a foot amputated. Mrs. Grace Bittner, 28 years old is the woman.

Before she could reach the other side, the train started up. Lying prone her first thought was of the baby, and so well did she protect it that it escaped uninjured.

The other was not so fortunate. Her foot was caught beneath the wheels and ground off, while, on the other side of the track her protuding arm met the same fate.

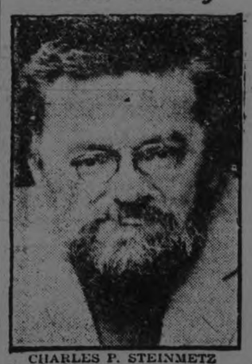
FRANCE WILLING, BUT SPECIFIES CONDITIONS

PARIS, Oct. 26. — (Canadian Press).—The French Government is willing that an international conference of experts, to be named by the Reparation Commission, be called to consider the question of reparations in conformity with the Treaty of Versailles.

The French Government, it was said in official circles this morning, would be most happy if the Government of the United States would name an expert to participate in such a conference.

It was semi-officially announced that Premier Poincare, in the name of the French Government, already has informed Secretary of State Hughes that he would accept an international commission of experts to determine Germany's capacity to pay, but they must be named by the Reparation Commission. The British Government, it was added, has not yet accepted this condition.

Died Today



CHARLES P. STEINMETZ

SCHENECTADY, N.Y., October 26 (Canadian Press). — Dr. Charles Proteus Steinmetz, electrical wizard, died at his home here at 8.15 o'clock this morning. Cause of death was given as physical breakdown due to a trip to the Pacific Coast, from which he recently returned.

YOUTH KILLED ON GRADE CROSSING OTHERS INJURED

Car Had Almost Cleared Tracks When Hit By a C.N.R. Passenger Train Travelling Slowly.

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—(Canadian Press.)— Gordon McKinnon, aged 19, of Unionville, Ont., was fatally injured, James Wash, aged 35, of Unionville, sustained a fracture of the skull, and his sister, Mrs. Forester, a widow aged 28 years, suffered loss of her left foot and a double fracture of her right leg, when a motor car driven by Ash was struck by a Canadian National railway passenger train at Langstaff crossing of the Markham road yesterday afternoon.

It was stated last night at the General Hospital, to which Mr. Ash and Mrs. Forester were removed after receiving medical attention at the Municipal Industrial Farm, that the former was in a very critical state, while the condition of the latter was serious.

The motor car had almost cleared the crossing when it was struck by the train bound for Beaverton, and is said to have been moving forward slowly. According to an eye-witness, the engineer had blown his whistle before reaching the crossing, but it was evident that the sound was not heard.

Ontario Farm Produce Win British Honors.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press Cable) —The gold medal of the British dairy farmers association has been awarded to the government of Ontario for its collection of dairy produce including bacon dead poultry and eggs at the dairy show now being held in agricultural hall.

First prize in the colonial farming section, namely the silver medal was won by the Ontario bee-keepers' association of Guelph and the bronze medal was awarded to H. LeClerc of Montmagny, Quebec.

A NORWOOD MAN KILLED BY CAR

Charles Puffer Was Well Known in This District —Norwood News.

NORWOOD, Oct. 26.—A deep gloom was cast over the village on Thursday afternoon when it became known that Mr. H. G. Buck had received a message from Los Angeles, California, saying that Mr. Chas. I. Puffer had been killed in an automobile accident. Charlie, who was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Puffer of town, was in business here for a number of years. About seven years ago he was married to Miss Rena Cobain of Toronto, who predeceased him about five years ago. Shortly after her death he sold out his furniture and undertaking business to Mr. R. B. Peacock of Port Hope, and went to California. In July last, the time of Norwood's Old Boys' Reunion, there was no person who received a warmer reception than did the deceased. He leaves to mourn his loss, his mother and father, five brothers and three sisters, namely: Mr. W. J. Puffer of Norwood; Mr. Bruce Puffer, Havelock; Mr. Gordon Puffer, Peterborough; Mr. John Puffer, Picton; Mr. Harry Puffer, Lindsay; Mrs. Rexford Merrick, New Jersey; Mrs. John Murray, Kitchener, and Miss Mabel, who is attending the Peterborough Normal School. The family have the deepest sympathy of the entire community. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Willis (nee Mary Rutherford) of Trail, B. C., spent Thursday at the home of the latter's cousin, Mrs. B. W. Squire.

Mrs. I. Rusaw and Miss Viola Rusaw were at Coe Hill the first of the week attending the funeral of the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rusaw.

VARIED VIEWS ON ATTITUDE OF U.S.

Daily News Sees Turning Point in Europe's Tragic History.

LONDON, Oct. 26. — (Canadian Press).—The Curzon - Hughes correspondence is the subject of general editorial comment in the London morning papers. The majority of papers do not regard Secretary Hughes' statement as going much, if any, further than Washington's already declared attitude.

The Daily Telegraph heartily wishes that the United States was ready to join now unreservedly in regulating the affairs of Europe, but infers that nothing is intended beyond the cautious position indicated by President Coolidge a month ago.

The Westminster Gazette, declaring that the United States' reservations are not understandable, says that if Premier Baldwin's appeal has no effect upon France, a separate action must be considered.

The Daily Mail thinks the United States' response cautious, vague and cold, and that it carries the world very little, if at all, further.

The Daily Chronicle says that Washington's note merely reaffirms in precise language what was already known.

The Daily News, on the other hand, takes the view that Secretary Hughes' reply concedes a formal accession of the United States to the conference policy, and publicly avows the intention to consider the summoning of a conference without France if the latter refuses to share in it. The paper declares: "We believe that the turning point in this tragic history has now at last been reached."

The Manchester Guardian thinks that the correspondence and Premier Baldwin's statement will carry things "several steps towards the light." It remarks that the United States will not necessarily abstain from a conference if France refuses.

MRS. T. W. ANGLIN DEAD.

OTTAWA, Oct. 26.— (Canadian Press.)—Mrs. T. W. Anglin, widow of the late Hon. T. W. Anglin, who was member of the House of Commons from 1867 until 1882, died last night at the age of 81 years. She was the mother of Mr. Justice Anglin, of the Supreme Court of Canada and Margaret Anglin, famous actress.

ODDS FOR HENRY AT WHITE HOUSE

One Manufacturer Takes Out a Protective Policy

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.— (Canadian Press.)—Odds on Henry Ford parking his car in the White house garage in 1925 are 100 to 9, according to Lloyds of London.

Policy for $400,000 at these odds has just been taken out by a New York firm that believed that the election of the automobile manufacturer to the Presidency would adversely affect their business. The company which wrote the policy declined to make public the name of the business men who feared that the election of Ford would injure their business, and he declined also to state the nature of their business.

NO. PRISONERS FREED AS RESULT HUNGER STRIKE

DUBLIN, Oct. 26.—(Canadian Press.)——The Free State Government announces that no prisoners have been released in consequence of hunger strike and that none will be, although freedom might be granted on other grounds. At meeting in O'Connell street last evening, Republican speakers claimed that 27 hunger strikers had been released on Thursday.

GENERAL ELECTION FORECAST BRITAIN

Unemployment Problem Is Serious One For The Government.

PLYMOUTH, Oct. 26.— (Canadian Press.)— Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain, addressing another meeting last night after Premier Baldwin, went beyond Premier's guarded statement upon protection, He said that although Premier and party were bound by Bonar Law's pledge not to change the fiscal system during the life of the present parliament, yet if they were to deal adequately with unemployment next winter, it would be necessary that they be released from the pledge "so that they shall be able to take up the only weapon whereby we can give adequate protection to our own people."

Mr. Chamberlain's statement would seem to indicate that the government contemplates a general election in the not distant future on the fiscal question.

Have Not Received Invitation to Attend.

LONDON, Oct. 26 (Special Cable to the Canadian Press by George Hambleton, Staff Correspondent).—"We have not yet received an invitation to attend the conference. We shall decide on our course of action when the invitation is received," was Premier King's guarded answer last night when questioned if Canada would participate in the international conference on reparations foreshadowed in the correspondence between Lord Curzon and the United States government.

PEPS

the real breatheable tablets, make the throat, chest, and lungs cold-resisting. When a nasty cold or a coughing bout foretells the revival of your old bronchial trouble, the best thing to do is to take Peps at once to strengthen and

LONDON PLANS NIGHT AIR ROUTE TO PARIS

LONDON, Oct. 26.—(Associated Press)—Plans have been completed for the inauguration of night flying service between London and Paris for carrying passengers and mail. The scheme is the latest addition to the popular Paris-London service and like all the English services will be subsidised by the government.

This improvement was urged by the Post Office officials as necessary if the air mail idea is to be developed adequately. Some months ago the air ministry carried out night-flying tests with much success and on the London-Paris airway there is at present, a lighting arrangement on a fairly extensive scale.

Each of the new night flying machines will carry two magnesium flares on the wing tips, which can be lighted at will, in addition to another flare which can be dropped, if necessary, for lighting up the landing ground and ascertaining the direction of the wind if other facilities are insufficient.

DID BIRKENHEAD TAKE DRINK IN THE CHURCH

W.C.T.U. of That City Says He Did While the Church Official Says There is No Truth in The Report.

DETROIT, Oct. 25.—Did Lord Birkenhead, former Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain take a drink of American liquor in the basement of Grace Methodist Church at Sioux City, Ia., one night last week

These two questions which have dogged the footsteps of the former Chancellor and Lady Eleanor ever since they left the corn belt were asked in Detroit before the arrival of the persons they concern.

Lord Birkenhead spoke at Orchestra Hall last night. He discussed world problems, under the auspices of the Women's City Club.

Dr. R. N. Van Horne, chairman of the lecture committee at Morningside College under whose auspices Lord Birkenhead spoke in Sioux City, has issued a public statement saying that he knows His Lordship touched no liquor in the church, because he was with him all the time he was in Sioux City, and did not even hear a word of discussion about the Volstead Act.

But the Sioux City W.C.T.U. has flung resolutions back at Dr. Van Horne, in which it is stated that Lord Birkenhead did take a drink, and that his daughter did smoke a British cigarette.

Miss Ida Bland, executive secretary of the Women's City Club said to-day:

"The W.C.T.U. in Sioux City should not have been quite so hasty. We Americans who know Englishmen and women attribute such acts to the customs of their country. I am inclined to agree with Dr. Van Horne, who denied the charges for while Lord Birkenhead and his daughter would surely feel free to smoke and drink in their hotel, I believe they are too well-bred to do so in a Methodst Church, when they were guests of the Methodists and knew their sentiments on this point."

All Theo. Roosevelts to Be Memorial Guests.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (United Press)—Everyone named after Theodore Roosevelt is being sought in order that he may be invited to a gathering of the Colonel's namesakes at Roosevelt House, New York, following its public opening. From letters to Colonel Roosevelt during his thirty-seven years of public life, and from newspaper items throughout that period, it was shown that hundreds of boys were given this name.

When the plans were made for the opening of Roosevelt House at No. 28 East Twentieth Street, which the Woman's Roosevelt Memorial Association has restored as a memorial and museum of Americanism, it was decided to reserve one day following the dedication Oct. 27 for a rally of "Theodore Roosevelts."

Invitations for the event will be sent to all persons so named whose names and addresses reach the secretary at Roosevelt House. A special program is being prepared for them, including an exclusive tour of Roosevelt House, a reception, signing of the visitors' books, and entertainment in the motion picture theatre on the top floor of the building.

The Woman's Roosevelt Memorial Association, of which Mrs. John Henry Hammond is president, and which has chapters throughout the country, will dedicate Roosevelt House on Oct. 27, the anniversary of Theodore Roosevelt's birth. The house is a replica of the birthplace, reproduced in fireproof material, and with an addition, artistically subordinated to the original house, containing libraries, museum and public and organization meeting rooms. It will be opened to the public following the dedication.

Unsolved Mysteries

THE CASE OF THOMAS GREEN

While history relates many instances in which innocent men have paid the supreme penalty for crimes which they never committed, but of which they were convicted by an overzealous jury or a court which placed too much reliance in flimsy evidence, there is probably no case in legal annals as strange as that of Captain Thomas Green and his mate, John Madder, who were hanged on the sands at Leith after having been found guilty on a charge of piracy, robbery and murder. Not only did subsequent investigation develop the fact that Green and Madder were almost certainly not guilty of the crimes for which they were executed, but it is far from being certain that these crimes were ever committed.

At the time that the accusation was made against him, Green was in charge of the East India vessel, the "Worcester" and, on his homeward voyage during the early part of the eighteenth century, was forced to put in at the Firth of Forth. At this period, the Scottish public was in a state of wild excitement over the recent seizure of the Scottish East Indiaman "Annandale" in the Thames and, when the "Worcester" arrived, Captain Green's vessel was arrested by way of reprisal.

Those historians who side with Green in an analysis of the strange events which followed the detention of the "Worcester" declare that the rumor was wilfully spread that the ship was not the harmless trader which she appeared to be, but a pirate craft masquerading under the flag of the East Indian Company. This report was given additional weight by the irresponsible talk of a drunken sailor and a mate who, as it was later proved, was at odds with Captain Green. The mate declared—and his statements were later borne out in some measure by sailor—that a ship had been captured by Green and his men, the crew murdered and the cargo confiscated. The ship in question was alleged to have been the "Speedy Return" under command of a Captain Robert Drummond, which had failed to return to port although several months had elapsed since she was due.

In spite of the fact that it was proven that the mate had not joined the "Worcester" until some time after the date of the incident about which he gave such damning evidence, public feeling was so strong that Captain Green and his officers were tried, found guilty and sentenced to be hung. At the trial there was not only no clear evidence of conspiracy or murder, but no one was able to prove that Captain Drummond had even been killed or, for that matter, that he was dead. The "Speedy Return" had failed to live up to her name. That much was certain. But the remainder of the case was nothing more than conjecture. However, being palpably fearful of the riot which threatened in the event that Green and his men were permitted to escape, the Government railroaded them to the scaffold where, at dawn of the second Wednesday in April, 1705, they paid the penalty for a crime of which they had legally been found guilty.

But even before Green and Madder were executed, a vessel reached Scotland carrying two men who made affidavits to the effect that they belonged to the crew of the "Speedy Return" and told a story which differed widely from that which had been used against the captain of the "Worcester." While their vessel was anchored in Port Maritan, Madagascar, they declared, pirates had swarmed ashore and had seized the ship, Captain Drummond and several of the crew being on shore at the time. They also swore that, so far as they knew, the "Worcester" had never been sighted and that that ship certainly had had nothing to do with the loss of the one which Drummond had commanded.

This version of the affair was also confirmed from another source, with the addition of details concerning the subsequent death of Captain Drummond in Tullea, some twenty miles north of Augustine Bay, at the hands of a Jamaican negro. But, in spite of this evidence and in spite of the doubt that any of the crew of the "Worcester" had ever been engaged in piracy, Green and Madder were both hanged and the case took its place among the unsolved riddles of the law.

BUFFALO DANCE TO BE REVIVED

Is Most Picturesque of All Indian Ceremonies Except, Perhaps, the Snake Dance.

(By HARRY W. FRANTZ)

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo., Oct. 26 (United Press).—The buffalo dance soon will be revived in the Indian pueblos of Arizona and New Mexico. This dance, the most picturesque of all Indian ceremonies except, perhaps, the snake dance, lapsed several decades ago with the passing of the buffalo from the Southwest.

The Holpis have continued their eagle dance, otter dance and snake dance, but the wonderful buffalo dance, marking the success of the hunt, has existed only in tradition, handed down from generation to generation by word of mouth.

Chief Santiago Naranjo of the Santa Clara pueblo of the Pueblo Indians, near Santa Fe, New Mexico, some time ago in talking with his white friends lamented the impossibility of holding the old buffalo dance, because of the non-existence of buffalo robes and heads. Word of his sorrow reached Superintendent H. M. Albright of the Yellowstone National Park, as did also a similar lament from the great Chief Joseph of the Shimongevi pueblo of the Hopi Indians near Grand Canyon.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

From The Oregonian, Sept. 12, 1873

"Yellowstone Park can be toured now even by women, providing they can ride horses and have pluck."

Albright is a warm friend of the Southwestern Indians, and he is also the boss of the Yellowstone herd of buffalo. The greatest in the United States. From time to time a Yellowstone buffalo dies from natural causes, and the hides and head are carefully preserved.

This fall, shipment of buffalo robes and heads will be made to the Southwest, the gifts of Uncle Sab to Chief Santiago and Chief Joseph.

The arrival of the robes and heads will doubtless cause tremendous interest and excitement among the Hopis and Pueblos, since the buffalo is known to the younger generation only through hearsay. The revival of the dance eventually should attract travelers from all parts of the country.

DATES BACK TO 1720

MANNHEIM, Oct. 26.—(Associated Press)—Mannheim Castle, which the French recently took over, is the largest in Germany. Before the recent revolution it was the home of the Grand Duke of Baden, who now occupies a smaller castle which he owns in Freiburg. After the revolution the castle was used for municipal offices until the French took it over. The building has a length of 600 metres and contains 1,200 rooms. It stands in a park of more than 14 acres. The castle was begun in 1720 by the Electors Carl Philip and Carl Theodore and is regarded as one of the finest baroque buildings in Germany. It contains a museum, art gallery and chapel The French have evacuated all German offices and closed the building to the public.

DESIGNERS LACK COURAGE COMPETE

Woman Never Shows a Model Until She Wears It Herself.

(By MARIAN HALE)

PARIS, Oct. 26—Very few American designers have the courage to compete with the Parisians in their own stronghold of style, but Yvonne Davidson, wife of the American sculptor, Jo Davidson, has.

Her understanding of Americans and her knowledge of the type of clothes they like and need, has enabled her to change her once small, modest shop in Paris, to a prosperous and pretentious one, where she shows some of the most distinctive and beautiful frocks in Paris, and where she designs with her own countrywomen in mind.

"Many American women come to Paris and develop a serious case of 'buyitis'," she explained. "They see a great many gorgeous frocks in a short time, see them on girls selected to show them off to the best advantage, lose their heads and begin an orgy of buying.

Not So Good

"When they return home they realize that most of the things they bought, while they looked gorgeous in Paris, aren't just suited to them, after all.

"It isn't the fault of the Parisian designers, but of the American women themselves. The average woman is afraid to stick to her type of frock, the one she knows looks really well on her.

"The Parisienne buys very carefully. She buys economically, too. Regardless of the general supposition, she does not buy extreme styles. She also takes exquisite care of her things. She selects more carefully than the American woman because she has so much less money for clothes. I find that woman with less money to spend invariably make the wisest choices."

Works Both Ways

This season Mrs. Davidson is showing a novelty in the way of a reversible frock. In place of buying one dress, you buy two, made on exactly the same model, one is light, the other dark. They are cut cleverly, so that when the light dress is on top the dark one forms the trimming, or when you have elected to wear the dark one, the light one plays that role.

Mrs. Davidson is also showing very lovely afternoon coats, with wide bands of embroidery which she gets from old Rumanian shawls.

Her evening gowns are cut on very simple lines, and have the most subtle draperies.

"I never show a model that I have not first made up for myself, worn, and found how it felt," she said. "Unless a dress is comfortable, you never can wear it with distinction."

Savage Life

Savages on South Sea Islands get more satisfaction and happiness out of life than we do with our incessant pursuit of the dollar. Dean Charles R. Brown of Yale Divinity School, makes this comment. It is open to argument. But happiness certainly requires more than material possessions.

For instance, the early American pioneer who farmed his 10-acre clearing in the forest undoubtedly was happier than the modern farmer with his fields stretching as far as he can see.

The happiest people seem to be the ones with simple wants. It doesn't take much to satisfy them. That's why there is something appealing, to all of us, in the home simply and comfortably furnished, with a touch of luxury here and there. On the same principle that the young woman who can afford only one diamond gets more real joy from her lone diamond than the rich woman with diamonds galore.

Recently we visited a home that cost $50,000 to furnish. It had about everything that any one could desire. But gradually the impression grew on the visitor that the furnishings were too fine. Like living in a candy shop, compared with having a candy appetite and only a pound of bon bons available.

Our civilization is machine-made. We've been passing through a period of Big Production Mania. As if the way to happiness were to heap our country to overflowing with autos, garments, furniture, etc.

We'd rather be a boy living in a log cabin with a radio than a prince in a palace.

INCREASED USE OF COTTON.

MANCHESTER, Oct. 26.—(Associated Press)—The International Cotton Federation reports that of last year's cotton crops 22,026,000 bales were used, compared with 26,162,000 bales of the crops on the previous year.

During the latter half of last year the consumption of American cotton declined, this being due to the bad trade in Europe during this year. Egyptian was the only variety of which the consumption increased.

CANCER IS TODAY WORLD'S SCOURGE

The Mysterious Disease Is Definitely Increasing in Prevalence and Malignity

(By LYLE C. WILSON)

LONDON, Oct. 26 (United Press).—Cancer is becoming the scourge of the modern world.

This mysterious disease, of which less is known than of any other major man-killing ailment, is definitely increasing in prevalence and malignity.

Tuberculosis is declining steadily, according to the report of the chief medical officer of the English Ministry of Health.

Cancer remains the unknown instrument of death.

Dr. Margaret Lucy Boileau, who recently died of cancer, may achieve eternal fame as the instigator of investigation which may result in full understanding of the dread disease.

Dr. Boileau spent weary months in bed, slowly dying and perfectly aware of the certain painful end which awaited her.

Through it all she daily dictated to fellow doctors the symptoms of her own case as she observed them.

With the notes thus acquired medical science will make a renewed effort to reach a solution of the cancer enigma. As long as cancer remains half understood there can be no cure for the thousands of unfortunates who suffer from it.

In forty years the number of cancer deaths per million of population in the British Isles has risen from 520 to 1,215, an increase of more than 100 per cent. The latter figure is for the year 1921.

In 1922 the English death rate per thousand from cancer was 96.

Accompanying increased cancer there has been a wave of English suicides resulting from despair following cancer diagnosis. The doctor's pronouncement of cancer is a death warrant robbed of the humane provisions for quick and painless extinction of life.

The following diseases are the six chief dealers of death in England. All are decreasing except cancer, which will soon be at the head of the list. The figures represent the number of deaths per thousand of the population:

Respiratory diseases, 181;
Heart or circulation diseases, 157;
Nervous and sensory diseases, 101;
Cancer, 96;
Tuberculosis (all forms), 88;
Alimentary canal diseases, 52.

SAYS ENGLAND'S FUTURE DEPENDS ON MORE BABES

LONDON, Oct. 26 (Associated Press)—England's declining birth-rate is giving the authorities cause for concern. For the three months ended in June the birthrate per 1,000 of population in England and Wales was only 20.7. The register general says that "this is the lowest birthrate recorded in any second quarter of the year, except during the period of the war." In 1913 it was 24.9, in 1914 24.5, in 1920 26.6, in 1921 23.9 and in 1922 21.1. In the second quarter of 1923 it fell to 20.7, which is a drop of nearly 6 per cent in three years.

"If the birthrate continues to fall at this headlong rate," observes the Daily Express, "Britain's very existence as a nation is menaced." The paper asks what the chief causes of the slump in babies is, and gives the answer itself by saying: First, unemployment, and, second, shortage of houses. "The workless man cannot afford to marry," it says, "and the homeless man dare not marry. Therefore, in order to arrest the fall of the birthrate, we must solve our unemployment problem and our housing problem."

It is necessary to face the facts, the Express adds. "Without a steady and constant birthrate the British Empire would cease to exist. Every child born in these islands is a potential producer of wealth. If our supply of children fails, our empire will decline and fall like Rome. The empire has been built up on emigration from the mother country to the daughter countries over the seas. The new lands have drawn their new blood from the old stock in the motherland. It is our duty to look a generation ahead, so that in 1943 there will be a stream of young men and young women flowing from the old home land to the new lands."

BOOTLEGGERS.

Bootleggers have found insurance companies that give them policies to pay their court fines when arrested. So claims W. M. Forgrave Anti-Saloon League agent in Massachusetts.

As yet, no company has come forward with a specialy policy to protect the thirsty people who take a chance on drinking the bootleggers' hooch. Maybe the risk is too great.

BRYAN TOLLS BOOTLEGGERS' DEATH KNELL

William Jennings Carves Out Blazing Trail For Thoroughly Dry Conditions in United States.

TOTAL ABSTINENCE.

BY ROY J. GIBBONS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—I have just run with Byran.

Not politically speaking—

But down the main corridor of a local hotel, to finish peripatetically our interview, begun just a little while before over the comfortable remnants of a breakfast of hot cakes and ham in the hostelry dining room.

The thrice aspirant for the country's presidency was in a hurry or something, which left nothing else but a literal running fire of question's and answers toward furthering a mutual desire to solve the country's liquor enforcement problem.

Some Rapier Irony?

He passed over Govenor Pinchot's recent pillorying of the prohibition machine and its apparent incapability to cope with growing disregard for enforcement of the Volstead act with such lightning dispatch that the mind was left aquiver and doubtful as to whether Bryan was pleased or not with the excoriation.

No grapejuice appeared on the board, but he ate his ham with a great relish and pushed through the steaming plate of hot cakes with a gleam in his eye when referring to the uprising of public sentiment in favor of total temperance.

"Speaking of Governor Pinchot's declaration, in which he aroused public concern by holding up the prohibition enforcement machine as a politically hampered agency, do you consider this as a seeming attempt on the part of the state to shift responsibility to the federal government?" I asked.

"I am glad you used the word 'seeming' Bryan repied. "Because I would not wish to think it purposeful. It is perfectly proper, however, for a governor to remind the federal government what it can do, which the state cannot do.

"The action of the governor in calling attention to what the federal government can do and the action of the president, calling attention to what the governor can do, should result not only in better law enforcement but in harmonious law enforcement."

Spotlight Is Good.

"Do you thing this publicity given the liquor traffic, may, as some think, encourage law breakers?" the question was asked.

"No! Because publicity is a necessary part of law enforcement. Law breakers can act in secret, but law enforcement must be in public.

"The greatest encouragement given violators of the law is given by public officials who sympathize with breakers of the law, as, for instance, the action of the state of New York, in withdrawing from law enforcement, and the Pennsylvania Legislature's refusal of appropriations for enforcement work.

"There seems to be one thing that is strangely ovrelooked, and that is the emphasis of importance of total abstinence. Prohibition rests entirely on the theory that intoxicants are harmful.

"All churches, colleges, and all public men ought to be anxious to take themselves out of the suspected classes by announcing their own total abstinence. Unless they do they cannot complain when wets charge prohibitionists drink themselves but don't want anyone else to drink.

A Sincere Man.

"A total abstinence sentiment back of prohibtion is the only guarantee of permanency. But prohibition will finally triumph over all organized opposition. We still have murder and stealing in spite of laws and statute books. But killing and stealing are individual matters.

"There are no organizations supporting killing and stealing. And no newspapers supporting killing and stealing."

To me, Bryan seemed a bit worn, and thinner, too. The upward sweep of his hair, which once formed a sort of trough in the rear, looks tidy since clipped. His voice, however, still retains its kindly ring. And regardless of however else he strikes one, the impression lingers after talking with him, that he is above all a gentleman, and one with ideals.

He is tolerant to a degree and burns with a great desire to be of help. This I discovered as I ran with him—but not politically speaking.

CHINESE INFLUENCE.

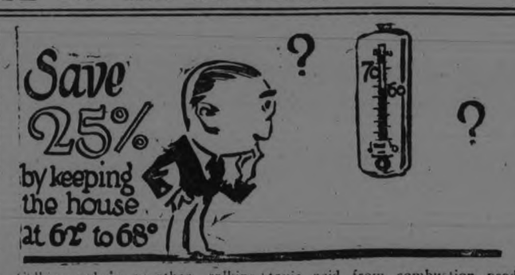
SAVE FUEL COSTS

POOR VENTILATION AND HEATING A CAUSE OF ILL HEALTH



WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Most houses are kept too warm.

So declares Samuel S. Wyer of the Smithsonian Institution in his pamphlet on the correct use of fuel in the home.

About 25 per cent of the house fuel, he says, is used in raising the room temperature from 60 degrees to 70 degrees. Houses can be kept 5 to 10 degrees lower than is customary—that is, kept at 62 to 68—without any discomfort or any danger to health.

"Keeping the house temperature lower is the easiest way to save fuel," Mr Wyer asserts. "It is fuel saved by doing less work.

"In most houses, especially when hot air furnaces are used, the room air is too dry for health and comfort. A room with proper humidity of air—not less than 30 per cent—will be more comfortable and healthful at a low temperature than one where the moisture content is too low. Therefore, with proper humidity, lower temperatures may be comfortably maintained and less fuel used."

Cold Air Leaks.

Prevent leakage of cold air into your house and you save a big part of your coal bill and keep the house cleaner, declares Mr. Wyer. In many of the recent houses, he points out, especially those built to sell, the construction is so defective that a reasonably tight room cannot be had. Fuel savings of 15 to 25 per cent are easily possible by making the house tight.

Calking oakum or other calking material around window and door frames and weather stripping for doors and windows, whether of wood, felt, rubber or metal, will reduce unnecessary cold air leakage.

Cellars are always desirable, since floors where the wind can get underneath are not only uncomfortable but serious heat wasters.

Health Menace.

Improper heating and ventilation not only causes a discomfort and unnecessary expense but is a serious menace to health, Mr. Wyer adds.

"About one-third of all the deaths in this country," he says, "are due to respiratory diseases. Pneumonia is one-third more frequent in urban than in rural districts. The seasonal cycle of pneumonia where house heating is necessary is startling. Of the total annual deaths, about 40 per cent occur during the winter months 24 per cent during the fall and spring and 10 per cent during the summer. In other words, the highest death rate occurs during the heating season. This is due to lowering of vitality on account of improper heating and ventilation. The toxic acid from combustion products—especially carbon monoxide—from flueless gas-heating stoves is also important.

Cover Pipes.

Water tanks, furnaces and pipes for hot air, water or steam should be adequately insulated. Merely covering with one thickness of asbestos sheets is not enough—in fact, this is worthless. The covering must be half an inch thick to be effective and then will make a marked saving in fuel and will heat the living room instead of the basement.

Most hot-air furnaces have a sluggish hot-air draft. Placing an electric motor fan in the cold-air intake, according to Mr. Wyer, will:

Increase the volume of air going through the furnace and deliver more heat but at a lower register temperature. It will deliver a warm instead of a hot air, thus producing better conditions in the room.

Make the draft positive and independent of weather conditions.

MUSICAL AGONY

The classical masterpiece, "Yes, We Have No Bananas," already has earned about $100,000 in royalties for its composers, Frank Silver and Irving Cohn. They expect to make at least $70,000 more by the end of the year.

Critics, with acid temperaments, must writhe in agony at this bit of news. The popularity of "Yes, We Have No Bananas" made it the inevitable target of a lot of sour criticism. Partly due to envy, partly to the principle noted by the psychologist David Gibson, that the tree of much fruit gets the most clubs.

Logically, the critics should concentrate their ridicule on failure. Instead, they usually attack success.

After all, isn't $100,000 a cheap price for the public to pay for the tremendous amount of diversion and fun derived from the bananas song?

We rather hesitate to spread the news that "Yes, We Have No Bananas" has earned $100,000 for its authors. Hesitate because it may inspire thousands of bright young men and women to waste their time trying to counterfeit the success of this song, by writing others.

There is always a market for a "Yes, We Have No Bananas." But for each bananas-song success, fate has at least a thousand failures.

You rarely hear of the failures. And such censorship is a mistake, for this reason: In studying success, we learn what to do. In analyzing failure, we learn what to avoid. And success depends fully as much on what we don't do as on what we do.

AN INNOVATION AT THE Y.W.C.A. GYMN.

The pretty little blue descriptive folder which enumerates this season's activities at the local Young Women's Christian Association includes some interesting items, that promise an entertainment season in the big building which is a centre of fun and frolic for so many of the girls of the city.

The gymnasium promises to be the most outstanding feature in this year's activities. An innovation this year is the English game of Badminton, which already has caught on immensely with those who have taken it up. Badminton is a sort of indoor tennis, played with the old-style battledore and shuttlecock, the game that was supposed to impart grace and suppleness to girlish figures in long-ago times. The courts for this game may be rented to the public on Tuesday afternoon.

The organization of a basket-ball league of inter-city teams is in progress, with the anticipation, this season, of using inter-collegiate rules as being less strenuous for girl players. Basket-ball practice on Friday nights to members of the league may be had free in the gym, and rental of the hall may be made in late afternoon hours of any day to club teams in the league.

On every Tuesday morning in the gymnasium, special corrective and remedial work for spinal curvatures, etc., will be carried on under the supervision of a physician.

Dancing classes in the gym this year in the interpretive work include a section devoted to Russian ballet work, with special attention given to technique. There are also eurythmic exercises for juniors and seniors, exercises calculated to blend the movements of the body with the music in ryhthmic sequence.

A special fencing class will be formed on request of ten pupils.

The coures include all varieties of physical and mental exercises, in following out the desire of the "Y" to help in every possible way in the four-fold development of the girl, the physical, mental, spiritual and social growth of body and mind and soul.

There are classes in elocution, in English and arithmetic, in First-Aid and Home Nursing, and classes in basketry, cooking sewing, and French will be formed on request. There is a community singing club, free to members, a ukulele club, Bible study classes, Sunday evening sing-songs, and Sunday afternoon friendly hour and tea. There are special social clubs for seniors, juniors and intermediates, and there are any number of festive occasions arranged for the members throughout the season, including parties on Hallowe'en day, Christmas, St. Valentine's Day and the seventeenth of Ireland.

The swimming pool remains open until the first week in November, closing with a big swimming exhibition.

On Friday evening of this week, there will be a party for seniors, and on Saturday morning, a big affair for the children, whose Saturday morning classes at the gym include tots all the way down to four years of age.

The campaign for funds starts at the end of this month.

RESUMES POSTAGE STAMPS

BERLIN (United Press).—Germany's attempt to do away with postage stamps has failed. Government printeries, for instance unable to print stamps rapidly enough to meet the frequent increased postage rates, stopped printing stamps altogether for a time, writers of letter being required to deliver them at the windows of the post offices, where cash payment was required for the sending of all mail. The result was that long lines stood for hours at a time. The system simply wouldn't work, so issuance of stamps of larger denomination were again started.

A Million Dollar Doll

By A. and C. M. Williamson

Authors of "The Lightning Conductor"

(From Yesterday.)

IN THE STORY:

Pe[illegible], to facilitate his [illegible] divorce is taking a yac[illegible]ily with [illegible] Divine, beautiful show-girl, known [illegible] Million Dollar Doll. In reality, however, he is not with the Doll but

Tere[illegible]esmond (Terry), Juliet's unbeli[illegible] recent half-sister, whom the Doll [illegible] to masquerade as herself. Ever sin[illegible] childhood, Terry had made him her Dream Prince, and they are now madly in love with each other, although he believes her to be the notorious Juliet Divin

Paul di Salvano, a handsome Italian, formerly the lover of Miles' wife, has deserted her for

Rose Callahan, a somewhat ordinary young heiress now traveling in Europe with her father.

Betty Sheridan, Miles' wife, frantic at Paul's desertion, finds herself in danger of losing her husband also and goes to Algiers where Miles' yacht is lying.

Eustace Nazlo, a wealthy Greek, meeting Miles and the "Doll" recognizes Terry Desmond whom he knew and loved in New York. He it is who warns Betty that her husband's companion is not a show-girl, but a convent maid.

Miles, enjoying a brief sojourn at Bousaada with Terry, and his faithful old servant Mrs. Harkness as chaperone, receives a wire that his wife is in Algiers, demanding to see him. On his way there he is overtaken by Nazlo who informs him that the "Doll" is really Terry Desmond

Nazlo assures Terry that her only course is to marry him, and Miles will forget her.

CHAPTER LXXVI

The Prince Returns

There was silence for a moment.

The sun had gone, all but a crown of reddish gold with a tuft of crimson clouds like the spreading plumes of an Ouled Nail queen.

The chill of night had suddenly fallen, and it seemed to Terry that there were tiny prickles of ice in her veins. She wished that the dusk which poured over the low river bed in a violet flood were a wave that would drown her, and sweep her body away.

"Well?" asked Nazlo at last. "Aren't you going to answer, my little girl? You can't say, now you know everything, that I don't deserve an answer, can't you?"

"Perhaps you deserve one," Terry answered heavily. "But I can't give it tonight. Or if I do, it will be no—no I'd rather go back to the convent, and take the veil, and stay there forever, than to marry a man I don't love—when I do love someone else."

"But loving that Someone will make you more wretched than you are," Nazlo said, kindly. "And he'd be better off by far, if you were married because then he'd have to stop thinking of you and trying to see you. At least, he would if he's made of the strong stuff I think he is. Am I right about him, Mrs. Harkness?"

"Ye—es," the old woman admitted. "I'm bound to say I believe you are. Oh it's all round a sad business"

"We must make the best of it—and make it for the best," went on Nazlo. "If you care more for Sheridan than yourself, my child, your answer to me will—"

"I do care more for him than myself, of course. But I won't give you any answer now," Terry persisted, with her mother's quiet obstinacy. "I'll have to think first."

"You mean you want to talk things over with Sheridan?"

This decision was a blow to Nazlo, for he had tried to "rush" the girl, with his generosity and his arguments falling on top of the sensational news. He had thrown his vitality into the battle, hoping to win before the other man came to fight on her side.

Then if she had already been persuaded by his—Nazlo's—eloquence and the old woman's scruples, to promise, Sheridan would have been up against a fait accompli.

"Yes, I must talk things over with Mr. Sheridan," Terry answered: and as she rose, to walk away, Nazlo muttered: "Damn" beneath his breath. His one consolation was that, even if he didn't get her, she was pretty certain now not to give herself to Sheridan.

Mrs. Harkness stumbled up too, with a creaking of her joints, to return with Terry to the hotel; and Nazlo was prepared to go with them. But the girl stopped, looking back at him.

"Please don't come," she said. "Maybe I've thought bad things about you I oughtn't to have thought, Mr. Nazlo. If I have, I'm sorry. But I—I can't think at all, if you're with me. I'll have to be alone for awhile"

She hurried on ahead of Mrs. Harkness, who ceased the effort to keep pace when she heard the last words. The old woman was rheumatic, and sitting there on the sand had reminded her forcibly that her legs were not as supple as they had been.

Also her feet had "gone to sleep"; and as the girl amost ran to the hotel the two left behind joined forces, Harky hobbling along to get rid of the "pins and needles," Nazlo tactfully taking step for step, though he yearned to be at the side of the flying form ahead.

He was glad however, to find how thoroughly Mrs. Harkness was his advocate, in what she called the "sad circumstances" and he was relieved not to see Sheridan's big car drawn up in front of the hotel door, as they came in sight of it.

"The fellow must have had another breakdown," he assured himself. "If not, by this time he'd have come."

But Sheridan had come.

The car had brought him to the hotel and left him there before Nazlo and Mrs. Harkness had reached a spot where they could see the entrance, even before Terry, walking fast and far ahead, had got within sight of it.

When the girl ran upstairs to the refuge of her own room, she saw Sheridan standing in front of the door, as if he had just knocked and were awaiting an answer.

"You" she exclaimed. "I thought you were—"

"Nearly at Algiers" Miles finished for her. "But I needed to see you again before I went there."

It was twilight in the corridor, for the lights were not yet turned on, and they had the place to themselves. Though the girl had retreated from him a little way, with one step Sheridan caught her in his arms.

"My darling! My dearest! My little child!" he crooned over her, with such tenderness she had never heard. "Thank God I've got you again I don't deserve you, but I'm going to try hard. Can you ever forgive me for my blindness—for everything? Let me take you into your room and where we can talk and not be disturbed. I want to go down on my knees to you, girl, and tell you what I feel."

"Come, then," Terry said. "We must talk But you shan't go on your knees. And there's nothing to forgive. I've told you that before."

He freed her from his arms, but her hand trembled so that he took the key from it and unlocked the door. She led the way into the plain white room, and he followed closely. The door shut behind them, but the long French window was wide open, letting in a wonderful ethereal light, ashes of roses from the sunset, blending with the moon's silver. It seemed to Sheridan that in this radiance the girl's beauty was not of earth.

TELLTALE SYMPTOMS OF WOMEN'S ILLS

Every woman who suffers from backache, headaches, dragging-down pains, nervousness, irregularities, displacements, irritability, or despondency should recognize in such symptoms some derangement of her system which should have attention before some more serious ailment develops. These conditions are often evidenced by a sallow complexion, dark circles under the eyes, lassitude and sleeplessness. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been preeminently successful in overcoming such conditions, and it is now recognized everywhere as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

She's The Best in 400,000

No wonder 13-year-old Theodora Poole, of Lansing, Mich., is so happy now. Why, her essay on good roads was selected by the Highway Education Board as the best in 400,000 submitted by school children the country over. She wrote it while living in Pontiac, Wis. And now she goes to Washington, as the guest of the National Chamber of Commerce, and gets a gold watch, besides.

CITY OF LAWRENCE TO GET QUANTRELL'S FLAG

EL PASO, Texas, Oct. 25.—(Associated Press).—The flag said to be that which William Clark Quantrell, guerilla chief of the Civil War period, carried during many of his raids has been preserved and is in possession of S. H. Sutherland of El Paso.

During the Quantrell excursions, according to the story related by Sutherland, who now is 65 years of age, the flag was carried by Jack Swartz. Swartz is said to have died at Las Cruces, N. M., 25 years ago and to have expressed the desire that the flag be buried with him. The wish was not granted, however, and Sutherland claims to have obtained it.

The emblem, according to Sutherland, was carried in the raid on Lawrence, Kansas, on the morning of August 3, 1863, when 110 persons were killed.

Quantrell, according to Sutherland, was a school teacher in Lawrence before the Civil War. He took up the cause of the Confederacy and organized his guerilla band when the war began. His record shows Quantrell was shot in a running fight with farmers and died in a military prison at Louisville, Ky., June 6, 1865.

Sutherland says he intends to give the flag to the city of Lawrence.

ARCHITECT AND CONTRACTOR

Alphonse Contant Took Convent Contract For $170,000 — Received $171,200.

MONTREAL, Oct. 26. — When his office at Ottawa and his summer residence at Woodlands, near here were burglarized in 1919 no complaints were made to the police, according to the evidence of Alphonse Contant, Montreal architect, who was in the witness box all day yesterday in the court of Special Sessions here, where he is being tried on a charge of appropriating $97,000, the property of the Sisters of the Precious Blood, Ottawa.

The accused, whose replies were hardly audible during the cross-examination, was given permission to sit down in the witness box. For several hours he replied to questions by Prosecuting Counsel and declared repeatedly that he could not remember a number of payments which he is alleged to have received from the sisters at Ottawa, although some of them exceed $5,000. The reason for this was, he said, that all documents relating to his transactions with the religious order had been stolen. In 1915 he undertook to build a convent for the order, the limit price of which was agreed at $170,000. During cross-examination Mr. Contant said that the entire cost of the buildings, not including two chapels, would have been $300,000. With the chapels it would have been $400,000. He admitted having made a verbal agreement to undertake the work at a rate of 1 1-4 per cent. which is just one-half the minimum tariff of the architects, according to "Kidder," the manual accepted by the profession in this city. It was disclosed in the evidence that Contant was not only the architect, but contractor and agent as well. In all, he admitted having received $171,200 from the Sisters.

The case was adjourned to Nov. 5.

KING HELPS AT RESCUE.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 26—(Associated Press)—King Christian is the latest candidate for the Carnegie medal.

During a yacht race between the royal yacht "Rita" and another boat, "Carina," a sailor from the latter fell overboard. King Christian, who was at the "Rita's" helm, saw the accident and immediately put his helm up and went about. The "Rita" quickly bore alongside the drowning man and the King with others rescued the sailor.

The race, which was the last of a series, was afterwards resumed and won by the "Rita."

SESSIONS CONCLUDED.

OTTAWA, Oct. 25. — (Canadian Press).—The ninth annual convention of Women's Institutes of Eastern Ontario concluded its sessions here this morning with the passing of a number of resolutions. A strong recommendation was passed for the provision of proper dental service made available to rural districts at moderate cost, and a request that the Government assist in such provision.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

CRANBERRIES

Cranberries are usually associated so closely with Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners that most housekeepers overlook the fact that cranberries can be used for quite as delicious desserts as other fruits.

They are rich in mineral salts and aid in digesting fat meats. Coming at the time of year when succulent vegetables are rather scarce and high they are a valuable addition to the diet.

It is by the careful combination of foods that people keep in good health, feeling "fit" and ready for the day's work. Plan to serve a vegetable or fruit rich in mineral salts whenever rich foods form part of the dinner. When green vegetables are more or less out of season cranberries supply their "vitamines" cheaply and well.

If cranberry pudding is chosen for the dessert keep in mind that the dessert is almost a full meal all by itself. Let the pudding portions be small and the rest of the meal light, easily digested food.

There is danger of eating too much and too rich food during the winter months. Puddings following a hearty dinner are usually just so much extra and unneeded food.

Cranberry sauce or jelly adds zest to any meat as well as turkey. They can be made in quantities and kept for use as wanted.

Cranberry Sauce

Two cups cranberries, ¾ cup water, 1½ cups sugar.

Some cooks advise parboiling the berries. The theory is that the cranberries require less sugar to sweeten them. My theory is that by parboiling some of the valuable salts are lost and thrown away in the water.

Wash and pick over berries. Put water and berries in a large stew pan and cook until tender. The pan should be covered. It will take about 15 minutes to cook the berries. When tender, sift in sugar. Boil five minutes longer, skimming frequently and stirring to prevent burning. Serve cold. The sauce will be thick and jelly-like.

Cranberry Jelly.

One quart cranberries, 2 cups boiling water, sugar.

Wash and pick over berries. Put in a large stew pan with boiling water and cook 20 minutes. Strain through a fine wire sieve and measure juice. Use for cup of sugar and juice. Return juice to the fire in a smooth stew pan. When boiling sift in sugar and boil three minutes. Turn into molds to become firm and chill.

Cranberry ice is very nice to serve in place of jelly or sauce with roast pork or turkey. If a jellied dessert is wanted the ice offers a change.

Cranberry Ice.

Wash and pick over berries. Put water and berries in a large sauce pan and cook until soft. Rub through a sieve. Add sugar, one-half cup boiling water and juice of lemons. Stir until sugar is dissolved. Pour into a mold and pack in equal parts of ice and salt. Let stand three or four hours.

Cranberry Pudding.

One and one-half cups of cranberries, ½ cup stoned dates, 1 cup sugar, ½ cup beef suet (measured after putting through food chopper), 1½ cups stale bread crumbs, ½ cup milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ¼ teaspoon soda, 2 eggs.

Cut cranberries and dates into small pieces. Work the suet with the hand until creamy. Soak bread crumbs in milk until soft. Mix well-beaten eggs with bread crumbs. Mix all dry ingredients and add to egg and milk texture. Combine with suet and add fruit. Turn in a buttered mold and steam three hours. Serve with vanilla sauce or whipped and sweetened cream.

PACT TO RECOGNIZE SOVIET IN RUSSIA

Jugoslavian Minister to Greece in Berlin, Open For Negotiations.

BELGRADE, Oct. 25.—(Associated Press).—M. Balugtchitch, Jugoslavian Minister to Greece, who recently negotiated the working agreement between Jugoslavia and Greece, concerning the free Jugoslavian zone of Salonica, is now in Berlin, where he is looking into the possibilities for negotiating with Russian Commissars a treaty for the recognition of Soviet Russia, the first agreement of its kind to be effected with any European power. It is predicted here that M. Balugtchitch's mission will be successful.

Two years ago Jugoslavia, by the passage of a "defence of the realm" law, outlawed the Communist movement completely. It is felt here the ban on the right of assemblage enforced vigorously since then with one important exception, when the Government permitted the holding of a Communist mass meeting in this city to protest against the repression of the Communists in Bulgaria, has suppressed the Jugoslavian Communists sufficiently to make them a negligible quantity politically.

Against the modified Communism of Russia as practiced in that country, however, Premier Pashitch is not irreconcileably disposed. It is felt, also, that the solution of the Slavic problem is impossible without the active participation of the greatest Slavic power, Russia. Premier Pashitch is evidently convinced, also, that the moral help of Russia would go far toward answering the Macedonian question.

There are several Russian Commissars in Berlin, qualified to negotiate with M. Blugtchitch, and on his departure to that city the Minister to Greece took ample instructions with him looking to a reconciliations between Jugoslavia and Soviet Russia.

PREPARES TO RE-OPEN TUT-ANKH-AMEN TOMB

LUXAR, October 25. — The summer-long silence of the Valley of the Kings was broken soon after sunrise this morning when Howard Carter and a gang of boys and men began their winter's work. The tomb of Tut-ankh-Amen was not touched nor will it be before the end of the week at the earliest. The task now in hand consists of levelling the ground in front and around the entrance of the tomb of Seti II., the expedition's workshop. For this purpose a large space is being cleared, levelled and provision is being made for an outdor photographic studio on part of the same site.

Despite the sweltering October sun which made the valley like an oven with only very occasional fugitive little puffs of wind to bring relief, everybody seemed delighted to be back on the old work. The foremen were the same as last year, and there were many of the old boys in the gangs. Old or new they worked with a will, their glistening faces beaming through the smothering Thedan dust.

The present task will take three or four days and then Mr. Carter will turn the gangs on to the removal of the 1700 tons of earth that is heaped about the tomb of Tut-ankh-Amen. This covering should be cleared away inside of a week, and then all will be in readiness once more for entering the tomb.

This, if all goes well, Carter expects to do on Nov. 2 or 3.

GOVERNOR REFUSES TO RECOGNIZE AUTHORITY

OKLAHOMA CITY, October 25. —With seven counts against him in the impeachment bill being perfected by the lower house of Oklahoma Legislature, Governor J. C. Walton last night continued his refusal to recognize the authority of the Senate resolution to suspend him, and awaited hearing in the State Supreme court to-day to determine whether he or Lieutenant-Governor M. E. Trapp is legally empowered Chief Executive of the State.

The House approved five articles in the impeachment bill, bringing the total to seven. Every charge thus far considered has been approved.

Fountain For Fountain Pens

A veritable watering trough for fountain pens is the latest aid to higher education at the University of California. More than 1000 students a day fill their pens at it, consuming more than a quart of ink every five hours. It works like the old-fashioned water fountain in chicken yards. The co-ed shown in the picture is Miss Claire McCarthy.

BILIOUS ATTACKS

In some parts of our country the term "biliousness" or "bilious attack" has rather a broad and indefinite meaning. More northerly parts of our country employ the term gastritis in speaking of this toxic attack in the intestines. In certain low-lying sections, where malaria is quite prevalent, the laymen often confuse the two terms. Many people still believe that it is brought about by a change in the weather, especially from summer to autumn.

In former years, when people were accustomed to use coarse or plain food, troubles from poor digestion and constipation were much less common than at present. Indigestion of some food material, which causes stagnation of the intestinal stream, is the forerunner of a bilious attack.

When digestion goes wrong from over-eating or acute catarrhal conditions of the mucous membrane of the intestines, elimination from the body is delayed and the toxic poisons are rapidly absorbed from the intestines. These toxic poisons find their way first to the liver and then to the general circulation.

There is headache, loss of appetite and nausea. The tongue is coated, the breath bad and there is pain in the stomach and back. Vomiting of food is followed by that of bilious secretions, there is much weakness and the skin is sallow.

The attack usually passes in a few days, the source of trouble being removed by a purgative and weak alkaline fluids to sooth the irritated mucous membrane of the intestines. Continue light diet for a few days.

To avoid bilious attacks, be careful of your food and habits of eating. In other words, avoid indigestion and constipation which induce these attacks by knowing your own system, its condition and requirements.

There is no one diet that will suit all cases. A proper proportion of fine and coarse foods, not forgetting the bulky raw vegetables, will usualy prevent the bowels from becoming sluggish.

WOMEN NUMEROUS AMONG UNIONISTS

Represented Half the Delegates at Plymouth Convention.

LONDON, October 26 (Canadian Press Cable). — A feature of the Conservative conference at Plymouth yesterday, which is the first since the breaking up of the Coalition and the return to party government, is the unusual number of women delegates—50 per cent. of the assemblage being women. The only Cabinet Minister present at the opening was Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, the Postmaster-General.

The first subject taken up was the claims of the Irish Loyalists who had suffered loss at the hands of the Republicans during the disturbances in Ireland.

The chairman said the matter would be taken up to-day, but Col. Gretton said they wanted action, not merely ministers' pledges.

The chairman advised them to wait and see. This averted what promised to have been a lively scene as the Irishmen present were threatening drastic steps.

Lord Selborne, moving a resolution demanding the reform of the House of Lords, said that under the present constitution any revolution was possible if an unscrupulous body of men got control of the Government.

The conference adopted a composite resolution affirming that the welfare of the country now depended upon closer economic union with the dominions and a closer understanding of the British Government's scheme of emigration and the vital importance of fostering trade within the Empire.

Among other resolutions passed was one urging that Conservative women should be encouraged to stand for election to public bodies, and recommending that the party branches should form reading circles for the study of constitutional principles and sound economics and also urging the necessity of giving working men and women full representation among officers of the Conservative Association.

A motion urging the use of the term Conservative Party, instead of Unionist Party, was withdrawn.

The anxiety of a section of the Unionist Party in the last Government to pursue a policy which would have separated Britain from France was voiced by Viscount Curzon, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, who moved a resolution declaring that the peace and prosperity of the country and world could be based only on an intimate and cordial understanding with France and Britain's other allies. He denied that his resolution was hostile to the Government. He said he did not want the country tied to France's coat-tails, but he wanted to see a rapprochement on the entente with France.

Ronald McNeill, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, appealed to the conference not to tie the hands of Premier Baldwin, who last night would outline the policy of the Government.

Thereupon the assembly, by an overwhelming majority, resolved to proceed with the next business.

L. J. Maxse succeeded in getting the assembly to adopt a resolution expressing the opinion that any attempt to transfer the main burdens of the war from German to Allied shoulders would be detrimental to British interests and fatal to the peace of the world.

Two British sailors had tickets for the dog show and were gazing with wondering eyes at a Skye terrier, which had so much hair that it looked more like a woollen rug than a dog.

"Which end is 'is 'ead, Bill?" asked one.

"Blowed if I know," was the reply. "But I'll stick a pin in 'im, and you look which end barks."

The height of deviltry, for a boy in the old days, was to "hang around" a livery stable, read nickel novels and smoke cubebs. A lad who read nickel novels was supposed to be going to the dogs. Yet, now that we have a little perspective, the nickel thriller has become respectable.

It was morally clean. That was the incxorable rule of nearly all the thriller publishers, from Beadle on.

Virtue always triumphed and the villain was punished. "Big stakes, desperate chances and the feller gits th' gal"—this was the formula.

Do you remember the old-time blood and thunder novels about the exploits of Deadwood Dick, Frank Merriwell, Young and Old King Brady, Nick Carter, Fred Fearnot and the Liberty Boys of '76?

Dr. Frank P. O'Brien spent 26 years rounding up the largest collection of these thrillers in existence. He has 2,400 different specimens, and these recently have been triumphantly touring the country, on exhibition in various cities. They'll probably be preserved as historical ford University.

Historical relics? Decidedly. The relics in the library of Leland Stannickel novels, with their famous colored covers, thrilled the American youth (and more grown-ups than would admit it) from 1860 until about 1910, when the movies began putting the paper-backs out of business.

Cobourg and District

COBOURG, Oct. 26.—"The Men of Methodism" is one of the very live organizations of the Methodist church here, and on Friday evening they held their inaugural meeting for this season in the Methodist Sunday School hall. A splendid banquet was served by the ladies of the church and an address of outstanding merit was given by the pastor of the church, Rev. R. F. Stillman. The speaker spent some years in British Columbia, going from there to Omemee, and he gave his hearers a live account of the cosmopolitan population there, and the influence of the different nationalities upon the industry and commercial progress of the Sunset Province. He also told of the national resources and referred to the problems that confront the political and national life of the country. It was a fine address and Mr. Stillman was listened to with much pleased attention.

As it was the annual meeting considerable business was disposed of and the following officers were elected to carry on this year:

Hon. President—Rev. R. F. Stillman.
President—Mr. Barrie.
Vice-President—Dr. E. W. Hayden.
Secretary—Mr. A. R. Willmott.
Treasurer—Mr. H. C. Higginbotham.
Committee—Dr. Drewry, Messrs. J. E. Skidmore, David Weigner and W. P. Skitch.

"The Men of Methodism" was first organized in the autumn of 1921 and held regular monthly meetings through the subsequent winter and spring season, usually securing the presence of some outstanding out-of-town speaker to give the address. The ladies served a fine banquet at each meeting and the gatherings are very greatly enjoyed.

High Tea at Armouries

The annual high tea given by the ladies of the Cobourg Congregational church is always an event that is eagerly looked forward to. In order to provide room for all, it was held at the Cobourg Armouries, on Monday evening and was very largely attended. A splendid supper was served and a good musical program was given by Goldring's orchestra.

Rummage Sale a Big Success

The local Chapter of the King's Daughters made a record at their rummage sale held on Wuednesday and Thursday, the total proceeds of which are now stated to be about $500. The rummage sale, which is held at the market building, is an annual event with the King's Daughters. Merchants and townspeople sent a large supply of goods, household articles, clothing, etc., and the ladies devoted the first day to sorting, valuing and tagging this. When all was duly arranged upon tables it presented a fine appearance. The buying public responded, and all day Thursday the King's Daughters were busy disposing of their goods. This Society largely looks after the charitable work of the town, working also in conjunction with the Town Council. Their annual rummage sale is their one way of raising funds, and on it they have loyal support from citizens.

The Late Frederick William Auston

The death took place on Sunday at Brighton of Mr. Frederick William Auston, a son of the late Dr. James Auston of this town. Mr. Auston had been confined to his home by illness for some time with a physician and a nurse in attendance, but it was thought that he had considerably improved and hope was entertained that he would get around again. He was seized with sudden heart weakness and passed away shortly afterwards. Mr. Auston is survived by his wife, before her marriage Miss Frances T. R. Burrell. A memorial service was held for him in St. Paul's church, Brighton, and interment was at Mount Hope cemetery.

George Peacock Mourned

It was learned with very deep regret here as well as in other towns of the Central Ontario Baseball League, that Mr. George Peacock had passed away at Oshawa. By his death, the League has lost one of its best officers.

Enjoyable Social Gathering

Some of Cobourg's citizens were at Port Hope on Monday evening attending a social gathering held under the auspices of Victoria Encampment, Port Hope. There were thirty tables for euchre and the contest was keen. Mr. O. Boyle, of Cobourg, won the gentleman's prize, with Mr. W. O. Brown, of Port Hope, second. Mrs. C. M. Roberts won the ladies' first prize with Mrs. W. Burly second.

The village of Orono is to have a fine field kitchen, valued at about a thousand dollars, which has been received from the authorities at Ottawa for the Community Memorial Park there, and has been stored in the drillshed for the winter.

Death of Harry Ewing

Mr. Harry Ewing, son of the late Charles Ewing of the Customs Office here, and a former Cobourg boy, died in Toronto on Wednesday. After graduating as a druggist he resided in Warkworth for a time and later went to Toronto, where he has since been in business. He leaves a widow and one son and is survived also by two sisters, Miss Nina Ewing and Mrs. Sinclair, both of Toronto. With all very much sympathy is felt.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NEWS

The success of any Chamber of Commerce or similar organization is measured in terms of service and the programme of work is developed from the things uppermost in the public mind. The organization has no system for solving the troubles of all the individual members, nor for solving all the ills and evils of the community.

The Peterboro Chamber of Commerce never has claimed the power to perform miracles, but seeks constantly to translate ideals into actualities, develop industry, trade, commerce and civic spirit, organize co-operation among individuals and concentrate its efforts on the problems confronting Peterboro, without attempting or desiring to supplant government. In short, the Chamber of Commerce strives to be a practical membership service organization—not merely a suite of offices.

The Chamber of Commerce idea is yet so new that the public is still learning what a Chamber can do and what it cannot do in civic matters. Some people want it to side with them in purely selfish undertaikngs, and are full of grief and anger when the Board of Directors votes not to do so.

Others think of the Chamber as a pet dog, to the tail of which they tie some old worthless tin cans, give the dog a good stout kick, and then marvel that doggie does not enter into the fun with the greatest abandon of merriment and zest.

To those who have some pet civic scheme they would like the Chamber of Commerce to father the following rules may be of interest:

1. No purely religious subject should be considered.
2. No part can be taken in the nomination, election or appointment of any candidate for Federal, Provincial, county, township or city office.
3. No civic matters should be taken up unless really important.
4. The Chamber should only take up civic or community matters when business men can make a special contribution to their solution.
5. The Chamber should give its attention to civic or community matters which have an important bearing on commerce and industry, or the solution of which is especially important to commerce and industry.
6. When a Chamber takes up a civic, commercial or industrial matter, it should consider it both from the commercial and from the community standpoint.
7. A Chamber should not duplicate existing agencies where they are effective or can be made effective, but should co-operate with and assist them.

ODDITIES IN NEWS

IRON.

Production of pig iron in the United States has slumped some since the middle of the summer, when all records were being smashed.

But the iron output still is over three times as big as it was at this time of year in 1920, during hard times. And it is a fourth more than in 1913, a typical pre-war normal year.

The outlook is good. We can't expect records to be broken month after month without some setbacks. Business comes in waves.

MAIL-ORDER

Sears-Roebuck mail-order sales in first nine month this year were a fourth larger than in the corresponding period of 1922. The other big catalog house, Montgomery-Ward, had a 52 per cent gain in business.

Which means that farmers have been buying quite heavily, for farmers make up the bulk of mail-order business. It's to the city man's interest for farmers to have their full share of the national prosperity. When they get it, they'll buy city-made products with a vengeance. Most of their buying lately has been compulsory. They're still far behind their needs.

RUST.

Rust destroys 30 millions tons of iron and steel a year, investigation by steel makers shows. Golden opportunity here for inventors to develop rust-proofing processes.

Incidentally, 30 million tons is more than all the pig iron made in our country last year. Everything wears out in time and requires replacing. That helps bring prosperity by keeping producers busy.

THEATRICAL.

Strange things are happening to the theatrical art, which remained virtually unchanged for many centuries.

We have movies, where the audience sees a play without actually seeing or hearing the actors.

Also we have radio-drama, the audience hearing the actors without seeing them.

The two—movies and radio-drama—might be combined into a novel sort of entertainment. Maybe this will be the eventual "talking movie."

SPENDERS.

Investment securities are "on the bargain counter at enormous and almost unparalleled returns on the money invested," but there seems to be no money for investment among the rank and file of people, mourns the New York banker, Jules S. Bache.

There never was a better time for saving and investing money. Be a wise squirrel. The buying power of the dollar stands a good chance of returning to normal— practically doubling—before 1950. The dollar save now may be worth $2 later, in buying power.

BLACKHEADS

Don't squeeze blackheads— dissolve them. Get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store and rub with a hot, wet cloth briskly over the blackheads. They simply dissolve and disappear by this safe and sure method.

MILES OF FAT

4,600,000,000 pounds of fats of various kinds, or an average of 43.8 pounds per person are consumed annually by the people of the United States, according to F. M. Barnes, head of the Edible Oils and Fats Division of the Procter & Gamble Company.

If all the edible fats consumed yearly in the United States were laid end to end in pound prints, says this authority, a cable 353,280 miles long would be built. Such a rope of pure fat woud wind fourteen times around the globe and have a little matter of 3,280 miles left to loop up in a bow.

This impressive quantity, however is 1,385,000,000 pounds less than should be eaten, according to dietitians, who claims that at present the average per capita consumption, is some thirteen pounds less than it should be and give fifty-seven pounds of fat per person per year as the correct individual quota for perfect health.

Government figures show the growing inclination of housewives to turn away from lard to vegetable fats. Whereas twenty five years ago lard was practically the only cooking fat used in the home, vegetable fats now make up 33.82% of the whole amount used in American kitchens.

The following figures for fat consumption in various cities of the United States vary greatly, owing, probably, to differences in cooking habits based upon climate or foreign tradition, but they serve to show the trend of diet locally. According to these figures, gathered from local authorities, each of the 191,601 inhabitants of Omah eat 153.9 pounds of fat a year, while the 993,739 people of Detroit eat only 37.8 pounds each. Little Rock's 65,142 inhabitants consume each 188 pounds or a total of 12,260,620 pounds of fat per year. Birmingham, Alabama with 178,806 as the figure of population consumes 13,630,000 pounds or 76.2 pounds a person. Atlanta, Georgia with 200,616 persons consumes 9,334,000 or only 46.5 for each person. The people of Washington eat 46.6 pounds, of St. Louis 48.7, of Grand Rapids 71.

RADIO INNOVATION FOR BROADCASTING

Eliminates Outstanding Difficulties Experienced While Listening In.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 24.—One of the outstanding difficulties experienced while listening in on the regular run of broadcasting stations may be eliminated by an innovation here.

The difficulty is the interference in the form of an incessant hum from the motor generators that develop the power to transmit the radio programs.

The innovation is the substitution of battery for motor generator as direct source of transmitting power. It is the work of the Willard Storage Battery Company which has begun transmitting from its own broadcasting station, WTAM, every Wednesday and Saturday nights. Its wave lengths is 390 meters.

Noiseless, steady, vacuum tube operation is what radio engineers have considered ideal for radio transmission. And battery current, the Willard engineers say, is the kind that meets this ideal. It is a pure direct current generated by chemical, not mechanical, action. The result, they add, is elimination of a steady hum, and a more clearly broadcast program.

Greater Efficiency

At the same time, the use of choke coils and filter condensers is obviated. They cut down the efficiency of operation, explain the Willard engineers, by consuming much power and wasting more in overcoming resistence.

With its resultant advantages, therefore, WTAM has started sending its voice out into the air, and letters from listeners have been coming in commenting on the clarity of the concerts.

The station has an output of 1000 watts, making it one of the largest broadcasting stations in the country. The power source consists of a battery of 1280 cells, of two volts each and a capacity of 12 ampere hours. Broadcasting, however, is done only on 2000 volts, so that only 1000 cells are in use at one time.

12-Hour Supply

Charging is effected through the regular 110-volt lighting system, at a normal charging rate of one ampere. Fully charged, the battery will operate the broadcasting station for 12 continuous hours, before recharging is necessary.

Besides having this peculiar advantage of battery transmission, WTAM boasts ideal location, far from electric car lines, away from noisy mechanical apparatus and eight miles from the business center of Cleveland. Its aerial stretches between two 140-foot towers 100 feet apart, and consists of two six-wire cage antennas joined by the lead-in.

The counterpoise consists of 12 250-foot lengths of wire five feet apart, set 12 feet above the ground.

CUT AND DRIED

We're well on our way to civilisation of canned food, canned music, canned drama, and canned thought.

This idea is set forward by Count Ilya Tolstoi, son of the Russian writer.

Well, yes. We buy food canned in a tin, music canned in the phonograph and radio, and drama canned in movie form so half a dozen shows can be carried around in a suitcase full of film reels.

The idea, that our thoughts also are reaching us in canned form, is true, though few of us ever sized it up that way. Propagandists, of course, are the chief canners. One consolation is that a variety of cans of thought are handed to us, and we can take our pick.

Is it a good thing that our thoughts are reaching us in canned form? Why not? It's merely a process of delegating our thinking to an endless procession of experts.

The man who thinks entirely for himself is a mental Jack-of-all-trades-and-master-of-none. Each question that comes up he concentrates on as if it were the most important thing in the universe. Waste of time.

Say there's going to be an eclipse of the sun. Do you waste time trying to figure out why? Certainly not. You want an astronomer to do his bit of thinking for you. He does. Newspaper is your agent or medium of exchange.

When the astronomer's automobile breaks down, he turns it over to a garage mechanic instead of trying to figure it out himself.

Billions of different things to think about in the world. Tendency is for each person to single out the line of thinking that interests him most—and concentrate on it, become an expert for others.

Printing press cans thoughts for the future, as fast as discovered.

BEARS ARE HUNGRY.

SARANAC LAKE, N.Y. (United Press.—Adirondack fire observers report that bears appear to be having unusual difficulty this Autumn in obtaining sufficient food. The berry crop was poor this year and the bears are thin and in bad condition. They are so hungry they have even taken to eating porcupines

Fire observers shoot many porcupines about their cabins and mountain towers, as the animals are very destructive on timber. Hundreds Sick and Discouraged Found Quick Relief in Dreco

WOULD ALMOST TOPPLE OVER

A sluggish liver causes more downright distress and misery than almost any other ailment. It upsets all the other organs of digestion and plays general havoc with the whole body. Dreco is particularly valuable in such cases. Its pure herb, root, bark and leaf juices regulate the liver and other organs and restores them to healthy activity. That is what Mr. Alfred Williamson of 18 Hillary avenue, Toronto, discovered when he started taking this grand remedy.

"My liver and stomach have caused me all sorts of trouble," declares Mr. Williamson. "My food never seemed to digest properly and after meals I was terribly distressed with gas and heartburn. I would get bilious attacks and spots floated before my eyes, while terrible dizzy spells so affected me that I would almost topple over at times. I was often afraid to leave the house on that account, as I never knew when one of these attacks would seize me. My bowels never acted regularly, only when taking harsh laxatives. I could not sleep well and my appetite was poor.

"Fortunately, I heard of the wonderful work Dreco was doing in cases similar to my own and decided to try it. I have only taken one bottle, but it has wrought a tremendous improvement in my condition. It is rapidly restoring my stomach and liver to a healthy condition and I am no longer constipated. I feel better and stronger in every way since taking Dreco."

Dreco contains no mercury, potash or habit forming drugs. Its wonderful ability to aid those who suffer from digestive complaints has been proved time and again right in Toronto. Give Dreco a fair trial and you will never regret it.

Convinced by Help It Gave Friends

Testimonials From People He Knew Convinced Sergeant Elvin of the Salvation Army, That Dreco Was Well Worth Trying. Results Have Delighted Him.

Mr. J. R. Elvin of 177 Mulock street, Toronto, who for twenty years has been a Sergeant in the Salvation Army, is outspoken in his praise of Dreco, the new herbal remedy. Suffering himself, he read of Dreco's wonderful work, heard it spoken of in tones of the deepest gratitude by people he knew well. What more natural than that he should decide to try it himself?

"Although I have only taken a bottle and a half of Dreco, it has done me a world of good already," states Mr. Elvin. "Last winter I had an attack of lumbago, which left my system in a very badly run-down condition. Pains shot across my back, over the kidneys. My stomach would not digest my food properly, causing gas to raise after each meal, and I often had bilious attacks.

"After reading of the help people I knew were receiving from Dreco, I thought it might also benefit me and I have not been disappointed in any way. The pains in my back have greatly improved, my stomach is much better and I have had no gastric or bilious spells since I started taking this medicine.

"My bowels are regular; I get up feeling fine and refreshed in the mornings and my day's work is done much easier. I have recommended Dreco to many already and never hesitate to praise it."

Dreco's claims can be readily substantiated. Reliable people who have tried it are loud in their praises of this fine herbal remedy. They have found that it actually does tone and regulate the system and improve the general health. Dreco is made from herbs, roots, bark and leaves and contains no mercury, potash or habit forming drugs.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Peterboro by Bond's Drug Store. Go there to-day and ask for Mr. Vaughan, the Dreco Expert, and let him explain the merits of this great remedy. There is no charge and he will tell you honestly if he believes Dreco will benefit you. Dreco is also sold in Lakefield by E. H. Northey, by J. E. Birks, Campbellford, and by a good druggist everywhere

FRANCE, BELGIUM AND ITALY AGREE AS TO CONFERENCE

Have Accepted British Invitation With Understanding That Parley Shall Take Form of Expert Committee.

LONDON, Oct. 26. — (Canadian Press.)— France, Belgium and Italy have accepted the British invitation for a reparations conference, with the understanding that it shall take the form of a committee of experts under the authority of the present Inter-Allied Reparations Commission.

Official British opinion concerning the response of Secretary of State Hughes to Lord Curzon's reparations conference invitation is cautious and reserved. Broadly, however, there is a feeling in government departments that the clear-cut declaration of United States brings an International conference on reparations appreciably nearer.

Put It On Paper.

While the general attitude of the United States on the reparations conference was already well known, the British government appears to be much satisfied to have the Coolidge administration re-state it specifically and clearly on paper.

There is a distinct feeling of satisfaction over the helpful, friendly tone of renewed offer of co-operation, but officials here are under no delusion as to how far the United States can go in its participation in the reparations settlement.

Meet in Berlin.

It is understood that British members will be the same as those who served last year on Bankers' committee, on which the United States was represented by J. P. Morgan.

It is thought that Berlin will be chosen as the seat of conference since the chief function of the committee will be to inquire into Germany's financial assets.

Selection of the French, Belgian and Italian personnel is expected to be completed shortly.

Today's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26. — (United Press).—A substantial improvement in the reserve position of both the local financial bank and the system as a whole and encouragement felt about the outlook for an economic conference of all the Allies served to steady prices in the main body of stocks in the early dealings.

New York Central, Studebaker, Baldwin and American Can. showed a good tone, but heavy selling took place in specialties.

Famous players broke 5 5-8 to 60, reflecting the company's decision to suspend the production of new pictures, pending reduction in costs.

Indications that the recent selling was directed against stocks in an unfavorable earning position had not affected the issues which form the backbone of the market were supplied in the first hour.

In the face of continued pressure on United States Rubber First Pref. and similar issues, pronounced strength developed in Steel, May Department Stores, Baldwin and American Can. Many commission houses reported more buying orders than selling orders. This is born out by increases in the stockholders of a record report by United States Steel, Pennsylvania Railroad and many other old-line companies. But with professionals and the average trader picking on stocks on every two or three point advance, the good effect of the investment buying is lost so far as market appreciation is concerned. The increases in stock holders of record will tell when Wall Street turns bullish and buyers find a smaller floating supply.

Secretary-Treasurer Ludvigh, of the company, commenting on the announcement that the company will shut down the production of new films for the time being, said that, in his opinion, this constituted an insurance of the common dividend. The shutting down on production, he said, means that the outlay for films is complete and no further production expense will be necessary for months to come.

"We are now going to turn the negatives into cash. We have $15,000,000 worth of new films on hand, the best part of the year's production mainly made during the late spring and summer when costs are low."

Opening Prices.

United States Steel 87; Famous Players 60, off 5 5-8; Studebaker 96 3-8, up ¼; Can. Car. ¼, off 1-8; Baldwin 116 3-4; Union Pacific 127½, off ¼; New York Central 100¼, up 5-8; American Sugar 53, off 3-8; Corn Products 123, off 1; Texas Company 40¼, off 1-8.

THE GRAND JURY FIND TRUE BILLS HOME BANK CASE

Directors and Officials Will Not Appear Again In Police Court—Trial At Next Assizes.

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—(Special.)—A sudden move was made on the part of the Crown in the prosecution of the Home Bank directors and officials this afternoon, when D. L. McCarthy, K.C., special counsel retained by the government, appeared before Mr. Justice Mowat in the Assizes at a quarter to one this afternoon and asked His Lordship to set a day for trial. Mr. McCarthy's request followed the presentation of true bills by the Grand Jury.

Mr. Justice Mowat told Mr. McCarthy to appear before Mr. Justice Kelly on the Monday morning in the Assizes and apply then to have the date set.

Mr. Eric Armour stated that the Home Bank directors and officials would not appear again in police court, but that any renewal of their bail would be granted from the Crown Attorney's office. He stated that probably the trial would be at the next Assizes.

The Grand Jury filed slowly into the Assizes Court, where Mr. Justice Mowat was presiding, at 12.45, and returned "true bills" in the cases of the Home Bank directors and officials, Herbert J .Daly, Richard P. Gough, S. Casey Wood, J. F. M. Stewart, F. J .B. Russell, Clarence F. Smith, C. A. Barnard, A. E. Calvert, O. G. Smith and Sidney H. Jones.

True bills were returned in both cases. The finding of the Grand Jury was signed by Robert Dollerty, the foreman.

The names of witnesses as given on one of the true bills are: Bennett John Roberts, H. E. Guilford, H. D. Lockhart Gordon, G. T. Clarkson, A. B. Barker and George Edwards.

Society

Mr. W. A. Hunter has returned home after spending the last three months visiting his daughter Mrs. Gilbert at Fairmount, Sask.

The regular monthly meeting of the 57th Regimental Chapter, I.O.D. E. was held yesterday afternoon in the officers' quarters at the Armouries, the regent, Mrs. E. B. Clegg, presiding. A pleasant feature of the programme was an interesting and pithy address by Mr. F. H. Dobbin, on the work of the Mothers' Allowance Commission.

Arrangements were discussed for the forthcoming Armistice Tea on November 9th, in aid of the National Educational Fund. Mrs. W. McKee Bingham will have charge of the musical programme for the occasion. The Major Bennett Chapter, I.O.D.E., will conduct a booth for the sale of home-made candy at the tea.

Mrs. Douglas J. Lawrie will receive for the first time since her marriage at 480 Charlotte street, from 4 to 6, on Tuesday afternoon, October the 30th.

Mr. James Lewis went to Stouffville to attend his sister's funeral, Mrs. Albert Davis.

Mrs. V. W. Chatterton of Passadena, California, is visiting Mrs. Wm. Davis, corner of Margaret avenue and Charlotte.

The Berean Bible Class of Knox Presbyterian Church held a very successful variety entertainment in the Ladies' Parlors at the church, yesterday evening. An interesting musical programme included instrumental selections by Mr. M. C. Mackinnon and Miss May Pollock, and readings by Mrs. H. M. Hobson. The tea-room with pretty tables decorated with marigolds and Hallowe'en fancies, was in charge of Mrs. J. Girard, Mrs. Herbert Anderson sold home-made candy and cooking Mrs. J. Trussler had the table of fancy articles, and a variety tree for small novelties was in charge of Mrs. W. Lyburn. The president of the society Mrs. J. Foster, had the Scripture cake for which the ladies sold recipes.

An enjoyable and well-attended Hallowe'en tea was held yesterday afternoon and evening at the home of Mrs. N. H. Sutton, 543 Park Street, under the auspices of the Women's Guild of All Saints' Church. Guests were received by the president of the Guild, Mrs. P. Ftzgerald, and Mrs. Sutton. Decorations were carried out in the pretty Hallowe'en fancies, with cut-outs of pumpkins and witches and owls in the conventional orange and black. A sale of home-made cooking was in charge of Mrs. M. Black, Mesdames Sabin and Dillon sold candy, and Mrs. A. Haskill had charge of the tea room, assisted by Mesdames Dobbin and Detcher. Mrs. J. Crowe poured tea. The musical programme was in charge of Mrs. R. Trotter, and consisted of vocal solos given by Mrs. Trotter, Miss Mamie Benor and Miss Edna Borbridge, instrumental duets by the Misses McCannan and the Misses Young, instrumental selections by Miss Olga Johnston, and violin numbers by Mrs. P. Hooper and Master Roy Rome. Accompanists for the afternoon and evening were Mrs. W. A. Logan and Miss M. Flowers.

Miss Lillian Hill of the teaching staff of the Penetanguishene school is in the city, convalescing after an operation for appendicitis, which took place in the summer holidays. Her mother, Mrs. George Hill, came down from Toronto to be with her.

G. N. Gordon, K. C., M. P., is in Port Hope to-day on business.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

THE TWINS SAVE CHUCKIE CHICKEN

Chuckie Chicken had grown up—in his own estimation! That means that he thought, like many other young people, that he knew more than his elders.

When Mister Cockadoodle Rooster told him that the big brown bird circling around so gracefully in the sky right over Squeally-Moo Land was a chicken-hawk, waiting for a chance to pounce down and carry off a nice fat young chicken for his dinner—Chuckie just went on picking up bugs with his beak as though he didn't hear him at all.

"Just likes to preach so he does!" he sniffed when Mister Rooster had gone. "As though I didn't know how to take care of myself!"

Chuckie jumped as though he'd heard a gun. "Wh—who is it?" he gasped.

"I was just telling my friends, Nancy and Nick, here, that you weren't really as brave as you pretended to be," said he. "And you aren't, either, or you wouldn't have jumped so just now. I heard what Mister Rooster said to you and if you're wise fellow you'll take his advice and not wander away so far all by yourself. Suppose you'd get away over there in the buckwheat field some time and old Hunter Hawk would make a swoop down and grab you—there wouldn't be anybody near to lift a finger to save you. You'd better stay 'round where the others are."

But this advice only made Chuckie worse than ever, particularly as he did not like to be told that he was afraid.

"Pooh!" he said. "I guess I'm no baby! I'm not going to be tied to anybody's apron strings, and I shall go where I please."

And away went Chuckie, straight for the distant buckwheat field.

But it wasn't five minutes until Mister Dodger and his helpers heard a faint cry for help.

"There! I knew it!" cried the fairyman. "Chuckie doesn't deserve it, but we'll have to save him. Run!"

They arrived just in time, for Hunter Hawk already had a tight hold on Chuckie and was just about to fly away.

"Now, Chuckie," said Mister Dodger kindly, a minute later when Hunter Hawk had been driven off and the little chicken lay weak and frightened on the ground. "You don't need a lecture. But I think you've learned a lesson. After this you'd better listen to wiser heads than yours."

GENERAL ELECTRIC

regards surplus, and as regards total stock outstanding which will remain at $12,800,000 as at present. The common stock of your company will be converted to the extent that its respective holders so elect into a $50 share of the new preference stock and a $50 share of common stock for each previous $10 share of common stock; common stock not accepting conversion will remain undisturbed, save that each $100 share will be divided into two $50 shares.

The above offer by the American corporation of $62.50 in cash and $50 in new preference stock for each present $100 share of common stock is contingent upon the acceptance of the same by a sufficient number of the common shareholders, and also upon the obtaining from the common shareholders of the voting support necessary to the carrying through of the proceedings above outlined and subject as aforesaid is open to your acceptance until Dec. 15, 1923. If you wish to take advantage of it kindly forward at once to the National Trust Company, Limited, 18 King street East, Toronto, the documents herewith enclosed in each case duly executed by you, namely, (A) Letter of instructions. (B) Power to transfer stock in blank. (C) Power to give proxies.

On the acceptance of the offer by a sufficient amount of stock your directors will proceed to call the necessary meetings and to take the necessary steps as outlined above, and on the completion of the same there will be forwarded to you your proper amount of cash and a new preference stock. Should the offer not be accepted by a sufficient amount of stock, or should the necesary votes not be concurred in by a sufficient amount of stock, your present common stock will be returned to you with the least possible delay. In neither case will there be any charge or expense to you.

Your directors would add that acceptance of the offer of the American corporation.

Yours truly, A. E. Dyment, President, on behalf of the Board.

In view of the meeting the statement of the American company for the first nine months of 1923 is of more than passing interest. In the first quarter of the year, the three months to March 31, General Electric booked $80,014,045 of new business. In the second quarter the figures reached a total of $84,249,710, so that for the first half of the year new business placed on the books aggregated $164,263,755, an annual rate of $328,000,000, a new high record in the company's history, exceeding even the previous record year of 1920. Orders received in the third quarter, the three months to September 30, totaled $65,483,549, a decrease of approximately $18,800,000 or 22 per cent., as compared with the second quarter. This business was, however, $6,568,929, or nearly 11 per cent. greater than in the corresponding period of the 1922 year.

For the first nine months of 1923 General Electric has received orders for very nearly $230,000,000 of electrical apparatus, as contrasted with $173,000,000 in the corresponding nine months of last year, an increase of $56,613,000, or 35 per cent. The details of orders received in comparison with the corresponding quarters of 1922 are shown below:

The slowing down in incoming orders received by General Electric since the end of June has been in keeping with the course of events anticipated. This decrease is partly seasonal, but undoubtedly it principally is a reflection of the retardation in general business which has developed in so many lines throughout the United States.

It may be noted in passing that there has been some pick up in the business of the General Electric Company during October, say Hayden, Stone & Co., with a prospect that the company will hook at least as large a total of business in the last three months of this year as it did during the third quarter. In the event the year's business for all of 1923 would just short of $300,000,000 and would not equal by $18,000,000 to $20,000,000 the dollar total of orders received in the high record years of 1920. Considering the difference in selling price, however, it is undoubtedly a fair statement that the actual volume or tonnage of orders received this year will eclipse any prior 12 months in the long and successful history of this corporation.

MORE CO-OPERATION BETWEEN CANADA AND THE UNITED STATES

BUFFALO, Oct. 26.— (Canadian Press. — Closer co-operation between the United States and Canada for the purpose of suppressing illicit traffic in narcotic drugs across the border was agreed upon yesterday at the first International conference of representatives of the two countries. A plan to stamp out traffic was announced.

HAMILTON WOMAN SUES FOR BREACH OF PROMISE

TORONTO, Oct. 26.— (Canadian Press.)—Charles Garrow, K.C., Master of Supreme Court here, to-day ruled that Mrs. Ena Rose, widow, of Hamilton, Ont., must give particulars, with dates and places, in connection with her action to rescind contract of marriage, and secure damages for alleged injury to mind, heart and financial position against S. W. Chadwick, jeweller, of Simcoe, Ont.

Mrs. Rose declares that the defendant proposed and gave her a ring, and that she sold out her business, but that Chadwick's behaviour underwent a sudden change and she has had no further communication with him.

OBITUARY

ROBERT W. R. GRUBBE.

The death occurred at Nicholls Hospital this morning of Robert William Radcliffe Grubbe, who for nearly sixty years has been a resident of Peterboro. For the past few days he had not been feeling well, and last night was taken to Nicholls Hospital, and slept peacefully to his rest shortly after nine o'clock this morning.

The late R. W. Grubbe came of a very ancient English county family of Buckinghamshire, where his ancestors were lords of the manor since the days of Oliver Cromwell, and before that time held an estate in Hertfordshire, which was granted to them by the Crown. He was a direct descendant of Sir Richard Radcliffe, who was slain at Bosworth Field in 1485, and had the right to hyphenate the name of Radcliffe with that of Grubbe. Sir Richard Radcliffe was the ancestor of the Earl of Derwentwater.

The deceased was born at Madras, India, on the 27th of April, 1844, the second son of Captain William Henry Grubbe, of the Honorable East India Company Artillery, by his first wife, Elizabeth Conwell, daughter of Anthony Conwell, of "The Hermitage," Dungannon, Ireland, and grandson of Captain John Grubbe of 'Horsendon Manor,' Buckinghamshire. He was christened at the Cathedral at Madras by the Rev. Arthur Morris, M.A. Shortly afterward, his mother died, and he was taken to England, then came to Barrie, Canada, and when a very young lad, entered the Hudson Bay Company, then joined the staff of the Bank of Toronto at Montreal. He joined the Victoria Rifles and was a veteran of the Fenian Raid, 1866. He was transferred to Peterboro, and shortly afterward married Ada Louise Haselwood Wrighton, daughter of William Wrighton (clerk of the peace, deputy clerk of the Crown). Mrs. Grubbe died on May 19, 1919.

For nearly forty years the late R. W. Grubbe was connected with the Bank of Toronto, Peterboro, and was so well-known in town and country that it became known as "Grubbe's Bank." He loved nature and little children. He was a member of the Church of England until his marriage, when he became a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, under the Rev. D. L. Macdonell, and later went to St. Paul's Church.

He leaves two sons to mourn his loss: Eustace Haselwood Grubbe, of Vancouver, and Harry Haviland Grubbe, of Toronto, and three grandchildren: Elizabeth, John and Barbara Grubbe, of Vancouver, B.C.

The funeral will take place from his late residence, 47 McDonnel Street, on Monday, October 29th.

POLISHING CLOTH.

Nothing is better for a polishing cloth than an old piece of velvet or velveteen. China silk from which all stiffness has been washed is also excellent for fine wooden surfaces.

INFORMATION AS TO REVISED SALES TAX

Expert in This Matter to Address Meeting Here, November First.

Attention is now being given by the manufacturers, wholesalers, retailers and the ultimate consumer of products (who eventually pay the taxes) to the application of the revised Sales Tax of six per cent, which will come into force on January 1st 1924.

So as to enable those interested to become thoroughly acquainted with its details the Manufacturers' Association has arranged a meeting for Thursday evening next November 1st, in the Chamber of Commerce Rooms, at which time Mr. R. N. McCormick Assistant Manager of the Tariff Department of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, Toronto will be present to give full ing formation on this subject.

Mr. McCormick has made a special study of the revised sales Tax and is in a good position to discuss the subject from every angle.

A joint meeting of the Manufacturers' Association and Chamber of Commerce has been arranged for this occasion and all those interested in the subject are cordially invited to be present.

It Pays to Advertise.

Window Gardens

By LOUISE S. MARSHALL.

A most satisfactory and interesting window garden can be made from our attractive wild flowers.

November is the best month to collect the woodland beauties for the winter window garden. They should be left in an open shed or some similar place for a few weeks so that they may complete their resting period before being forced into bloom.

Thick-rooted bloodroots are easy to grow. The graceful columbine is always interesting. Jack-in-the-pulpit bulbs planted in any of the ways in which ordinary bulbs are planted will soon send up interesting leaves and their unique flowers.

RHINELAND SITUATION STILL FAR FROM CLEAR

BERLIN, Oct. 26. — The situation in the Rhineland is still far from clear. German acounts of the latest events there allege that the allied occupation authorities now are actively supporting the separatists, who therefore have been enabled to regain possession of places that they lost to the loyalists.

New and Interesting Facts from Science and Life

Hear What Your Ears Tell About You

YOUR ears do much more than hear. They reveal your character. At least so say physiognomists who have made a special study of the human ear and have found it a most interesting source of information in reading character. Criminologists also point out the fact that the ears of a suspect tell much and are to be relied upon for the purpose of identification, for the ears as well as the nose are two features that are practically impossible of being disguised sufficiently well to escape detection by the keen eye of the trained investigator of crime.

Finger prints are relied upon mostly for the successful identification of criminals, but M. Bertillon, the famous French criminologist and finger print expert, once declared that he considered the ear the feature by which it is easiest for a police official to establish any one's identity. As an example of this, he cites a certain case in which a suspect's innocence was proved by the shape of his ears, when his other features were identical with those of a criminal who was being sought at the time.

Ears are fixed features and are incapable of giving expression or of motion, except in the case of the small boy who is boastfully proud of his ability to "wiggle" his ears, yet physiognomists claim that they plainly reveal various indications of the character and mentality of their possessors.

Miss Antoinette Donnelly, a well known physiognomist, in explaining how to read character by the ears, says that in general, the more uncivilized and savage the race the larger the ears. The smallest ears are found among the Latin races. But the intellect and morality cannot be judged by size alone. There is an enormous difference between the large ear of a savage and that of a cultured white man. The convolutions and angles are quite different. A certain degree of obstinacy is said to be indicated generally by large ears. On persons of large frame they give evidence of commercial capacity and sometimes of great financial ability.

The position of the ears on the head is very important, according to Miss Donnelly. Ears set low are said to indicate a certain hardness of nature, and ears set high, secretiveness and caution. Ears placed far back of the cheeks are said to show weakness and lack of self-reliance.

When each ear is placed on the head in normal position an equilateral triangle can be drawn by connecting the points at the extreme tip of the lobe, the inner angle of the eye and the chin point of the jawbone, as shown in the accompanying illustration.

A consensus of the opinions of physiognomists shows that what is held to be the best type of ear are those that display the largest number of well-rounded and graceful curves. Angles are undesirable, as they are said to indicate unpleasant traits of character. The curvilinear form gives one the assurance of the presence of art capacities of some sort, of domestic traits, of amativeness, love of children, mirthfulness and of an even and a harmonious temperament.

A lack of quick hearing is said to be revealed by the angular, pointed ear and the moral tone of the possessor of this type of auricular appendage is often found to be low. Persons with long, thin ears are to be given confidences, for they can keep secrets. But when hair grows in these ears, according to Miss Donnelly, ill-nature and treachery are indicated.

Professor M. D. Stanton, who has compiled an "Encyclopaedia of Face Reading," has made many interesting observations about the human ear. He says that large ears almost invariably go with musical taste and ability. An unusually small ear, on the other hand, indicates refinement; on a woman it denotes extreme sensitiveness. A tiny ear is almost never found on a strong and powerful face. Such an ear on a man indicates a lack of forcefulness. A broad, well-shaped ear is indicative of a long life. A combination of a small ear and a small, straight nose is said to point to poverty.

The color of ears presents distinct meanings, according to Professor Stanton. He points out that some ears are bright red and the blood seems to be on the point of bursting throught the skin; others are white, transparent and apparently almost bloodless and still others are of a delicate pinkish hue, the sea-shell pink of the poet. Each of these grades of color reveals some characteristic. A red color indicates strong hearing capacity, whereas weakness of hearing is said to accompany a white, thin ear. A white narrow ear, set close to the head reveals timidity and a nervous temperament. Vitality and energy are indicated by a pink color and a clear texture of the skin.

Physiognomists have found that there are many well-defined classes or types of ears, among which are listed the following as the chief varieties:

The Refined Ear: This type ear may be large and well-shaped or small and well-shaped. The texture is really the most important factor in its construction. If the skin is fine and clear, the ear thin, the color white, pink or red, and exhibiting a number of "flutings" or convolutions, the character of its possessor will show delicacy of feeling and refinement of manner.

The Unrefined Ear: The form of this ear may be large and thick or small and thick. The large ear of this type is coarse in texture, of a thick, muddy complexion, broad and flapping in appearance, and destitute of those convolutions which distinguish the ear of refinement. The small ear of this class is conspicuous by the thickness of its shell and the lack of fine, elaborate structure.

The Commercial Ear: The ears of this class are long and broad and in some instances appear elephantine in form and flexibility. They are the largest of all types of ears. As a rule, they are associated with broad heads, large noses, wide jaws and broad shoulders. Specimens of the commercial ear are found among bankers, financiers and successful merchants.

The Oratorical Ear: The ears of great orators and speakers are round in outline, wide perpendicularly and have a deep and broad "bell." This type of ear generally stands well out from the head, which characteristic usually indicates an easy-going disposition. On the other hand, [illegible] backward denotes the possession of ingenuity.

[illegible]al Ear: This type is a well-rounded ear, sitting forward and outward instead of being flat on the side of the head. Its distinguishing peculiarity is the thin rim which is hollowed out at the edge like the rim of a saucer. It is delicate in structure, of great vertical depth. The skin is thin and fine and the "bell" deep and broad.

The Unmusical Ear: The type of ear, according to Professor A. E. Willis, author of "Illustrated Physiognomy," is pointed or angular in outline, and, as the musical sounds are curvilinear in their passage through the air, it is readily seen why an angular ear is not well adapted to the reception of musical sounds; they are necessarily broken up into noises upon striking the jagged points or angles of such an ear. This explains why those with unmusical ears are often heard to say that "music is nothing but noise to them." It is interesting to note in this connection that zebras and other animals with pointed ears have been observed to dislike the playing of musical instruments, while apes and certain other round-eared carnivora show that they greatly enjoy music by lying down quietly and listening while it is being played and by becoming restless and uneasy when it ceases. This was demonstrated by a series of tests conducted at the London Zoological Gardens.

The Courageous Ear: The ear which is large, stands out well from the head and is possessed of a good red color, denotes physical courage. It is also usually associated with good muscular form.

The Timid Ear: The greatest amount of timidity has been found in those who have narrow, long, thin, bloodless ears, set closely against the side of the head. This type of ear is associated with delicately formed frames and long, thin faces, generally of a nervous, and sometimes of a consumptive type. It bears a certain resemblance to the ears of those timid animals, the hare and the deer.

When the Ear Is Set in Normal Position an Equilateral Triangle Can Be Drawn by Connecting the Points at the Tip of the Lobe, the Inner Angle of the Eye and the Point of the Chin.

VARIED DIET OF THE CHINESE

IS the chinese diet adequate? This question is asked and answered in the American Journal of Home Economics by a Chinese author named Chi Che Wang, who makes a comparison between Chinese and American dietaries.

The Chinese people have a very varied diet—eggs, meat, fish, fruit, cereals, and a great variety of vegetables. The common notion that rice is their only food is far from true. Rice merely takes the place of the American bread. Pork is their chief meat. It is used by all classes of people in all parts of China.

Lamb may be substituted for pork, but beef is considered more or less sacred and is very seldom used as food. Unlike Americans, who consider the muscle of an animal almost the only edible part, the Chinese eat everything except hair and bones—the brain, the spinal cord and the various organs, even the skin and the blood.

Fish and shellfish, including crabs, shrimps, lobsters, oysters, and the like, are always so much in demand that many fishermen raise them in their private ponds. Not only are they sold at the market, but they may be purchased from the peddlers who go from house to house every morning. The peddler has a heavy bamboo stick across his shoulder, and suspended from each end of it is a big wooden tub containing a great variety of fish swimming in the water.

Although large chicken farms are unknown in China, Chi Che Wang says he has no doubt that more chickens are raised there every year than in America. Every one who owns a little back yard raises a few chickens and several ducks, and they are sold both at the market and by peddlers. You need not buy a whole fowl, but many purchase such part as you desire, a half-dozen ducks' heads or a dozen ducks' feet to use in soup, or ten or more ducks' tongues to prepare the delicacy of ducks' tongues cooked with ham.

Eggs are used very freely in the Chinese diet, not only hens' eggs but ducks' and pigeons'. They are cooked in many ways—boiled, fried, scrambled—and in addition they are used for seasoning, garnishing, making noodles and preserving. Thus eggs in one form or another are almost always found in a chop suey, chow mein (fried noodles) won dung (meat dumpling), mein ee (something like pancake), and many other dishes.

Vegetables are used very freely by the Chinese people. In addition to the common ones such as spinach, cabbage, potatoes, radishes, and the like, they eat many plants and weeds that are not considered food in America.

There is not so much difference in the use of cereal products in China and the United States as is usually thought. In the south and the central-eastern part of China where rice is produced abundantly it takes the place of wheat, but in the north, as at Peking and Shantung, wheat, corn, and millet seed are used rather than rice.

The rice usually is unpolished. Polished rice is a rather expensive luxury limited to the rich. The wheat flour used in the north is white, much like American flour, but it is not so highly milled. The millet seed, ground or whole, is made into cakes or into a thin mush eaten especially by children.

The Bull-Fighter and His Pigtail

IT is a saying in Spain that to be a great matador one should have Triana blood. Several families of the town have supplied three and sometimes four generations of bull fighters.

Like the actor's art, bull fighting seems to be hereditary. Indeed, every toreador has a good deal of the actor in his make-up and knows quite as well how to sway the emotions of his audience.

The bull fighter's costumes are among the few picturesque ones remaining in a sober world. Tight fitting, they are skilfully cut to show off his slight figure as advantageously as possible. No society girl, it would seem, is more particular about lines or more fastidious as to the material used in the making. Besides the costume, which is always unmistakable, the conservative toreador wears a small pigtail or coleta.

Recently the Matador Belmonte, who likes to be inconspicuous on the street, decided to dispense with his coleta. The whole of Spain, it is said, "rocked with excitement," as the removal of the coleta has always meant the bull fighter's retirement from the ring. His act was discussed in all the cafes and newspapers of the Peninsula and was greatly deplored by every conservative.

The bull fighter allows his coleta to grow as soon as he has passed his novitiate and has been accepted by the authorities as a real torero. Sometimes a foolish youth who has never taken part in a bull fight is tempted to wear a lock of his hair coleta fashion, but he is always careful to dodge every professional for fear of being soundly thumped, to say nothing of having the precious lock cut off.

The bull fighter is immensely proud of this traditional badge of his calling and has little mercy on those who wear it without the right to do so. Even without his distinctive costume or his peculiar coiffure, the bull fighter may always be recognized by his curious swagger and springy gait.

WHAT Makes a HORSE'S LOAD?

A MAN recently appeared before the magistrate of a police court charged with cruelty to a horse by making it draw too heavy a load, and a discussion arose as to what was the proper load for a horse.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has endeavored to establish a rule that a horse should not be required to draw more than three times its own weight, but to the person who knows anything of draught horses such a load seems excessive. It means that a horse weighing a thousand pounds can be made to pull nearly a ton and a half.

While this would not be at all an excessive load on a well-paved, level road, it would be a fearful task for any horse to be asked to pull such a weight on a rough, hilly country road.

The best authorities give it as their opinion that a common farm horse is only equal to a load of fifteen hundredweight, while a powerful dray or cart horse can pull a ton.

For its weight, the horse is an excellent puller, and can beat almost any other animal except a mule. The elephant, for instance, finds a load of two and a half tons about all that it can manage, although that may not be more than a half of its body weight. On the other hand, it is a very exceptional horse that can travel more than sixty miles without a rest and feed, but the elephant and also the camel can exceed that distance considerably.

Tests were recently conducted at the Iowa State Fair to determine the pulling power of draft horses and mules. The competing animals were divided into three classes: Farm teams weighing less than 3,000 pounds, farm teams weighing more than 3,000 pounds and teams not used in agricultural work weighing 3,000 pounds or more. Each team was hitched to a specially constructed dynometer to register its pulling power accurately.

The pulling power of a horse is not known. Private tests conducted in England, in California and at experiment station of Iowa State College at Ames have shown that some horses can generate eight horse power when loaded with weight upon their withers. Without such weight the maximum pulling power on record is six horse power. Comparision will be made eventually between the power and efficiency of the horse and those of the motor truck.

SOLVING the MYSTERY of the ELUSIVE EEL

FOR years zoologists have been trying to discover where the eel spawns and where the young eels spend their earliest infancy before reaching the streams and ponds in which they are usually found. All that could be said with certainty was that the breeding places were not in fresh water, but somewhere in the ocean depths.

Recently Dr. Johannes Schmidt, a Danish professor, set out in a specially-equipped trawler, determined not to return until he had located the eel's birthplace. By dredging the sea-bottom at frequent intervals during the voyage, Dr. Schmidt succeeded in tracing the eel to an area slightly northeast of the Bermudas. Here he found the eel's eggs, and with them millions of young eels—tiny, transparent, sole-shaped fish, with needle-point teeth. From his investigations he pieced together one of the most amazing romances in Nature.

Almost as soon as it is born the tiny eel, scarcely thicker than a bit of paper, begins its pilgrimage of 3,000 miles across the Atlantic Ocean. The journey occupies two years, and is carried out with the assistance of the Gulf Stream, which, in conjunction with the eel's wonderful instinct, guides it to the coast of Europe.

When this stage of the journey is reached the little eel stops feeding, while one by one its teeth loosen and fall out. Further, it gradually assumes a new shape, its roundness becoming more pronounced as the weeks pass by. Towards the beginning of the second winter the young eel has grown up in the likeness of its parents.

Now begins the great trek up the rivers and streams. This part of the eel's history often involves a journey of many miles overland, the same wonderful instinct that guided the creature across the far-flung sea prompting it to wriggle up hill and down dale, until it reaches the waters where it will spend the next seven or eight years.

At the end of this period the eel becomes restless. It discards its grey-green garb for a livery of shining silver, while its movements become almost electric. This change of habit and appearance presages the return of the eel to its native deep. Setting its course downstream, it makes for the sea, whence it noses its way with all haste to the breeding ground it left years before.

From this second great adventure of its life the eel never returns. Having found again the dim, weedy depths where it was born, away off the east coast of Central America, it brings into being the next generation of eels, and then dies.

Still more interesting will be Dr. Schmidt's account of his discovery that two different kinds of eel breed in this colossal trysting ground, one kind traveling to Europe and the other to America. The main difference between the two kinds is that one has fewer bones in its spine.

Finding the answer to the question: Why is it that one kind always makes its way to Europe and the other to America? is perhaps Dr. Schmidt's crowning achievement. If an American eel set out for European waters, it would find itself growing too quickly, with the result that by the time it reached mid-Atlantic it would require fresh water for its sustenance. Unable to get this, it would die. If the European eel sought American waters, a journey occupying only a year, it would arrive before it had emerged from the larval stage.

The POWER of a THUNDERSTORM

WHEN a great storm is raging, with flashes of lightning illuminating the sky and thunder crashes deafening our ears, we realize something of the stupendous powers of electricity.

If a cat's back is rubbed in the dark during hot, dry weather, sparks will often fly from it. They are perfectly harmless, though they are identical with lightning flashes, and the crackling that accompanies them is thunder on a small scale.

In a thunderstorm the earth represents your hand and the clouds are the cat's back, explains a writer in London Tit-Bits. The pressure that causes a flash of lightning may be as much as 1,000,000,000 volts—that is, 5,000,000 times greater than that which is used for household lighting.

Could we collect and harness the power set free by a single flash of lightning, we should have at our disposal a force greater than anything that can be produced by man.

In a famous scientist's laboratory the experiment was tried of producing a million-volt spark. It leaped a ten-foot gap with a noise like the explosion of a bomb and came near to wrecking the entire building. This is the highest pressure that has so far been produced artificially.

Most of the lightning in a thunderstorm does not come near the earth, but flashes from cloud to cloud. Occasionally a fork tongue leaps from cloud to earth, and then anything in its path is destroyed.

How BILLIARD TABLES Are MADE

NINE out of ten billiard players, if asked to name the most important part of a billiard table, usually choose either the slate bed or the cushions. Actually the wood is of the very first importance, for unless this has been through a process of weathering for many years it will warp and render the table useless.

Mahogany is by a long way the favorite for this purpose, but oak and walnut are both used. English oak, though wonderfully strong and durable, through its tendency to twist and split, is difficult for the carver and joiner to handle.

The making of the rubber cushions is also a matter for the most skilled workmanship.

Reaching the factory from the Amazon in large blocks, the rubber is first cut open and soaked in water, before going through a washing mill that at the same time grinds out all the impurities—such as sand and bits of bark—and whirls them away.

The pure rubber is then vulcanized, pressed into sheets of the right thickness and cut up into strips of the size required for the table.

The selection of ivory for the balls is no easy matter, according to Pearson's Weekly. Of all the tusks of ivory that are imported at present only about one in fifty is sufficiently close-grained and suitable in size for the billiard ball turner's use. Though elephant tusks have weighed as much as 465 pounds the pair, and many are over 100 pounds.

These are then turned roughly and hung up in nets in a level temperature for two or three years to "season," before they are finally turned and polished. Ivory balls in use should never be placed in a damp or cold position, since the substance always remains remarkably sensitive; nor should they be exposed to heat.

The best way if they are to retain their truth is to keep them in bran.

The points of the best cues are usually made of French ash or maple, which have been found by experience to keep straighter than other woods. For the embellishment of the butt ebony is the favorite, but tulip wood—a wood from Brazil of a red color with yellowish streaks—and rosewood are both employed sometimes.

Most striking of the revelations of the manufacturer of billiard tables are the facts about the cloth, for which the pick of the world's wool is used to produce a fabric that will stand up to its work.

No fewer than twenty-two fleeces are required to cover a single table, since a large proportion of the fleeces is rejected during the processes of cleaning and combing before the weaving begins.

To keep a cloth in the best condition two things are essential: careful brushing and ironing. The strokes of the brush must invariably be in the same direction—that is, with the nap—and the same rule holds good for the iron, which should never be too hot, or else the cells of the wool will be deprived of the natural moisture which they need to keep in good condition.

Where It Hurts Most

DRAWING a tooth is said to be the extreme of human pain. The rupture of the branching dental nerve causes such agony as no human being could stand for more than two seconds at a time.

It is a curious fact that while a deep and dangerous wound often causes nothing but a dull ache, a slight surface injury is often intensely painful. A splinter driven into the quick of the nail causes the most intense agony.

The tips of the fingers and the tip of the tongue, according to physiologists, are the most sensitive portions of the human frame. The cornea of the eye is also extremely sensitive.

Of ailments, the three which cause most pain are toothache, earache, and neuralgia of the fifth nerve. The latter has been known to drive the sufferer quite mad for the time being.

Catching Mice with Music

THE use of music with animals is well understood in the East, where the snake-charmer makes the deadly cobra dance to his piping.

Now it is suggested that gramophones should be installed in every house, for it is said that the sweet strains of a band, the trills of a Melba, or the top notes of a Caruso have a magical effect upon mice.

For instance, it is reported that the musical mouse-trap is extremely deadly, and that anyone bent on clearing his house or barns of these destructive rodents should not set a trap which can do nothing but wait for the coming of its prey, but one which can play, say, a Bach Fugue or a Beethoven Symphony.

It has been found that the tinkling strains of music attract mice irresistibly, so that they wander gaily into the trap, thinking, evidently, that it is a concert arranged on their behalf.

JUNIOR O.R.F.U. GAME SATURDAY SHOULD DRAW BIG ATTENDANCE

The sporting public should not overlook Saturday's rugby game between Peterboro juniors and the Y. M.H.A. juniors of Toronto. It will be played at Riverside Park beginning at 2.15 o'clock, and deserves generous patronage from the local fans.

The promoters of rugby have met with numerous difficulties in their efforts to restore the game in Peterboro, and they should receive the loyal support of all those who are interested in putting this city back again in the O.R.F.U. ranks. The team has been working out faithfully under the management of Max Sloan, and they have recruited a promising looking line. Eighteen men are on the roster for Saturday as follows: Halves, Johnnie Ward, Pete Mulholland, Lionel Brown and N. McCall; snapback, Alf Johnston; flying wing, Emmet Sheehy and E. Johnston; outside wings, McPherson, McClellan, Holland and Patterson; inside, Griffin, Cowan and Currie; middle, Ashmore, Wilgar and Clancy; quarterback, Jack Turner.

The officials for the game will be Sweeney Davis of Toronto and Major Gifford of Peterboro.

The price of admission is 35c at the gate, but for those sold over town the price is 25c. A supply of tickets has been placed at Lebarr's store, and it is hoped that every one of them will be taken.

THANKSGIVING DAY RACE IS ON OUTSIDERS INVITED TO ENTER

Doug. Loomis and Charlie Thorpe who are collaborating in the preliminary arrangements for the Thanksgiving Day Road Race announced last night that the entries warrant holding the race as promised on the condition that ten entries were received by Tuesday night for each event.

There have been nine entries in each, and it is expected that there will be a number of others before the list is closed on Saturday, November the 5th. By the way a slight error has been made in the bills that have been posted, and all those interested are asked to note the correction. The entries close on November 5.

Some of the details have not yet been worked out, but it has been decided to return to the original course of the Examiner race from Lakefield to Peterboro for the senior event.

As to those who are eligible to compete, it is understood that no one within the prescribed age limits will be rejected. This means that outsiders from Millbrook, Lakefield and all the towns of the district, Lindsay, Oshawa, Port Hope, for example, will be allowed to start if they comply with the essential regulations.

SCOTS AND VETS ON SATURDAY

Senior, Junior and School Championships to Be Played—Other Notes.

LOCAL SOCCER GAMES TO-MORROW.

Central School versus King Edward at Oval, at 1.30 p. m., in School Championship.

C. P C. versus DeLaval at King Edward Park, in Junior Championship (Taylor Trophy) at 2 o'clock.

Without doubt Saturday's Soccer play-off between the G. W. V. A. and the Thistle teams is an appropriate finish to an excellent season of healthy recreaton which has given over one hundred and fifty-six players the pleasure of relaxation.

Throughout the league games, these two teams have been in a neck and neck race, and on one occasion the Thistle defeated the Vets two goals to one in a league game which was ordered to be replayed on account of the game being unfinished through darkness.

Participants of the play should not pay any attention to the spectators who have the habit of giving uncalled for advice. Players can assist the referee in many ways by playing the game and accepting the decisions given by the "Knight of the Whistle."

A large crowd of spectators witnessed a good game last Saturday afternoon and no doubt will see another to-morrow at Nichools Oval. Kick-off at 3 prompt. Referee J. Russell. Neutral linesmen: J. Cairns and W Cook of the Executive.

Mr. Niven who refereed last Saturday's game, has had the highest soccer honours in Canada bestowed upon him. To be selected as the "Knight of the Whistle" for many a Connaught Final by the Dominion authorties and then to be chosen by Ontario Assocation for the Ontario Cup finals, year after year, is an excellent criterion of a person's capabilities.

Central soccer team appeared in their last game in regultaion pants which gave them a smart appearance some of the Alexandra boys appearing in smart uniforms. They have a clever forward rank, backed up by stalwart Lewis at half-back and look promising for the School Championship.

St. Peters' soccer team failed to put in an appearance last evening to play the Queen Mary team in a scheduled game. At 4.45 prompt, the referee lined up the Queen Mary boys who went down and scored a goal therby awarding them the game one goal to nothing. These two teams drew twice already.

DeLaval Junior Soccer Champions will meet the fast-going C. P. C. team in Mayor Taylor's Cup Final, on Saturday afternoon, at King Edward Park.

CRITICIZE STEVE DONOGHUE'S STYLE

Sat Stiffly in Saddle As If On Review, Says Sports Writer.

Old-timers of the turf, says Joe Williams, were not tremendously impressed by the style or skill of Steve Donoghue, celebrated star from overseas, who was up on the defeated thoroughbred. His manner of sitting stiffly erect in the saddle, as in on review, came in for general criticism. Sande looked much more business-like, crouched low, riding loosely and urging his mount on with gentle nudgings.

Donoghue came to America for the big race heralded as the greatest rider in the world. His feat of riding three consecutive winners in the Epsom Derby, England's most important turf event, is unexampled in the history of the sport. For eight straight years Donoghue has led all the English jockeys in total race victories. This record speaks for itself. Unquestionably the 39-year-old Irishman is a great rider, but he is no greater than Sande, and, in the light of what happened at Belmont, it is improbable that he is as great.

How Sande Started.

Sande is a young man 24 years old who normally weighs about 110 pounds. He is from a small town in South Dakota, Groton, by name. His career is not lacking in touches of color and romance. At the age of nine he satisfied a boyhood yearning and buying an unkempt looking ranch pony for $15, the battered frame of an old bicycle and four tame ducks. "One of 'em limped," recalls Sande, with a boyish smile.

Sande started riding in the county fairs around Salt Lake City. Eventually he drifted to New Orleans, and in the fall of 1918 rode his first "real race," having the mount on Liberator. Sande was beaten by a head Finally he struck up a winning gait, and in due time his obvious genius as a rider attracted the attention of Commander J. K. L. Ross, Canadian sportsman, who bought his contract for $18,000.

This made him a big leaguer and he has been a big leaguer—a heavy hitting one, too—ever since.

Sande has some interesting viewpoints on noted racers. For instance, he does not agree with the rest of the world that Man o' War was invincible.

"Zev was faster and Grey Lag was better," Sande says.

Sande rode all three. By a "better" horse Sande emans that Grey Lag was closer to thoroughbred perfection. Zev, while faster, is somewhat of a bad actor and must be hooded for action.

SANDE RIDES SARAZEN.

LAUREL, Oct. 25.—To-morrow's $15,000 match race between Sarazen and Happy Thoughts, both unbeaten two year olds, promises to be one of the outstanding features of the Maryland fall turf season. The race is at 6 furlongs.

Earl Sande, the country's premier jockey, is scheduled to ride Sarazen and the veteran Andy Schuttinger will be astride Happy Thoughts. Both horses are said to be in excellent condition, with the track, after the heavy rains of the past several days, in fairly good condition. Sarazen will carry 118 pounds, and Happy Thoughts 115.

BUTLER UMPIRING.

Dick Butler made his debut last night as soft ball umpire and handled the game to perfection. His decisions were unquestioned and no intereference with players was permitted. It is hoped that he may be able to attend many of the games. The umpiring often makes the game. —Lindsay Post.

Daring Woman Speed Pilot

That dear old Muscatine, Ia., has furnished sportdom with its newest woman champion, Ethel Hanley, queen of the speed boat pilots. Miss Hanley recently entered her high-powered hydroplane in a free-for-all championship at Cincinnati and finished a thrilling second, completing against a field of professional men pilots. The accompanying photograph shows Miss Hanley at the wheel just before the start.

MINOR PENNANT TO KANSAS CITY

Home Runs With Men on Bases Ended Baltimore's Chances and the Series.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 25. — The Kansas City Blues are sitting atop the minor league baseball world tonight. They clubbed their way to victory over the champion Baltimore Internationals in the ninth and deciding game of the title for the little world series at Oriole park this afternoon. The score was 5 to 2. Two home runs, one by Skiff, in the fourth inning, with Branom on second, and another by Brief in the ninth inning with Becker on first, won the minor league championship for the American Association pennant winners.

Lefty Schupp, hurling for the Blues, mystified the Birds with a sweeping curve that stopped all the Baltimore's left hand hitters. Lefty Groves was Baltimore's choice to start the game, but was yanked in the first inning, after he had walked three men and allowed a single. He forced in the first man with a pass and Manager Dunn, of the Orioles, rushed in Parnham,

The big right hander was very effective in all except the fourth and ninth innings when the clouts out of the park settled his fate.

Walsh, Maisel, Lowry and Sheedy made the hits that figured in Baltimore's runs.

The attendance to-day was 3,103; net receipts $4,158.30.

The total attendance at the nine games was 84,705 and the total net receipts were $106,61083.

The players, who share in the first five games, only, will divide between $55,000 and $60,000. The exact amount, it was understood, would be announced to-morrow by Commissioners Hickey and Toole.

Score:	R.	H.	E.
Baltimore .. ...100 000 010—	2	9	1

Trade Hornsby to The Chicago Cubs

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—Rogers Hornsby, of the St. Louis Nationals, 1923 batting champion of the National League, whil be traded to the Chicago Cubs in a deal involving the transfer of four players to the Cardinals, according to reports in baseball circles to-night. 6

The report said that Hornsby, who engaged in a fist fight with Branch Rickey, manager of the Cardinals, last season, had expressed a desire to play with Chicago. The players reported to be considered in the trade for Hornsby are: Charles Hollocher, George Grantham, Lawrence Miller and Virgil Cheeves.

OTTAWA PROMISE ARGOS A BATTLE

OTTAWA, Oct. 26.— (Canadian Press.)—Wet weather for the past two days has seriously interfered with the preparations being made by the Ottawa rugby team for their Big Four game in Toronto with Argonauts on Saturday. The players have turned out regularly all season, however ,and are in good condition.

Bill Baker is still unable to get into uniform. The big wing man injured his shoulder against Tigers and a slight dislocation will possibly keep him on the side lines for the remainder of the season. Two or three good subs are available and relief will be thrown into keep the line at its usual high standard. The full squad will be taken to Toronto and they promise to give the Oarsmen a real battle, even though they are hopelessly out of the championship race.

Newest Dixie Ring Star!

Pettingill, Found by Herman, Seeks Midget Title

Somehow or other New Orleans always has a high voltage battler performing in the Queensberry corral.

Joe Mandot was a great lightweight. He could box, punch, sidestep and block. And he was courageous with it. Mandot beat Ad Wolgast when the Michigan assassin was the champion.

The French bakery boy lacked one thing, mental balance, common sense. That is why he never won the title. The primrose path is no place to do roadwork. Mandot had almost everything that Leonard has —everything but mental poise, and a willingness to concentrate on business.

Leonard will retire from the ring with a million dollars. Maybe more. Mandot is seeking out a hand to mouth existence in his home town, a pathetic reminder of wasted genius.

Pete Herman came up from the bootblack stalls in New Orleans to win the bantamweight title, lose it and win it back again. Herman was not the fighter Mandot was. He was not an interesting performer. He lacked color, as do most defensive fighters.

What Herman did have, though, was a level bean, and he used it to fine advantage, capitalizing his limited abilities to the utmost. A steel tiped end of a shoe lace nicked Herman in the eye and he went blind. Otherwise he might still be champion for he knew enough to keep himself in shape, and he was a careful match maker.

Herman, by the way, is largely responsible for the presence of Pettingill in the fight game. While still champion he saw Pettingill scar as an amateur, was impressed, took him under his wing, and taught him the fine points. A strong devotion sprang up between the two and later when Herman lost his sight Pettingill became his guide.

"I want to make good now for Pete's sake," Pettingill says.

For a youngster he has already gone far. His record shows 86 victories to date. Some of his victims were high -class battlers. Frankie Mason, Kid Williams, Bobby Hughes, Indian Russell, Ashton Donza and Kid Auglia.

AL PETTINGILL.

Kid Auglia is a native of the Philippines, a neighbor of Pancho Villa, present flyweight champion. Pettingill beat Auglia convincingly. Now he wants a title fight with Villa. New York and Boston promoters have placed bids for the contest. If all goes well it will be one of the winter season's attractive bouts.

Pettingill is now associated with Mead's cauliflower garden. Mead manages Joe Lynch, bantam-weight champion. Pettingill gets to box with the champion often. Lynch thinks the southerner is a comer, and doesn't hesitate to say he will "take" Villa.

And like Lynch he banks mainly on a right hand punch.

STUDENTS TIED WITH FIREMEN

Grove School Defeated the U.F.O. Last Night—Play Off For the Championship

LAKEFIELD, Oct 26.—By defeating the U.F.O. team 16-8 last night the Grove School tied up the softball league with the Firemen. Each of the leading teams has played five games, winning four and losing one. A play off will be necessary to decide the championship, but the date has not yet been set.

The U.F.O. are playing their first softball this season, and although they started without experience they have shown improvement in every game, and began to make it interesting for the Students in the later innings last night.

The batteries were: Grove—Massie and Harry Griffiths; U.F.O.—R. Graham and Dave Darling.

Score by innings:

Grove	1	0	(11)	0	2	0	2	—	16
U.F.O.	0	1	0	0	2	4	1	—	8

Umpires—Dr. Gibson and J. J. McFadden.

Couldnt' Break Tie

The second game was an exhibition affair between the Firemen and Masons, resulting in an extra innings tie. The Masons didn't have their complete regular line up, but even the scratch team made it interesting for the Firemen whose only defeat during the season was at the hands of the Brotherhood.

The teams were as follows:

Masons—Northey, p; J. McFadden, c; Marling, 1b; Condon, 2b; Connell, 3b; J. W. Ridpath and Dr. Kennedy, ss; Junkin and F. McFadden in the field.

Firemen—C. Ridpath, p; J. Ridpath, c; T Webster, 1b; R. Summers, 2b; A Summers, 3b; L. Sabatino and F. Wannamaker, ss; Hampton, rf and Robinson, lf

Umpires—W. Fairbairn and L. Massie.

Score by innings:

Masons	2	0	1	2	2	0	0	0	1	—11

Hedge Burned.

The firemen were called out Tuesday night at 11.20 to a blaze in the hedge and fence at the residence of John Charlton, Bishop street. The men responded promptly, and quickly extinguished the fire, which might have proved serious if it had not been discovered in an incipient stage.

LINDSAY SURVEYS HOCKEY OUTLOOK

Plenty of Juniors Available—Athletic Association Dormant.

The Lindsay Post says: Hockey fans are beginning to make a move, stir, stir and getting busier.

Prospects are not as blue as at first painted, providing the players will turn out and a good live management can be secured.

It also looks as if the Athletic Association is "dead" and unless this governing body make a move of some kind in the near future it is suggested that a new Club be organized.

Among the players to choose from for the coming winter are the following: McClory, Hall and Ashton, of last year's juniors; Coombs, Carew, Wilford, Jack Killen and Bill Killen who have practically finished their studies at Toronto, Wilford having graduated; Reeve and Williams, Davis and Walker, Green, McPhee; Ross Kelly who has also graduated and is in town; Hamilton of last year's juniors, and others.

Mr. F. A. Martin, manager of last year's junior team, reports that the "woods are full" of juniors and that prospects are good and bright.

FIRPO MIGHT HAVE BECOME CHAMPION

Vaudeville Tour and Social Habits Likely to Set Him Back.

Luis Angel Firpo's future causes E. R. McClear to speculate. He does not believe that Firpo has much chance of beating Dempsey when they meet again next year and advances these reasons:

"An appetite such as he displayed during the time he trained for his bout with Dempsey will not keep him in condition during the vaudeville tours and through the lot of set-up bouts that his winter program calls for. He has reached an age wheer his mode of living will produce much excess poundage and cause a shortage of wind, a trouble from which he was not entirely free during his training grind for the Dempsey meeting. The program that he has outlined for himself this winter is likely to result in a permanent loss of form.

"His friends and admirers in the Argentine will certainly be of no help to him. He is the great hero. His instincts are social. He danced all night after the Brennan fight and he danced nearly the night through after the Dempsey fight. His published statements show an almost pathetic desire to be well thought of. Under such circumstances it is hardy reasonable to expect him to keep fit unless he is actually training for a real fight.

"His best course would be to remain in the United States, engage a capable trainer and avail himself of the competition of our second raters. Thus, in a year, he might improve materially. Then should Dempsey crack Firpo would have a chance. Until Dempsey does slow up Firpo is outclassed. He can not reasonably expect to have Dempsey ever get careless again. He had his great opportunity and failed to grasp it.

"Firpo has no one to fear but Dempsey. He could not whip Tommy Gibbons, very likely, because Gibbons moves too fast for him. Gibbons moved too fast for Dempsey and Dempsey, in turn, moves too fast for Firpo. Gibbons may not be able to knock out Firpo. He did not hurt Dempsey and Firpo did Gibbons might be able to cut Firpo down, not spectacularly, but gradually and methodically. Firpo should be an ideal target for Gibbons.

"The outlook for Firpo is bright, in only one respect; he can get the money. He earned it. He was a good ,game lad while he lasted and, under more favorable circumstances might have become the world's heavyweight champion."

THOUSANDS OF NOTES MUST BE MEMORIZED

To Produce Flow of Music From Falk's Violin—At Opera House.

Who would not like to look into the workings of the brain of the musician, if it were possible, during the progress of his playing—to get an idea of the thousands of notes that have been memorized to flow in liquid procession as if pearls strung on an endless chain; to see the beauties of the music developed without the apparent effort to think of a single technical difficulty. To see the tone developed into something that lives long in the memory of the listener. And to see, above all, the amount of study it has required to overcome technique so that the simplicity of bigness makes all things easy and effortless. The measuring of the rapidity of thought by instruments is now a known factor, though the mental control of the arms and fingers in the production of music has not generally been considered. The large storehouse of the brain is constantly being filled with many things other than music so as to make the influence broader, and the best intent of the artist is only given out when all thought of his consciously-studied art is relegated to the subconscious in public performance. To illustrate this point, those who may hear Jules Falk, the distinguished violinist, play here on Monday Evening, October 29, will get a keener impression of the factors entering into this analysis.

Vanette van Sweringen, soprano, will be associated with Falk when he is heard here in recital.

This event is under the auspices local Rotarian Club.

British Investigators Hopeful About Russia.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(Associated Press)—"The general impression we have brought back as to the recovery of Russia is one of hope," is the statement of F. L. Baldwin, a brother of the British prime minister and the leader of a party of British business men who have just returned from an investigation of trading prospects in Russia

"Recovery will be a long job," Mr. Baldwin continued, "unless the Russian government gets some outside help, but, if it cannot, I am still confident it can pull through unaided. It is working unaided now and the general economic conditions are not too bad.

"I gathered the peasant is fairly contented and, after all, he is the bulk of the population. As to the factory workers, they are all paid on a piece work basis and are working harder than they did before the war.

"Much hand labor has to be done owing to the country having eben depleted of mechanical aids, both with regard to agricultural and factory work. On our way from Moscow to Petrograd we saw many men reaping with hand sickles.

"Undoubtedly there is a trade opening in Russia for agricultural machinery, and also for all things connected with transport, both railway and motor. The Russians are asking also for such things as sawmill plants and mining materials, while there is an abnormal demand for the ordinary necessities of life. The Russians, as a matter of fact, want about fifty times as much as they are getting."

FRENCH "COKE FIENDS" ARE IN HARD LUCK

By JOHN O'BRIEN

PARIS (By mail to the United Press).—"Coke fiends" in France have fallen upon evil ways. Thanks to the strict application of the drastic law passed last year, inflicting a penalty of one to five year's imprisonment and five years' banishment, sellers of forbidden drugs are thinking many times before taking the risk. Foreigners engaged in the traffic are especially careful, because deportation certainly will follow condemnation. The consumption of cocaine and morphia has dropped almost 50 per cent, in Paris in the last year, according to official statistics.

Nevertheless, the enormous profits accruing from the sale of the "powder of forgetfulness" still induce certain persons to take a chance. An inspector recently arrested three sellers. One was a man with a wooden leg who used the artificial limb as a receptacle for cocaine. The second was a woman who affected piety, and disposed of the drug while presumably engaged in prayer in the Church of the Madeleine. The third was a wholesale drug merchant, who used as retailers blinded ex-soldiers who hadn't the slightest idea what they were handing out.

BURNING TREES CAUSED ANXIETY

Cavan Men Clearing Brush Along County Road Were Glad of Rain

CAVAN, Oct. 26.—The men on the ninth line east of Cavanville, have been cutting the trees and brush along the county road. They set fire to the brush and the fire spread into the woods, causing some trouble and anxiety as everything was so dry. On this account as well as the scarcity of water and need of moisture to help the ploughing, the recent rain will be very welcome.

A meeting of the Executive of the Cavan and South Monaghan Sunday School Annual Convention was held in Cavan Methodist church on Wednesday evening, Oct. 24, to make arrangements for the convention.

The place of meeting will be announced later. The date will be December 4, immediately following the Manvers convention which will be held December 3rd.

The Executive are arranging to hold the convention earlier, hoping that the cars may still be running at that date and also to avoid the storms which so often occur at convention time in February.

Personal Mention

Mr. S. Richards has returned from the West.

Mr. and Mrs. Whittles, Montreal, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Pudsy, have returned to their home.

Dr. H. A. Turner, Millbrook in his official capacity of health officer, visited and inspected S. S. No. 7, Cavan.

An enjoyable dance was held in Cavan Community Hall on Thursday evening, Oct. 18th.

A shooting match is to be held in Cavanville next week and the boys of the vicinity are anticipating some good sport.

Garbage Collection

On motion by Ald. Malcolm McIntyre and Joseph Crowe the Property Committee were authorized to invite tenders for collection and removal of garbage for next year, and to add to the area.

Install Gas Pump

H. E. Dunsford's request for permission to install a gasoline pump in front of his property, 167 Brock street, was granted, subject to removal at any time on order from Council. This was the motion of Ald. Holloway and Turner.

To Fill in Ditch

R. C. Braund will be informed that the ditch fronting his property on Park street is to be filled in this fall in readiness for a concrete walk next year, according to promise. These improvements have been urged by Mr. Braund for some 20 years now.

There were present Mayor W. H. Taylor, Aldermen M. H. Maher, Joseph Crowe, Malcolm McIntyre, Walter Stocker, J. W. Mehers, J. O. Fife, Mel. Turner, W. T. Halloway, Nagel Phelan and City Solicitor Joseph Wearing.

NO FUND FROM

Commissioners a second time in an effort to effect mutual agreement on this question.

Ald. Maher—"This crisis brings council to a position by which we shall learn just exactly where we stand in regard to the police department. If we have not control of the expenditure of the people's money, we had better not be here." He hinted at extravagance by the department in spending $824 for repairing an old car when a new Studebaker could have been obtained for $1,000 and the old machine. The act, he asserted, does not compel us to buy police cars or motorcycles for the force. The alderman here indulged in irony by saying that while the commissioners would not discuss this question of police expenditures on the public platform they did finally come to Council in a roundabout way, which meeting, however, had not resulted in a mutually satisfactory understanding.

The Council left this matter as the situation created by representations made by their chairman of finance that there are no funds with which to finance the police department for some six weeks of this year.

GAVE ADDRESS TO

tion. The automatic arc welding equipment may be installed in shops where ordinary welding apparatus is now in use, with travelling and traversing mechanism designed to meet the requirements of the particular job.

The semi-automatic welder has an automatic head with a flexible hand feed through which the electrode wire is fed continuously, permitting work over rough, unprepared surfaces. The speed of the semi-automatic lies between that of the automatic and the hand feed machines. Comparative speeds in cutting a plate ¼ inch thick with the various types are: Hand apparatus, 5 feet per hour; semi-automatic apparatus, up to 16 feet per hour, and full automatic apparatus, up to 25 feet per hour. These types will operate on constant potential or constant energy currents.

The advantages of electric arc welding over gas welding are many, cheapness being one of the greatest. Except for thin material the arc welding is the cheaper. There is no danger from explosion, there is no transportation of gas tanks, and the results are more reliable.

Gas, on the other hand, does not emit the dangerous violet ray, and it makes a neater cut. It is admitted that gas is the best method for cutting. Up to one inch in thickness the cost of cutting is about the same, but above that thickness the cost of gas cutting gradually increases until at 6-inch thickness gas is 60 per cent. more expensive than electric.

In using the electric arc it is necessary for the operator to be protected by a mask, as violet rays are emitted which are injuries to the eyes and body of the operator. It was formerly the practice to provide the mask with two red glasses, one green and a clear glass to protect the colored. The practice now is to use one glass only of amber shade. A lighter shade may be used for metallic electrodes than for carbon.

Answering a question, Mr. Minns said worn down shafts could be built up to 25 per cent. of the cost of making a new shaft. It is impossible to weld two different metals.

A vote of thanks was proposed by A. L. Killaly and heartily accorded.

LLD. GEORGE TALKS ON REPARATIONS

Hopes Technicalities Will Not Stand in Way of a Settlement.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—(Canadian Press.) — Right Hon. David Lloyd George to-day declared he was "very much impressed" by the notes exchanged between Lord Curzon and Secretary of State Hughes regarding reparations, but that he could not express any final opinion until he knew precisely the details of the whole situation.

"I do hope technicalities will not stand in the way," he said, adding that in his judgment whoever stands in the way of settlement purely on technicalities, 'deserves to lose his face.' If Premier Poincare is trying to 'save his face and only that,' then he should be assisted to this end, he said. "If they merely want to say this is done under the Reparations Commission that will be all right."

SEPARATIST DECKERS IS QUITE OPTIMISTIC

Declares His Plans Include Part of Unoccupied Germany.

PARIS, Oct. 26.—(United Press)—Leo Deckers, leader of the Rhineland Separatists at Aix-La-Chapelle, plans to include part of unoccupied Germany in his newly declared republic, he told Le Petit Journal's correspondent at Aix-La-Chapelle to-day.

Deckers said the boundary of the Republic would extend fifty kilometers east of the Rhine.

"The Republic will be established firmly in the occupied districts of the Rhineland within a week," he said.

Establishment of the separate State in unoccupied Germany may require a month, however, Deckers admitted.

Deckers said he desired the strongest possible co-operation with France and asserted the Rhineland would be ready to start payment of reparations within a year.

TARIFF IS A MATTER FOR BRITISH PEOPLE

Canadians Should Not Interfere, is Ottawa's Official View.

OTTAWA, Oct. 26.— (Canadian Press.) — Declaration by Premier Baldwin that he favors protection of the home market in the United Kingdom has aroused great interest in official and political circles here. Advocates of protection look upon it as something which was inevitable, and it has been foreshadowed in Parliament as a development which was expected. Low tariff advocates, however, are disposed to regard it as a retrograde step and to pin their faith to the hope that it will mean defeat of the present British Premier if he goes to the people upon it as an issue.

The official view here is, as it has long been, that the tariff question was a matter for the British people and that Canadains should not interfere in it.

HIBERNIAN ORDER INSTALLS OFFICERS

A meeting of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, for the purpose of installing officers for the ensuing year, was held last evening in their hall, at 172½ Hunter street, a large number of the members being present.

Bro. T. J. Ryan, past president, acted as installing officer, in a very capable manner. The elected officers made suitable addresses, expressing appreciation of their important positions.

The officers for 1923 are: President, Martin Neary; Vice-president, E. R. Toole; financial secretary, J. Drain; recording secretary, P. O'toole treasurer, F. Whaley; sergeant at arms, J. Burke; sentinel, J. Clancy. medical supervisor, Dr. F. P. McNulty; chaplain, Rev. P. J. Meagher; chairman of the social committee, P. Devlin; chairman of entertainment committee, T. J. Ryan.

The members of the A.O.H. intend to put on some good entertainments this fall, and the following members agreed to act on the entertainment committee, with T. J. Ryan as chairman: Bros. J. Drain, M. Neary, P. O'Toole, F. Whaley, M. Twomey, J. Devlin, E. R. O'Toole.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

Every Harold Lloyd feature comedy stands entirely on its own merits. Starting with "A Sailor-Made Man," which was his first picture to be as long as four reels, there has not been a single Lloyd film that could be compared with any other, for each has been distinctive and varied in type and idea.

You may have liked "Grandma's Boy" better than "Safety Last," yet you cannot compare them and say that, because you liked "Grandma's Boy" best, it is the better comedy of the two. Each comedy is in its own class, and critics and public approval have placed it at the top of its class.

Now comes "Why Worry" and creates its own exclusive place among the Harold Lloyd Pathecomedies. It is not like any of its predecessors, except insofar as it is one hundred per cent. funny, having South America as a background and a revolution as the motif.

For chief partners-in-fun in "Why Worry," Harlod Lloyd has a giant nearly nine feet tall and a leading lady only five feet tall. These are, respectively, John Aasen and Jobyna Ralston. The giant Aasen is making his screen debut, and pretty little Jobyna is making her first appearance as Harold's leading lady, supplanting Mildred Davis, who took one of those "for-better-or-for-worse" life jobs with Harold.

"Why Worry" is the feature attraction remaining at the Capitol today and Saturday. It was produced at the Hal Roach studio with the usual Lloyd staff of experts in direction and scenario writing.

AT THE REGENT.

AUTHOR AIDS DIRECTOR

Zane Grey Assists in Production of "To the Last Man"

Zane Gray, novelist, has brought his talents to bear on motion picture production. "To the Last Man," the first Paramount photoplay made under the author's personal supervision which will be shown at the Regent theatre today bears the stamp of Mr. Grey's personality. This picture shows primitive life and hates in the most magnificent country in the world.

The tale is that of a feud between Gaston Isbel and Lee Jorth, leaders of two rival factions of settlers. The scenes are laid in the Tonto Basin, Arizona, and in battles which resulted from this quarrel both factions were wiped out literally "to the last man."

Jean Isbel, son of Gaston and a leading figure in the photodrama is summoned home from Oregon by his father. He meets Ellen Jorth daughter of his father's enemy and falls in love with her. Jean's brother and father are killed in skirmishes with the Jorths and in the pursuit of the Jorths and their sympathizers, the Isbels are wiped out with the exception of Jean the last of the Isbels.

He succeeds in slaying all the remaining Jorth sympathizers and by the marriage of Jean and Ellen, the sanguinary feud is ended.

AT THE ROYAL.

ALICE CALHOUN CHARMS IN SWIFTEST MOVING FILM, "THE MIDNIGHT ALARM"

Now Playing at the Royal—Tensity of Action and Speed Leave Spectators Breathless—Thrills Aplenty in Daring Fire Scenes.

Cast:

Harry Westmore	Percy Marmon
Sparkle	Alice Calhoun
Chaserafi	Cullen Land
Silas Carringford	Joseph Kilgour
Aggie	Maxine Elliot Hicks
Mr. Tilwell	George Pierce
Mrs. Tilwell	Kittie Bradbury
Sprin[illegible]er	J. Gunnis Favis
Mr[illegible]hornton	Alice Calhoun
St[illegible]	Jean Carpentr

No finer bit of work has ever been done by any actress than that displayed by Alice Calhoun in one of the swiftest-moving photoplays produced, "The Midnight Alarm," which began a run at the Royal Theatre yesterday. Whimsically charming as Sparkle, lost daughter of wealth, Miss Calhoun gives a characterization that wins its way into the sympathetic hearts of spectators.

"The Midnight Alarm" reacts with the creative genius of the famous Vitagraph director, David Smith. It is a melodrama so rapid in its action, so tense in its scenes that frequently the spectators find themselves actually breathless.

"The Midnight Alarm" is a story of a plotting business man, Silas Carringford, who slays his partner Thornton to obtain wealth. Mrs. Thornton is driven to death before an onrushing train in trying to escape from Carringford in an automobile. Susan, her daughter, is tossed to safety and is picked up lost by Mrs. Berg, who raises her as her own.

Mr. and Mrs. Tilwell, her grandparents, and Carringford keep up an intermittent search for the child, who is now known as Sparkle. Carringford learns she is alive and seeks to destroy evidence of her identity so that she can't claim the estate left to her, which on her death is to go to Carringford.

Chaser, a lovable crook, played by Cullen Landis, and Harry Westmore, a fire captain, impersonated by Percy Marmont, save the heroine after many daring adventures. The fire scenes are the best ever shown in any photoplay.

Percy Marmont, Cullen Landis and Joseph Kilgour, who played "heavy," earned great praise by their remarkable character interpretation. George Pierce was excellent as the hardened father, while Kittie Bradbury gave a pathetic touch as Mrs. Tilwell. Maxine Elliot Hicks played the part of Aggie, crippled waif, charmingly.

"MARRIED LOVE"

Dr. Marie Stopes' Famous Book at Royal Monday.

Married Love, the world famous motion picture opens at the Royal Monday. The story of the picture was written especially for the screen by Dr. Marie Stopes, author of the widely known and much discussed book of the same name, Married Love. Dr. Stopes is a prominent figure both in the medical and literary world, having received a world-wide fame and recognition in consequence of her great work, Married Love.

Dr. Stopes does not believe in the age old traditions of false reticence and misplaced modesty. She points out that modern society conditions which abound in cases of marital unhappiness are proof of the fact that life's most sacred functions are endangered by this policy of wilful, moral and mental befogging. Dr. Stopes advocates a noble and delicate frankness between man and wife and a moral and intelligent education of the world's adolescents.

The motion picture is a lavish and spectacular film production. The story is a powerful one blending drama, romance and pathos. The central figure is that of the heroine, Maizie Burroughes, the eldest child in a family of fourteen. Brought up in the squalor and misery of ignorant parenthood, Maizie has come to look upon Romance as a myth and marriage as a dreadful evil. On the other hand, the case of Dick Reading, the hero, is exactly the reverse, Dick being an only child and brought up with the kind and intelligent care of a mother who has learned to discriminate what was the best in life.

The story takes these two simple figures and plunges them into the whirlpool of life, that threatens to tear their moral foundations to pieces, that rides them on the crest of the foam of happiness and dashes them on the rocks of dissipation and sweeps them on towards the haven of knowledge and marital felicity.

The film production is a tremendous one, no money being spared staging cabaret scenes, the underworld and the big conflagration.

The cast is full of numerous stellar performers, some of whom have played leads in previous big pictures, and others who have been quite prominent on the legitimate stage.

POPE PINES FOR VISIT TO HIS BELOVED ALPS

ROME (By Mail to United Press).—The Pope's recent letter to the Bishop of Annecy, eulogizing St. Bernard and naming him patron saint of the mountain climbers, has reminded the public that the two long years of seclusion inside the walls of the Vatican have not been sufficient to kill in the Pope's breast the love of life in the open.

It is no secret that Pius XI. accepted his election to the throne of St. Peter only as a duty imposed on him by The Almighty. A man of exuberant vitality, compelled by his duties as teacher and librarian in charge of exhausting research work in Milan first and Rome afterwards to observe long office hours, his only diversion was a walk of several miles at the end of his day's work. Mountain climbing was a passion with him. As he said in his letter, the contemplation of nature from an Alpine peak is the wholesomest of pleasure and its places man nearer to his Creator.

After his election he tried to overcome his longing for Alpine ascension by walking in the Vatican gardens for hours, and preferring the staircase to the elevator to reach his apartment on the third floor of the Vatican. But, beautiful and large as the Vatican gardens are, his mind went back with yearning to the steep roads of his native Lombard valley.

Though nothing was said at the time, in the summer of 1922 the Pope suffered from a bad attack of heat prostration, with occasional fainting spells. Early in the summer of this year the Pope's health again worried his doctors and friends, but once more his robust physique withstood the attack, and after a couple of weeks he was well again. The progressive elements of the Vatican have not lost the hope of again seeing the Pope take his vacation in the Alps. The possibility of a conciliation between the church and the State is becoming daily stronger, and the chances are increasing that in the near future the Pope will regain his full freedom of movements.

GREAT HONORS BROUGHT TO TORONTO UNIVERSITY

TORONTO, October 26. Canadian Press. — "It is one of the greatest honors that could come to Toronto University," was the statement today of Sir Robert Falconer, president of that institution, in discussing the award of the Nobel prize for medicine to Dr. F. G. Banting and professor J. J. R. McLeod, in recognition of their discovery of insulin. President Falconer said that he would recommend to the Board of governors that a dinner be tendered to the distinguished discoverers in celebration of the honor.

MARRIED LOVE

By Doctor Marie Stopes AUTHOR of the CELEBRATED BOOK of the same name

—In this lavish and spectacular film production blending Romance, Drama, and Pathos, the story was written especially for the screen by Dr. Stopes, and the author has tried to reflect the spirit of her widely known and much discussed book.
—And so if this motion picture will save some of the world's young and healthy mating creatures the pain and sorrow of married unhappiness, then the author will feel amply repaid for her labour.

NO INVINCIBLE AMONG GOLFERS

Game is Elusive and Too Many Topnotchers Are Playing To-Day.

This business of being an "invincible" in golf is a glamorous thing, but it lacks the good, old-fashioned, home-cooked qualities of permanency. Messrs. Travis, Hagen and Evans, giants of the game, resigned from the order years ago.

Now the dear ladies are finding that invincibility is something that does not exist.

They used to call Alexa Stirling the invincible champion. Alexa won three national titles consecutively, establishing a record in this respect. She was esteemed as the country's most notable contribution to the feminine end of the sport.

"It will be years before America develops another player in her class" the experts said.

Hardly had the last faint echo of those words settled in the Valley of Prophecy when Marion Hollins came along and dethroned the invincible woman's champion.

And the next year, Glenna Collett, "an even greater player than Miss Stirling," came along and won the title.

Glenna was but a mere maid. She had something few women players ever develop—unusual length off the tee. And the rest of her game was proportionately strong.

Here was an invincible for you! Certainly it would be a long time before the game produced another woman player capable of matching shots with the brilliant Providence star.

But it wasn't. Glenna lasted just one year A month ago she abdicated in favor of Edith Cummings of Chicago. Oddly enough, Miss Cummings isn't being pointed to as an "invincible." She is characterized simply as a sound player with a fine fighting heart. No claims for overwhelming ability are being made for her.

This is sensible. Golf—all departments of it—is too elusive a proposition, and there are entirely too many topnotchers playing the game to permit a monopoly of honors either by the horrid males or the well-dressed ladies of the links. Miss Cummings will probably have as little success in defending her crown next year as Miss Collett met this year.

Miss Collett, incidentally, has just cause to look back on the past season with weary, care-worn eyes. What many predicted would be her best season on the links turned out to be her worst.

She was defeated four times in individual tournament matches, a rather sizeable number of defeats to check against a national champion's game.

Mrs. Caleb Fox, 63-year-old grandmother, outstroked her in the south early last spring. Miss Cummings beat her in the Buffalo invitational. Mrs. C. H. Vanderbeck trimmed her in the national, and Anita Lihme of Chicago, practically an unknown, ushered her out of the sitting room in the recent Berthellyn Cup tournament.

BRIGHTON CLUB HAS A BALANCE

Will Give Team Banquet And Provide Sweater Coats.

BRIGHTON, Oct. 26.—Mr. Harry B. Phillips, Honorary Preident of the Brighton Baseball Club, presided at the final business meeting of the club. The report of the treasurer, Mr .R. J. Hepburn, showed a balance of slightly more than $180.

The sum of $10 was voted to the Brighton Hockey Club to settle a debt contracted during the season of 1922-23.

Sweater coats will be presetned to the players as souvenirs of this season and last, the two seasons that Brighton has been represented in the Northumberland League. Fred Spring and Gus Halliday are a committee to purchase the sweaters.

A banquet will be tendered to the players at the Clarendon Hotel in the near future. The committee in charge of the arrangements is Harry B. Phillips, R. J. Hepburn, F. B. Sprung, Dr. McKee and Gordon Lap.

NO AGE LIMIT.

There seems to be no age limit in base ball. John J. McGraw is not a young man by a group of years, but McGraw is the most up-to-date manager in the National League and the best.

Coaching the Giants base runners is Hugh Ambrose Jennings, the red-headed and freckle-faced barrister from Scranton, Pa., who became a grandfather a month before the world series opened. The Giants have the best base running team in the game and much of their success is due to the able coaching of the Scranton lawyer although Hughie has not been able to teach Frankie Frisch to slide feet first. Frisch still goes into the bag hands first and some day a rough infielder will step on Mr. Frisch's hands and cure him of the habit.

THE WORLD LOSES GREAT MATHEMATICIAN

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 26.—"The world has lost one of its greatest mathematicians, and the electrical industry will miss one of its shining lights," said Thomas A. Edison to-day, when informed of the death of Charles P. Steinmetz, at Schenectady. The famous inventor was shocked at the news.

Rugby enthusiasts should lend a hand by attending the O.R.F.U. Junior fixture at Riverside Park tomorrow afternoon. The Petes have a well-balanced squad. A lot of hard work has been necessary to bring the team out, and players and officers alike should be encouraged in their efforts to keep Peterborough on the gridiron. Y.M.H.A. of Toronto will be here with a strong line-up.

Entries are coming in well for the road races on Thanksgiving Day, Monday, November 12, and a goodly sprinkling of out-of-town opposition is expected. Norwood has already sent an entry, and as Lakefield will be the starting point of the senior event, the northern village will probably be represented by one or more runners.

A JAM AND LINE SHOWER FOR HOME

Annual Event in Aid Of Worthy Institution Held Yesterday.

The annual jam and linen shower for the Peterboro Protestant Home was held at the Home on Wednesday afternoon, followed by the service of afternoon tea. The somewhat inclement weather brought out a smaller crowd than usual, but many who were unable to attend have signified their intention of contributing toward the shower at a later date.

A circumstance which occasioned many complimentary remarks from the visitors was the profusion of beautiful flowers which adorned the rooms. Miss Lancaster, the Superintendent, has unusually good luck with her lovely plants and flowers, and their quantity and quality, and the maner in which they are distributed throughout the rooms at the Home, add immeasurably to its comfortable appearance, and to the atmosphere, which makes it more like a home than an insitution, as so many casual visitors remarked.

COACH MAY SMOKE BUT NOT THE FOOTBALL BOYS

"And you are not to smoke cigarettes or anything else." That's the first thing the coaches tell their football charges at the start of a training season. It's a horrible habit, the boys are told, for it takes your wind, lowers your pep and absorbs your energy.

Nick Needs New Rules

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Nick Altrocks, the well-known baseball clown, was out on the links of a fashionable club chasing the elusive Mr. Par.

On one of the tees Mr. Altrock was poised to strike. His ball was out a yard or so in advance of the tee markers, behind which all drives must be made.

A club member was waiting to play behind Mr. Altrock. He noticed that Mr. Altrock was playing in front of the tee markers instead of behind them.

The gentleman was shocked and observed caustically: "Persons should learn the rules of the game before attempting play."

Mr. Altrock withered him with a look.

"This is not my drive, sir. It is my second shot."

C.G.E. CHAMPIONS WERE BANQUETTED

Manager Primeau Presented With Diamond Tie Pin And Address—Sportsmanship Praised

A very successful banquet was held at Hooper's Parlours last night when the the Canadian General base ball team were the guests of the executive and members of the club. J. Pilling, who acted as chairman announced that the usual formality of the chairman's address would be dispensed with and there would be a talk to the boys by one to whose unfailing efforts were due the success of the team. He then called on H. T. MacFadden who was greeted with hearty cheers.

Mr. MacFadden spoke of the great pleasure it had been to be associated with a team of such gentlemanly and sportsmanlike conduct on and off the field. He congratulated them on their successes which he said were due entirely to their own efforts and to the spirit of harmony which existed between the players and management.

The toast to the team was proposed by Mr. Grimison who congratulated the players on their success and expressed the hope that they might have an equally successful season in 1924.

A. Primeau, the manager of the team replied and thanked the committee for the honor of being banquetted in such a manner. He expressed the pleasure it had been to be associated with the players and management and hoped that they might defend the trophy next year.

An address was then read by Bob Ross and Mr. Primeau presented Mr. McFadden with a diamond tie pin.

The address to Mr. McFadden was as follows:

We, the undersigned members of the Canadian General Electric Intermediate Baseball Championship Team of 1923, desire to express to you our hearty appreciation and sincere gratitude for your efforts on our behalf during the past season.

We feel that the success which has been ours, and the position we have been able to attain in the association, are entirely due to your invaluable leadership.

At all times you have shown unfailing confidence, ready sympathy appreciation of our efforts, and by your example of good sportsmanship have encouraged us on to our goal.

We ask you therefore to accept from us this small gift, not as a measure but as a token of our esteem and regard, which we assure you, is beyond measure.

We trust that you may long honor us as our President, and that we may be associated with you in many successful seasons in the future.

A. J. Primeau, R. Rose, R. Ross, J. McCarney, W. Jackson, W. Ranger, T. Barrie, W. Rogers, R. Galbraith, S. McPherson, J. C. Wolfe, M. Frost, G. Webb, E. A. Dugan, J. Hall, M. F. Sharp.

Mr. McFaden thanked the boys and expressed his surprise that so much should be ascribed to his efforts.

The banquet was then concluded by the National Anthem.

The singing was ably conducted by Alex. Dick and Mr. Corry at the piano, and a song and recitation by "Scotty" Thompson were much enjoyed.

JAIL TERM GIVEN AS RESULT SMASH

Montreal Man Driving While Intoxicated Had Crash on Gravel Road —Two Weeks Without Option.

Frank Herrick, charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated, was sentenced this morning to two weeks' imprisonment without the option of a fine. He pleaded guilty.

Herrick drove his car on the Gravel Road last night at 11.45, striking another car and damaging both cars. Provincial Constable Davis said the prisoner was badly intoxicated.

The accused said he came from Montreal for his holidays in July. "I am not used to doing it," he said, when asked for his excuse for driving while intoxicated.

Magistrate Langley said he had no option in these cases and must impose the prison sentence.

Mrs. Pearl Herrick, wife of Frank Herrick, was fined $10 and costs on pleading guilty to being found intoxicated in a local hotel yesterday. She had a cold, she said, and took a little liquor to cure it. Mrs. A. Smith, police matron, appeared in support of Mrs. Herrick. The arrests were made by Detective-Sergeant Meagher and Provincial Constable Davis.

BRITAIN'S FISCAL POLICY TO REMAIN

Not Likely to Fundamentally Change During Life of the Present Parliament.

LONDON, October 26. Special Cable to the Canadian Press by George Hambleton, staff correspondent.) — Delegates to the Imperial Conference to-day are closely examining Premier Baldwin's much heralded speech at Plymouth. The interpretation that one hears of it is that Premier Baldwin personally has become a convert to industrial protection, but as this was anticipated, however, there is no present likelihood of preferential tariffs on wheat or other major foodstuffs, and that the Baldwin government has no immediate intention of dissolving Parliament.

From this the deduction is reached that as Bonar Law's pledge that there would be no fundamental change in the British fiscal policy during the life of Parliament elected last November is to be respected by the Baldwin government, any amendments the British government may have to submit to the Dominions of increased preference will not be of a sweeping character.

Among the overseas representatives here the point is taken also that adoption by the British government of protection will be dependent to a large extent on the success or failure of the effort to settle the reparations question. If the proposed inter-allied conference succeeds some stability will be restored to continental Europe and a revival of trade would make any fundamental change in the British fiscal system unnecessary. But should the latest effort at conciliation fail a general election in Great Britain on the fiscal issue is likely to take place next year.

"GIFT OF LIFE" IS SEEN HERE

Informative Film in Connection with Social Hygiene Was Interest-Holding to Audience.

"The Gift of Life," the Government sponsored film which is being shown in Peterborough under the auspices of the Social Hygiene Council, in co-operation with the Local Council of Women and Home and School Council in connection with the campaign by the Social Hygiene Council of Canada against social disease, was witnessed by a fairly large crowd of women in the Public Library Hall, last evening, on its second presentation here. The afternoon meeting was attended by about seventy women, and was presided over by the vice president of the local Social Hygiene Council, Mrs. A. Mowat. In the evening, Mrs. J. Knox, a member of the visiting committee of the Council, presided.

Public Attitude

Mrs. Mowat opened the afternoon meeting with a reference to the former public attitude toward venereal disease, when it was thought best to pursue a policy of ignorance of such things, and to the change of sentiment wrought by conditions revealed by the war, when a Dominion-wide Social Hygiene Council had been formed for the purpose of combating such diseases by means of awakening intelligent public opinion to their evils and dread results.

Miss Edna L. Moore of Toronto, the Government employee who has charge of the film, outlined the work undertaken by the Ontario Government in its campaign against social disease. The sum of $120,000 is annually spent in the work, laboratories at strategic points throughout the Dominion have been established and clinics where treatment is given. Peterborough has both of these in conjunction. In centres where such clinics have not been established the municipal health officer is provided with free drugs apparatus and sterile water. A grant of $1,000 is made toward the equipment of clinics, and a certain amount allowed for treatment. A survey of the Ontario Hospitals for the Insane was also undertaken as an auxiliary measure.

Parents First Teachers

"Parents are the first teachers of the child," declared Miss Moore. "The child's formal education begins when it starts to school, but its formal education starts almost immediately after birth."

The speaker referred to the pronouncement of an authority at a recent convention in Detroit; who said that a child should not be interrupted when staring at something or when playing a game.

"We have for generations hedged the story of life about with conventional reticence. It is a beautiful story, of Divine origin and the child when allowed to do so, accepts it unquestioningly. Should it not be told the child in the home, by its parents rather than whispered by some companion in the alleyway or the school corner?"

Miss Moore concluded with a request for support of the local Clinic and its attending nurse Mrs. G. McCartney.

"The Gift of Life"

On the white wall at the rear of the stage in the Public Library hall the moving picture of "The Gift of Life" was thrown, Miss Moore operating her small projecting machine with skill and despatch. It is a graceful and pretty film, portraying the story of life in delicate fashion commencing with the reproductive activities of the lower forms of life, and progressing gradually to the higher manifestations. As one woman who viewed the film with thoughtful eyes remarked: "Everything in nature seems to be lovely and normal. It is only when we come up to the human that we find ugliness and pain and abnormal manifestations in the reproduction of the species. I wonder why that is, when it is only humans that have souls?"

In the interesting delineation of reproduction in various forms the amoeba, a form of water protoplasm which he produces by means of equal division of its single-celled organism was shown first followed by a microscopical showing of the reproductive activities of the yeast plant, which attains its goal by budding the parent cells remaining intact, the ulothrix, another water plant, the wild rose the Indian corn plant, the pussy willow, on to fish and small animal life, and, finally, to the human beginnings.

Manifestations of Disease

A second film which Miss Moore explained was not always shown, but which she considered might be of interest to her audiences of yesterday was a gruesome presentation of some of the manifestations in the human flesh of the ravages of social diseases including examples of children rendered blind and maimed by its transmission from parents, of loathsome skin diseases, paresi, locomotor ataxia, and insane victims, gibbering at the camera.

The programme of the Social Hygiene Council as explained at the conclusion of this film, includes the provision of proper recreation and entertainment for children, public education with regard to such disease, and medical care and protection for infected persons. Mrs. Mowat rose to emphasize the importance of supervised play for children as a means of prevention.

Mrs. Joseph Knox, introducing the film at the evening meeting, urged the women to consider the importance of Social Hygiene education as a work for women that must begin in the home. Mrs. Knox referred to conditions encountered in Peterborough and its district as out standing examples of need of such education.

Miss Moore will show her film for the last time this evening, when the meeting is designed especially for young women.

NEXT ACTION ON "DEATH WHISPER"

J. G. O'Donoghue Discusses Prosecutions Under Spreading False News Law.

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—"I fancy that the next prosecution under this law should be of those who circulated 'the whisper of death,' " remarked J. G. O'Donoghue, K.C., who returned to the city yesterday after defending Bernard Markson, who was sentenced at Peterboro yesterday by Mr. Justice Kelly to two and one-half months in jail for spreading false news.

"This decision is a very important one," said the lawyer. "It will make you newspaper chaps sit up and take notice. This 'whisper of death' seems to be about the most notable case in point. I see that Vincent Massey the other day described it as treason to the country. I wonder if the crown will move in the matter!

"Ordinary stupidity or ignorance in the spreading of false news does not make a man liable," explained Mr. O'Donoghue. "He must do it willingly and knowingly."

It is said that in Canadian legal history there are only two or three such prosecutions previous to this one. In Alberta a storekeeper who put up a sign on his store window when he was selling out and leaving the place was convicted. He had come from the United States, and having had some difficulty with the customs authorities, he decided to leave. So he put up a sign, "No Americans wanted here." The crown took the ground that this was untrue because the immigration department was trying to get people from the United States.

Another case is cited from Pembroke, where a man was prosecuted and punished for circulating what purported to be a fourth degree oath of the Knights of Columbus. It is said that in the United States some seventy persons were prosecuted and convicted on this charge.

BRITAIN ACCEPTS FIAT OF TWELVE MILE LIMIT

LONDON, Oct .26. — (Canadian Press.)— The British Government has accepted in principle the proposal of the United States government that vessels in United States' waters be searched for contraband liquor within twelve miles of the United States' shore .

Expert committee of Imperial conference which has been studying the situation under the chairmanship of Foreign Secretary Curzon, has drawn up plans which are believed to meet essential points of the United States' request. Plans will be submitted next week to a full conference, waich is expected to approve them.

ATTEMPTED KISS CAUSED DROWNING

Jury Out Seven Hours Acquits Canoeist On a Manslaughter Charge.

ALLEGAN, Mich., Oct. 26.—Fred Rill, of Chicago, on trial charged with manslaughter in connection with the drowning of Miss Erma Orta, of Woodville, Ill., was found not guilty by a jury on Wednesday night. The verdict was returned after the jury had been out seven hours.

Rill was accused of causing the girl's death July 29, in the Kalamazoo River, by upsetting their canoe when he made advances toward another girl in the canoe, Miss Peggy Proska.

On the stand Rill admitted he tried to hug and kiss Miss Proska, but declared he returned to his seat when he found his attentions unwelcome. Miss Proska, he said, upset the boat when she lost her balance as she stood in the canoe calling to people on the river bank for help.

MAY PROSECUTE TORONTO POLICE

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—(Canadian Press.)— Crown Attorney Eric Armour stated to-day that he will take criminal proceedings against the police who were involved in the shooting on the rum runner Hattie C, on the morning of October sixth, which resulted in the death of John Gogo, St. Catharines, one of the crew, following the jury's verdict last night that they made use of their firearms without justification in a case which was not a criminal offence.

"The matter is now under advisement," said the Crown Attorney. "I will have to read over the evidence and go into the matter thoroughly, but according to the verdict of the jury there was no justification in firing on the schooner, although the crew was engaged in a breach of the O.T.A. Although it is an Ontario law it is not a breach of the criminal code."

Mr. Armour added that the charge might be murder, manslaughter or criminal negligence.

Police officers who were engaged in the round-up of rum runners were: Patrol Sergeant Kerr and Constables Fraser, Rooney and Mitchell.

SELL DISCARDED FIRE EQUIPMENT

Some Plant Not Needed Since Advent of Motor Appliances.

The city council have agreed to dispose of to the best advantage that fire fighting equipment not needed since the department has been partially motorized.

This equipment consists of one team of horses, hose wagon of 1300 feet capacity, pair harness hangers, set of bob sleighs, set roller runways for sleighs, two four gallon chemical receptacles, chief's buggy (rubber tired), and chief's cutter.

Fire Chief George Gimblett has been reaching out for bidders for the discarded equipment recently, with the result that the town of Capreol, Ont., is enquiring about the hose wagon, harness hangers, double harness and roller runways. Sturgeon Falls municipality is interested in the hose wagon, chief's buggy and cutter.

CLEVELAND TO TRY A CITY-MANAGER

Mayor Shorn of Power—The Council to Pick the New Chief Officer.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 26.—The first big city in the country to try the city manager form of government, Cleveland is preparing to elect twenty-five city council men on November 6 under its new charter, which provides for proportional representation ballots. The councilmen will be elected from four districts, will take office on January 1, and elect the city manager shortly after.

One hundred and twenty-nine candidates, including four women, filed petitions, carrying 500 signatures each, when the time limit for filing nominating petitions expired. Forty-two candidates for various terms as municipal judge and three candidates for city clerk also will be on the ballot. The judges and city clerk will be elected under the present method of voting.

The new form of government, without an elective mayor, places all of the power of government in the hands of the city council of twenty-five members. The council will elect from its number a presiding officer, to be known as "mayor," but he will have none of the executive or administrative functions which the mayor now has.

The city manager will be the chief administrative officer of the city. He cannot be appointed for any definite term, but will serve during the pleasure of the council.

The big issue developed in the campaign is whether the new city manager must be a resident of Clevelan.

Can You Afford to Speculate?

MOLTEN METAL KILLS FIVE STEEL WORKERS

Cable Slips and Spills 70-Ton Ladle at Carnegie Company's Farrell (Pa.) Plant.

FARRELL, Pa., October 25. — A crane operator was roasted to death in his steel cage, and four other men were so badly burned that they died in the hospital, when a cable slipped and spilled a ladle of seventy tons of molten steel at the Farrell plant of the Carnegie Steel Company last night.

The dead are. Clayton Fisher of Sharpsville, John Hoobler of Trouts Corners, Robert Phillips of Wheatland, Claude Semlee of Sharon, and Theodore Brown of Farrell.

Semlee, the craneman in the open hearth department, had just hooked up the giant ladle, carrying its seventy tons of steel heated to 2,500 degrees. As the load approached the elevated pouring platform, on which the four workmen were standing, the cable slipped, and the mass of molten metal crashed to the earthen floor. As it fell the steel exploded, probably because of the dampness in the floor.

The flying metal showered the four men on the platform, who were unable to escape. Their clothing was burned from them and their bodies terribly seared. Three of taken to the Buhl Hospital in Sharon and the fourth died this morning.

Meanwhile, the crane operator, imprisoned in his travelling cage above the terrific heat of the spilled metal, was quickly roasted to death.

It was the first fatal accident this year in the Carnegie mills here, which last year won the safety trophy offered to all Carnegie plants.

WIFE SEEKERS FAVORED MARY IN MATRIMONY

BIG VARIETY

Tabulation of favourites in the matrimonial stakes shows that Mary is backed most frequently, closely trailed by Margaret, with Florence a bad third. In Peterborough this year there have been 13 brides named Mary, 12 named Margaret and 8 named Florence. Seven bridegrooms picked Lilian as a winner, and the next favourite was Helen, with six staking al' their earthly possessions on that name. Eva, notwithstanding the near approach of the name of Eve of apple fame, was considered a good venture by four young men, and Mabel or Mable drew the same number Eight names were favored by three backers each, these being Gladys, Vera, Elizabeth, May, Ruby, Ella, Clara and Sadie.

Names which only attracted two each were Aggie, Edith, Violet, Myrtle, Charlotte, Dorothy, Dora, Marjorie, Pearl, Annie, Hazel, Annetta, Grace, Elsie, Ethel, Emily, Estella, Sarah and Maud. Those who "also ran," with only one admirer each were Carrie, Zetta, Marion, Ada, Heletta, Selena, Vivian, Beatrice, Marguerite, Harriet, Mae, Kathleen, Elva, Carolyn, Ivy, Bertha, Viola, Estella, Vivia, Louise, Myra, Ottie, Orpha, Mariza, Jean, Bessie, Laura, Lottie, Olga, Christine, Julia, Martha, Dorine, Lulu, Phyllis, Olive, Alberta, Theresa, Henrietta, Marion, Gertrude, Frances, Madge, Alice, Adeline ,Clare, Barbara, Muriel, Irene, Nora, Kathleen, Berladine, Elydia, Retta, Catharine, Agnes, Evelina, Millicent and Ida.

Ladies Use Discretion.

In a field of 80 men's names, William has the lead with 14 backers, while those who promised to love, honour and obey Johns numbered 13. Robert led at the barrier and was neck and neck with William until the last quarter, ending third with 8 choosers. Charles was next with 7, and David, George and Frederick tied for fifth place with 6 each. Those with 5 each succumbing to their charms were Harold and Thomas. Stanley was the only name that attracted four ladies, while ten names had three admirers each. They were: James, Arthur, Samuel, Walter, Frank, Hugh, Ernest Joseph, Bruce and Wilfrid.

Cecil Edwin Ralph Norman Edward Alexander Morley Roy and Gordon are names now addressed to their husbands by two women each.

Fifty brides selected so well that they have so far the only 1923 husbands of the name in Peterborough. The names are: Baxter, Douglas, Orme, Andrew, Edgar, Morgan, Duncan, Garfield, Milburn, Garnet, Melville, Reginald, Wesley, Milford, Herve, Clark, Arnold, Sidney, Winton, Clinton, Marshall, Keith, Oliver, Allan, Rene, Clifford, Godfrey, Asa, Neil, Howard, Donald, Patrick, Archie, Cyril, Leith, Elmer, Carl, Alfred Percy, Leo, Henry, Carlton, Eric, Arthur, Lionel, Harry, Bert, Gershaw and Leverne.

CYCLIST HURT BY SPEED CAR

Kenneth Routly Knocked From Bicycle and Painfully Injnred---Motorist Speeded Away.

Another motrist broke the written and unwritten laws of the road last night when an automobile speeding down George street struck Kenneth Routly, 416 Stewart street, and sped on its way, leaving the injured man prostrate on the roadside.

Ken Routly, who is employed with C. B. Routly, George street, had cycled to the Canadian Packing Co., and was on his way north when the accident occurred. When he reached the Coca-Cola Co. warehouse he was cycling on his own side of the road between the street car track and the sidewalk. Two cars approached, the first travelling on the street car line and the other endeavouring to pass it. The second turned out to the left and swept around the rear of the leading car, far over toward the left of the road, and ran down Ken Routly. He was thrown from the bicycle and skidded along the asphalt about 12 feet to the sidewalk. It is believed that only his hat saved his head from serious injury.

Immediately after striking the young man the motorist stepped on the accelerator, witnesses say, and speeded away.

Routly lay on the street for ten minutes, pending the arrival of Dr. W. A. McPherson, and was then removed to his home. His limbs are said to be abdly lacerated, and his body a mass of bruises. It had not been ascertained this morning whether any serious injuries had been sustained.

NIGHT OF RIOTING

DUREN, Oct. 27. — (Canadian Press).—Separatists in the North Rhineland say that they have successfully established their position at Aix-La-Chapelle, Crefeld, Bonn and other points. It is now possible, leaders assert, to extend the Republican lines whenever such operations are deemed wise and opportunie in the interest of the cause. The Separatists especially claim progress at Coblenz, where Joseph Matthes has been installed as chief of the Provisional Government. It is asserted that he has been virtually recognized by the Inter-Allied Rhineland High Commission.

There is little secrecy about many of the plans of the Separatists for the immediate future, particularly where action is concerned. Military leaders talk openly to newspaper correspondents of the arrangements that have been made to storm the Town Halls at Neuss, Gladbach and other places, including Duesseldorf. These operations, it is added, may not be started for several days. Neuss, just across the Rhine from Duesseldorf, must be brought into line before the latter city is republicanized.

Republican chiefs say that operations to take control at Duisburg are under way, and predict that the Republican colors will be hoisted over the Rathaus there to-day.

Separatist leaders have named the following Cabinet for the newly proclaimed Rhineland Republic, a Mayence despatch said to-day:

THE WISE "Y"

It's wise to support any good Institution in our City, and our City can't be a good City unless the good Institutions are supported. It's the People of Peterborough that make the City, and it's the People of Peterborough that benefit, either directly or indirectly, from the good work of any of its Institutions.

Among the Institutions doing the most good is the Young Women's Christian Association on Simcoe Street, commonly known among its many lady friends as the "Y"; but its good work is done in such a quiet way that but few people know the full scope of its activities. Of its many Classes that run from Cooking to Arithmetic, from French to Dressmaking, from Nursing to Community Singing, of its Department of Physical Education and its Lectures and Entertainments. Its best work of all, however, is in furnishing a Real Home to the G'rl in our City without a Home. Stop for a moment and think what that means. Do you get its full significance?

Any business man knows that his work can not be carried on without money. There is a regular monthly outgo, and naturally there must be a regular income to offset it. The Boarding Home is more than self-supporting, and furnishes financial help to other Association work. That's proof of how well the finances are managed, but this source of income cannot accomplish everything. There is needed the small sum of Fifteen Hundred Dollars each year to partly cover overhead expenses, and allow the Association to continue in the full scope of its work, a work that affects the entire City of Peterborough.

The Board of Management have wisely decided that the best way to meet this Annual Charge is by an Annual Subscription, and between the dates of 28th October and 3rd November, you will be asked for a Subscription. The amount needed is so small compared with the good it will accomplish, no one should refuse.

The Y.W.C.A. is a credit and a help to the entire City of Peterborough, and you are a Citizen of the City. Please remember this when you are called upon.

WILL TRY TEN DIRECTORS AT THE ONE TIME

Change in Home Bank Action Will Broaden Scope of Enquiry.

CONSPIRACY CHARGE

TORONTO Oct. 27—(Canadian Press)—Conspiracy charges launched in assizes yesterday against directors and officials of defunct Home Bank of Canada will result in trial of ten men collectively. Had the proceedings been kept in the police court they would have been tried individually.

It is also probable that investigations of affairs of Bank will be carried to such lengths that there may be no need of further enquiry into the failure.

D. L. McCarthy, K. C., special counsel retained by Attorney General for the Home Bank case stated to-day that all the directors and officals would be charged with conspiracy under sections 414 and 444 of the criminal code.

Under the charges as laid in police court, of making false returns the issue would have been a simple one of whether they did or did not and the thing would have stopped at that stated Mr. McCarthy. 'Under the conspiracy charge we can dig deeper and enquire as to the knowledge of the men charged in regard to these returns and to various dealings of bank."

P. A. Mitchell of London, England, another director of Bank will not be charge according to Mr. McCarthy who intimated that Mitchell was likely to be a heavy sufferer through the collapse of the Bank. It is said that he had little or nothing to do with active management of the institution.

NUMBERS FRIENDS BY THOUSANDS

Jules Falk Has Charming Personality—Recital at Opera House Worth While.

Aside from being a great musician, Jules Falk, the noted violin virtuso, is a man of remarkably pleasing personality—one of those men whom everyone likes at first sight. He numbers his friends by the thousands—wherever he has played he has left, beside a host of those who are in love with Jules Falk the artist, a throng who admires Jules Falk the man.

Throughout his travels over two continents, Mr. Falk has had a number of amusing experiences, some of which his friends, on occasion, can prevail on him to relate. Recently to such a group, Mr. Falk told of the following incident, in which this personal liking played a rather amusing part.

"Not very long ago," said Mr. Falk, "I was the guest of friends in a beautiful southern home. During my visit I had noticed a photograph of myself in the family living room. Of course, one of the fixtures of this home was the usual old southern negro 'mammy' who presided over the kitchen.

"One day my hostess missed her photograph and instituted a search. To her surprise she found it tacked to the wall beside old Aunt Eliza's kitchen range.

'Why Aunt Eliza!' she exclaimed, 'What are you doing with Mr. Falk's photograph tacked up here? Don't you know you haven't any right to such liberties?'

"Well, ah tell yo Misses,' Aunt Eliza replied, 'yo see ah likes Massa Falk so well, ah jes couldent keep from putting his picture dere, and 'sides yo know—it make mah husband jealous.'"

Falk associated with Vanette van Sweringen, the eminent soprano, will give a recital here Monday evening, October 29th at the Grand Opera House under auspices of the local Rotary Club.

NEW YORK PAPER IN FAVOUR OF ACTIONS

NEW YORK, October 27. Canadian Press. — The Evening Mail today prints an editorial eulogizing Canadian discoverers of insulin. The Mail says:

"Citizens of the United States will be in heartfelt sympathy with their Canadian brethren in rejoicing over the award of the Nobel prize for medicine for 1923, to Doctors F. G. Banting and J. J. McLeod, for their discovery of the insulin remedy for diabetes. The achievement of these two young scientists is great enough to merit the honor and reward both because of scientific gifts which it connotes but also on account of the great boon to mankind which it bestows.

SENTIMENT IN HYMNS CAUSES SUICIDE MOOD

Speaker Puts the Responsibility Up To The Church to Supply Need

THE GLORY SONG

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 27. — (Canadian Press) .—Personal religion inspired by sentiment in such hymns as "When the roll is called up Yonder, I'll be there," and "There will be Glory for Me," has been cause of an increase of suicides and insanity Dr. Richard Roberts, of Montreal declared in addressing delegates to conference here of men woh are considering entering ministry. Conferenc, is under auspices of seminarits of new England.

During the Great War he said, this increase was stopped for time but is again on increase. "This shows that man needs something to think of besides himself,' said Dr. Roberts "It is duty of church to provide that something else."

TORONTO MASONS VISIT PETERBORO

Exemplify Degree Work In Corinthian Chapter Jewel Presented.

The regular meeting last night of Corinthian Chapter, No. 36, A.F. & A. M., was of an exceptionally interesting and enjoyable nature, in that the occasion was featured by a presentation and the presence of distinguished visitors from King Solomon's Chapter, No. 8, Toronto, to the number of 35. Other visitors present included brethren from Campbellford and Havelock.

During the work of the Chapter, Ex-Comp. Alex. Richardson was the happy recipient of a Past Principal's jewel, presented by Right Ex-Comp. Humphries, of Campbellford, Grand Superintendent of this district.

The very skilful exemplification of the Royal Arch Degree by the Toronto Masons, proved an outstanding event in Masonic labor, followed by a dainty banquet served in the Temple's dining room, and capably presided over by ex-Comp. E. H. D. Hall, a veteran in local Free Masonry.

The Toronto brethren travelled in a private coach, reaching Peterboro on the C. P. R. local last evening and leaving for home early this morning.

STAGE HANDS ARE UNDER A HANDICAP

Scene Shifters are Suffering From Low Morals of Shows.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27. — (United Press).—Some of the theatrical productions now playing to crowded houses on Boadway have reached such a low moral ebb that the very scene shifters are being corrupted, according to complaints made to Charles P. Sumner, secretary of the Association for the Suppression of Vice. He is planning to put several shows on trial before citizen jurors under the agreement that if the plays are adjudged immoral the managements will voluntarily withdraw them.

CHURCH SERVANTS TO LIVE IN PAPAL PALACE

ROME, Oct. 27.—(Associated Press).—The Law of Guarantees, passed by the Italian Parliament in 1871, almost immediately after Rome became the capital of United Italy, regulated the relations between the papacy and the new kingdom, and assigned to the Pope, besides the palaces of the Vatican and the Lateran, the magnificent papal palace of Castel Gondolfo, exquisitely situated on the shores of the Lake of Albano. As is well known, the Popes never acknowledged the Law of Guarantees, nor could they use the great Villa of Castel Gondolfo (as it was intended that they should do) for their summer residenc, as, after having been elected Pope, they never leave the Vatican.

Pius XI. has made use of the great Villa, with its huge suites of apartments as an orphanage for Armenian girls, pitiful waifs and strays from the World War. The Pope has now decided to have these girls, who are most of them of good faith, educated as teachers, so they are being sent to a college at Turin to be trained for this vocation. The pontiff now intends to make the palace at Castel Gondolfo as asylum and resting place for aged bishops and priests, who are no longer able to work and need a home and comfort for their declining years. It is difficult to imagine a spot more suitable or delightful for these servants of the church to spend the evening of their days.

Hieroglyphics Do Not Fit Local Wearer of Tut Costume

Appearance of King Tut Dress at Peterboro Dance Provokes Speculation—Egyptologist Says One Inscription Means "Raising the Devil."

One King Tut dress appeared in a recent dance in Peterboro. Done in black with the hieroglyphics in gold it was very effective, and attracted general attention.

This costume, like many others in the same class, was trimmed with inscriptions, supposedly Egyptian, and bystanders endeavored to decipher them.

Around the neck of the bodice were figures carrying urns and platters. Did this mean the wearer was the subject of homage, or had received, or was willing to receive, many gifts? These were the questions asked by the onlookers.

Not if a reticent school teacher in the city is to be believed. This gentleman has made a hobby of his study of Egyptology, and in a quiet way has gathered a fund of information on the land of mystery. "The Egyptians did not put hieroglyhics inscriptions on their dresses this man said. "They wrote them on mummies' wrappings and on stone images. In such a position the figures you describe would probably mean 'May I have plenty of wine on this trip?'"

Another series of pictures near the hem of the skirt caused speculation. An Egyptian woman is seen apparently chasing a man with an axe. Does this mean that the modern Phyllis who wears the dress is chasing a husband? Not this inscription. It means, according to authority, freely translated, "Chasing the devil" and "chasing" in this connection, according to the Egyptologist, is almost synomous with "raising."

A third group showed several men kneeling to an enthroned woman, and was interpreted by modern jazzites as meaning, "I have geen proposed to seven times this season." They were not far wrong, the Egyptian student declares. If this appeared on a sarcopahgus, the master of hieroglyphics would read it, "I have many slaves."

TURKEYS SAID TO BE SCARCE

Backward Spring Blamed For Shortage--To-Day's Market

There was plenty of fowl on the farmers' market this morning. Chickens and ducks and geese were present in overflowing numbers, the latter big birds averaging eight and nine pounds apiece. The large supply of fowl caused a variety of prices. Chickens ranged all the way in price from 30 to 20 cents a pound. Preferences in fowl while alive evidently extend to after-death conditions. Some buyers will pass by the neat little white Leghorns at 22 cents a pound to pay 27 cents for the yellow-skinned Plymouth Rock birds.

Ducks were plentiful also, and sold from 28 to 35 cents a pound, while geese could be bought for 26 1-2 to 35 cents a pound.

Butter and eggs were scarce, the former selling for 3 8to 45 cents a pound, eggs at 48 and 50 cents a dozen.

Cream was 30 cents a pint.

In the basket section, knitted woollen socks could be purchased for 75 cents and $1.00 a pair.

Downstairs, potatoes were fairly plentiful ,selling at a general price of $1.50 a bag.

There were lots of apples, too: Snows at 75 cents a peck, and $7.00 a barrel, Greenings and Baxters, 50 cents a peck, Hubbard's Non-Such 60 cents, and Spies 75 cents. One man had Spies at $6.00 a barrel.

Red tomatoes were 45 cents for a small basket, and green tomatos 40 cents for a large one.

Pure clover honey was 15 cents a pound, the mixed amber selling for 10 cents.

Pork on several carts ranged in price from 16 and 18 cents to 17 and 19 cents a pound, for front and hind quarters, and lamb was 20 and 25 cents.

Turnips were 20 cents a peck, cauliflowers 20 and 25 cents a head, and big Savoy cabbages 10 and 15 cents.

A couple of loads of wood were selling for $8.50 and $10.00 respectively, the former mixed wood, in four-foot lengths, the latter, with some good hardwood in its make-up, cut in stove lengths.

Nine-months-old pups were selling for $10.00 apiece.

Against the sidewalk leading to the basket section, directly behind one of the George Street stores near Simcoe Street, the walk was blocked by an overflow from a load of coal.

The outlook for turkeys, as reported in the basket section, is somewhat poor this year, and the late, backward spring is blamed for this, as for so many other happenings of the summer. Many of the usual dealers in turkeys record an extremely small flock this year, with no prediction, either, of impending prices.

GERMANY MUST PAY WAR DEBT

Premier Poincare Announces That France Will Not Back Up.

PARIS, Oct. 27.—(United Press). —The gulf separating the Franco-British viewpoints regarding German reparations payments is much deeper than is generally supposed, according to indications in official circles here to-day.

Premier Poincare does not consider his conditional acceptance of the Anglo-American proposals for a commission of experts to examine Germany's capacity to pay as in any way constituting a deviation from his original viewpoint.

As stated in United Press despatches yesterday, France insists that the Reparations Commission, which she controls, still must remain the final authority on how much Germany can pay.

France welcomes American co-operation in settling the reparations problem, officials said, but indicated at the same time that this Government has no intention of abandoning its previously expressed viewpoint, namely, that no reduction in the amount of reparations due from Germany can be considered at this time and that the questions of Allied debts and reparations are closely related.

PROTECTION KITE WAS FLOWN BY BALDWIN

LONDON, Oct. 27. — (Canadian Press).—The protection kite flown at Plymouth by Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin and by Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, has set political circles buzzing with excitement and speculation as to when the Premier intends to sound the opinion of the country on such a radical departure from Great Britain's established free trade policy.

The opinion so far holds that an election — if there be one on this question—will be fixed for the early spring of 1924 before the Budget is submitted to Parliament. One reason for the choice of this time is that the Budget is bound to be an unpopular one, inasmuch as it will not, according to Mr. Chamberlain's recent statement, provide for any reduction in taxation. The Government would not be likely to risk facing an electorate disgruntled by an unpopular Budget.

THE GOVERNMENT IS CHASING THE REBELS

ATHENS, Oct. 27. — (United Press.)—Retreat of the counter revolutionists under Colonel Giras toward the Serbo-Bulgarian frontier has been cut off, the official communique dealing with the insurrection, said to-day.

There was indication that the campaign of the government to put down the rebellion was meeting with success.

IRIS V. PAYNE SURPRISED BY HUMANE AWARD

Peterboro Girl Received News Today of Recognition of Her Heroism in Frozen River.

AGE WAS FOURTEEN

Iris V. M. Payne, 73 Smith St., was informed by the Examiner this morning that she has been awarded the Bronze Medal of the Carnegie Hero Fund, in recognition of her rescuing a four year old boy from drowning at Inverlea Park in 1921.

On Feb. 5, 1921 Iris Payne heard children shouting and on running to the beach found that Leslie Hoyland had broken through the ice.. She rushed into the water to her neck and succeeded with difficulty in bringing the boy ashore after he had been completely under the water twice. She was then 14 years of age.

It was not until some hours later that it was found that Enid Pakenham, daughter of Gilbert Pakenham, 737 Water street had fallen through the ice with the rescued boy. Search for the body continued for several weeks before it was found.

Miss Payne, interviewed this morning said if she had known about the little girl she might have succeeded in bringing her ashore also, as it is likely she was caught in the ice.

Miss Payne knew the investigators for the Carnegie Hero Fund were inquiring into the circumstances of the rescue but the intimation of the award was a complete surprise to her She was presented in April 1921 with a testimonial from the Royal Canadian Humane Association.

Miss Payne is a member of George Street Methodist Church.

Origin of Award.

The Carnegie Hero Fund was created in 1904 by Andrew Carnegie for the purpose of rewarding heroic efforts to save life in the United States, Canada and Newfoundland, to relieve those injuried in making such efforts and to provide for those dependents upon them where life was sacrificed.

In each acceptable case a medal of gold, silver, or bronze is awarded and in appropriate cases an additional award of money is granted.

The medal bears on its obverse, a reproduction of the creators likeness and on the reverse, "Greater Love Hath No Man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends,' with the inscription 'Awarded to" and the name of the recipient.

An investigation of the awards made during 1921, the last returns available, shows that the Bronze medal award is usually accompanied with a cash award of $1,000, either "for a worthy purpose as needed" or "for educational purposes as needed."

COMPARATIVE FLYING SPEED OF BIRDS

The crow is the least rapid of a list of 22 migratory birds, flying an insignificant average of 45 feet a second, or 30 miles an hour. Curlews and jacksnipes can fly 55 and 65 feet a secon, while quails, prairie chickens and ruffed grouse can make 75 feet. The dove can reach a speed of 100 feet a second, or 68 miles an hour, although its usual rate is less.

Redheads, blue-winged teals, green-winged teals, Canada geese and different varieties of brant can fly over 100 feet a second, ranging in speed from 68 to 98 miles an hour, but usually fly at a much slower gate.

"Reparations Problem Not a Problem of Figures But a Conflict of Wills"

NO IMMEDIATE ELECTION FOR GREAT BRITAIN

Premier Baldwin Realizes Extent of Opposition in Country to Protection.

WOMEN AGAINST IT.

LONDON, Oct. 27. — (Canadian Press).—The declaration in favor of protection for home markets as a remedy for unemployment as made by Stanley Baldwin, the Prime Minister, in his speech at Plymouth on Thursday night, is not expected in political quarters to lead to an early general election.

Without doubt considerable pressure will be brought to bear on the Ministers by the strong protectionist section of the Conservative party and also by the colonial Premiers, but Mr. Baldwin is well aware of the strong feeling in the country against any proposals which would tend to increase the cost of food.

The entire Liberal party and the bulk of the Labor party would oppose a policy of protection, and the general belief is that the women's vote would be almost solid on the side of the Free Traders. Hence, it is said, the Ministers have undertaken a campaign of educating the country to the new idea before venturing to risk an appeal to the country.

Meanwhile Premier Baldwin shelters himself behind the pledge given by former Premier Andrew Bonar Law that there shall be no fundamental change during the life of the present Parliament.

Arthur Henderson, one of the Labor leaders, speaking at Yeovil last night, declared that the entire Labor party was prepared to meet Mr. Baldwin's challenge and that it would resist to the utmost any "extension or adaptation" of the protective system. He characterized Mr. Baldwin's confession of fiscal faith as a confession of utter bankruptcy as a remedy for unemployment.

Mr. Henderson speaks for the official Labor party, but does not necessarily reflect the opinion of every section of Labor.

WILL GIVE PREFERENCE TO BRITISH ARTISTS

OTTAWA, Oct. 27. — (Canadian Press). — A new phase of Empire preference is associated with the announcement of a competition for designs for the monument to be erected to the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier on Parliament Hill.

The competition is open to artists, architects and sculptors throughout the world, but the Minister of Public Works has reserved the right, other things being equal, to give a preference to those of British birth, resident in the British Empire, or elsewhere. The competition is being widely advertised throughout Canada, the British Empire and Europe.

APPEAL DISMISSED.

MONTREAL, Oct. 27—(Canadian Press).—The Strathcona Fire Insurance Co. in liquidation, has again failed in its attempt to secure possession of the deposit of $59,000 made with the Quebec Government under the Insurance Act, and yesterday the Court of Appeal, full bench, dismissed its appeal from a judgment of the Superior Court.

GERMANS WILL EVADE PAYING DEBT EVEN IF REDUCED, FRENCH SAY

Admit the German Nation Is Bankrupt But Has Capacity to Pay in Future If She Had the Good Will to Submit.

SAY BRITISH ERRED.

PARIS, Oct. 27.— An appraisement of Germanys capacity to pay reparations strikes the afternoon newspapers as futile and objectionable, because they see in it an effort to reduce the amount of reparations They find it futile because they say the question is political they assert is hopelessly bankrupt, as any economic expert must agree, but if by some means she could be inspired with a desire to pay then for her capacity in the future is entirely dependent upon her good will.

"Germanys trouble," sayys "The Temps' is caused by German fraud, the repression if which alone will assure payment of reparations and by British errors for which British industry to-day is paying the penalty."

The newspaper asserts the lat-Britain broke the Allied entente ter is due to the fact that Great and cooperation which, had it been maintained would have avoided German resistance and the present chaos.

Blames Curzon.

The Temps says the British policy which dates back to the first Duke of Marlborough and still survives in Lord Curzon's mind, "is to prevent creation on the Rhine of a political situation that would guarantee Frances security."

The newspaper refers to Lord Curzon's inquiry of the Washington government as to the attitude of the United States, if the Allies are not unanimous for the conferennce and says such a conference, "if against France's wish could be utilized both to prepare the way for a ruduction of the German debt and to demand the premature evacution of the Rhur."

The Interansigeant, like all the other newspapers, refers to the speech at Hagen of Dr. Stresemann the German Chancellor as indicating continued resistance by Germany whether passive or not, and says Premier Poincare might well reply to Premier Baldwin as follows:

"Yesterday Stresemann threw off the mask and declared he would not make any payment while the Rhur and the Rhine are occupied. The Rhinel we are there by virtue of the Treaty of Versailles which I presume you have no intention of tearing up. The Rhur? I have always said I was ready to evacuate it, progressively as payments were made but this Stresemann would not do."

Conflict of Wills.

The Journal des Debates ridicules the idea of examining Germany's books to fix reparation, for it says, "the problem is not a question of figures but a conflict of wills."

"Why call a conference," this newspaper adds "to draft a new schedule of payments which would be no better executed than that of May, 1921. "Anyway," it declared "the reservations of the United States destroy all the value of their participation."

All the newspapers reproach Great Britain for not having followed France into the Rhur. In this connection the Journal Des Debates remarks:

"The error of the successive British governments since the conclusion of peace has been constantly to adjure despoiled France, instead of notifying guilty Germany that the Allies would not tolerate her evacuation."

Result is Nothing.

Chancellor Stresemann, this organ continues, ceased passive resistance "not so that hecould put Germany in a condition to pay, but in order to shift to our shoulders the costs of a resumption of work in the occupied territory.'

"France," declares M. Bainville, in La Liberte, might afford to listen to Premier Baldwin's plea if they would give our British friends any pleasure, but the conference will result in nothing. We can say that in all certainty in advance."

M. Bainville then asks whether the British proposal would not rather add to Europe's confusion instead of bringing order.

Boy is Travelling 3,500 Miles Alone

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press Cable)—A majority of the thousand passengers who sailed for Quebec and Montreal aboard the Doric yesterday were immigrants. A party of one hundred in the crew of the Salvation Army included a 7-year-old boy, Stanley O'Dell who is travelling alone 3,500 miles from his home in Jersey to his uncle in Halifax. There are also parties from continental countries among whom is the Russian boy Herwitz Elijah, aged 13 who saw all his relatives killed in 1919. One hunderd and fifty other orphans will follow him if he gets along successfully.

The Doric will call at Belfast and Glasgow to embark further batches of emigrants.

CHILDREN'S AID SECURES A GIRL

An application was made by the Children's Aid Society, before Magistrate O. A. Langley, to have a Dummer girl of 14 years, made a ward of the society.

The evidence showed that this girl had lived with her mother and her stepfather, Joseph Drain, and that for a period of a year her stepfather had assaulted her nearly every week.

Mrs. Drain, who opposed the application, said that she did not believe the girl's story, and needed her at home. She admitted however that her husband had been convicted of the crime as alleged, and that another daughter had become the mother of an illegitimate child.

Judgment was reserved until yesterday morning, when an order was granted, making the child a ward of the society.

When giving judgment the Magisrate stated that he wanted it brought to the notice of the society that he considered it an imposition to have Mr. Wearing appearing in court year after year in cases for the Children's Aid Society, when he knew that no fee was ever paid for the work. The magistrate stated that Mr. Wearing being an expert in these matters, was of very great assistance in court to him, and that the public would be well served by having him paid a reasonable salary for his work.

BRONZE MEDAL FOR A PETERBORO GIRL

Heroism of Iris V. Payne Recognized by Carnegie Hero Fund Commission

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 27. — (Canadian Press. — Carnegie hero commission at its fall meeting here yesterday recognized two acts of bravery by Canadians. A total of 36 acts were recognized in Canada and the United States Eight of the heroes, one a Canadian lost their lives and to their dependents commission granted pensions. The Canadian hero who lost his life was Samuel A. Spenser, Vancouver. He was a janitor and lost his life while rescuing and indeterminate number of persons in an apartment house fire in Vancouver, June 20, 1920. Spenser was burned to death. A silver medal was awarded the daughter. Iris V. M. Payne, 72 Smith Street, Peterborough, Ont., aged 15, was awarded bronze medal for rescue of boy from drowning at Peterborough, on February 5, 1921.

POLICE GET AN ORDER USE OF FIREARMS

TORONTO, Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press).—An Order with reference to use of firearms by police in making arrests was issued by Chief of Police Dickson yesterday. Two clauses concerning use of guns as taken from the criminal code were forwarded to the chief by Crown Attorney Eric Armour, following the verdict of the jury at inquest into shooting of John Gogo, member of whiskey running gang who was killed when shot by police at foot of Leslies Street on October 6.

POLISH TRAIN STRIKE.

French Supported The Separatists in Coblenz

COBLENZ, Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press)—Open and active French support enabled the Rhineland Republic yesterday to extend its hold over a number of small towns and villages. French and Belgian troops enlarged their policing activities in republican-controlled towns and quickly suppressed disorders growing out of attempts by the loyalists to throw out the Separatist groops.

Joseph Matthews, and is supporters in the Separatist movement, still hold Coblenz which became the capital of the new Republic overnight; when the French military curfew kept Loyalists off the streets while the Separatists, who previously had been driven from town, returned and marched down the streets past the French sentries and took over the government building.

LONDON FINDS HOPE LIGHTED

Reduction of German Indemnity Fixed By Treaty of Versailles One of the Questions.

LONDON, Oct. 26—The wilingness of the United States to lend her advice and co-operation in a conference for the settlement of the German reparations muddle seems to have lighted Europe out of the slough of depression.

The British invitation and the reply of the United States stressing the imperative need of finding a suitable financial plan to prevent economic disaster in Europe, found prompt echoes in Paris, Brussels and Rome, for it became known late this afternoon at the British foreign office that France, Belgium and Italy had all accepted the principle of an advisory conference of experts.

While the British authorities would have preferred a full conference of ministers to liquidate the reparation troubles, they hope the preliminary conference of experts will lead to a larger council of allied statesmen.

Allied Debts Involved.

France's consent to enter the advisory councils of experts will involve the question of acceptance of the United States principle that the inter-allied debts and German reparations must be divorced, a point upon which Premier Poincare heretofore has differed from Great Britain and the United States.

France will also have to face the question of reducing the amount of indemnity expected from Germany under the Versailles treaty, which in the past has been fixed at 6,600,000,000 pounds sterling, or 132,000,000,000 gold marks. This sum, and the question of granting a moratorium to Germany weer the points which led to the failure of the last expert bankers commission, of which J. P. Morgan was the United States' member.

May Met in Berlin.

If, as the British government anticipates, M. Poincare agrees to these and other conditions, it will then remain only for the nations participating in the conference to appoint their experts and formulate a programme of procedure.

British officials seem to favor Berlin as the principal seat of the conference, as this would make Germany's books and records and the German officials themselves more accessible to the experts who are to appraise Germany's assets and her capacity to redeem her indemnity obligations.

EXPLOIT MORE TIMBER LIMITS

Quebec Auction Calls For Ten Million Dollar Development.

QUEBEC, Oct. 27. — (Canadian Press).—Ten million dollars will be spent in the development of timber limits in the basin of the Manicougan River in the Province of Quebec within the next few years, according to the terms of a lease which the Government will auction at the end of November, details of which are contained in an announcement made yesterday morning from the Department of Lands and Forests. The scheme under which the limits will be exploited is also expected to provide a practical solution of the pulpwood difficulties and to do away in some measure with the need for an embargo as far as the Province of Quebec is concerned.

The limits referred to are located next to those leased last year by the Ontario Paper Co., and are provided with water-powers nearby which, when developed, will facilitate the desired development. One of the objects in view in offering such an important area of forests is to check, if possible, any further exodus of Quebec residents to the United States, by supplying here the industries necessary to keep the people employed.

EUROPE GAINS SOME RESPITE

Situation May Be Favorably Modified During the Conference Period.

PARIS, Oct 26.—The French government has accepted the British proposal for an examination into Germany's capacity to pay reparations. It is regarded in diplomatic circles that Premier Poincare has thus avoided a bad turning in France's international relations for this morning, when the United States' note and Prime Minister Baldwin's speech were published here, he appeared to be beset on all sides.

Defied by the German Chancellor in a speech which was regarded as presaging prolongation and intensification of the troubles with the Reich, and summoned by his allied associates to accept the principle of a conference which he had hitherto steadily rejected, the French premier seemed to have been isolated, if not cornered.

Show of Approval.

His prompt acceptance of one of the alernative proposals made by the British prime minister clears the atmosphere, and while nothing is expected by French officials, to come from a re-estimate of Germany's capacity, France will have at least avoided the appearance of hanging back on a proposal approved by the British and United States governments.

The first impression regarding M. Poincare's reply was that it practically rejected Mr. Baldwin's proposal since it limited the constitution of the examining commission by putting the nominations up to the reparation commission, which was tantamount to rejecting the idea of a conference of plenipotentiaries named by the various governments.

When it transpired later that there were alternative projects in the British proposal, one for an international conference of plenipotentiaries and the other for a commitee to be named by the reparations commission, it was seen that the premiers reply constituted an acceptance.

Germany's Hearing.

It is regarded as possible that the Germans may decide to ask for a hearing by the special commission of experts instead of pursuing their request that they be heard by the inter-allied reparations commission.

Valuable time may be gained in any case by the procedure accepted by M. Poincare, it is pointed out in diplomatic circles where there have been grave apprehensions over the crisis in the Franco-German relations. While the commission of experts is at work other developments may modify the situation, such as the eventual success of the Rhineland republic, which would comprise according to some estimates, forty per cent. of the paying power of Germany.

On the other hand, the intimation has reached the Quai d'Orsay that Great Britain would regard the Versailles treaty as nullified if the Rhineland separated from the Reich and became an independent republic.

BERLIN QUICKLY SEES DEFENSIVE POSITION FRANCE FORCED INTO

Doubtful of Progress.

BERLIN, Oct. 27. — (Canadian Press.)— The exchange of notes between Great Britain and the United States on the reparation question and the speeches of Premier Baldwin and General Smuts are prominently featured in the German press, and while the editorial appraisals of the triple discussion are as yet noncommital the newspapers are generally agreed that it constitutes a "moral offensive against France."

In the opinion of Die Zeit, which usually reflects the government attitude, the utterances of the British statesmen and the exchange of views between London and Washington, plainly indictae that Great Britain, during the last few months has devoted her efforts to reconstructing her foreign policy in the direction of establishing a firmly co-ordinated front against French Imperialistic policies.

The newspaper believes Secretary Hughes 'observation that the proposed conference might fail because of the lack of necessary unanimity on the part of the European powers and that the United States' government in that case would reserve its final decision is proof positive that Washington clearly perceives the motives of the French policy.

"The Anglo-American exchange of views is an urgent admonition to France that it can no longer remain oblivious to common world interests, and that both governments desire to restore conditions essential for European peace," says Die Zeitung.

That M. Poincare now has arrived at the parting of the ways is the declaartion made by the Boersen Zeitung, which holds that the French Premier is responsible for "Blasting the conference at Genoa and the sabotaging of all subsequent attempts to convoke formal discussions among the allies" Initiative of Premier Baldwin is viewed by this newspaper as a step of supreme importance, calculated to determine the future of the world's political constellation.

Doubt of France's sincerity is expressed by the Lokal Anzeiger, which professes to see no progress having been made toward a solution of the reparations tangle n the exchange of notes between the London and Washington governments.

The creditor nations, says the Boersen Courier should, first of all, make sure of a primary pre-condition for reparations and international economic rehabilitation—a living Germany. In order to make sure of this, the organ of the Bourse declares, two things are necessary — creditor nations must put an end to the policies which economically are throttling Germany and permit the proposed conference to take place.

HARVESTERS IN COLONIST CARS ESCAPE DEATH

RETURNING EAST.

FORT WILLIAM, Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press)—Amazement at the miraculous escape they had from death or injury, was expressed by passengers in the seven colonist cars of train Number four, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, which were derailed near Savanne, Ont., early yesterday on their arrival here last night. The accident was due to a broken rail.

Arrangements had been made by the railway authorities to care for the injured, six of whom were stretcher cases, which were taken to a hospital. Nineteen persons were injured, four seriously, according to the latest compilation of casualties, who, with one exception, were harvesters returning to the east.

In Kindling Wood.

One of the Colonist cars, which had turned across the track, was splintered into kindling wood, the trucks from other coaches having been driven underneath it and forced right through the floor, raising the floor to within a few feet of the car's roof. In one coach a broken rail went right through the bottom of the car, at the lavatory, thrust its way through the roof, passing a man by an inch. Only his nose was grazed by he huge steel spear, which,

RISKING DEATH TO SAVE TIME.

Two items in yesterday's news dispatches should emphasize the folly of doing what so many people do every day—that is, risk their lives to save a minute or two of time.

Near Unionville the driver of a motor car attempted to race an express train over a grade crossing.

The train and the car reached the crossing at the same time, with the result that one life was snuffed out and other deaths may follow.

At Detroit a woman with a baby in her arms tried to crawl under a freight train blocking a crossing and the train started to move before she was safe on the other side, the woman losing a foot and an arm.

In both cases a moment or two's delay would have meant a safe passage.

But rather than wait the chance was taken with terrible results.

People are doing that kind of thing right along—and in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred there is not the slightest need for hurry, not the slightest reason why they could not wait a moment and be safe.

THE NOBEL PRIZE.

Canadians will rejoice in the fact that the Nobel prize in medicine for 1923 has been awarded to Dr. F. G. Banting and Professor J. R. McLeod of Toronto University for the discovery of insulin.

Never before has the Nobel pribe been awarded to a Canadian, and only once before has the prize in medicine been awarded to a citizen of this Continent.

Altogether since the inception of these world honours only six other prizes have been granted to residents of North America, one in physics, one in medicine, one in chemisty and three efforts in furthering peace, the last three prizes going to the late Theodore Roosevelt, Elihu Roo and ex-President Woodrow Wilson.

The recognition of Dr. Banting's exploit in discovering the insulin treatment and of Professor McLeod's work in the same discovery as head of the Department of Physiology at the University of Toronto is a wonderful thing for the two prize winners—a remarkable advertisement for the University of Toronto and an honour to Canada.

Winning the Nobel prize shows what Canadians can accomplish if given a fair chance, and affords a convincing argument, if any more needed, in favour of the establishment by the Canadian Government of proper facilities for research work.

A national research institute is one of Canada's crying needs, and Dr. Banting has demonstrated that Canadians would make use of such an opportunity to lead the world.

A PIONEER RESIDENT.

One by one the pioneer residents of Peterborough are passing on, leaving gaps in the ranks that seem difficult to fill.

The latest to whom death's summons has suddenly come was one of the best known citizens of Peterborough, Mr. R. W. Grubbe, for many years connected with the Bank of Toronto here and a familiar figure on the streets of the city.

Although born in India, Mr. Grubbe had been a resident of Canada since his early boyhood, and for sixty years, from 1863 onward, except for a short time in Montreal, had lived in Peterborough.

Few citizens were better known. He was a man of gentle habits, of geniality and good humour, "filled with the milk of human kindness." On speaking terms with nearly everybody, he took an especial interest in children, and the little folks will miss his warm smile and the kindly questions with which he greeted them.

His services in the years gone by were always at the disposal of all enterprises and of local organizations where volunteer work was needed, and although he never sought public office, he was nevertheless a useful and worthy citizen during the six decades in which he lived in Peterborough.

Mr. Grubbe was one of the few survivors of the Peterborough quota which was called out for service at the time of the Fenian Raid in 1866, most of the veterans having passed over to the great majority.

THE TORONTO VERDICT.

The verdict of the Coroner's Jury which investigated the shooting of a rum-runner by Toronto police that the officers were not justified in firing upon the party and that the Ontario Temperance Act, being an Ontario measure, its breach cannot be construed as a criminal offense, is of much importance.

Public opinion will strongly endorse the finding of the jury.

The majority of people, whatever their views on prohibition may be, do not regard a breach of a temperance measure as a sufficient justification for the killing of the offender by officers of the law.

They would prefer bootlegging and rum-running to be operated on a much larger scale than at present rather than to have the men who engage in such illegal practices considered fair game for policemen to use as targets for their revolvers.

The death of John Gogo followed what the jury regarded as an unjustifiable use of firearms by the authorities.

The verdict gives point to the Attorney-General's instructions on the score, and should cause the heads of police departments throughout the Province to emphasize the fact upon their officers that although they are given revolvers for their protection they are not expected to bring in their man "dead or alive," unless the circumstances are such that their own or the public safety makes it necessary to use their guns.

It would be a very dangerous thing if policemen were to get the idea that they are justified in blazing away at everybody who attempts to escape, regardless of the offence of which he is presumed to be guilty.

AMERICA NOW A BIG CREDITOR NATION.

In 1914 Amrica owed the rest of the world a net amount of about $4,000,000,000. The rest of the world now owes America a net amount of $17,000,000,000 to $18,000,000,000, says the New York Herald.

This debt exists in seven forms—loans from our Government to other Governments, securities of foreign Governments and foreign corporations held by private individuals, direct ownership of foreign plants, money owed by foregn purchasers to American exporters and American ownership of foreign currencies and foreign exchange bills.

Of the total, $11,333,194,041, according to the latest figures, represents what is due our Government in principal and interest from other Governments. More than $9,000,000,000 of this sum is owed by three Governments, as follows:

Great Britain	$4,166,318,358
Italy	1,648,034,050

The largest commercial investments of the United States are in Canada, Mexico, Cuba and South America. These are mainly in lands, mines, oil wells, railways and public utilities. The value of American foreign commercial investments in this hemisphere has been estimated as follows:

Canada	$1,450,000,000
Mexico	800,000,000
South America	535,000,000
Cuba	525,000,000
Central America	93,000,000
Jamaica	30,000,000
Total	$3,433,000,000

This is a conservative estimate. Our total investments in Canada, for instance, including Government, provincial and municipal loans, as well as commercial holdings, have been placed as high as $2,500,000,000. There is scarcely a country in the civilized world in which part of our net foreign investments of $17,000,000,000 to $18,000,000,000 is not represented.

THE SMUTS BOMB.

Nothing more startling has been heard in London for many a month than the smashing Smuts speech of last night.

It is so aggressive, so direct and downright, so far removed from diplomatic moderation of utterance, that it cannot be taken for an even informal statement of the official view. We must accept Mr. Smuts' declaration that his words commit nobody and are only his "personal observations and suggestions on a situation dark and dangerous enough to perplex the wisest."

Still it is difficult to wipe wholly from the mind the memory that this same General Smuts has on several critical occasions been used by the British Government as a detached but highly important agent—yet susceptible to repudiation if the mission failed.

It is indeed hardly conceivable that a man in the position of General Smuts would make so bold and blunt a contribution to the delicate discussion of European affairs, without at least the permission of the British Ministers He would hardly launch so flaming a bolt from the blue. Moreover, it presses several points which the British Government itself made while it was still debating with hope the Ruhr and reparations problems with Premier Poincare—notably the legality of the occupation of the Ruhr. Since the collapse of German resistance, the British Government has been silent. It has appeared to accept a fait accompli. But it has never withdrawn its grave charge of "illegality," and now Mr. Smuts says in so many words that "there can be no doubt" that it is illegal. "We are back in August, 1914," he declares. "It is again 'the scrap of paper'." And Mr. Smuts is one of the signatories of the Treaty of Versailles.

* * * *

It will be utterly impossible for things to go on unchanged either in the Empire or in Europe, as if General Smuts had not made this speech. It is a daring—yet an undeniable—challenge to every Government concerned, including that of Great Britain. He has "said out in meeting" things which many have thought, and even whispered, but have not ventured to proclaim. No longer can they be treated as non-existent.

It is curious that this voice of protest should come from an Overseas Dominion. This is plunging in medias res into the foreign policy of the Empire, with a vengeance. Constitutionally and morally, it is exactly as if this didactic and detailed intervention in a European question had been made by Mr. Mackenzie King—which we out here would have regarded as a startling innovation. Smuts has played a great part in world affairs; but, after all, he is only an Overseas Premier.

But just because he is an Overseas Premier, his voice cannot be disregarded by the British Government as if he were one of their local politicians—possibly out of office. In this sense, it carries even more weight than the very similar sentiments expressed by Mr. Lloyd George. If the Dominions are to be invited to the councils of the Empire, obviously they cannot be disregarded when they come—and make very definite contributions.

Still it is arguable that Mr. Smuts is speaking more as a student of world affairs than as Premier of the South African Union. This is probably true. But yet—so long as he enjoys the confidence of his fellow countrymen—the fact that he is exceptionally well-informed in foreign affairs can hardly detract from the authority of his utterances as a leader of South African sentiment. In a measure, this is true, or should be true, of all Premiers.—Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Punisment met ed out to a slanderer of Peterborough industries, says the Hamilton Spectator, effectively indicates that even the much-abused manufacturer has rights that justice is bound to protect.

The taxpayers are beginning to get an idea of what they're going to have to pay for the roads that Biggs built. Wentworth County, for example, will have to provide $365,000 as the county's share of the work done in 1922.

President Coolidge's attitude in regard to a conference over the reparations tangle puts the issue squarely up to France.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, October 27. — This week's business at the Union Stock Yards has been pretty much a repetition of that for some weeks past. The receipts have been too heavy of the wrong kind of butchers, and too light of the really finsihed heavy and medium weight butchers. The abattoirs and the individual firms who cater to the domestic beef trade have been extremely desirous of a supply of really good beef cattle, and have sought in vain for them the last two weeks. In their place they have made shift with others not satisfactory to themselves or the retail butchers. There was scarcely a bullock on the market this week worth 7c a pound. Except the heavy steers good only for export or for the American dressed beef trade.

For export the highest price paid was $7.45, and others of good quality went at $7.25. With a large supply of heavies the exporters used their buying position to advantage, and on Tuesday and Wednesday commission men had to accept $6.50 a cwt. for loads which were not in the A grade. For stores for the Old Country the prices ran from $5.25 to $5.75, but the major part taken did not reach the higher figure.

As previously stated there were no choice butchers available, and the top paid for those closest to them was $6.75 a cwt., and many did not go higher than $6.50. These were heavier than desired, but had to be taken to fill customers' orders. A number of good butchers, 900 to 1,100 pounds each, were marketed at close to 6c, and were fairly steady, but anything below this in quality had heavy competition, and towards the end of the week prices were down in some instances as much as 50c a cwt. Fairly good killing heifers sold at 4 1-2c, and the common stuff seldom made higher than 3 1-2 cents a pound.

The run of common stockers was heavy and the pressure was added to by a considerable number from the West. Good stockers sold cheaper at 4 1-2c, and some of the Western stockers had to be placed at 3c. Outside of those taken for export the supply of feeders was sold at a little over 5c a pound. Dealers in milchers and springers spoke of a little more activity this week, but the demand ran to those whose quality made them valued in the neighbourhood of $100.00 each.

On Thursday there was a fair-sized number of cattle left unsold, and the clearing up of the pastures will ensure further large shipments for a few more weeks. Under these conditions it does not seem probable that there will be any improvement in prices. Shippers are doubtless governing themselves accordingly, and will not be disappointed. The exporters will be the buyers again next week, and local butchers would appreciate a few loads of real good killing steers and heifers.

Although th local veal consumption has fallen off there have not been sufficient good calves on the market to weaken the price to any extent, and choice calves have sold steadily at 10 1-2 cents to 11 1-2 cents. Good mediums bring 8c to 10c, but heavy coarse calves have been too plentiful, and the price for these has been down from $1.00 to $2.00 a cwt. and the market for most has run from 5c to 6c. Grassers have also been heavy at 3c to 3 1-2c.

The packers got very few if any hogs during the week at their set price of $7.75 a cwt. f.o.b., and on Thursday were willing to admit a quotation of $8.00 to $8.25. Outside packers seem to have taken all they needed at $8.25, and this appears to be nearer the weeks price than any other figure.

Distinctive Beauty, Greater Satisfaction With Vulcanite Hexagon Slabs

THE roofs of your home, garage and other buildings can become their most attractive and distinctive features. Covered with Vulcanite Hexagon Slabs—in either soft green or Indian red—a deep tile effect is produced—an enduring source of beauty as well as protection.

Absolute protection against all weather conditions with Vulcanite Hexagon Slabs is assured by the exclusive, patented design. This seals the roof, preventing snow, sleet or rain from being driven into the roof boards. The result is a longer-lasting roof and one that is easier, and more economical to lay. In re-roofing, these practical slabs can be laid right over the old shingles.

Vulcanite Roofing of the same high quality also comes in individual shingles, four-in-one slab shingles, and in rolls, both slate surface and smooth finish—for home, farm, and industrial buildings. You can identify the genuine by the Vulcanite name and the Beaver trademark.

These Tests Prove Vulcanite Quality

1. Lay the sample on a hot radiator for 12 hours—see if it will melt or dry out.
2. Lay the sample on ice for 12 hours—then pour boiling water on it. See if the sudden extremes of temperature affect it in any way.
3. Soak the sample in water for 12 hours—see if its weight shows any absorption.
4. Immerse the sample in nitric, sulphuric, muriatic or other ordinary acid—see if it is affected.
5. Lay a glowing hot coal of fire on the sample—see if it sets fire to the sample.

WOMAN CRASHED FARMER'S BUGGY

BAILIEBORO, Oct. 27.—While Mr. David Heaslip was driving with his one horse democrat, out of his own lane, a car driven by a young woman came from the south along the Provincial highway and not noticing the horse in time to turn out of its way crashed into the light wagon, upsetting it and throwing the driver heavily to the ground. The buggy was badly smashed, while the car which was occupied by three women crashed ahead through a lawn fence on the front of the residence of Mr. Joseph Laing.

The car was only slightly damaged as the front fender which was badly bent and the paint scratched off the side were the only parts damaged.

Mr Heaslip after being thrown to the ground managed to keep a tight grip on the reins and prevented the horse from breaking loose, although he was very badly shaken up, and as yet it is uncertain as to whether there are any bones broken.

Held Bazaar.

On Thursday evening, October 25 the Ladies Aid of the Methodist church held a very successful bazaar in Mr. Bateson's hall.

The supper commenced at 5 o'clock and although the weather during the day was not the best a large crowd, gathered to enjoy the evening, and purchase articles which were there.

At 7 o'clock Rev. R. M. Patterson opened the bazaar with a short address, and then the ladies who were appointed to sell had a busy time supplying the numerous customers, many of whom wanted the same article, and it was difficult for them to decided who the lucky buyer would be.

There were many useful and fancy articles supplied by the ladies, and no trouble was found in getting the prices asked, as many thought it a good opportunity to purchase their Christmas gifts.

There was also a guessing contest, a jar of beans was placed on a table, and the one who guessed the nearest number of beans in the jar received a splendid box of chocolates. Mr. Chas. Dawson was the lucky winner.

The receipts of the evening amount to about two hundred dollars. Out of this there was very little expense, and the receipts would be nearly clear.

Birthday Party.

On Thursday afternoon little Audrey Cole gave a birthday party to about twenty of her little friends. The afternoon was pleasantly spent in playing games, followed by a dainty supper.

LLOYD GEORGE MAY RETURN WITH PREMIERSHIP IN SIGHT

By J. W. T. MASON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(United Press).—David Lloyd George's American tour has done more to resurrect the ex-Premier politically than anything else that has happened to him since his fall from office. The Welshman will return home in November with the Premiership very much nearer his grasp, because of the great welcome he has received in American cities.

British newspapers, politically hostile to Lloyd George, in some notable instances, have been so tearful of the effect of his American triumph that they have refused to publish the facts. They dismissed, in a few lines, the extraordinary warmth of New York's initial greeting to him, and have maintained the same policy of ostracism ever since.

Nevertheless, enough papers, even among those which did not support the Lloyd George Ministry to the end, have given sufficiently adequate accounts of his American tour to permit the real facts to become known in Great Britain. Lloyd George will return to London, therefore, with his great war record no longer forgotten. Whether this will mean his quick return to power, or whether he will have to wait in long impatience, cannot yet be told.

The fact is unescapable that Great Britain has been frequently humiliated in Europe since Lloyd George was forced out of the Premiership. Had Bonar Law been able to continue to head the Conservative Ministry now in power, conditions would have been different. But Bonar Law's illness has revealed the fact that the Conservatives have no other man of outstanding qualities of political leadership.

Baldwin Has Failed.

Stanley Baldwin, the present Premier, has failed as no previous British Prime Minister has failed since Great Britain lost her American colonies. When he was made Premier by an accident, it caused general surprise that he had not made a reputation for himself previously, in public life. There is no cause for such surprise any longer. The plain fact is that Premier Baldwin wasn't heard of before he reached the Premiership because he did not possess the necessary ability.

This is the chief opponent Lloyd George must face when he resumes his seat in the House of Commons. If Mr. Baldwin were to be forced to resign there is nobody else among the Conservatives with any greater ability as a political leadr, except Lord Birkenhead, former Lord Chancellor, who, like Lloyd George, is now touring America.

Lord Birkenhead, however has an unfortunate capacity for making political enemies because of his sense of sarcasm. It is doubtful, too, whether Lord Birkenhead would consent to head a Ministry that might be antagonized by Lloyd George. In one of his American speeches Lord Birkenhead described Lloyd George as the greatest living Englishman, despite the fact that they are political opponents, under normal conditions of politics.

A union of forces between Lord Birkenhead and Lloyd George is a possibility of the near future, which might restore the latter to power. Lord Birkenhead would undoubtedly be willing to serve again as Lord Chancellor under Lloyd George. Such a combination, however, could be brought about only by the formation of a new Coalition Ministry of Liberals and Conservatives. But that seems the most feasible way of getting rid of Stanley Baldwin, and of recovering Great Britain's prestige abroad.

VICTORIA COUNTY ROBBERS CAUGHT

Gang Arrested at Milton Believed to Have Combed Wide Territory.

LINDSAY, Oct. 27.—According to information received by the authorities in Victoria county, the gangs of thieves who have been terrorizing the people in Ontario and Simcoe counties and in this district have been run to earth.

Albert Chadwick, recently arrested near Milton, and his confederates, Geo. Anderson and another man are the robbers who carried off about $1,500 worth of goods from a Coldwater store, the Orillia police believe. Chadwick was a former resident of Orillia, and one of his pals was in his employ. The former is under arrest for robbing a store in Fergus of goods valued at $5,000. His confederates are still at large.

Three Toronto men, who are believed to have been implicated in the thefts and hold-ups near Brooklin, during the past fortnight were arrested near that point a few days ago on the charge of stealing ducks and chickens. They pleaded guilty to a long list of thefts in the district and were remanded for sentence.

The authorities here are satisfied that these same thieves operated in Victoria County and carried off their loot in trucks.

had he been standing a foot nearer would have impaled him.

Delay Was Brief.

A little more than an hour after the injured had been taken to the hospital and the needs of others attended to, a train was made up to carry the rest of the passengers eastward Those less seriously injured were accomodated in a hotel until they have recovered sufficiently to proceed, while a club dining room was utilized as a dining room for many of the party. The railway restaurant at the depot was available to all other passengers who needed refreshments, and many of the harvesters expressed appreciation for way their wants had been attended to by the railway.

Only one car had been turned over onto its side, it was said, and a man who was in this coach said the whole number of occupants had escaped without more than a few bruises. He and others made their exit by smashing windows.

WORK WEEK OBSERVED IN BULGARIAN SCHOOLS

SOFIA, Oct. 25.—(Associated Press).—The autumn work week in all the public schools of Bulgaria was observed recently, and another week will be similarly devoted in the spring. The boys and girls went to school as usual, but instead of studying employed the school hours in performing useful tasks. The girls knitted stockings and made night clothing for the children in the orphanages, while the boys cleaned up the school properties, applying paint where needed, digging up the school yards and repairing the pavement in front of the buildings.

This work is a part of the labor legislation by conscription, put into the statute book under the late Premier, Stamboulisky. It constitutes the one reform of the previous regime that the Tsankoff administration has retained.

Efforts are being made, however, to make the conscript labor more effective by a more intelligent and systematic application. One memorial of conscript labor as worked out by the Stamboulisky regime is the long lines of holes which were dug on either side of the street by the conscript laborers and never filled with the trees which they were designed to hold, on one of the principal streets of the capital, Ulitsa Rakovska.

BROCKVILLE IN RUNNING.

OTTAWA, Oct. 26.— (Canadian Press)— Brockville meets the Ottawa seconds here to-morrow in an important Quebec Rugby Union fixture. Should the visitors win, they will remain right up in the scramble for championship honours, New Edinburghs now leading the league by reason of Cornwall's default of tomorrow's scheduled game.

ANGLES FROM THE Y.W.C.A. TRIANGLE

The Blue Triangle stands for the all-round development — physical, mental and spiritual—of thousands of girls and women all round the globe. The Peterboro Association has a membership of almost 600 and is of service to well over 1000 people.

The Y.W.C.A. means to the girls of Peterboro, an attractive well-equipped building.

Where she can swing Indian clubs in a gymnasium or practice the over hand stroke in a swimming pool.

Where she can take up school studies after working hours or learn to make attractive things, or take a course in home nursing so that she may be of service to others, or where she may join other girls for musical events and lectures.

Where she can become a spare time members in clubs for playing, clubs for study, clubs for doing.

Where the employment bureau stands ready to help her find a job she needs and the job she fits.

Where through helping with junior clubs and numerous ways both for the home Association and foreign Y.W.C.A.'s she can give as well as receive.

Where she can attend Bible Study classes, which are to be found wherever the Y.W.C.A. has unfurled its banner, spend a pleasant Sunday afternoon and enjoy the friendship of Sunday evening singsongs.

Where a few miles from Peterboro she can spend a pleasant inexpensive holiday at the "Y" camp.

Where she can find a comfortable home, with congenial friends, good food and all the pleasures of home.

The Y.W.C.A. means healthier, happier, womanhood—therefore a better city, a better nation, a better world.

OPEN BIGGEST AIRCRAFT LABRATORY JANUARY 1

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.—(United Press).—The largest aircraft experimental labratory in the world will be completed and in operation at the Philadelphia Navy Yard by January 1, 1924, according to Captain G. C. Westervelt, manager of the naval aircraft factory here.

In addition to the great labratory, a new 90-acre flying field and hangars, to house a score or more planes, will be ready for use by the first of the year.

The most important section of the new labratory will be the dynamometer rooms, where instruments can measure the condition, power-output and input, and horsepower of motors under the same conditions as if the motor was at an elevation of 55,000 feet above sea level.

The expansion of the naval aircraft factory is in line with Admiral Moffett's program for naval air supremacy. The giant dirigible, Shenandoah, formerly the ZR-1, was designed, fashioned and fabricated at the navy yard here and put together at Lakehurst, N.J.

World's Doings

By CHARLES P. STEWART.....

Chancellor Stresemann is making frantic efforts to keep Germany from breaking into a number of separate states, such as existed before Bismarck united them, about half a century ago, into the Empire the Kaiser ruled.

Defeat in the World War shook this union badly.

The present Republican Government's surrender to France in the Ruhr, naturally a terrible blow to the people's faith in today's regime, threatens to drive some, at least, of the states into deciding to "go it alone" again.

* * *

What France Wants.

Indications are that this is what France wants, since she would have little to fear from a group of weak, separate states, compared with a united Germany. However, undoubtedly it would mean indefinitely prolonged confusion in Central Europe, which wouldn't suit the rest of the world. England especially would be displeased, for both business and political reasons. In the end it might not be a good thing for France, but she seems to think so now.

* * *

New German Cabinet.

Stresemann resigned as Chancellor, or Premier, but immediately accepted a reappointment and began forming a new Cabinet. His idea appears to have been, not to quit, but to make a fresh start, with a group of Ministers he was more in harmony with. Probably he really wanted to make himself dictator, so as to fight the separation movement more vigorously, but this plan was abandoned temporarily. It may be tried later.

No Decision Yet

Rival forces are still struggling in Oklahoma.

Governor Walton declared martial law as an anti-Ku Klux measure. On the ground that he'd violated the constitution a majority of the members of the House of Representatives tried to meet to impeach him. Walton said he hadn't called a special session so, at his order, State troops scattered them. Then an election was held, to change the law so that a session could be held even without the Governor's call. The proposition won by a large majority. But Walton denies the election's legality. He has a court injunction to back him.

However, he himself has called a special session now, "for the purpose," he says, "of the enactment of a law to protect the people from masked and lawless marauders"—no especial organization mentioned. His idea appears to be to get his own complaint before the House ahead of impeachment proceedings.

Wets and Drys.

Bishop Schrembs, addressing the National Council of Catholic Women's Convention in Washington, referred to prohibition as "a law the people admit can't be enforced."

Figures compiled by the United Press account for 2,000 known deaths from poison liquor thus far in 1923.

Federal prohibition headquarters statistics show 480,000 Americans drinking whiskey daily on doctors' prescriptions, as medicine.

The Federal Council of Churches has been called into conference in Washington, Oct. 14, on the subject of prohibition, the summons saying violations are increasing and that

A Word of Caution!

When buying Maple Buds, say

"I want Cowan's Maple Buds"

—and further, when you are handed the package, slip a few Maple Buds out and see that they are stamped with the name "COWAN".

This warning is necessary because some dealers are foisting imitations of Maple Buds upon the public. Genuine Maple Buds cost dealers more than do the imitations. Get the best!

KEEN COMPETITION IN THE PLOWING EVENTS CAVAN AND MONAGHAN

But Attendance Smaller Than Usual Resulting From The Recent Dry Weather—Farmers Are Catching Up After Rain

AWARD WINNERS

MILLBROOK, Oct 27.—The annual ploughing match of the Cavan and South Monaghan Ploughmen's Association was held on the farm belonging to Mr. Archie Johnston, Fallis Line, on Friday, October 26th, begining at 10 a.m. and continuing until about 5.30 p.m. The attendance was considerably smaller than usual owing to the fact that the farmers of this vicinity have been unable to plough because of the dry weather, and the rain on Wednesday and Thursday this week made it possible for them to catch up with this important work, and also made them loth to lose a day even for so important and interesting an event as a ploughing match. The classes in both sod and stubble, as well as the tractor competition, were closely contested, and excellent work was done, the interest and skill shown by the young farmers, being worthy of special note.

The hot dinner and supper, which could hardly have been improved upon, either in quality or quantity, which were served by Mrs F. Johnston, assisted by her daughters, Mrs (Dr.) Reynolds, of Toronto, and Miss Alixe Johnston, and her neice, Mrs. A. R Ketchison, of Trenton, were much appreciated, full justice being done to the good things provided as the hungry competitors, directors, judges and other guests came in from the cool out of doors and enjoyed Mrs. Johnston's hospitality.

The Duffus Motor Sales had the latest models in Ford cars on the grounds for inspection should any desire to avail themselves of the opportunity. The results of the day's competition were announced by the secretary, Mr. Leonard McNeill, and were:

Tractor Class, Sod—1 L. H. Winslow, 2 Ray Wood, 3 Archie Johnston.

1st for crown—L. H. Winslow.
1st for finish—Ray Wood.

This class was not a demonstration, and was open to farmers only.

FLAMES WERE CHECKED BY A NEW FIRE WALL

INGERSOLL, October 27. Canadian Press. — Starting from an unknown origin in a machine shop of the plant of T. E. Bissell Co., fire last night threatened the destruction of the Hughes-Noxon Building, occupied by the Bissell Company and the Ingersoll Machine Company.

Although effective work was rendered by the firemen, the new fire wall was a great factor in preventing the flames from spreading to other parts of the building.

The loss is estimated at from $15,000 to $20,000, and is partially covered by insurance.

Sydney Kills Dogs when Woman Dies

SYDNEY, N.S., October 27 (Canadian Press). — Following closely upon the tragic death of Mrs. Angus Campbell at Dominion, after being badly bitten by her own pet bulldog, an epidemic of dog poisoning has sprung up in the colliery district.

A mysterious man with a black bag has been seen in the neighbourhood, and yesterday, shortly after he had been seen in the vicinity, dead canines dotted the landscape in all directions, sixteen having been removed from the baseball field alone.

LLOYD GEORGE MEETS HUGHES

Believes Distinct Advance Made Toward Solution of German Problem.

WASHINGTON, October 27. Canadian Press. — While David Lloyd George, wartime premier of Great Britain, devoted yesterday, his second day in Washington, chiefly to pilgrimages to Arlington National Cemetery and Mount Vernon, in a call upon disabled soldiers at Walter Reed Hospitals, public questions did not escape his attention.

The reparation situation, in the light of the latest developments, attracted his interest, and to-night he conferred with Secretary Hughes at the latter's house for an hour.

Invited to Mr. Hughes' house an hour in advance of others who attended a dinner given in honor of the distinguished visitor, the two had an opportunity to discuss questions in which they are mutually interested. Although no statement was made concerning the conversation, it was assumed that the latest phase of the reparation question, as well as other matters of public interest, was discussed.

Throughout the day the reparation situation held the interest of the former premier. Walking from his hotel suite to breakfast with William Jennings Bryan, he remarked to his friends: "Those are remarkably interesting telegrams between Lord Curzon and Secretary Hughes in the newspapers."

Advance to Solution.

In conference with newspaper correspondents, he spoke hopefully of the situation and indicated that on the basis of latest advices from Europe he believed a distinct advance had been made toward a solution of the problem. Once an investigation is begun into Germany's capacity to pay, he declared, he would be hopeful of a successful outcome.

There is no necessity of going outside the Versailles treaty in reaching a solution, Mr. Lloyd George asserted, adding that if France desired to keep the question within "the four corners of the treaty," he saw no objection to such a course.

There would be no substantial difference, he explained, whether the investigation was conducted by an independent commission outside the treaty or by an impartial commission under authority of the reparations commission, so long as the investigating body was composed of business men or experts of proven ability who actually represented the powers, and who had the confidence of the world. The moral force of any force presented by such a group, he contended, would give it a momentum that could not be successfully resisted.

The value of a commission of business men in the circumstances, Mr. Lloyd George added, would be in their political disinterestedness.

Also, he said a business man has a way of arriving at conclusions almost by instinct.

Honored War Dead.

At both Arlington and Mount Vernon, Mr. Lloyd George paid homage to the memory of the war dead. Accompanied by Secretary Weeks of the War Department, he went to the ampitheatre at the cemetery and bare headed approached the tomb of the Unknown Soldier upon which he placed a simple wreath without inscription.

After standing silently for a moment he retraced his steps to the automobile, and was driven to the mansion which Robert E. Lee left to go to the civil war.

At the cemetery limits Secretary Weeks left the distinguished guest who was also accompanid by Dame Margaret and Miss Megan Lloyd George, and with Sir William Sutherland of Great Britain, Colonel W. H. Owens, of Montreal, and other members of his party, the former premier proceeded to Mount Vernon.

There after inspecting in detail the home he went to the tomb of George Washington, and placed a wreath, also without inscription, on the sarcophagus.

In the afternoon the former premier attended a tea given by Henry Getty Chilton, charge d'affaires of the British embassy, at which he met many members of the diplomatic corps as well as officials of the U. S. government.

Visited Disabled Veterans.

Going late in the day in company with Secretary Weeks to Walter Reed Hospital, he passed through wards in which disabled war veterans lay quietly, and at the Red Cross auditorium met others who had gathered to greet him.

Speaking in a low voice and with every evidence of deep emotion the war time premier thanked them for their contribution "to the freedom of Euorpe and the freedom of the world."

Mr. Lloyd George will leave by automobile early to-day for a visit to Gettysburg and after returning will speak to-night at a dinner of Overseas Writers, an organization of Washington newspaper correspondents.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Methodist Choir Gave a Delightful Concert—Bride-to-Be Gets Presentations—News Paragraphs.

CAMPBELLFORD, October 27. —The choir of the Methodist Church under the leadership of Mr. R. T. Cowell, presented a good audience with a most delightful concert, consisting of choruses, solos, duets, etc.

The rendering of each number showed great skill and training.

Rev. Mr. Elliott acted as chairman and in a few words introduced the choir. The numbers follow:

Chorus—"Hills and Vales of Pleasure," Choir.

Solo—"Song Divine," Mr. Collison."

Recitation—"Christmas Turkey," Miss Aenid Richardson.

Quartette — "Come Where the Lilies Bloom," Dr. and Mrs. Richardson, Mr. Lucy, and Miss Hoover.

Male Chorus—"Old Oaken Bucket."

Recitation—Mrs. Wragg.

Chorus—"Softly Falls the Shades of Evening," Choir.

The accompanists were Mr. Cowell and Miss Cherrie Turner.

Rev. Mr. Elliott spoke in highest terms of the choir and their efforts to which the audience gave hearty response.

Gets Presentations.

Miss Geraldine Hankinson, whose marriage to Mr. Horton, of Rochester, takes place on Wednesday next, was the recipient of many handsome and useful presents in silver and cut glass at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Wm. Cory, of Garry Street. Miss Hankinson has been in the employ of the Bell Telephone Co. for several years, and her fellow-employees gave her a pair of silver candlesticks.

The following is the address from the girls:

Dear Geraldine,—We, your friends, having learned of your departure from our midst, have assembled here this evening to bid you farewell.

During your long period with the Bell Telephone Co. you have always given faithful and trusted service. Your cheerful disposition has often made our work more pleasant.

We cannot allow this opportunity to pass without showing you in some tangible form your sterling worth. We would ask you to accept these candlesticks as a remembrance of happy days spent together as friends. We hope, in making new friends, you will not forget your old pals.

Signed on behalf of the Bell Telephone Company,

Mrs. E. Williams.
G. M. McComb.
Laura Collins.
K. Keenan.

Miss Hankinson, although taken by surprise, replied in a few well-chosen words, thanking her friends for their kind thoughtfulness.

The evening was spent with music, etc. A dainty lunch was served at 10 o'clock, and the party, 36 in number, left for home at about 1.30.

News Paragraphs.

The many friends of Mr. Edgar McKee, farmer, of Seymour West, regret to learn that he is in such poor health that he is forced to sell his farm stock and implements and quit farming. He leaves for Muskoka immediately after the sale, which takes place next week.

Rev. James McIlroy, of Havelock, will preach at both services in the Presbyterian Church on Sunday. Rev. J. E. Glover takes the work in the Methodist Church.

Mr. Malcolm, of Galt, is the guest of his son, Mr. A. L. Malcolm, of the Hydro Electric.

Mrs. Hayden of Toronto is visiting her daughter, Mrs. D. Douglas.

Hallowe'en Party.

A Hallowe'en party of the Willing Workers of Christ Church, will be held in the parish hall, Rear street, Monday, October 29. An enjoyable social evening is promised. Admission 15c. Come and bring your friends. 2d100

FURTHER SLUMP FRENCH FRANCS

London Markets Had An Eventful Week—Conditions Improve.

LONDON, Oct. 27 (Canadian Press Cable).—The stock markets closed yesterday in a brighter mood than was manifested in the early part of the week when in addition to the news of chaotic conditions in Germany something approaching a scare was created by suggestions of a policy of inflation by the British government.

There have been feverish fluctuations in exchanges and stagnation in business. A further slump occurred this week in marks and French francs dropped to 78 and there was a fall in New York exchange on London. Although German marks remain at the bottom sterling has experienced a recovery and francs have also improved.

It would not perhaps be correct to say Premier Smuts of South Africa was entirely responsible for the change in tone but the atmosphere brightened after his speech this week suggesting a conference of the nations to settle the European situation and grew still brighter after Premier Baldwin's pronouncement last night at Plymouth. Prime Minister Baldwin recognized the serious effect of the mischievous rumors relating to inflation and the way he dealt with this ghost has given satisfaction in financial circles. Too much emphasis cannot be laid on his statement that there was no truth in the story that the government contemplated a change in the country's financial policy. This should have the effect of allaying the fears which have been harmful to British credit.

The results of the new loan issues by the South African government and the Mail Trust indicate that a large amount of money is available for investment. In less than two days seventeen million pounds sterling were forthcoming. Both issues were oversubscribed. It is interesting to note that within the present month more than thirty million pounds sterling of new capital have been floated. This is regarded as a cheerful prospect for further flotations.

Arrangements are being made for a new issue by the underground railway group amounting to £6,000,000 and early next week a loan to Finland of £1,000,00 will be offered. With the more cheerful tone French currency bonds have become firmer and the feature of the foreign market has been the buying of the Austrian loan. In the gilt-edged market British stocks continue firm, the five percent war loan now ex-dividend, showing a slight gain. Further recovery has taken place in oil shares and the rubber market, although inactive, has been steady. South African gold shares exhibited strength and home rails have been supported, Great Western's shares being a strong feature.

CLOSER RELATIONS WAS RECOMMENDED

Liberals of Pontiac Held a Meeting Yesterday.

CAMPBELL'S BAY, Que., Oct. 27 (Canadian Press).—A meeting of the Liberals of Pontiac was held here yesterday for the purpose, among other things of the election of officers and at which the following resolutions were unanimously adopted, after favorable comment by a number of delegates.

"Resolved that in the opinion of this meeting the best interests of Canada would be served by closer trade relations with our nearest neighbor and best market, the United States of America, and we therefore recommend to the Government" the immediate appointment of a minister plenipotentiary to Washington as provided for in legislation passed by the Borden Government 1920."

COMMISSIONER TO JAPAN APPOINTED

Also Canadian Trade Representative in Holland.

OTTAWA, Oct. 27.— (Canadain Press).—J. A. Langley, of Ottawa has been appointed assistant Canadian Trad. Commissioner to Japan and left here last night to take up his new post. He sails from Vancouver on the Empress of Russia on November 1 and expects to arrive at his destination on November 9. During the absence of A. E. Bryan Canadian Trade Commission in Japan who is returning to Canada on November 21, Mr. Langley will be acting trade commissioner in that country.

Captain F. H. Palmer of Halifax, former assistant Canadian Trade Commissioner at New York is now on his way to Roterdam to take over the post of Canadian Trade Commissioner in Holland vacated by the recent resignation of Norman D. Johnston of Montreal.

Both of the new appointees saw overseas service with the Canadian Expeditionary Forces, Mr. Langley with the 35th Battery R. C. F. A. and Captain Palmer with the Canadian Siege Artillery.

Miss Ruby MacNaughton of Young's Point, is visiting friends at North Bay.

WHEAT ELEVATORS BREAKING RECORD

Over Three Hundred Cars Of Wheat Handled in a Day.

FORT WILLIAM, Oct. 27 (Canadian Press).—The Northland Elevator, formerly Canadian Pacific elevator "D" not only has taken in during the past eight days, an average of 272 cars a day, which in itself is a notable feat, but one day this week broke all records for a four-track house at the port and according to the manager, in the world, by taking in 314 cars of wheat, averaging 1,490 bushels a car, a twenty-four hour day.

This was accomplished with a full gang working up to seven in the evening and a half gang after that time till ten o'clock and then the ordinary gang. The total quantity of wheat taken in by the Northland in 20 hours was 450,410 bushels. In addition to the world's record for taking in wheat, the elevator simultaneously loaded no less than 329,000 bushels of grain into boats during the same day and night. Since taking over the elevator from the railway company a number of improvements have been made.

BRITISH SUBJECTS GET WELCOME HERE

When United States Quota is Exhausted They May Come Here.

OTTAWA, Oct. 27 (Canadian Press) —British subjects arriving at the ports of Halifax and Quebec with the intention of entering the United States, who upon arrival find the United States quota exhausted, have been receiving a welcome in Canada, according to a statement made today by the Department of Immigration and Colonization.

The practice which has been adopted by the Canadian Immigration authorities in connection with such British subjects is that upon declaring their intention to become residents of Canada, and otherwise complying with the Canadian Immigration Regulations, they may be admitted into Canada on the same conditions as if they had originally sailed from their port of embarkation with Canada as their destination.

BIG PROJECT FOR FUTURE OF CANADA

Faith is The Greater St. Lawrence Waterways Scheme.

MONTREAL, Oct. 27 (Canadian Press).—Faith in the greater St. Lawrence waterways as the big project for Canada's future development featured yesterday's session of the Royal Grain probe. The suggestion that the west coast route will be equally necessary to handle Canada's domestic grain exports if the country is to divert from the Buffalo-New York route the grain now sent through alien channels also came in for a promising part of the evidence. Exporters and ship agents suggested that the completion of Canada's inland system of water traffic for ocean vessels to bring large cargo carriers into Fort William was an achievement worthy of the best thought of the country. Interests connected with Montreal grain movement displayed no hostility toward the west coast route maintaining that the production of grain in the western provinces was increasing faster than was the capacity of the domestic routes for export.

CANADIAN GENERAL GETS BIG CONTRACT

To Build 65,000 Kilowatt Generator for Canadian Firm.

TORONTO, Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press). — The Canadian General Electric Company has received an order from the Southern Canada Power Company for a 65,000 kilowatt generator, with the necessary transformer capacity, at a price in excess of $50,000.

ACTIVITIES IN RUHR BE RESUMED SOON

BERLIN, Oct. 27. — (Canadian Press).—Hugo Stinnes and other representatives of German industry, after conferring with Chancellor Stresemann, have re-opened negotiations in the Ruhr with General Degoutte, French occupation chief. The continuance of operations in the Ruhr plants depends on the result of these discussions.

25 PER CENT. FOR DEPOSITORS SOON

Decision to Realize on Assets of Home Bank Without Loss of Time.

TORONTO, Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press). — Home Bank depositors may not be obliged to wait long for the payment of the initial dividend of 25 per cent. promised in the preliminary official statement by Curator A. B. Barker. The committee of fifteen representing the shareholders and depositors at a five-hour secret session held yesterday at the Home Bank head office discussed the affairs of the defunct institution at great length, and it was decided to realize on a large part of the bank's assets without loss of time.

Provisional Liquidators G. T. Clarkson and I. E. Weldon took the committee into their confidence concerning developments that have occurred since the bank's affairs have been entrusted to them. It was emphasized that there were certain assets which should be disposed of without loss of time. In this connection extensive timber limits in British Columbia taken over in liquidation of the Western Canada Pulp and Paper Co., which was heavily indebted to the Home Bank, were mentioned. Real estate holdings of the bank were stated to be in a different category. It was explained that these properties will be needed for some time at any rate in formally closing out the bank's affairs.

The interest payments to a New York financial house holding mortgage bonds to the amount of $1,303,702, including accrued interest, will have to be met by the provisional liquidators in order to guard against foreclosure proceedings. Also the disposal of real estate is a matter that will take considerable time.

The appraised value of the bank's premises held by a subsidiary realty company of the Home Bank is $2,048,700, in which the bank has an apparent equity of $744,908.

The most valuable property is the head office on King Street, adjoining the present offices of the Canadian National Railways. This property has been the subject of negotiations between the bank and the C.N.R.

The Million Dollar Doll

By C. N. and A. M. Williamson

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY:

Juliet Divine, a beautiful show-girl, known as the Million Dollar Doll. In reality, however, he is not with the Doll but

Teresa Desmond (Terry), Juliet's unbelievably innocent half-sister, whom the Doll sent to masquerade as herself. Ever since a kindness Miles did her in childhood, Terry had made him her Dream Prince, and they are now madly in love with each other, although he believes her to be the notorious Juliet Divine.

Paul di Salvano, a handsome Italian, formerly the lover of Miles' wife, has deserted her for

Rose Callahan, a somewhat ordinary young heiress, now traveling in Europe with her father.

Betty Sheridan, Miles' wife, frantic at Paul's desertion finds herself in danger of losing her husband also and goes to Algiers where Miles' yacht is lying.

Eustace Nazlo, a wealthy Greek, meeting Miles and the "Doll" recognizes Terry Desmond whom he knew and loved in New York. He it is who warns Betty that her husband's companion is not a show-girl, but a convent maid.

Miles, enjoying a brief sojourn at Bousaada with Terry, and his faithful old servant Mrs. Harkness as chaperone, receives a wire that his wife is in Algiers, demanding to see him. On his way there he is overtaken by Nazlo who informs him that the "Doll" is really Terry Desmond.

Nazlo arriving first tells Terry that Mrs. Sheridan is in Algiers.

Nazlo assures Terry that her only course is to marry him, and Miles will forget her.

CHAPTER LXXVII.

Cinderella Again

He would have taken Terry in his arms again, but very gently she pushed him back. 'Wait " she put him off. 'Please—if you love me There are things to say—for us both. Is it true, what Mr. Nazlo has said — just now when he came, and Mrs. Harkness and I were sitting by the river?"

'So he found you first " Miles exclaimed. 'It was ten to one that he would—with the start he got. I suppose the brute told you what he started from Algiers to tell—that my wife (if I must call her that) is on the yacht waiting for me, and that she's changed her mind about the divorce? I don't know whether the last part's true or not, because I've only Nazlo's word for it.

'We met when my car was in trouble, and he said he's seen her in Algiers. Yale wired me that she was on board 'Silverwood.' That's why I started in such a rush. I knew something must be up, and the sooner I faced it the better. Very likely it is true she's changed her mind, for it wouldn't have done Nazlo much good, for long, to spring the story on me if there were nothing in it. But it was other things he told that brought me back to you.

'If it had been only the divorce, probably I'd have pounded on to Algiers faster than before—even at the price of letting him find you here alone. When I realized all you had to forgive me, I couldn't wait till tomorrow for your pardon, and to make sure I had your love whatever happened.

'Child, how could I have thought you were Juliet Divine? Why did I let an 'idee fixe' get between my eyes and my common sense? I went blundering ahead, taking it for granted that you were what I expected you to be, in spite of your sweet, innocent ways, and a thousand things that ought to have shown me the fool I was. I misconstrued everything. I thought you were playing the ingenue,—for a purpose. I—God forgive me—I don't see how you ever can But why, why did you take that woman's place on my yacht, and run such risks, and let me believe you were—what I did believe, even when love took me and tried to make me a decent man?"

'Why, I did it all because Julia said I could help you," she explained, almost in a whisper. 'I loved you so much—I owed you so much—I would have done anything for you I didn't realize at first quite what—what it would be like on the yacht, or how people would act—or how hard it would be not to tell you the truth about myself. But I promised Julia not to tell, and I wouldn't—till I heard from her—if Mr. Nazlo hadn't told already. Even now I don't understand about Julia—why it should be so awful to be taken for her— —"

The last words, spoken quickly, tumbling over each other like ripples in a wind-blown brook—had passed by Sheridan's brain, though his ears must have heard them.

'You loved me so much—you owed me so much?" he echoed.

'Oh, yes I can tell you now. You were always my Prince, ever since I first saw you, when I was so tiny. Did you know—or had you forgotten all about your little Cinderella you were so good to, years ago?"

'Cinderella " he repeated.

'Oh " Terry's voice, that had held a trembling note of happiness in her memories, broke with disappointment. 'You'd forgotten—even that you called me 'Cinderella' I knew you would, only a child you never needed to think of again. But you see, you made my life so different, I've remembered you every minute—yes, every one, in all the years, I think. And I couldn't help hoping you might have kept a corner in your thoughts for me—just a wee, dusty corner "

'You're Cinderella " he muttered. 'That little girl—that pretty little girl —on Long Island. Is it possible? I did remember. But it's so long ago. So many things happened—my marriage—the war—and—the child was so young. Yet sometimes it has seemed as if your face—and then today, when Nazlo called you 'Miss Desmond'—still, still it didn't come back to me."

'I thought you said he'd told you " Terry cried.

'He told me you weren't Juliet Divine, that you were ten years younger than she. He said your name was Desmond; that he'd met you at your father's house. Oh, my child, how glad I am it's you, not Nazlo who gives my Cinderella back to me "

'I'm glad too," Terry said, keeping back tears. 'But I shouldn't have spoken if I hadn't thought you knew. I'd have felt treacherous to Julia, after such a solemn promise as I made. And she had done so much for me She's my sister,—Father's daughter, not Mother's—and I've worshipped her all my life as my fairy Princess, just as I've worshipped you as my Prince."

Sheridan pressed his lips against the girl's white dress. It smelled sweet, like violets, and the fragrance seemed to express her as the scent of red roses, or magnolias, would express Juliet Divine. But his kiss meant that never again would one word against Juliet pass the lips that touched her little sister's gown.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS ALWAYS KEPT ON HAND

Mrs. Ernest L. Adkins, Brotton, Sask., writes: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets with great success for four years and always keep a box on hand." Thousands of other mothers say the same thing—once they have used the Tablets for their little ones they will use nothing else. Experience shows them that the Tablets are the ideal medicine. They are a mild laxative, thorough in action and never fail to relieve the minor ailments of little ones. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

FOOD FASHIONS CHANGE STEADILY

The growing preference for lean bacon mentioned in a recent issue of The Daily Mail may perhaps be attributed to a revulsion from the unpleasant maize-fed pig flesh which we were forced to consume during the war

However that may be, the fact remains that our tastes in the matter of food and drink are constantly changing, and that the provision dealer who wishes to avoid losses has to keep his eyes open to these changes

In the matter of meat it is noticeable that more beef is being eaten and less mutton Some years ago mutton which at the time was served once a week to the troops at home, was wiped right off the Army menu . Lamb is still liked, but mutton has become unpopular

The consumption of chicken is increasing by leaps and bounds So, too, is that of fish In London the consumption of fish is now about 75 lbs annually for each person, but this is above the average for the country at large

The importation of fruit is increasing very fast London alone takes over 6,000,000 bushels of imported fruit in the course of the year, to say nothing of half a million hundredweight of preserved fruits and a vast quantity of nuts

Porridge is going out of favour Forty or fifty years ago porridge was a regular breakfast dish in all middle-class households Today, even in Scotland, the consumption of porridge is rapidly falling off, and in many English hotels, where ten years ago it was served regularly, it now has to be specially ordered

And people have almost ceased to eat the excellent and wholesome oatcake One day last week I tried almost every grocer and confectioner in a small midland town without being able to purchase any form of plain oatcake

Brown bread is disappearing The average country baker makes it only to order And as for white bread, the old-fashioned cottage loaf is disappearing in favour of the tin loaf The reason given is that the latter is more economical and better adapted for cutting into toast slices

Less bread is being eaten and more cake The old-fashioned tartlets and three-cornered jam puffs have given way to elaborate Continental chocolate and cream creations Today the favourite confection is the eclair, preferably filled with chocolate

The amount of sugar eaten in various forms is enormous During the present century it has risen from 350 lb per family to 420 lb yearly It is still increasing

In thousands of homes little attention is given by parents to the correct carriage and posture of their children.

"I could not walk"

Headaches, dizzy spells, pains in the back, swelling of feet and ankles, suppressed, scalding or painful urination —are all indications of kidney trouble. Read how Gin Pills relieved one sufferer:—

"I am seventy-eight years old and have suffered from kidney trouble for over two years. I had swollen feet and hands, sleeplessness and dizziness so that I could not walk. I began taking Gin Pills and now the swelling has left and I do not have any dizziness, and sleep well. I can recommend Gin Pills."

AGED EIGHTY-TWO GIVES CHALLENGE TO ALL WALKERS

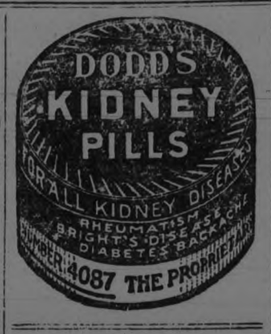
Dan. O'Leary, Famous Pedestrian, Makes No Age Restrictions in 500-Mile Jog For $5,000.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Dan O'Leary, whose feats of walking furnished some of the big sporting thrills back in the early part of the present century, is 82 years old, but he is not yet through walking. In a letter O'Leary says that he has been walking all summer in baseball parks throughout the country and that he challenges any man in the world to walk 500 miles for a side bet of from $1,000 to $5,000, with no restrictions as to age or color or anything else.

The famous walker further challenges his equally famous contemporary, Edward Payson Weston, to a walking contest with Schmihel as a partner, in which O'Leary agrees to walk 100 miles while Weston and Schmiel are each walking 45 miles.

He can still walk six miles an hour and keep it up for six hours, O'Leary writes, and his stunt during the last summer has been to walk twelve times around the baseball diamonds, outside the bases.

O'Leary has long been one of the most famous walkers America ever produced. although other sporting events have in late years crowded the pedestrians from the front. But in the old days O'Leary was considered a physical wonder, and he must be even more of a wonder now if he can do the feats he says he can. His greatest stunt was walking 1,000 miles in 1,000 hours after physicians had said that no human being could stand such a straing. In 1908 O'Leary figured that he had walked 99,000 miles in contests, so that by this time his figure must be well above the 125,000 mark.



RECIPES

Our grandmothers never failed to have some plum conserve on their preserve shelves and this old-time sweet surely was delicious.

Nowadays most housekeepers have fresh fruits of almost all varieties at their command during the entire year. But fresh fruits out of season are expensive and increase the food bill more or less needlessly. Fresh fruit certainly, but more for variety and change and apples for daily food with canned fruits and sweets for desserts.

And speaking of preserves, if one's family are not satisfied with a sweet of warm biscuits and preserves but insist on a regular dessert, why make quantities of extra-sweet canned things? But if the family does like warm biscuits and preserves it saves many a dessert on a busy day.

Try this plum conserve with warm home-made rolls instead of pie.

Plum Conserve

Five pounds plums, ½ cup hot water, 1 cup seeded raisins, 1 cup nut meats, 3 pounds sugar.

Wash plums and remove stones. Put fruit, raisins, hot water and sugar in preserving kettle. Bring slowly to the boiling point and simmer until plums are clear. Add nuts and cook ten minutes longer. Pour into sterilized jars and seal.

Plums have a rare flavor not found in other fruits. Green gage, yellow plums, damson or any sweet variety are used.

Plum and Peach Conserve

Four pounds peaches, 4 pounds plums, 1 pound raisins, 4 pounds sugar, ½ cup peach kernels, 2 cups water.

Scald fruit and slip off skins. Remove stones and cook in the water until tender. Rub through a colander. Crack enough peach stones to make ½ cup kernels. Pour boiling water over kernels and let stand until the skins slip off. Put through food chopper with raisins. Put fruit pulp, sugar, raisins and "nuts" in preserving kettle and cook until thick. Pour into sterilized jars and seal.

Plum Sweetmeats

Damson plums, cinnamon, sugar. Scald plums and slip off skins. Remove stones. Put in preserving kettle and heat very slowly, drawing out the juice. Simmer gently in their own juice until tender. Rub through a sieve. Add ¾ cup sugar and ½ teaspoon cinnamon to each cup of fruit. Cook until thick and pour into sterilized glasses and seal.

Euchered Plums

Nine pounds blue plums, 6 pounds sugar, 2 quarts vinegar, 2 tablespoons cinnamon. Wash and dry plums. Boil vinegar, sugar and spice for five minutes and pour over plums. Let stand 24 hours and drain. Heat liquor to the boiling point and pour over fruit. Do this three more mornings. The last morning cook fruit and juice for 20 minutes. It takes five mornings to make this preserve.

Trapper Finds Vicks Handy For A Host of Ills

ONTARIO MAN SAYS IT IS A MOST USEFUL REMEDY.

Mr. C. Phoenix of 75b Grey St., London, Ont., writes: "I am very pleased to recommend Vicks VapoRub. I am a hunter, trader and trapper, also a fisherman. I use Vicks VapoRub in place of liniments, because it is very handy to carry and always gives such quick relief for small animal and insect bites, and for chapped hands and lips. My boots would blister my feet and I rubbed it on them and it made them just right. When I go trapping next fall I will have plenty of Vicks VapoRub in my kit. I call it the 'Trapper's Friend.' I have not had a cold all winter and I go out all the time and sometimes stay out all night with my traps."

Vicks VapoRub, the discovery of a Southern druggist, is a combination in salve form of Camphor, Menthol, Eucalyptus, Thyme, Turpentine, etc.

Absorbed through the skin and at the same time inhaled as a vapor, Vicks reaches immediately inflamed, congested air passages.

It is the modern direct treatment for all cold troubles, the successor to goose grease, camphorated oil, liniments, poultices and plasters.

Used for croup and children's colds, Vicks gives remarkably quick results and also avoids nauseating internal dosing. Just as good for cuts, burns, bruises, bites, stings.

At all drug stores, 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vicks Chemical Co., 344 St. Paul St., W., Montreal, P. Q.

Though Vicks is new in Canada it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

FARMERS

Exports of foodstuffs of all kinds from our country were valued at 679 million dollars in the 12 months ended June 30.

This compares with the 1911-1923 average of 435 million dollars a year. So the money value of food exports is more than twice as much now as before the war. But what the exporter gets is an entirely different matter from what the farmer (producer) gets. High freight rates to seaboard, among many other things, help absorb the gain.

SAVE FUEL COSTS

OBSERVE PROPER RULES AND YOU'LL NEED LESS COAL, SAYS EXPERT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—How do you burn your coal?

Are you getting all the heat out of it you should, or are you one of the majority that is paying nearly twice as much in fuel bills as you should?

According to S. S. Wyer, fuel expert with the Smithsonian Institution here, the American public knows very little about the proper use of fuel. Observe the following rules for burning anthracite, bituminous coal and coke and you probably will lop 25 to 50 per cent. off your heat bills this winter:

Anthracite.

1. Carry a deep fuel bed, five to ten inches thick, so that it will not burn through in spots and admit a large excess of air.

2. Shake the grate to remove ashes, but stop before live coals appear in ashes.

3. Fresh fuel should be spread evenly over the entire grate area.

4. Be sure to leave one visible bright spot of live coal to ignite the gases coming off the freshly fired fuel. In this way the gases from the coal will be burnd gradually and will not accumulate in the firepot and burn with an explosion.

5. After firing, keep the dampers wide open until blue flame appears, then check off the draft as much as necessary to keep fire burning at desired rate.

Bituminous.

1. Bituminous coal requires more draft and attention than anthracite or coke.

2. Shake down ashes once a day. Then shake only until the glow of the fire is seen in the ash-pit, not until burning coals appear.

3. Pull clinkers out; do not try to work them through the grates.

4. A deep fuel bed is desirable.

5. Stir up the fire and get it hot before adding new fuel.

6. Work the partly burned coal, from which the gas has been driven, to one part of the fire and throw the fresh coal on the remaining portion.

7. Leave visible a bright spot of live coal to ignite the combustible gases coming off the freshly fired coal.

Coke.

1. Carry a deep bed of fuel—a bed about 18 inches thick gives the best results.

2. Use very little draft after the fire is started and keep it always under control.

3. Do not stir the fuel; clean the fire in the morning if possible.

4. Do not allow ashes to accumulate in ash-pit.

Unsolved Mysteries

THE GUTTER GENIUS

About all that is known of the early life of the man to whom fame came under the name of Francois Villon is that he was born of poor parents, somewhere in the least pretentious district of Paris. His father died when he was quite young and it is evident, from the poetry of his later life, that "Villon" was devoted to his mother, for some of his most beautiful lines are addressed to her.

The boyhood days of the "gutter genius" were spent in the lowest taverns of the French capital, among the riff-raff of the underworld, whence he was lifted for a time by his friend and admirer Guillaume de Villon, whose name Francois assumed in recognition of his benefactor's kindness. But, among the other names by which he was known at various times, were Corbier, Pitou, De Montcorbier, Corbeuil and Des Leges. Which if any of these was the real name of the poet will probably never be known, for the world is content to pay hommage to his poetic genius under the assumed name of Villon.

In spite of his really remarkable literary ability, Villon appears to have been dominated by his early surroundings, for he fought, stole and killed with as few scruples as any of the less gifted denizens of the Paris slums—and then, less than an hour later, would write sonnets and verses of such wonderful lyric quality that even his associates would be fascinated by them. The first murder that was laid at Villon's door was that of a priest, whom he stabbed to death in the streets of Paris while returning from a drunken revel. Although the police learned of his connection with the crime, Villon remained safely hidden for two years, but hardly had he ventured forth from his place of concealment when he became mixed up in a tavern broil in which he was cut so badly that he had to leave Paris in order to escape the consequent ridicule. It was at this time that Villon gave the name of Michael Mouton to the physician who dressed his wounds.

Following this incident, Villon entered the College of Nararre near Angers, apparently determined to secure the education which would put the finishing touches upon his lyric genius. Within a month after he had enrolled, the chest in which the sacred vessels of the chapel were kept was rifled and the arrest of several students suspected of complicity in the crime revealed the fact that Villon had been the leader of the gang and that a series of additional robberies had already been planned. Accordingly, Villon was tortured until he confessed and then sentenced to be hanged. It was while awaiting execution that he wrote "The Ballad of the Hanged," one of the most beautiful though grim bits of verse that came from his pen.

The influence of Guillaume Villon and other friends of the eccentric poet secured a commutation of the death sentence and Villon was banished from France, spending the following years in wandering from country to country, earning small sums with his poetry, though he did not scruple to steal what he could not afford to purchase. After a term in prison for sacrilege in connection with the robbery of a church, Villon, at the age of thirty, wrote the "Grand Testament," the work to which he owes a great part of his fame, but, shortly afterwards, he added another mystery to the many connected with his life by disappearing utterly and completely.

In the latter part of 1462 Villon is known to have been living, quietly and apparently happily, in the cloisters of Saint Benoit, where some historians maintain he died of tuberculosis in the following year. There is little evidence to support this claim, however, and other authorities maintain that he lived for a number of years afterward, despite the fact that nothing definite was heard of him. Born in poverty, but blessed with a genius which will keep his name fresh as long as literature is recognized and poetic beauty appreciated, Villon—or whatever his real name was—had a career beside whose mystery even the strange and varied life of Edgar Allan Poe pales into insignificance. It is not too much to say that Villon's is the outstanding riddle of French literature, just as Shakespeare's is in English.

CYCLES

Japan is not apt to have another severe earthquake for 30 years, says Dr. Chester A. Reeves, expert geologist of American Museum of Natural History. He finds that quakes come in cycles. That is, they are apt to repeat at certain intervals of time.

This principle of the cycle operates all through our lives. For instance, prices reach about the same high peaks every 30 years.

ANNIVERSARY OF LOCAL REBEKAHS

Golden Link Celebrated Seventeenth Birthday—Toronto Visitors Were Present.

Golden Link Rebekah Lodge No. 81, met last evening and celebrated their seventeenth Anniversary. Viola Rebekah Lodge No. 53 of Toronto, conferred the initiatory degree, under the captaincy of Mrs. Middleton, P. P., in a very pleasing and effective manner. Mrs. Londerville of Golden Link Lodge introduced the visiting staff with their degree officers. Mrs. Middleton, P. P., Mrs. Oliver, Mrs. Sands, N. G., and Mrs. Sedgewick, V.G. Too much cannot be said of the very impressive manner in which Mrs. Middleton conducted her staff through the mysteries of the Rebekah degree.

As a momento of their visit Mrs. Middleton on behalf of her staff presented Golden Link Lodge with two ebony gavels suitably engraved, and in her response to the hearty vote of thanks to her staff for their efficient work of the evening spoke very kindly of the splendid work being done by the new matron and superintendent Mr. and Mrs. Boyes of the Oddfellow's Home in Toronto.

At the close of the lodge, a banquet was served in the dining hall which was decorated for the occassion. The table decorations were dominated by a beautiful birthday cake with seventeen lighted candles. The singing of community songs led by Mr. Alex Dick, was much enjoyed. The evening entertainmen closed with dancing, Follis orchestra tra supplyiong the music.

FLIVVER AIRPLANES

By GUS M. OEHM.

(BERLIN, Oct. 27.—(United Press).—Germany is preparing to flood America with a fleet of flivver airplanes—if anybody will buy them.

The idea is to produce practical, miniature monoplanes, which every man can afford and will want to buy because of their speed, direct connection and "safety."

The concern backing the idea desires to sell cheaply through quantity production.

Instead of backing "Henry" out of the tin garage, this company would have the people of the world crank up the miniature monoplane in the backyard, give it a running start down the alley or side street, and away on the wings of the air to the butcher shop or theatre.

On July 8 a little bird-like monoplane came fluttering over Berlin in the early light of the morning, hovered searchingly over the various castles along the north end of Unter den Linden, swooped quickly downward and landed without mishap at the foot of the giant statue of Frederic the Great. That was the beginning of an advertising campaign for small commercial airplanes.

The landing, which was contrary to law, was picked up as a "great story" by newspapers. The pilot interviewed and declared his engine had given him trouble and all that sort of stuff—but the following Sunday a whole flock of the tiny air machines landed within the oval of the big Stadion in Grunewald, Berlin suburb.

And soon afterward a big ad appeared in the Berlin press declaring that any number of these practical little airplanes were ready for immediate delivery, at home or abroad

AFTERNOON TEA BY NORWOOD I. O. D. E.

Instrumental Selections Featured Function—Mothers' Allowance Board Re-appointed.

NORWOOD, Oct. 27.—The Northumberland Chapter I.O.D.E. held a very successful afternoon tea on Thursday in aid of the Japanese Relief Fund at the home of the Regent, Mrs. B. W. Squire, Queen Street.

The table was very attractively decorated with white 'mums, mauve tulle and trailing vines. Mrs. W. H. Brethen presided, and Mrs. F. K. Kempt, Mrs. F. C. McRae, Mrs. Alex. Kempt and Miss E. Cuffe assisted. During the afternoon instrumental selections were rendered by Misses Lois Cuffe, Barbara Foote, Mary Finlay, Elizabeth Thomson and Mary Roxburgh.

BOATHOUSE FIRE AT BRIDGENORTH

Overheated Stove Said to be Responsible—Bridgenorth News.

BRIDGENORTH, Oct. 27.—Fred Jopling's commodious boat house at Bridgenorth was burned to the ground this week The boat house, which had been newly painted and repaired this summer, was in use during the chilly evenings as a gathering place for village youths, who kept things cosy by means of a small sheet-iron stove, embedded in sand. Overheating of the stove caused boards beneath to ignite, and before the fire was discovered, the building, which is situated near Mr. J. J Duffus' cottage in the Annex, was burned out.

The Epworth League of the Methodist church at Bridgenorth held an entertainment and social evening in the Foresters' Hall in the village on Thursday evening, with a large attendance, net receipts for the evening amounting to $29.25. At the close of a musical programme, refreshments were served by the ladies. Rev P. H. Neville acted as chairman for the concert, which included numbers by residents of the village and of Peterborough city.

Mr Leo Copp, of East City, put on his well known skit entitled "A Delicate Operation," and J. Wade gave several vocal solos. Vocal numbers were also given by Miss Laura Jones and a vocal duet by Mrs. Nicholls and F. Jobe. Readings were given by the Misses Telford, Sidney, Deck and Outram, Messrs Jas. Jopling and Nixon and Mr Cuffe of Peterborough. A monologue by Mr. Munroe on the text, "Old Mother Hubbard," was one of the hits of the evening, and there were two small playlets given, entitled "Camping Days" and "Too Much Salt."

EFFORT TO REACH BASIC STANDARD

For Admission Canadian Cattle Into Britain.

LONDON, Oct. 27.— (Canadian Press).—Representatives of British and Canadian Governments are to meet together to see if some basic standard agreement cannot be reached for admission of Canadian cattle into Great Britain.

This was another phrase of a long battle which occupied attention of the economic conferenc yesterday. After much effort embargo against the admission of Canadian store cattle was removed but, so it is claimed by Canadian authorities regulations under which they are now admitted do much to nullify effect of the removal of embargo. And that was the point Canadian representatives stressed today. Both Premier King and Hon. George P. Graham spoke in presentation of Canada's case. Their main contentions were:

That British Act of Parliament had not completely carried out agreement reached between British and Canadian Govrnments, in that the Act restricted cattle to be admitted to stores although the Act had a clause providing for admission of breeding cattle by standing order of the Board of Agriculture.

Breeding cattle, however were not admitted because board of agriculture refused to issue, the necessary standing order.

Eat and Get Thin

This is turning an old phase face about but modern methods of reducing fat have made the revision possible.

If you are overfat and also averse to physical exertion; if you are likewise fond of the table, and still want to reduce your excess flesh several pounds, do this: Go to your druggist (or write the Marmola Company, 4612 Woodward ave., Detroit, Mich.) and give him (or send them) one dollar. For this modest amount of money the druggist will put you in the way of satisfying your ambition for a nice, trim, slim figure. He will hand you a case of Marmola Prescription Tablets (compounded in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription) one of which you must take after each meal and at bedtime until you begin to lose your fat steadily and easily. Then continue the treatment until your weight is what you desire. Marmola Prescription Tablets are not only harmless, but really beneficial to the general health. You don't need starvation diet or weakening exercises. Just go on eating what you like, leave exercising to the athletes, but take your little tablet faithfully, and without a doubt that flabby flesh will quickly take unto itself wings, leaving behind it your natural self, neatly clothed in firm flesh and trim muscles.

REV. J. ROLLINS HEADS LIST FOR TYING NUPTIAL KNOTS

Sixteen Couples Made Happy in St. Andrew's Church This Year—Reverends Pogue and Young Close Seconds With 15 Weddings Each.

More marriages have been solemnized this year by Rev. James Rollins of St. Andrew's Church than by any other clergyman in the city, but Rev. Robt-Pogue of St. Paul's Church and Rev. W. Harold Young of George Street Church are tied for second place with only a difference of one. Mr. Rollins had 16 weddings up to last week and Mr. Pogue and Mr Young had 15 each.

Rev. R. C. Blagrave, D.D., vicar of St. John's Church, and Rev. W. E. Morrow of Park Street Baptist Church tied with 10 weddings each. Rev. A. J. Langford of Trinity Church had the field to himself with 9.

Four city clergymen officiated at 5 weddings each. They were Rev. Richard Bamforth, B.A., of Mark Street Methodist Church; Rev. W. R. Courage, rector of St. George's Church; Rev. J. F. Chapman and Rev. J. J. O'Brien of the Church of the Sacred Heart. Rev. James A. MacKenzie, formerly of Knox Church, was the only clergyman with 4 weddings.

Many Had Three Each.

Six clergymen of varying denominations had three weddings each. In this class there were Rev. O. Glyn H. Lloyd, St. John's Church; Rev. P. C. Costello, St. Peter's Cathedral; Rev. A. G. Doner, formerly of Bethany Tabernacle; Rev. J. Douglas Richardson, M.A., of St. James' Methodist Church; Rt. Rev. W. J. McColl, Church of the Immaculate Conception, and Rev. George Bousfield, St. Luke's Church.

Those conducting two wedding ceremonies each were Rev. P. McGuire, chaplain of St. Joseph's Hospital; Rev. R. B. Grobb, M.A., rector of All Saints' Church, and Rev. G. E. Ross, formerly of Mark Street Church and now of Janetville.

Clergymen who have married one couple each are Rev. R. Greatrix, Rev. M. C. MacKinnon, M.A., B.D., of Knox Presbyterian Church; Rev. C. W. Rose, D.D., of Murray Street Baptist Church; Rev. S. Crookshanks, Rev. S. G. Rorke and Adjutant A. J. Smith.

Canadian Stock Exchange — And Mines — New York Stock Exchang — and Curb Prices —

Today's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, October 27. United Press.) — No change took place in the character of the stock market in the brief session which closed the week. With heavy pressure continuing in many sections of the list the market was not responsive to the encouraging political news from Europe and the optimism expressed in the weekly surveys of the mercantile agencies.

Again it was stocks like American Sugar, Famous Players, American Woollens, Colorado Fuel and Iron, and issues similarly affected by unfavorable trade developments or a poor earnings outlook which bore the brunt of the selling and which were forced into further new low ground on the current reaction.

It would be superfluous to repeat that the industrial leaders still displayed impressive resistance, so stubborn has been the behaviour of these stocks in the face of the week's selling movement that the Wall St. community no longer needs to be reminded that the action plainly indicates that the market is entering an accumulating rather than a liquidating stage.

The selling subsided somewhat in the later dealings but no rally took place in the general list before the close. A few bright spots were in evidence. One was pressed steel car, which is enjoying remarkable good earnings.

The weekly mercantile reviews reported that the general volume of business and the pace of industry were being well maintained. despite certain irregularities. Prices in the general list of stocks, however, continued under the influence of Friday movement in the early dealings.

The market closed irregularly. United States Steel off 1 3-4, Gulf States Steel 72¼; Baldwin 116 1-8, off 1-4; Tea Comapany 39 3-4; Amer Loco 60 3-8 of 1-4; Tob. Would not be Without Zutoo Tablets At Any Cost

Mr. A. O. Norton, the millionaire Jack Manufacturer, of Boston, who recently died, was a great "booster" for Zutoo Tablets.
He suffered from headaches from childhood and when he found Zutoo Tablets stopped these headaches in a few minutes and left no bad effect, he began recommending them to his family and friends. In an unsolicited letter, Mr. Norton says in closing:
"My family use them when ever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from Headache and they never failed to give quick relief. I always carry Zutoo Tablets in my grip on the road and WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT THEM AT ANY COST."

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKETS.

CHICAGO, October 27 (Canadian Press). — Despite a more hopeful outlook, for an agreement as to German reparations and notwithstanding interest shown at Washington regarding proposed plans for Government financing of wheat and flour exports to Germany, the wheat market weakened yesterday after a brief bulge in prices at the outset. Profit-taking sales, as well as other selling here against purchases at Winnipeg, had a bearish effect. The close was unsettled 1-8c to 5-8c to 3-4c lower ;December $1.06 3-4 to 7-8c to $1.06 7-8 and May $1.11 3-8 to $1.11 3-8 to 1-2c.

Corn gained 3-8c to 5-8c; oats 1-8c to 1-4c; and provisions 5c to 20c.

Wheat buyers were in a majority at first, but their support failed to prove aggressive. After a quick maximum advance of 1c a bushel, the market sagged below Thursday's finish, and displayed but little power to rally One of the bearish factors was the comment that the proposed method of facilitating exports to Germany appeared inopportune and unlikely to have the results desired. In this connection it was asserted that the farm regions in this country which need the most help are at present virtually without any wheat available for export.

Spreading operations which consisted of selling wheat here simultaneous with buying at Winnipeg, reached a liberal volume yesterday. The fact that Canadian wheat, duty paid, was on a profitable basis for shipment into the United States, tended to stimulate the buying at Winnipeg. Demand there also was encouraged by final settlement of the difficulties which had prevented American vessel owners from co-operating in the movement of Canadian wheat over the Great Lakes.

In corn, the prevailing big discount for future deliveries as compared with immediate delivery tended to restrict selling. Oats reflected the firmness of corn.

Better demand gave a lift to provisions.

PROOF BY FRANCE OF GOOD WILL

Is Demonstrated By Her Accepting Britain's Proposal for New Conference on Reparation-

PARIS, Oct. 27. — (Canadian Press).—The projected international conference to determine Germany's capacity to pay reparations temporarily at least has placed the Rhineland Republic in the shade as the topic of discussion. As accepted by Premier Poincare, the plan for a conference meets with no objection, but with much skepticism.

Le Matin, which is supposed to reflect the views of the principal supporters of M. Poincare, says this morning: "As it stands, a conference ought not to arouse too vast hopes. It is in vain to expect to reach any final settlement of reparations or to fix the amount of the German debt so long as the United States will not agree to join in discussions of the problem of the interallied debts."

Le Journal welcomes the presence of the United States expert on the proposed body. Le Petit Parisian holds that by accepting the British proposal, France has given not only proof of her entire good-will, but has made possible an agreement among all interested parties.

THE FORMER EMPEROR TAKES A LITTLE TRIP

Approached to Within Ten Miles of German Border.

DOORN, Holland, Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press). — Former Emperor William and ex-Crown Prince Frederick William, accompanied by two other passengers, left the ex-Kaiser's home here at six o'clock last evening in an automobile in the direction of Arnheim, about ten miles from the German border, and returned at two o'clock this morning, followed by three other automobiles, according to a person well informed regarding the affairs at Chateau.

It is reported here that the ex-Crown Prince wishes to return to Germany at any cost, and that he has had conversations on this subject with representatives of the Dutch Government.

FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE DEADLY

Can Be Contracted By Human Beings Doctors Learn.

LONDON Oct. 27. — (United Press.) Dr. Miroslav Derbek Aczecho Slovak government bacteriologist, has died of aftosa (foot and mouth disease) contracted while he was inspecting cattle, a Prague dispatch to the Central news agency said to-day.

It has been amply demonstrated the despatch says, that human beings can be infected with the disease from animals.

Dr. Uri, a colleague of Derbek, performed a careful post mortem over the body and announced the cause of death. Within a few hours Jiri also became ill and died.

OKLAHOMA HOUSE BARS KLAN EXPOSE

Overwhelms Resolution to Expel Hooded Knights From Its Own Membership.

WALTON LOSES A POINT

Judge Refuses to Dismiss Grand Jury Called to Investigate Governor's Acts

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 22.—The House of Representatives of the Oklahoma Legislature, by a vote which was almost unanimous, refused today to consider a resolution calling for an investigation of the charge that a majority of the members of that Chamber are members of the Ku Klux Klan.

The measure was not even read. The Clerk had droned through the title, but the moment the meaning of the resolution was made clear, members in all parts of the House were shouting their objection. Many of them laughed loudly, while others, who made no effort to conceal their anger, were on their feet demanding the prompt and immediate death of the resolution.

Under the rules, the resolution would have remained on the table one day before it could be considered. But the House would not wait for that and a motion to suspend the rules, so as to bring the proposition before the House, immediately carried with a whoop, and was followed, not minutes, but seconds later by a motion to table it. This motion carried overwhelmingly. There was no roll call, merely a resounding chorus of loud noes, followed by a few feeble "ayes." That was the end of the proposal.

The resolution was introduced by Representatives Eastridge and White, of the Farmer Reconstruction League Organization, both of whom are reported to be in sympathy with Governor Walton. The motion to table was made by Representative Disney, Chairman of the committee which is investigating the charges against Governor Walton.

"I am not a member of the Klan, have never been and never will be," Mr. Disney said. "And I made the motion to table because, in my opinion, the whole thing was horse-play. White and Eastridge were perfectly well aware of that fact that the House will not expel a man simply because he is a member of the Klan. If the resolution had been debated we would have lost a whole day and gained nothing. That was my sole and only reason for making the motion to table." Representatives White and Eastridge both declared that the resolution was offered a good faith as providing a way for the Legislature to purge itself of the charge that a majority of its members are members of and dominated by the Klan.

Text of the Resolution

The measure read:

"Whereas, it is commonly reported that a majority of the members of the House of Representatives of the ninth Legislature belong to and hold membership in the Ku Klux Klan, and whereas members of the Ku Klux Klan have eben convicted in the courts of our State, and the evidence leading to their conviction establishes the fact that the Ku Klux Klan is a lawless organization existing in violation of the laws and the Constitution of our State.

"And, Whereas, the Constitution guarantees religious liberty and freedom to every citizen of our State, and the various teachings of the Klan violate this provision of the Constitution; and

Whereas, the Constitution guarantees to the citizens of this State the equal protection of the law, regardless of race, color or previous condition of servitude; and the teachings of the Klan provide that only native-born, white, Protestant citizens should be recognized as qualified to engage in business and hold office in this State; and

Whereas, the Constitution of this State provides that no person shall be deprived of life, liberty or the pursuit of happiness without due process of court, and that every person charged with violation of law shall be entitled to a fair and impartial trial, in open court by a jury of the land, and the rules and laws of the Klan, as enforced in this State, hold that the Klan has the right to secretly try and punish offenders in this respect, regardless of the constitution or law of the State;

"And whereas, it is reported that the oaths taken by Klansmen are in violation of the Constitution and law of the State and treasonable to the Government of the United States and the State of Oklahoma.

Therefore be it Resolved, That the members of this House be investigated as to whether they are members of the Klan, and if, upon investigation, it is established that any member of this House belongs to and is affiliated with the Klan that he be expelled from his office."

Walton Loses Grand Jury Fight

The investigation of the charges against Governor Walton, certain members of the Legislature, other public officials, as well as the management of various departments is progressing rapidly and charges may be filed before the end of the week. This was the official statement from the committee room tonight.

Attorneys for Governor Walton appeared before Judge Clark in the Oklahoma County Court today and asked for the dismissal of a Grand Jury which Wednesday will begin an investigation of various charges involving the Walton Administration. Counsel for the Governor asserted that the jury had been drawn by three Jury Commissioners, all of whom, they alleged, are members of the Klan.

In the petition Governor Walton contended that L. O. Brooks, W. E. Fightmaster and D. R. Thompson, the Jury Commissioners, were all members of a secret organization "known as the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, or the Invisible Empire," and that the petition for calling the jury had been circulated among "Klan members and others" by Campbell Russell, former Corporation Commissioner. Mr. Russell, the petition alleged, also was a member of the Klan.

Judge Clark refused to entertain the motion. He said that he did not believe the petition "has any place in the records of this court," as it argued for an indictment of the court, the Jury Commissioners and of the jurors, whose names have been placed in the jury box.

"An indictment preferred," Judge Clark continued, "by one who says he is informed and believes that his acts are to be investigated, and an indictment returned against him."

SAYS SOVIET WILL FAIL IN THE EAST

Futile Bolshevik Attempt to Unite Oriental Countries With Russia.

(By MARK W. CHILDS)

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 27 (United Press).—"Bolshevik leaders are attempting to bring about a union of all Oriental countries with Russia. This is the dream of Lenin and Trotzky.

"Lack of resources, poor communication and the difference between the Russian and the Oriental mind will make this impossible, despite the fact that Europe and the West have turned cold shoulder to Communist Russia."

These are the statements of Professor M. Rostovzeff, formerly of the University of Petrograd and a member of the Russian Academy of Science. Professor Rostovzek is now at the University of Wisconsin here as an instructor in history. He is an internationally known historian and scholar.

Five centuries ago Russia was an orchestal country, much closer in traditions, customs and trade relations with the East than with the West, but five hundred years of Western civilization have made it impossible for Russia to turn her face to the Orient again and ignore all of Europe, as her leaders desire, Professor Rostovzeff said.

"We must arouse the proletariat of the Oriental countries through a definite campaign of propaganda," Trotzky said in a recent speech at the opening of a Communist school, according to Professor Rostovzeff, who recently returned from a tour of Europe.

"This will be impossible, however," the historian said, "for there is a lapse of centuries between the minds of the Oriental races and the minds of the Marzian revolutionists who control Russia."

Professor an Exile

Professor Rostovzeff is an exile from his own land. Although he visited Riga and many cities in Germany and Poland he was unable to enter Bolshevik Russia because his name is on the prescribed lists. When the Bolsheviks gained control he was offered the position of director of libraries and museums, but refused.

"I am firmly convinced that were it not for the Italian and German Facisti groups, both those lands would be under control of the same factions as is Russia at the present time," the professor said.

In the opinion of Professor Rostovzeff England is still the strongly dominant factor in European politics. It is partly because of England's domination of Egypt and India that Bolshevik leaders have made so little progress in arousing the masses of the people in those two countries. He continued:

"Another reason for the predestined failure of the attempt to unite with the Oriental countries is the failure of the Bolsheviks to hold Turkestan and Bukhara. These two countries lie between Russia and the East and they have overthrown the Bolshevik forces. Russia is almost completely out of touch with the Oriental races. The Russians have no resources or money with which to purchase them."

Untrue Porpaganda

All the countries of the world have been deluged with anti-Bolshevik propaganda which has little basis in truth, Professor Rostovzeff said. The tales of atrocities were largely fiction, although, of course, there was inevitably some bloodshed. "The situation is virtually the same as would exist in this country were the I. W. W. to take over by force the affairs of the Government. There would, of course, be some bloodshed and strife."

The future for Russia, in the belief of Professor Rostovzeff, is extremely black.

SPECIAL SERIES OF SERMONS

Pastor of St. Andrew's Church Speaking Specially to Young People—Evening Services.

So successful from every standpoint were the special Sunday evening services at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church last fall and winter, that Rev. James Rollins has prepared a second series for the fall and winter, which are proving most helpful

To-morrow's subject for the evening service is "Courage," and a large congregation should be out to hear this discourse.

Miss Engel, soloist, will sing, and the whole service will be bright and attractive.

The pastor's morning subject will be, "How Christ Wins His Way."

Can You Afford to Speculate?

EVERY time you buy something you are either speculating or making a definite investment.

Few people can afford to speculate. Yet many do it continually, in making their every-day purchases. And it is so unnecessary! The advertisements make it easy for anyone to avoid taking a chance.

The merchant or manufacturer who advertises, realize that the good-will of his customers means money in the bank to him. He knows that public confidence in his product and public respect for his own character are as valuable as his credit at the bank.

So he makes the individual satisfaction of his patrons, their loyalty and their friendship paramount issues in his business.

When you buy an advertised product, you can know in advance what to expect in return for your money. You can count on it being right. You are making an investment.

But when you buy nameless, unbranded merchandise, you are taking a chance. You are speculating.

Know what you buy. The advertisements will tell you.

RUM-RUNNING EPISODE OF REVEALING NATURE

An Example of Scores of Daily Incidents, Hundreds in a Week and Thousands in the Year.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—This is a story of a rum running episode between Baltimore and this city, which happened on the night of Wednesday, Oct. 17, and the afternoon of the following day. It concerns the experiences of an investigator who participated in the role of passenger.

It is not sensational. There are no chases, thundering exhausts, nor pistol fusillades. It is simply an example of scores of similar daily incidents, hundreds in a week, and thousands in a year. It explains how one unbroken stream of liquor is maintained between the Maryland city and the Nation's Capital.

The investigator met the runner through an acquaintance in Baltimore. For 14 months, he asserts, he has engaged in transporting liquor to Washington, selling it there himself. He is 28 years old.

Chapter of Revelations

Pieced together in a continuous monologue, he said:

"The reason why there is so much Scotch floating around Washington is that Scotch is the easiest stuff to make. I don't know much about it, though, but you can take corn, and purify it and 'coke it up' till it is exactly the same as Scotch. I've got 125 regular customers in Washington, and most of them have been drinking Scotch a long while, and, if they think they get Scotch, it must be good. That's all I handle now.

"I used to carry gin, and I do now sometimes, but you ought to have alcohol for gin, and alcohol is harder to get than corn.

"Of course, there is good stuff in Washington, but there isn't so much of it. It comes from New York, or somewhere, but it does not come from Baltimore, because there isn't much here. This Baltimore thing is getting to be a system. The guy that makes it doesn't sell it. He takes it around to some one else, who filters it and bottles it, puts up the bottles and cases and clears a lot of bottled goods for maybe a dozen people who make it, or more than that I don't know about that.

"You take corn liquor and filter it through charcoal or paper, and put Scotch in it, and it's all right. If you drink just corn it cuts your throat, but this stuff, on the level, is all right to drink. I got it from only two people in a year, and I don't hear of anybody dying from it.

Specialists They Are

"Probably there's 10 or 12 places in Baltimore that supply a lot of fellows that sell in Washington. You see, every one in the business is only doing one thing. The guy that makes it doesn't try to sell it any more. You hardly hear of anyone making it in Washington and selling it. At that, a lot of men are just carrying it and getting $5 to $8 a case for carrying it.

"The only time I tried to make liquor was enough. I had some alcohol and I had some Gordon bottles, and I was trying to make gin. If you put juniper in alcohol and distilled water, it tastes like gin, but it looks like milk. That was what I did, instead of taking this extract. So I gave it up. These birds can do it faster, and they know how, and you would be wasting your time trying to do what they do.

"There is a second-hand furniture place over on the other side of Baltimore and I got the stuff from him for one winter, but this new place is better, the stuff is better. I think the police must know about the place. There's a couple of others near there. Listen, you can back up there with corn liquor or load up with cases and the police never bother you. Anyone can do anything in Maryland if he isn't noisy about it. That's the way it is.

It was arranged that the reporter would go with the runner the following afternoon to Laurel and then into Washington, after the day's card. It appeared during the discussion that the runner's weaknesses were for women and horses.

He had little taste for liquor, even the "honest liquor" of his legal adviser.

On The Open Road

The following afternoon the runner appeared, exactly on time, in the southwestern suburb, the reporter climbed aboard, and the two set out along the highway known as the Washington Road in Baltimore, and as the Baltimore Pike or Bladensburg Road in Washington.

Mounting a steep hill, west of Lansdowne, the country side began to appear. The road is as smooth as glass, but as narrow as the Pontiac Highway in Oakland County. This, it appears, has been a source of annoyance to the runner for some months; and, for a few minutes he dwelt on the necessity for widening it, especially around some bend known as Dead Man's Curve, where 12 soldiers were wiped out in one operation, when Camp Meade was thriving just north of Laurel.

"There's a fellow who just runs, doesn't sell, who uses this road all the time. I see him quite often, although I don't know many of these birds. He has a Ford truck that he carries egg crates in, and they always look empty. The tops of the crates are open and on the top is one of these folding brown paper egg holders. He goes to Washington, I suppose every day. This man in Baltimore tells me some guys just take ordinary teams and go out through country roads, but that seems like a long haul for a team. I never saw one. There's a furniture van, a small one, that goes along here, all closed. I don't know who would be moving furniture every day from Baltimore. He's carrying liquor.

A Matter of Profits

"I think the best thing to do is what I do, just take it in a touring car or something that looks reasonable. They can't stop anyone just driving along. I get $12 a bottle for this, and usually pay $6.

Finally the yellow and white tips of the Maryland State Fair buildings loomed to the east, and presently we turned under a bridge into the parking space outside Laurel track, an area as large as Navin Field. The reporter's companion shot into a space and jumped out without further ado.

Three hours later we left the Track in a caravan of cars. In Laurel, at the main intersection, a young patrolman in forest green and resplendent in a shiny Sam Browne belt, and a Colt pistol, directed an apparently unending stream of traffic. Here we turned again into the Baltimore Pike and on past the State Agricultural School in Beltsville, then Hyattsville, across the track once more into Bladensburg, and finally into Rhode Island avenue, where, at a convenient corner, the reporter and his companion parted.

One-man Jobs

This appears to the investigator to epitomize a considerable part of the liquor traffic into Washington. It is a business of individuals who run liquor themselves or buy it from runners. Apparently there are no great combinations.

Patently, of course, liquor, and particularly what good liquor there is in Washington, must flow in the innumerable other ways already described, by freight or express, by persons who purport to be travellers from New Jersey, Philadelphia or New York. The number of ways in which it can be conveyed is limited only by the runner's imagination.

A discreet bootlegger, with a discreet clientele, appears comparatively safe. Manifestly, he must prove more elusive and difficult to capture than any one of a great combination of persons, or the conductors of wholesale or storage establishments, as they are understood in Detroit.

The Baltimore Pike is only one of more than a dozen roads leading into the Capital. Admittedly it is one of the chief thoroughfares for the runner. But the recital of running operations over each must be substantially the same as that recounted here.

THE CAUSE OF SICKNESS

Almost Always Due to Weak and Impoverished Blood.

Apart from accident or illness due to infection, almost all ill health arises from one of two reasons. The mistake that people make is in not realizing that both of these have the same cause at the root, namely poor blood. Either bloodlessness or some other trouble of the nerves will be found to be the reason for almost every ailment. If you are pale, suffering from headaches, or breathlessness, with palpitation of the heart, poor appetite, and weak digestion, the cause is almost always poor blood. If you have nervous headaches, neuralgia, sciatica, and other nerve pains, the cause is exhausted nerves. But run down nerves are also a result of poor blood, so that the two chief causes of illness are one and the same.

If your health is poor; if you are pale, nervous, or dyspeptic, you should give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial. These pills act directly on the blood, and by enriching it give new strength to worn out nerves. Men and women alike greatly benefit through the use of this medicine. If you are weak or ailing, give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial and you will be pleased with the beneficial results that will speedily follow.

If your dealer does not keep these pills you can get them by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

TOWN ALL STIRRED UP AT TAX ON COON DOGS

BUTLER, N. J., Oct. 27.—Major John A. Farrell is facing a crisis—and all over dogs.

It seems that the mayor, tired of "barking, howling dogs," decreed an increase in the dog license levy, making the tax $20 for female dogs and $15 for males.

But the owners revolted and so incensed are they that they threaten to storm the city hall and tell Mayor Farrell that unless he changes his mind they'll move bag and baggage to the neighboring town of Bloomingdale, where the authorities have no objection to animals.

Butler is a town of some 3,000 souls and about 1,000 dogs. Among the dogs are some famous coon hunters, imported by their owners at great price.

Window Gardens

By Louise S. Marshall

It is well to remember, when planting bulbs for the winter window garden, never to plant different varieties or colors together, for they do not bloom at the same time and the effect is not so good as when the color is massed.

The month of October is the time to plant the first bulbs. If other bulbs are planted about Nov. 15 there will be bloom in the window garden from Christmas until April first.

The bulbs should be brought from the cellar to the light when they have pushed up an inch or two above the soil.

He wins the contest and 12,000 spectators applaud. No, this isn't a prize fight. It's the forty-fifth annual plowing contest at Wheatland, Ill. Won by William Bernes.

Bill will not be remembered as long as Dempsey and Firpo. But land will be plowed long after Dempsey and Firpo will be obliterated from human memory and records. And it's men like Bernes that make the average farmer "raise more per acre." This is progress—the real thing. Too bad, we can't make national sports of useful occupations.

Loafers

In Genoa, Italy, the police are arresting everybody caught on the streets after nine at night unless they have papers bearing the Black Shirt O. K. And the only way they can get these papers is to prove that they have a job. Our jails wouldn't be big enough.

Humor

John Jankowski, proprietor of a soft drink parlor, was dozing in a chair at the front door of his place of business. Two passing strangers poured a bottle of acid into his gaping mouth.

Frightful cruelty, this "joke?" Certainly. And yet this bit of viciousness is twin-brother of the thing that makes us laugh when a man slips painfully on the ice or when a mule kicks him. Humor, so-called (separate thing from fun), is a survival of savagery. Human nature is usually at its lowest when it laughs.

Remedy

Regarding this matter of legislation to prevent gas bombs getting into the hands of lawbreakers, especially bootleggers:

It's obvious that a lawbreaker cannot use what he cannot get. As true of pistols as of gas bombs. Stop the sale of revolvers, and the crook would be disarmed. The law-abiding citizen could protect himself with rifle or sawed-off shotgun—which couldn't be carried concealed on the person through streets, by criminals.

Spanker

A spanking machine, to be used on first offenders and its speed and severity geared according to their offense, is urged by Crown Prosecutor Graham of Winnipeg, Canada. He especially champions its use on men neglecting their families.

The only cases where such a machine would be efficacious would be where humiliation would be involved—such as spanking objectionable people of high standing in the community. Make out your list.

$1000

A New York financial editor estimates that the cash surplus of the Ford Motor Co. has been increasing at the rate of $1000 a minute.

Do you remember the old-fashioned days when "Brewster's Millions" seemed impossible because Brewster had to spend $2 a minute for a year?

TRACTORS IN ARCTIC FAIL TO DISPLACE DOGS

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 27 (Associated Press).—Dog teams still hold the leading position as a means of conveyance in the frozen north; a certain type of power tractor has been tried in their stead but found wanting, in the opinion of Lange Koch, the Danish explorer, who has just returned to Copenhagen after experimenting in northern Greenland with the machines. It is almost impossible to substitute self-propelled machinery for dogs, he says.

The party left Copenhagen in a small motor schooner in July, 1920, and by the following March had built a base 125 miles north of Thule, in latitude 78 north. The first difficulty with the tractors was experienced in unloading them from the boat and getting them on inland ice. In 12 inches of snow up a slight incline, but at a very slow speed the tractors dragged a load consisting of nine barrels of petrol, a barrel of oil, a barrel of benzine, tent materials, etc. It is therefore necessary for the tractor to drag great weights which consist mainly of its own fuel and oil. While the motor worked very well at thirty degrees below zero, considerable difficulty was experienced at lower temperatures, and finally it was necessary to abandon the use of the tractors entirely, as they held up the progress of the expedition and showed signs of wearing out quickly.

The Koch expedition was organized as a scientific and mapping expedition and in this capacity was eminently successful.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

GOODBY TO SQUEALY-MOO LAND

"Another advent ure-" cried Nick.

"Well!" said Farmer Brown one day as he walked through the cornfield. "It's getting pretty late in the fall and I think this corn is dry enough for husking. Tomorrow I'll hitch Charlie and Bob to the big wagon and we'll take down the corn-shocks and haul the corn in. Then I'll invite all my neighbors over and we'll have a husking-bee and my wife will have cider and doughnuts for them."

Farmer Brown was talking to himself, but three pairs of sharp little ears heard every word he said.

Nancy looked sad. "If Farmer Brown takes away all the corn-shocks, he'll take your house, too," she said, "and where will you live this winter, Mister Dodger?"

"Why, I'll go and rest for a spell," answered the little fairy fellow cheerily. "I'll go back to the Fairies' Hotel in Fairyland where most of the fairies stay when they aren't working. I haven't see my friends for a long time and it'll do me good to have a good visit with Mister Tatters and Mister Sky-Bow and Mister Tingaling and Mister Scribble Scratch and all the others I haven't seen for so long."

"But what will the Squealy-Moo people do without you?" asked Nick. "Will they be safe?"

"Sure!" answered the little fairyman, stuffing his old corn-cob pipe into his pocket. "It's only when they are out of doors they need to be looked after so much. When they are indoors, as they will have to be mostly from now on, they are safe. Crazy Calf can't eat poison weeds, and Frisky Colt can't squeeze through the orchard fence and make himself sick on sweet apples. And Mister Hawk has gone south for the winter, I guess, for I haven't seen him lately; so the chickens and ducks won't be in danger, either."

"Well, if you go, we'll go, too," declared Nancy. "I mean we can't stay in Squealy-Moo Land by ourselves."

"I was just coming to that," nodded Mister Dodger with a mysterious smile. "Useful people are never out of a job, my dears."

He reached into his pocket and pulled out a letter. "I found this on the table when I came in today," he said. "Silver Wing, the Fairy Queen's messenger, must have brought it while we were out."

It was followed

It was addressed to the Twins, and read:

"Dear Twins.

"Please come to my palace as soon as you get this. I want you to go south to Dixie Land.

Lovingly yours,
"The Fairy Quen."

"Another adventure!" cried Nick.

"I told you so!" said Mister Dodger. "Come! We'll say goodby to our friends here and be going."

LOWER OIL PRICES

The cost of living may get quite a jolt downward as a result of the present condition of the oil industry.

Things were going along merrily, prosperously, in the oil industry — when suddenly the drillers struck enormous gushers in California. The oil from these wells is exceptionally high in gasoline.

California now is producing 40 per cent.—two-fifths—of the oil produced in the United States.

Very fine for the owner of the California well. But the owner of the well in other states is in a tight corner. His prices on oil yielding less gasoline to the barrel, have been slashed time after time. The result is that the producing end of the oil business in general is in worse shape—as far as profits are concerned—than any other big basic industry—probably worse off than general farming.

As you probably know, oil production is in the main separate and distinct from refining. The pipe line companies and the refiners let the small man take the chances at finding oil, then buy his oil—if he finds any—and sets prices without consulting him.

How can this affect the general cost of living? Here's how: There are about 280,000 oil wells in America, and new wells are drilled constantly. So the oil industry consumes enormous quantities of iron and steel, especially pipe, also wire and manilla cables, and a great variety of manufactured goods.

Prices always are about as high as the buyer can pay. An oil industry operating on a losing basis, can't pay the former high prices for supplies.

What'll happen Unless oil prices rise again, prices of materials used by the oil industry will by competition, fall.

Once started, there's no telling where such a drop would stop, nor how many commodities it would affect.

SICKENING HEADACHES ENDED BY "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Effect was splendid when she tried this Fruit Medicine

East Ship Harbour, N.S.

"For years, I was a dreadful sufferer from Constipation and Headaches, and I was miserable in every way. Nothing in the way of medicines seemed to help me and I was almost discouraged.

Then I tried "Fruit-a-tives" and the effect was splendid; and after taking one box, I can safely say I am well. I feel like a new person in every way and I am deeply thankful to have relief from those sickening headaches".

Mrs. MARTHA DE WOLFE.

"Fruit-a-tives" will always relieve Headaches due to Constipation because they act directly on the liver and cause the bowels to move regularly and naturally. This rids the system of impurities and keeps the blood pure and rich. "Fruit-a-tives" are made of fruit juices combined with tonics, are pleasant to take and mild and gentle in action.

Do YOU know what LINOLEUM Really is?

EVERY woman should know what linoleum is, what it is made of and why it is unquestionably a most sanitary and health promoting floor for her home. She can then buy with assurance and obtain genuine linoleum.

Ground Cork and What it Means to Linoleum

Cork, the bark of the cork oak, native to Spain, yields the soft treading surface peculiar to genuine linoleum. It is also tough and enduring.

You have used corks in the home in various ways. Take up one now and squeeze it. It responds to the pressure exerted by your fingers, but once this pressure is released it immediately resumes its former shape. Throw it into a basin of water and it tosses about lightly riding the surface of the water without absorbing a drop. It is entirely non-absorbent. Take a knife and whittle it—its softness is different from that of anything else, and yet, withal it is tough. Is it any wonder that, when finely ground and employed as a primary ingredient of genuine linoleum it retards moisture, ensures a resilient tread, and wears and wears indefinitely?

Oxidized Linseed Oil is a Wonderful Material

In addition to its toughness and resilience, oxidized linseed oil is health-promoting; it is decidedly germicidal and sanitary. These workmen are twisting a section of it.

Most people have observed the filmy substance that gathers over a neglected pot of paint when the lid is removed. This is really oxidized linseed oil, or oil mixed with oxygen. It is tough and rubberlike, yet soft and pliable. When produced in a modern oxidizing plant and added to ground cork and other important oils and gums it brings to linoleum added springiness and toughness. It is decidedly germicidal, the very feature that modern housewives should insist upon when buying a floor covering. This pure product of flaxseed, grown in the Canadian West, is specially compressed and scientifically treated for use in making linoleum.

Strong Burlap makes a Tough and Lasting Backing

The jute plant attains a height of ten to twelve feet in its native Indian climate, and when cut down, yields long, tough fibres, giving burlap its strength.

Everyone knows why good rope is strong — because of the hundreds of long, tough fibres that are closely and tightly woven together. Burlap, made of similar long fibre jute, grown in India, is used as a base for genuine linoleum and makes a secure, non-tearing groundwork for the cork, oxidized linseed oil and other important materials that are firmly pressed into this backing of burlap. So great is the pressure exerted by the huge rolls employed in the manufacture of linoleum that the linoleum "mix," just described, and the burlap, become as one. If you look closely when buying, you will readily observe this important feature and can then understand why it is so highly important. And more — the burlap used in making Dominion Linoleum and Oilcloth is of the highest quality.

Dundee, Scotland, is the seat of the burlap weaving industry and affords the world a major part of its burlap supply. This shows the weaving looms at work.

This swatch reproduction of burlap, magnified, imparts a favorable idea of the strength embodied in this fibrous material, used in making all genuine linoleum and oilcloth.

Other Important Points that make Linoleum Better

Kauri Gum — the fossilized sap of the pine forests mined in some instances and in others scraped from the tree, is found in New Zealand. It is one of linoleum's principal ingredients.

Among the important raw materials used is Kauri Gum — the fossilized sap of the New Zealand pine. This is generally dug out of the ground, as shown in the illustration, and when refined and added to the linoleum surfacing mixture its further enhances its worth. After the plain linoleum is rolled it is cured and seasoned in a large curing room, but when patterned linoleum is desired the design must be printed by passing the goods through huge printing machines which print the pattern automatically before curing. The designs originate, of course, in the designing department, where new and pleasing combinations are being continually evolved, for transfer to the huge printing blocks.

Why You should Insist on getting Dominion Linoleum

Great care is taken to maintain a high standard of quality in making all grades of DOMINION LINOLEUM and OILCLOTH. In every instance they are of approved standard, and destined to impart long and satisfactory service. When you buy, first ask for "DOMINION," then look for the strong burlap back, as shown in sketch and for our trade mark shown at right. Finally, as an additional safeguard, look for the natural cork edge; all genuine Dominion linoleum has it.

CANADA'S GRAIN ENQUIRY IN UNITED STATES PROBES CHARGES THAT CANADA'S HARD WHEAT DEGRADED WITH U.S. SOFT ENROUTE ABROAD

Some British Buyers Insist That They Get Wheat That Has Passed Through the All-Canadian Route—United States Authorities Alive to Menace to Buffalo—Atlantic Route Cast By The Suspicion—Eighty Per Cent. of Canadian Wheat Goes East Via United States—Many Officials Give Evidence.

(Written Specially for The Canadian Press.)

By COL. G. C. PORTER

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 27. — Canada's Royal Grain Inquiry Commission has completed its investigation in the United States. Every phase of the grain trade and marketing processes as they relate to the problems in the Dominion have been probed. Duluth, Minneapolis, Kanas City, Buffalo and the Atlantic seaboard cities, through which Canadian grain passes in bond to the United Kingdom and European countries, have been visited. Many men prominent in various angles of the trade have been interviewed and government officials talked with. The apparent frankness and keen anxiety of all invited to confer with the Canadian commissioners has been most marked. Some very busy business men have devoted three and four hours in explaining to the Canadian visitors their views on the subjects discussed.

The attitude of these gentlemen has impressed the commissioners very emphatically, for, of course, the Royal authority under which the body is acting in the Dominion does not extend into alien territory. But the scope could not have been wider and the research more thorough here than it has been, if, it did. The only difference is that all these gentlemen have appeared voluntarily before the board and their statements have not been made under oath.

Is Unlawful Mixing Done Here?

Has Canada's grain, passing in bond through the United States to the European market been tampered with? This angle and the comparative value here to the industry of private and public elevators, constituted the two big problems that have concerned the Commission in the States.

During the sessions conducted by the board through the west and especially on the Pacific Coast since last June, more than one witness has suggested that Canadian grain passing in bond from Buffalo to the U. S. seaboard, under a Dominion grade certificate, has arrived in the United Kingdom showing the presence of American soft wheat or otherwise under the grade which inspectors at Fort William had given it.

The extent of these complaints has increased until some European buyers have been quoted as preferring to buy only that Canadian grain that has passed through all-Canadian routes. It has even been suggested that this evil is responsible for the fact today that Australian wheat is quoted at Liverpool, two cents higher on similar grades than the Canadian article.

This is the most serious phase of the condition on this side which the Canadian commissioners have been investigating. And the American elevator owners, mill men, railway representatives, government officials, ships' brokers and owners appreciate the menace to their interests in the suspicion cast on the Buffalo-Atlantic ports route.

Aliens Exact Rich Tolls

Eighty percent of Canadian export grain reaches the world market through American channels. The record for some thirteen years varies but slightly in this estimate. More than a million bushels of Canadian grain have passed from Fort William over the Buffalo-Atlantic route since the ewstern provinces began to export grain to Europe. Lake freight, railway, elevator and ocean charges contributed to American capital and labor in that time by this purely domestic product of the Dominion exceeds thirty million dollars in that period.

This is the big national aspect of the situation these Canadian grain commissioners have been investigating here. And, if, in spite of this opulent stream of Canadian commerce contributed to American interests, the bonded privileges accorded Canada, have been and are being violated, to the debasement of Dominion grain and inviolation of International law, the American business men engaged in this traffic realize that Canada is liable to find some way to divert this stream back into her domestic channels. Decent business considerations and this selfish angle involved, have contributed to urge these American business men to give the Canadian commissioners all the information at their command touching the big problem of dishonest diluting of Canadian grain on this rail and sail route between the head of the Canadian lakes and Europe.

Personnel of the Commission

Mr. Justice W. F. A. Turgeon of the Saskatchewan Court of Appeal, is chairman of the commission; Dean Rutherford of the Saskatchewan University, Prof. McGibbon of the Alberta University and James Guthrie Scott of Quebec, compose the rest of the commission. Robert Deachman is the secretary and Sidney Woods of Edmonton senior counsel, appointed on Oct. 15 on the retirement of D'Arcy Scott of Ottawa. Frank Fisher of Winnipeg is junior counsel. Donald Young of Winnipeg has made the tour through the States with the Commission. He is special adviser on marketing to the Commission, having been a member of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange for many years and being familiar with every angle of the trade. S. B. Watts, secretary of the Dominion Millers' Association, has accompanied the Commission through the Eastern States, having been appointed by the Ontario government. H. W. Thompson, President of the Dominion Millers' Association, is the expert on mill commodities to the commission, having been appointed by Ottawa to advise that body. Through the western provinces each provincial government appointed counsel to represent the interests of those particular sections and several other solicitors representing special interests concerned in the marketing processes accompanied the commission. They are expected to rejoin the commission when the sessions open in Toronto about Oct. 29.

Deny Bonded Grain Tampered With

Every witness appearing before the Commission in the States has vigorously denied that bonded grain has been illegally tampered with enroute. Some of the experts have gone so far as to assert that with the revenue department's precautions to keep this bonded grain intact and the safety devices with which the transportation companies and the Exchange surrounds this traffic in New York, it would be impossible to tamper with the Canadian grain, except upon the theory that some ten or fifteen persons, reputable employes of established firms as well as agents of the customs and revenue departments of the government at Washington were corrupted.

But in spite of all these protests, and a system that, on the surface, appears to be based on sound business precautions, one particular instance has been disclosed where American soft wheat is alleged to have been found in considerable quantity when a shipment of 225,000 bushels passing through from Fort William under bond and covered by the Dominion certificate, arrived in Liverpool. There have been other complaints, but this particular case, revealed a year ago, was so serious that three separate investigations were made by different federal departments at Washington.

Each of these departments rendered verdicts that there was no evidence disclosed which would warrant the assumption that this or any other shipment in bond had been tampered with enroute from the lake boat at Buffalo to the ship into which it was loaded at Baltimore.

From Whence Came the Soft Wheat?

The concluding Washington report on this investigation was signed by Victor Murdock, chairman of the Federal Trade Commission. It was final but it was considered significant by the Canadian commissioners that in these reports, submitted to the commission, the U. S. A. customs department recommended, as a result of the evidence accumulated that additional security be taken to protect this bonded grain. Another angle that provoked comment among the commissioners was that one of the U. S. secret service agents investigating this particular shipment put into his report these words: "We are not satisfied as to just why the ship into which this shipment was placed for ocean passage at Baltimore was nearly a month in being loaded when usually this is a matter of but a few hours, and at most, days."

But the Dominion certificate under which this grain was inspected out at Fort William showed it to be a straight commercial grade. The Liverpool buyer charged that when received there it contained such a percentage of soft American wheat that the difference in price under the grade would have been thirty cents per bushel.

From whence came that soft wheat? There is no grain of this type produced in Canada. There was, according to the U. S. investigations, some four thousand bushels of soft American wheat in the identical elevator at Baltimore when this Canadian grain passed through there but the investigators claimed this soft grain was still there when the boat sailed with the Canadian cargo.

Corn Exchange Resentful

The London Corn Exchange initiated the proceedings. The U. S. Consul-general was communicated with. The Winnipeg Grain Exchange counsel insisted on an investigation. The agent of the Canadian firm which handled the grain, at New York, talked at great length with the Commission, on the acse. He claimed that he had received samples of the shipment from the Liverpool buyer and it did not contain any soft wheat, and was, he declared, up to the grade assigned it by the Canadian inspectors' certificate. His company had refused therefore, in view of this fact and the failure of the Federal Government investigators to find anything wrong, to make an adjustment on the basis of the United Kingsom firm's demands. The case, after a year, is still pending, and this is one of the chief cases for complaints of Liverpool buyers against Canadian grain passing through the Unitde States in bond.

Statements have been made under oath to the commission that "Some Canadian No. 1 Manitoba northern, passing through the all-Canadian route to the United Kingdom, has been of such a superior quality as compared with Canadian grain passing in bond through the States under Dominion certificates of similar grade that the Liverpool men thought it some new grade of different wheat, it was just that superior."

Views of the Port Collector

H. W. Smith, chief deputy collector of the Buffalo port for the U. S. revenue department, told the commission distinctly that he was not concerned in preserving the sanctity of the Canadian bonded grain nor the inviolability of the Dominion Government grade certificates. What concerned his department however was that all Canadian grain arriving at Buffalo, either pay the thirty cents duty or be moved out of the country.

Mr. Smith believed his force sufficiently alert to assure this which he thought might be accepted as proof that no bonded grain was mixed at that port illegally, "for," he explained, "the minute the identity of the bonded grain changes, which would be the case if substitution was attempted, the whole shipment would be subject to the duty charge."

But Smith made this admission, which shows where it is quite physically possible for substitution to occur at Buffalo. He said when a boat from the lakes arrives with Canadian grain in bond, it is spouted at once into a bonded elevator, of which there are 17 there. But, the spouts to these bins are not sealed. It may remain there in that state indefinitely through it usually goes on to the seaboard in a few days. No customs officers are stationed there to watch it in the meantime, though they do witness the unloading. The elevator, Smith explained, is bonded to the amount of $100,000 to the government for the proper disposal of this bonded grain.

When Grain is Sealed

When the bonded grain is to be placed in cars, customs officers watch the process and seal each car. But these agents only see to it that an equal quantity of this bonded grain is moved out, in proportion to that which comes in. They know nothing of the grades, relying upon the elevator people to see that the bonded grain is not tampered with. If, in the meantime, a part of this hard grain has been taken out and soft grain substituted, the Canadian certificate covers the whole shipment. It has been debased and not until the Liverpool buyer inspects it would the substitution or mixing be discovered. This means of course corruption of elevator men.

Smith made this statement as a denial that mixing occurred there: "The incentive is absent. The difference between the U. S. soft and this Canadian hard might be thirty cents a bushel but incentive is absent because the grain is not owned by the elevator interests. They would have no profit in dishonest tampering."

Asked by the commission if the shipper from Canada, with a ship centaining different grades as inspected out at Fort William, ordered the elevator people to place all of it together, would they comply. Smith said he thought they would. Mixing wheat might occur that way he thought but in that event it would be a debasement of the grades but would not contain American soft wheat.

Another Safeguard

Deputy Collector Smith explained however that the U. S. railways moving this bonded grain from Buffalo, employ experts to inspect this grain as it is run into their cars, for their bills of lading, show they have so much grain and grades as the Dominion certificate accompanying the shipment stipulates. They assure themselves that the grade is as specified for they are made responsible for delivery to the ocean vessel of so many bushels of a certain grade as named in that certificate. If they discovered it was not up to grade, they would so endorse on the bill of lading which goes on through to the buyer. There would be no deception at that stage.

C. H. Williamson of the Williamson Forwarding Company of Buffalo, a veteran of thirty-five years in the trade, ridiculed the idea of illegitimate mixing at Buffalo. G. S. Kennedy, representing the Washburn-Crosby Mills, told the commission he did not believe there was mixing here, nor did he think it was possible to surreptiously grind Canadian flour in bond here, as had been charged and ship to Europe flour of soft wheat while keeping for domestic sales the hard wheat flour, thus degrading Canadian flour and depriving the Federal Government of the duty. He said some Canadian bonded grain was ground at his mills but it was done in bond and the customs officers saw that the identical flour was exported or the duty paid.

Public Elevators Disappearing

These experts and others in New York told the commission that more and more elevators in the United States were constituting themselves private and that gradually the public elevator was disappearing. The difference was that in private elevators mixing of grades was permitted but not in public ones. Several asserted positively that mixing elevators served a very legitimate purpose, when honestly done and properly inspected; that proper mixing of grades and treatment of damp and tough wheat rendered a distinct service to the farmer since it supplied a market for grain at better prices that would otherwise not be saleable.

In New York, probably the most eminent authority who conferred with the commission was Julius Barnes, buyer and exporter of grain on a huge scale. He was chairman of the Federal Commission during the war that determined for the Washington Government what was a fair price to pay for grain. He said they had insurmountable obstacles to overcome, so enormous he thought that in peace time it was impossible. For that reason he said no pool, voluntary or governmental, in his estimation, could arbitrarily determine a price for a great food staple. The people would revolt, he asserted.

Conditions Have Changed

Barnes said to establish a monopoly as to price, the pool is futile. His experience had taught him that supply and demand only could fix prices and they would vary like anything else except more so with conditions. The pool idea might, he thought, save producers and others money in the economy of production, and distribution in honest co-operation with the ordinary marketing machinery and processes. It would help the transportation companies in that it would regulate the flow of grain to world markets.

"But let Canada get this idea fixed clearly in its marketing psychology," exclaimed Mr. Barnes: "Conditions of grain marketing, like most everything else, has been changed by the war. The United Kingdom, your chief export market, used to carry enormous stocks of your grain. The mills filled their storage elevators. Today, like other countries, their financing machinery is being strained.

"Canada's financial institutions must realize that they must carry these stocks at least for a long time to come. It is a new problem in your financial organization but it must be met. I think higher prices for grain will rule but when is uncertain.

"Since the war Greece and Italy and other European countries have been buying your cheaper grades because they have no money for the higher. But they will improve their standard of living when the revival comes, and it will come with a rush when it does arrive, mark that. Meantime, and for all time, my experience teaches me, no pool and no combination can set a monopoly price for a food staple like wheat and hope to maintain it.

"Foreign buyers like the Dominion Government certificates. They have confidence in them. More and more they are demanding grain protected by these certificates."

More Denials of Mixing

G. S. Earl, head of Sanday and Co., which handles much grain for Canadian firms, was sure illegal tampering of the bonded grain was not done at New York or enroute across the States. He too added a word about the high quality of Canadian certificates. He said the "seaboard" certificates were much less in favor.

This "seaboard" grade is the product of inspection in the Atlantic zone and the probe of the commission did not make it clear just why it exists. All grain when it reaches the Atlantic seaboard has been inspected either in Canada or in Chicago and given its grade. If Canadian wheat in bond is mixed on the Atlantic, and if it is and can be done, under the laws of the U. S. and the produce exchange, the processis witnessed by revenue and port inspectors. Presumably, only Canadian wheat is mixed, or only American wheat is mixed, theoretically at least, not together. The Canadian wheat so mixed is then given a seaboard certificate. It is no longer protected by the Canadian certificate and the buyer cannot be deceived into believing the grain is the same as came from Canada, although it must be marked "of Manitoba origin" if it is a mixture of different grades of Canadian wheat. To the unitiated there seems to be much room for unlawful mixing in that process but the U. S. Experts said no.

Anxious to Explain

Among others prominently connected with the export trade on the Atlantic seaboard in the port of New York (for be it known Philadelphia and Baltimore are larger centres for exporting Canadian grain) who talked with the commission were J. J. O'Donohoe, manager of the export department of the United Grain Growers' Grain Co.; Walter Moore, ships' broker; Yale Kneeland, Chairman of the Grain Section of the Consolidated Produce Exchange; H. G. Pansius, Grain agent for the Lackawanna; James Veitch, Manager of the International Elevating Company and George H. Ingalls, vice-president of the New York Central Railway. All disavowed any knowledge of tampering with Canadian grain in bond.

Moore told the commission this: "There is no hostility here to the all-water route down the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence. That is the biggest problem on the North American Continent. It must of course come in time, and when it does the forty million world tonnage of shipping will be at Montreal competing for business. It will open innumerable new avenues of business because it will bring ocean vessels far inland competing for business. It will not hurt our railways nor yours either for business makes business. I place much tonnage on the St. Lawrence as it is but when that day comes the whole course of Atlantic trade will be revolutionized."

CZAR'S SLAYER IN BERLIN.

BERLIN, Oct. 27.—(Associated Press)—The leader of the band which murdered the late Czar of Russia and his family is at present in Berlin, according to the Lokal Anzeiger. The man is under medical treatment in a nursing home suffering from hallucinations which have haunted him since the day of the murder.

The Soviet Embassy in Berlin, which is said to be looking after the man, has provided him with money and put a motor car at his disposal.

ASKS HIGHER DUTIES.

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 27.—(United Press).—Manufacturers of cotton fabrics in Argentina have presented an appeal to the Government committee for an increase in the tariff on cotton yarns from 40 to 80 centavos gold and from 50 centavos to a peso gold on colored yarn. The petition says that while Argentina factories were using foreign yarns almost exclusively, 7,000 tons were imported which could and ought to have been produced in this country.

COULD HARDLY DO ANY WORK

But Since Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound This Woman Feels So Well

Keeseville, N.Y.—"I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly for the good it has done me. I was so much troubled with female weakness I could hardly do any work. I saw your advertisement in the paper, and read it to my husband. He said, 'You had better try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound', so I bought six bottles, and by taking it I am not troubled as I was. I am gaining strength and getting fleshy. My female troubles have vanished and I have never felt so well. The Liver Pills are the best I ever took. If you think my letter will encourage other sufferers you have my permission to use it as an advertisement."—Mrs. SARAH BLAISE, Box 177, Keeseville, N. Y.

Doing the housework for the average American family is some task, and many women lose their health in so doing. If you, as a housewife, are troubled with backache, irregularities, are easily tired out and irritable, or have other disagreeable ailments caused by some weakness, give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. Let it help you.

NEW Y.M.C.A. 'TEST' STIRS BRYAN'S IRE

He Declares Acceptance of Non-Church Members Would Wreck the Organization.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 27.—William J. Bryan reappeared at the Constitutional Convention of the Y.M.C.A. and supported oopponents to the so-called Slade resolution, proposed as a new "test" for membership.

The resolution, which would eliminate reference to the Scriptures and to Jesus Christ as Divine, and calls for a simple declaration of purpose to serve Christ rather than membership in an Evangelical Church, is the principal subject before the 400 delegates here to adopt a constitution.

Mr. Bryan is not a delegate to the convention, although he said he had been a Y. M. C. A. member for forty years, and he has not been invited to address the gathering.

While the "membership test" committee was threshing out the problem Mr. Bryan issued a written statement declaring that if the Y. M. C. A. lowers its bars to admit to active membership young men who are not members of an Evangelical church, the organization will be wrecked. A dozen speakers pleaded before the committee for the "liebralizing" of the active membership requirement.

"The real issue is whether the Bible is true or false," Mr. Bryan's statement says, in part. For over twenty years those who do not accept the Bible as true—that is, those who assume the right to reject any part they choose—have been trying to do away with the evangelical test. . . . They would put the association under the control of so-called Christians, who strip Christ of his divinity and reduce Him to the stature of a man; who deny the Virgin birth of the Savior, His atoning mission and his bodily resurrection.

"The issue is a very simple one, viz., whether the Y. M. C. A. is to continue to be a spiritual force, such as it has been from the beginning, or become merely a social club where young men can secure physical training and a bath for a nominal membership fee—nominal because Christians have erected and equipped the Y. M. C. A. buildings."

J. W. McKinney of Tennessee was the principal defender of the evangelical test before the committee. He, too, implied that the demand for "liberalizing" of the test arose from a desire to appease the "moneyed interests." He found a stanch supporter in M. A. Wolfe of Kansas City.

Other speakers included Frank H. Burt of Chicago, G. W. Birke of Montreal, J. Edward Sproul of Ridgeville, N. J., and Walter L. Hervey, educational director for the West Side Y. M. C. A. of New York City.

A plan of reorganization which seeks to fill responsibilities, to eliminate duplication of work and obtain Democratic control of agencies and expenditures was presented buy Mark M. Jones, economist and efficiency expert employed by John D. Rockefeller Jr. a year and a half ago to make a study of the Y. M. C. A. at the request of the organization.

Of each dollar given to the Y. M. C. A., Mr. Jones said, only about 60 cents was spent to pay for the services for which it was given. Twenty-one cents out of each dollar, he said, went to pay for collection charges, and 18 cents more for duplication of effort and unnecessary overlapping.

PRINCE OF WALES WAS WELCOMED AT DUNDEE

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press Cable)—The Prince of Wales received a remarkable welcome at Dundee yesterday where he opened Caird Hall and toured the city. The Prince was charmed by the spectacle of 35,000 school children cheering and waving flags.

The Prince recognized a local resident who had repaired his car in France and told him the same car was afterwards smashed by a shell and the driver was killed when the Prince was only two or three hundred yards away.

YOUR HEALTH

By Dr. Clifford C. Robinson

BILIOUS ATTACKS

A one-sided, unbalanced diet, with a tendency for sweets and non-essential foods, is characteristic of adolescent boys and girls. Parents or those who care for these young people are almost sure to have this condition to deal with sooner or later.

Have you ever thought that perhaps you may have encouraged this one-sided diet habit and not really be aware of the fact? In an unguarded moment when something had happened to disturb the temper or health of son or daughter you gave way to a whim or the demand of a finicky taste and the damage was done.

This one-sided, sweet-stuff-and-pickles diet, with a little taste of everything but not a real meal of anything, leads to undervelopment, poor digestion, nervousness and anemia. But it can often be cured. It sometimes means heroic treatment, but the end justifies the means in this case.

One thing that is of great value in helping to break this finicky diet is regularity in eating. Have the family together at meals and help the finicky ones by taking all the time you need while at table. Don't let the children spoil their appetite and real zest for a meal by encouraging eating between times. Insist on this program, gently, but firmly.

Some physicians advise eating whenever you are hungry, but it does not work out in a case like this. Try and aid your children to avoid the hurry-up-and-run eating habit, especially at breakfast. The value of a nourishing breakfast to adolescents cannot be overestimated.

It is quite possible to win one-sided, finicky eaters of the adolescent period over to normalcy by good example and kind words. Never try to drive or scold a nervous boy or girl into eating food not wanted.

Preparing vegetables either raw or cooked into tempting combinations with other foods is another good bait. Encourage the drinking of water, at least five or six large glasses daily. This promotes good elimination and aids the desire for food.

If this treatment of "get together" fails to produce the desired results, try plain, nutritious food that is to be eaten in common by all or else go without. Hunger is good sauce and may help to solve your problem of catering to finicky eaters.

BLOODLESS WAR

It's Three-Cornered Controversy Over the Control of Tangier.

By MILTON BRONNER

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Without a shot being fired or a blow struck, a great battle has been fought here. It has been a battle for empire. And very few people have known about it.

Although it involved so much, the contest was not staged on any grandiose scale. Just a few men, armed with bundles of manuscripts and maps, gathered in an abscure and cluttered-up office in the Foreign Office building, talked for a while and agreed to disagree. Up to now they have been deadlocked.

The bone of contention is the control of the city of Tangier in Morocco.

That doesn t sound very important. But if you will get out a map you will see that a tip of Morocco juts out northward until only a narrow strip of water separates it from Gibraltar.

British Control

Now 'Gib, that rocky point at the south of Spain, has for a hundred years been in British hands. In the old days its cannon dominated the narrow waters.

France never relished this. Spain didn t like it.

Back in the early nineteen hundreds, France and Germany were both looking hungrily at Morocco with its vast resources. The French outgeneraled Germany and got the upper hand. Since the war, with Germany smashed, the French have become entirely dominant.

Nominally, Morocco has a sultan and the French are his advisers. Really, Morocco is a French colony, to be more and more absorbed into the French system.

But from early days the Spanish laid claim to a 'sphere of influence on the northern coast. Only Tangier was excluded. Up to now it has been a sort of internationally governed city. The Moors rule it under the guidance of the French, British and Spanish officers.

But Spain wants Tangiers for its own. It would then have a set off for Gibraltar On the other hand, the French say Tangier should be restored to its real master, the sultan of Morocco.

Which, as the English say, is pure 'eye-wash. Restored to the sultan, Tangier would soon be a French Gibraltar.

French Ambitions

The French already have the world s biggest army. They are already talking about building a big submarine fleet. They already have so predominant a place in the air that the alarmed British are increasing their appropriations for military airplanes.

Now, if the French camped in Tangier, they would have a place where they could erect huge fortifications with high-power cannon. They would have a jumping-off place for their airplanes. They would have a lair for their submarines. That is why England insists Tangier continue an international city.

WEEK'S REVIEW OF CANADIAN TRADE

Wholesale Business Steady in West With Some Improvement.

Winnipeg, Oct. 27 (Canadian Press).—The weekly trade report of the Canadian Credit Men s Trust Association, Limited, states:

Halifax.—Wholesalers and manufacturers report increased business. Better feeling amongst retailers. Collections normal.

St. John.—Wholesale trade satisfactory. Retail business reasonably active. Collections fair.

Montreal.—Wholesalers report fair volume of business with collections a little better. Retail business somewhat slow but with colder weather improvement expected.

Toronto.—Improvement in wholesale business recently noted is being maintained though mild weather is not conducive to extensive commitments. Retail conditions fair with improvement expected when cold weather sets in. Collections very little changed. Slowing up of the building programme affecting employment situation to some extent.

Winnipeg.—There is little change in wholesale circles but some increase in volume from country points in far west. Reasonable goods in better demand in the city with change in weather. Collections fair.

Regina.—Wholesale business steady. Retail trade fair. Collections slightly improved.

Saskatoon.—Wholesalers maintaining improved condition. Retail business picking up at country points. Collections fair.

Calgary.—Wholesale trade increasing on strength of country business which shows considerable improvement over same period last year. Retail business very little changed. Marked improvement in collections from districts where threshing is well advanced.

Vancouver.—Wholesale grocery, hardware keeping fair; boots and shoes immediate demand slow; continued fine weather not helping this line in wholesale or retail. Drygoods considerable improvement and trade reports a satisfactory business past two weeks in wholesale and retail. Retail grocery somewhat slower, other lines just fair. Collections fair to good. Employment in all branches good.

WORLD CRUISE FOR BRITISH SQUADRON

Will Call at Both Atlantic and Pacific Ports of Canada.

LONDON, Oct. 27 (Canadian Press Cable).—The British Admiralty has issued the program for the forthcoming world cruise in which the battleships Hood and Repulse and a light cruiser division will take part. The squadron will leave Davenport November 27 and will proceed sometimes at full strength and sometimes in divisions around Africa calling at the principal ports. Thence they will go to Ceylon, Strait Settlement, Australia and Fiji.

The light cruisers will arrive at Strait Settlement, Australia and Fiji. Esquimalt on June 21 and will stay there twelve days while the battle cruisers will put in an identical period at Vancouver and Victoria. The entire squadron will then go to San Francisco after which the light cruisers will steam around South America, calling at the chief seaports.

In the meantime the battle cruisers will pass through the Panama canal and after a visit to Jamaica will arrive at Halifax on August 5, remaining there ten days. A 14-days stay will be made at Quebec beginning August 18, and Nova Scotia or Newfoundland will be visited from September 4 to 17. The battle cruisers will afterwards re-join the light cruiser division and the squadron will make home ports on September 28.

BEARDS ONCE CONSIDERED SACRED

Beards amongst the Jews were considered sacred. They are still regarded with a curious significance by the Chosen People in different parts of the world. On the other hand, the Chaymas are almost beardless, like the Chunchuses and other of the Mongol nations. They pluck out the few hairs which appear; but independently of that practice most of the natives would be nearly beardless. The value assigned, among the Anglo-Saxons, to hair was proportionately very high, the loss of the beard estimated at 20 shillings, while the breaking of a thigh was fixed at only 12. In Germany clean-shaving was almost unknown a few years ago, except to servants, actors and priests. But the German student now imitates English and American habits.

CONCERT REPEATED TO A BIG AUDIENCE

Children of Sacred Heart School Excelled Themselves.

Before a large crowd of parents and friends, the children of the Sacred Heart school repeated last evening, the concert which they had prepared in honour of the jubilee of Rev. J. J. O'Brien, pastor of the Sacred Hea... Church. The concert ...given in the basement of the church and was a very enjoyable affair, showing excellent training by the teachers of the little children, who acquitted themselves in a very creditable manner.

The programme included several pretty choruses; a "Jubilee Bells" number by the little girls, a boys' chorus, "School Days" by ten small Sodality Junior girls, and a "Good Night" song. There was a boys' drill a recitation by Jackie Hallihan, and a charming little playet, entitled "The Silver Crown," in which the following little girls took part; Angel; Lillian O'Grady, attendants; little Misses Cadigan and Noble, chorus; Vera Chouinard Margaret Jones, Armine McCarthy, Edith Matucci, Alexa Meyes, Alma Goselin.

His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, who was present last evening, addressed the audience briefly at the close of the program, followded by a short talk from Rev. Father O'Brien.

On Tuesday evening of next week the counrty school of the parish, will hold a celebration in honor of Father O'Brien's jubileee.

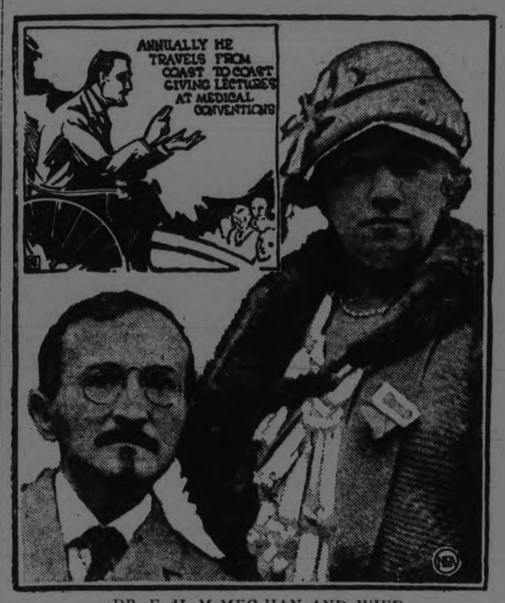
LIVES IN WHEEL CHAIR, DOCTOR STILL CARRIES ON RESEARCHES



DR. F. H. McMEC HAN AND WIFE.

By DON E. P. DROHAN.

AVON LAKE, O., Oct. 27.—A toothache or a headache and most of us are at war with the rest of the world.

But here you'll find a smiling little man, spending his days in a wheel chair, who regards a chronic affliction, such as his, the greatest blessing Providence can bestow upon anyone.

And from that invalid chair he's performing a great humanitarian service. A helpless cripple, paralyzed in every limb, he's carrying on the work he began when he hung out his shingle in Cincinnati two decades ago.

Despite his affliction—rather because of it, he insists—Dr. F. H. McMechan has become one of the world's foremost authorities on anesthesia.

In addition, he's one of the most prominent medical writers of the day. He's editor of various professional journals and secretary of the Association of American Medical Editors.

Good "Samaritan."

But he's more of a philosopher, more of a Good Samaritan, than he is physician or editor. And that is not detracting a bit from his ability as either.

"An ailment like mine ripens a person," he reasons. "A perfectly healthy fellow quickly becomes dissatisfied with his environment. It's different with the afflicted man. He can be happy anywhere, no matter what his surroundings are.

"This trouble of mine came only a few months after my marriage. It followed my ministrations to a pneumonia patient. It's deforming arthritis.

"I've undergone all sorts of operations. I've had some first-hand experience with anesthetics. That's one reason I know something about them."

Two-thirds of the hospitals in the country don't know how to administer anesthetics properly, Dr. McMechan contends.

"All over the country, lives are being sacrificed by anesthetists who don't know their business. But a better day is coming."

Dr. McMechan says he lost the use of his hands writing letters to the surgeon general's office during the war, trying to convince the medical officers that anesthetics should be administered in the base hospitals by doctors who knew their job.

"I won the battle," he declares. "But it was too late. I couldn't use my typewriter after the fight was over."

Since then his wife has served as his secretary.

"She's the brains of the partnership," the doctor maintains.

"No, I'm only the hands and feet," she insists.

Chronic Traveller.

For several years Dr. McMechan has been secretary of the Associated Anesthetists of the United States and Canada. Annually he travels from coast to coast, addressing medical conventions. Mrs. McMehan, of course, always accompanies him.

The doctor is, indeed, a real altruist. His smile is contagious.

And the birds and the flowers, even the often angry waters of Lake Erie, upon whose shores he has chosen to while away his remaining years, seem to laugh with him.

So when you're feeling out of sorts, just think of the little smiling man, here in this quiet Cleveland suburb, who daily murmurs a prayer of thanksgiving that he's not "like other men." Not in the spirit of the Pharisee, but as one resigned to the will of the Giver of all good gifts.

PROTECT THE KIDNEYS

The heart and the kidneys are the most important organs of the body.

This time of the year particularly the kidneys are easily deranged from chills and exposure. Escesses in eating and drinking will often cause disease in the kidneys.

Never neglect a backache which is on of the first symptoms and may lead to other complications.

The best remedy for any kidney ailments is Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills. They will keep the kidneys in a sound and healthy condition and free the blood from all poisons.

Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills are sold at Lynch's Drug Store, 168 Hunter street, and if they fail to do what we claim for them your money will be refunded.

KIWANIS FAILED TO MAINTAIN LEAD

Dragoons Won in Ninth Innings—Bowlers Lost to K. of C.

There were two softball games played last night in the armouries before a rather small number of fans. The first, in which the Dragoons beat the Kiwanis 11 to 8, was the more interesting and dished up the best brand of ball. The Dragoons had a lead of six runs in the play of the first two innings but the Kiwanis came back strong and at the end of their half of the sixth were leading 7 to 6. In the last half of the sixth, however, the Dragoons sent across four runs. The lineups were:

Score by innings:

Kiwanis	004013— 8
Dragoons	420104—11

The Rotary team defaulted to the Gunners when nine men failed to appear for the game.

The Knights of Columbus downed the Bowlers by a 15 to 13 score. The Caseys had no trouble, and were never worried by the Bowlers. "Tim" McCarther still holding down the "hot corner" for the Bowlers showed that he has not slipped back any from last season's form. He was the means of assisting in the put-outs of the first four K. of C. batters. The lineups were:

K. of C.—Primeau, ss; D. Sheehy, 3b; O'Hearn, c; J. Rutherford, rf; Rose, p; G. Rutherford, ss; Murphy, ss; Cronin, lf; Wolfe, 1b.

Bowlers—Dick, 1b; Parr, p; Cullen, rf; Ross, ss; Martin, rss; McCarther, 1b; Freeman, c; Young, lf; Gillian, 2b.

Score by innings:

K. of C.	4620201—15
Bowlers	1232014—13

Home-made, but Has No Equal for Coughs

Makes a family supply of really dependable cough medicine. Easily prepared, and saves about $2.

If you have a severe cough or chest cold accompanied with soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness, or difficult breathing, or if your child wakes up during the night with croup and you want quick help try this reliable old home-made cough remedy. Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. This recipe makes 16 ounces of really remarkable cough remedy. It tastes good, and in spite of its low cost, it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle and soothes and heals the irritated membranes that line the throat and bronchial tubes with such promptness, ease and certainty that it is really astonishing.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is probably the best known means of overcoming severe coughs, throat and chest colds.

There are many worthless imitations of this mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

THE ROYAL BANK OF CANADA

MONEY WILL BE THE WEAPON OF LABOR'S FORCES

Inauguration of a Policy For Fighting Capital With Capital Shows Much Promise.

ELIMINATE STRIKES.

By HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—Emulating the old advice to 'fight fire with fire, organized labor has begun to fight capital with capital.

This is the opinion of Richard M. Boeckel, labor economist, whose recent book, 'Labor's Money, presents the first authoritative account of the development and growth of workers co-operative banks.

With this new weapon in the hands of labor, Boeckel foresees the day when strikes will be obsolete in settling labor controversies as the medieval crossbow in armed affrays of today.

As the labor banking movement continues to expand during the next few years," Boeckel says, 'it will work a revolution in trade union methods. Labor will depend less and less upon withholding manpower in strikes and more upon the strategic use of the workers' money power.

Workers' Banks

'Within the short space of three and a half years there have been established 15 workers' co-operative banks in widely scattered industrial centres. Their aggregate resources approximate $50,000,000.

'No less than 20 new workers' banks are in process of organization, all of which wil be in operation within the next 10 months.

'This labor banking movement has not been developed on a basis of theory, nor has it been promoted by propaganda. It is an outgrowth of the condition of the times and the experience of American workers.

'Should this policy of fighting capital with capital be followed by workers generally," Boeckel adds, 'the country will witness an enormous expansion in both the numbers and resources of labor banks during 1924. At the present rate of growth, deposits in the workers' banks should aggregate $100,000,000 by the beginning of 1925.

Outsiders Welcome

In this movement organized workers are for the first time inviting the co-operation of the general public. The banks are open to non-worker depositors, and favorable interest rates are paid on deposits. These banks already control very substantial amounts deposited by men and women outside the trade union movement.'

The policy on which all labor banks operate, Boeckel says, is one of refusing loans for any but 'productive purposes." This, he declares, directly serves the public interest in that it seeks to stimulate the production of useful goods and to make for increased production and lower prices without degredation of the condition of the workers.

'The continued progress of this new movement promises not only a revolution in trades union methods," he declares, 'but forecasts significant changes in the organization of industry. As this progresses, the strike will come to be regarded as a relic of industrial barbarism."

A Clergyman's Wife, Relieved of Constipation, Tells Women the Benefits of Internal Bathing.

Many women write delightfully frank letters to Dr. Tyrell telling him of the new health and joy that Internal Bathing has given them. From sufferers of rheumatism and those plagued with constipation and insomnia comes the same tale of amazing success. Internal Bathing is a natural, simple way of cleaning the intestines. Warm water circulates through the colon, ridding it of the poisons that should not linger there. As 95 per cent. of our ills are caused by the escape of those poisons into the blood it is easy to see that this method of keeping the intestines clean and healthy is a common-sense way of securing health.

A Winnipeg clergyman writes: "My wife is naturally sensitive having her name appear in public print, yet is anxious that others should know what the J.B.L. Cascade has done for her. It has really given her a new lease of life. For years she had been doctoring for constipation, which became worse each year. Since using the J.B.L. Cascade, first about four years ago, she has not been sick a day, and has become robust and strong again. Should any person wish this letter confirmed, you are at liberty to give my name, in private."

The J.B.L. Cascade is shown and explained at Warne Drug Company.

The J.B.L. Cascade is an invention perfected by Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell of New York, and has done more during the past few years to restore health and lessen disease than all other means combined. Ask for booklet explaining all about Internal Bathing and what is has done for others. It is free, or write to Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute, 163 College Street, Toronto.

Tough If You're Princess In Bolshevik Russia

MOSCOW, Oct. 27.—Even the proletariat of old Russia has had mighty tough sledding in these days of famine—

But think of the surviving remnants of the nobility of Nicholas' day. Under the regime of Lenin and Trotsky, they've suffered worse than death.

Take Princess Gorchakova, for instance. Her mother was shot at the beginning of the Bolshevik revolution in 1917, and her father, who had at different periods ruled over the provinces of Kaluga and Viatka, was imprisoned. Kameneff had spared his life only because of a favor Princess Gorchakova once had done for him.

Then the princess, who had married a surveyor named Nikitina when she was 16, lost her two children. Lack of food and medicine resulted in their deaths.

And when Henry C. Wolfe, recently returned to America from work with the American Relief Administration, saw her a year ago in the villate of Melekes in the Smara province, the princess had not tasted white bread for four years. She had forgotten what cocoa had tasted like.

She and her husband were existing on a small allowance of black bread and dried fish, given in return for Nikitina's services as a surveyor for the soviet.

The Relief Administration couldn't assist her because of her husband's work for the Bolsheviki. But former Governor Goodrich of Indiana contributed a special fund for the alleviation of the sufferings of former intelligentsia. Wolfe, in Melekes, received 15 food packages. One was turned over to the princess.

As long as she remains just plain Madam Mikitina, the princess' safety from the hands of the soviet is assured. Let her revert to her royal rank and it will be a different story.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

WHY OPPOSE CHURCH UNION?

To the Editor of THE DAILY EXAMINER:—

Sir—That is a question for "Unionists" to answer, for they, and no others, are opposing true Union. Union is that to which one is drawn, not driven. If any are drawn to a new Church none will oppose their going. But Presbyterians, in tens of thousands, are drawn by conviction of duty, as well as by strong and tender ties, to their own Church; and "Unionists" are seeking an Act of Parliament to compel them out of their Church; either into a new one, or, homeless and churchless, onto the street. Why these "Unionists" will not quietly go where they wish, but must attempt this coercion of others, so unfair, unjust, unlawful, unchristian, is for themselves to answer.

But now another question. Why oppose this attempted coercion? Because it is a backward step in many ways in the progress of the Kingdom of God.

(1) It is a backward step in its lowered ideal of the Church. It takes Christ's glorious ideal, a great spiritual Christian Brotherhood, of every race and name and type, all one in Him, and it degrades that ideal to an outward uniformity, claiming that in this poor mechanical way His ideal is to be realized and His prayer answered.

(2) It is a backward step in the lower type of Church which it attempts to form. Instead of a purely spiritual body, as the Presbyterian Church now is, seeking its ends only by moral and spiritual influence, the New Church would be a legal corporation, with corporate civil powers, to "battle," in the words of Dr. Chown, in the "religio-political realm."

(3) It is a backward step in its method of forming that lower type of Church. Instead of Christ's way—"I will draw all men unto Me," it plans to drive them. Its "Church Union Bill," which it asks Parliament to enforce, would, the moment it is passed, make all Presbyterians members of the new Church, no matter how unwilling. It is a reversion to the Middle Ages, when the Church was one in name and people were driven to it by civil pains and penalties.

(4) It is a backward step in Christian Truth. Note one point. In the Presbyterian Church all ministers and elders take ordination vows, declaring acceptance of the Standards of that Church, with their great truths;—the love and mercy of God, the Deity of Christ, His Atoning Death for sin, Salvation by Faith in Him, etc. The Church stands for these truths and is pledged to them. But in the new Church, the so-called elders have no ordination vows of any kind, while the Ordination Vows of ministers have no mention of the basis of Union or of any other statement of the Christian Faith. It would be a creedless Church, an open door for errors of every kind, among them that fatal and all too common error which takes from Christ His Crown of Deity and from sinners a Saviour, making Him only a man.

(5) It is a backward step in Church Government. Note one point of many. It takes from the people the right of choosing their own minister. In the Presbyterian Church a congregation can call whom it will and when it will, and no Presbytery, or Assembly, or any other, can impose upon a self supporting congregation a minister whom they have not called and do not want. In the new Church, the people may get up a call at one time of the year, when the far-off Settlement Committee meets, but the Settlement Committee can send to them and force upon them whom it will, regardless of their call. This takes from Presbyterians a freedom and a right, won by many a struggle and places them under a yoke of clerical and official domination which their fathers ever refused to bear.

(6) It would be a backward step in efficiency of service for Christ, for the three Churches, working as they now are, in unity and cooperation, will win and hold more people, of varied kinds and types and tastes, and more of the Immigration from the different Churches in other lands; and will enlist greater interest and support for their work, than would any possible combine of the three. Further, all Christian history shows that the times of enforced uniformity in the Church have been its times of spiritual death, while all its great revivals have been a breaking away from that uniformity, by earnest souls, at the call of a great conviction.

(7) It would be a backward step in the religious life of the nation, for many, everywhere, with a bitter sense of injustice and wrong, would turn their backs upon the Chtrch which had done them that wrong. Some of them would lapse into indifference, and others would be a recruiting ground for false religions, Russeism, Hermonism, etc., bringing division and discord into communities where peace and harmony between the Churches now obtains.

(8) It is a long, sad, backward step in its disregard for honour and truth. In 1905, there was unanimous agreement that Union "must carry the consent of the entire membership." In 1912, at the first vote, when a membership of 298,916 gave 113,000 for Union and 50,733 against it, there was again unanimous agreement—"owing to the extent of the minority" to defer the matter for "practically unanimous action." In 1916, at the second vote, a membership of 338,322 gave 113,600 for Union and 72,735 against it; and now the "Unionists" on this eight year old vote of only one-third of the people, and in face of a great and growing opposition and by a "Church Union Bill" which was never submitted to the people, and which, with its coercion of conscience and confiscation of sacred Trusts, would be a blot hereto unknown on Canada's Statute Book, are attempting to drive out the entire membership, wipe out their Church, and to seize and transfer to another control all its civil rights, possessions and Trusts. Such disregard of their own pledged faith no honorable business firm would for a moment dream, and its effect upon men of truth and honor outside the Church no pen can tell.

In closing may 'I thank my critics, Dr. Neil and Dr. Welsh for confirming my previous letter on the misleading Official Message of the Moderator, Dr. Gandier. These critics have written uncomplimentary things about myself, but they have left unscatlied the great facts of my letter; viz., that the Church Union question is not settled; that the Assembly has not a shadow of right or power to settle it; and that it will never settle until it is settled right, and all are free, either to remain in their own Church or go to another, as conviction of duty may lead.

Lovers of freedom and truth in every congregation, get together hold meet-meetings, in house, hall or church, anywhere. Give the people the facts. Stand and work for the freedom you love till she comes to her own again.

Complete Exploration Into Ancient Civilization in Yucatan, Mexico.

(By A. L. BRADFORD)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (United Press).—One of the most important scientific explorations probably ever undertaken and one which may resurrect a civilization antedating that of ancient Egypt will begin soon, in accordance with a contract recently signed between the Mexican Government and the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

This will be a complete exploration into the ancient civilization of the Maya race of Mexico. The Maya civilization flourished in Yucatan, Mexico. The impending exploration is regarded as of the greatest importance and significance to the scientific world.

The group of scientists who will undertake the exploration probably will be headed by Dr. S. G. Morley. Dr. Morley has lived and studied many years in Yucatan and is the possessor of the most profound knowledge on the Maya race. It is expected that at least he will be in charge of the archeological phase of the exploration.

Work is now in progress in Yucatan to clear away the woods and brush that have grown up around the ruins of the Maya civilization in order to facilitate the investigations of the scientists.

A great human aid for the impending exploration has been discovered in Yucatan—a Mayo boy, who is a direct descendant of the last Maya king, according to word received here. It is said that this boy is able to read some of the ancient Maya writing and he will be employed to aid the scientists in their efforts to translate these thought of the hidden centuries.

The wordl has been unable only to guess at the achievements of the Maya civilization. But now the scientific exploration led by the Carnegie Institution is to make the most complete investigation of all phases of the civilization of the Mayas.

The great Maya cities will be in par restored, the lives of the people will be delved into and the conditions under which they flourished will be studied to determine how this mysterious race was able to achieve its progress. The Maya treasures will be salvaged, and after the work has been completed this ancient resurrected civilization will be preserved for posterity.

As an example of the great attainments which the Mayas developed, it is said at the Carnegie institution here that the so-called ball court of the ancient Maya city of Chichen-Itza, on which the coming explorations will center, was constructed in such a manner as its acoustics so arranged that the voice of ordinary pitch spoken in one corner of the court could be distinctly heard and understood opposite, about sixty yards away.

The greatest scientists in the world on the subject of the Maya civilization will be asked by the Carnegie Institution to take part in the explorations.

GREAT STORMS KILL CATTLE OF ARGENTINE

BUENOS AIRES (By mail to United Press).—The ministry off agriculture has just published a livestock census which shows there has been a serious decrease in the number of sheep and hogs since 1914, although cattle have increased.

The total number of cattle in the republic is reported to be 37,064,850, as compared with 25,866,463 in 1914. Of this total 1,023,597 are pure bred animals.

The total number of sheep is fixed at 30,671,841, a decrease of 12,553,611 over 1914, while the number of hogs is reported to be 1,436,638, a decrease of 1,436,947 since 1914.

Despite the decrease, it is pointed out there are more than three head of sheep for inhabitants of the republic and nearly four head of acttle.

The decreases are the result of severe storms on the Pampas in September, this year, when it is estimated 200,000 head of livestock perished in the Pampas and 40,000 in other provinces, or 15 per cent. of the total stock of these provinces.

THE MIDDLE CLASS IN EUROPE IS STRICKEN

By GUS M. OEHM.

BERLIN (By Mail to United Press).—Germany's delegates to the international conference of middle classes in Berne returned home with the message that the middle classes of all Europe are suffering as never before.

Germany's delegates went to the meeting prepared to tell the members what a hard time the 'in-between" folks in Germany were having. They did tell them and were greatly cheered to be assured of the sympathy and possible co-operation of the other countries.

But they found that they weren't the only nation with a great group of unemployed, under-paid, under-fed, and under-almost-everything-else.

Germany found she didn't have a corner on misery and that post-war conditions in the sixteen nations represented at the meeting were no rosier than conditions in the Fatherland.

But the Germans were assured of heartfelt appreciation of their position and of the fact that everything would be done that could possibly be done.

An interesting development during the conference was the good feeling of the German and the French delegates, who brought their individual problems before the conference—brothers in need.

The official language of the meeting was German, which was immediately translated into French. The chairman commented openly on the good feeling and hoped the French and Germans could work together in other conferences as they had worked in Berne.

Palace Stoves Now Used to Cook For the Poor Children

(By GUS M. OEHM)

BERLIN, Oct. 27 (United Press).—The stoves that once cooked the meals of the Hohenzollerns today prepare food for hundreds of hungry little children of poverty-stricken families in Berlin.

At least a portion of the propaganda for the opening up of the famous castle of Kaiser Wilhelm at the end of Unter den Linden for practical purposes has been effective. The great kitchens where once the food of royalty was prepared have been placed at the disposal of Austria relief organizations, which are opening community food dispensing agencies throughout Germany

The work, under the leadership of Frau Dr. Genia Schwarzsald of Vienna,4 is in return for similar aid given Austria during her trying days just following the armistice.

Food for from 3,000 to 4,000 persons may be prepared at one time in the big kitchens of the castle which, until opened for relief purposes, were unused since the Hohenzollerns left the castle so suddenly in early November, 1918. Last summer a big hotel proposed to lease the kitchens from the Republican Goverament, but was turned down when rooms for restaurant purposes were also demanded.

Wanted to Live in Castle

Last sujmmer a move was organized by the Socialist press demanding that the castle be utilized for apartments for the house-hunting folks of Berlin. This was unsuccessful, a portion of the castle having long since been used as a museum, though most of the 700 rooms are locked to public gaze.

The castle attendants, who keep it in order and handle the museum crowds, etc., occupy servant quarters. It is necessary to keep quite a personnel on duty, the window washing job alone being quite an item—980 huge windows demanding periodic cleansing.

In winter only twenty-nine of the rooms are heated. For this purpose huge piles of coke are heaped in the great open court beside the statue of Knight George, who killed the dragon. A few private wine dealers have rented space in the cellars to store their wet goods. Some few rooms have been occupied by public organizations, including the American Quaker Relief Organization, which has practically closed out its offices here. Much of the paintings, silver and linen have been taken away, some to other museums. Much of the furniture has been removed, the exiled Kaiser having taken many truck loads of it to Holland.

Vorwaerts, leading Socialist paper, recently demanded that the Government put aside sentimentality and turn the castle to financial gain. "The city needs money," the paper declares, urging the use of the castle for apartments, which would not only bring great revenue, but greatly aid in solving the vexing housing problem of Berlin.

How To Revitalize Wornout Exhausted Nerves

Your nerve power depends on plenty of good, rich, red blood of the kind that organic iron — Nuxated Iron—helps make. Nuxated Iron is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples, while metallic iron is iron just as it comes from the action of strong acids on iron filings. Nuxated Iron does not injure the teeth nor upset the stomach; it is an entirely different thing from ordinary metallic iron. It quickly helps make rich, red blood, revitalize wornout, exhausted nerves and give you new strength and energy. Over 4,000,000 people annually are using it. Beware of substitutes. Always insist upon having genuine organic iron—Nuxated Iron. Look for the letters N.I. on every tablet. Sold by all druggists in tablets only—never in liquid form.

Former Pastor Here Writes From Michigan.

The Examiner is in receipt of a letter from Flint, Michigan from the Rev. F. A. Conners, former pastor of Park Street Baptist church, now in charge of Emmanuel Baptist Church in Flint, Rev. Mr. Conners writes:

"It might be of interest to you to know something of the progress of the work since my coming to the Emmanuel Baptist Church, just one year ago this month. It took me the first month to get settled and get my bearings and with the month of November began my work proper and from that time we have had accesssions every month during the year; every month since November with but one exception, we have had baptisms. By the first of November, 1923, our accessions will aggregate almost one hundred and nearly half of that number have been added by baptism. The church has raised my salary $10 per week or between five and six hundred dollars a year, besides buying a parsonage, and are now preparing to build a new church edifice which is an absolute necessity, since we are completely crowded out of our present quarters. The Sunday school attendance has more than doubled in the past year and is still increasing from week to week.

"Last evening my church was crowded to overflowing, every seat was packed and every available chair was also in use, with some standing and others outside who could not get in. God has wonderfully blessed my work here. Kind regards to all old friends."

ARGENTINE FIGHTING .... WHITE SLAVE TRAFFIC

BUENOS AIRES (By mail to United Press).—The Argentine immigration officials have begun a campaign against the white slave industry, anticipating action by the League of Nations commission on traffic in women and girls. Announcement has been made that girls coming alone to Argentine will not be allowed to land until it has been established that they are going to respectable houses, or until they consent to remain in the immigrant's hotel until they can find jobs.

Scores of young girls have been coming from Central European countries, their passages often paid by strangers or chance acquaintances, destined for the brothels of Buenos Aires and Rio Janeiro.

HELP THE VETERANS

Funds are urgently needed for the Great War Veterans and other Associations who care for the maimed and crippled soldiers and their dependents.

Money is needed to assist incapacitated men, tuberculosis cases, and the widows and orphans of those who fell.

Veterans' Associations have joined in a Great Poster Judging Contest, which has been organized on a scale which enables enormous prizes to be offered, and which gives to contestants the prospect of large fortunes.

$140,000.00 in Prizes

1st $55,555.00
2nd 13,888.00
3rd 4,555.00

And 2000 other Prizes aggregating £30,000: about $140,000.00 all of which are donated by BOVRIL Limited.

To enter send a donation of $1.20 for a Ticket-Folder.

On this folder sixteen of the most celebrated posters of the Bovril Co. are reproduced in full colors.
Which are the 12 best, in order of merit, is what you must decide. The folder shows just what you must do and how to do it.
It is a fascinating trial of taste and judgment to class these posters in the order which popular fancy will endorse. It is a real game which can be played over and over again, and in which all the family can join and which will interest visitors, be they young or old.
And just think of the possible reward? A Prize which is a real fortune—and you help an excellent cause.
You can make as many trials as you like—every donation of $1.20 entitles you to the folder, thus $12.00 secures 10 folders—though only one prize will be given to one person.

CLIP THE BLANK FORM NOW before it is mislaid and enclose it with cheque or money order to any one of the addresses given, and ticket-folder will be sent by return mail.

SARAZEN WITH SANDE UP WON

LAUREL, Oct. 26.—Mrs. William K Vanderbilt's unbeatable Sarazen was crowned King of 1923's two year olds in the United States this afternoon when he galloped away from Edward F. Simm's previously undefeated filly, Happy Thoughts in the $15,000 match race here. The winner's time for the six furlongs was 1:14.

Earl Sande had Sarazen off first and he was never headed. At the half mile post, with Sarazen two lengths in the lead, Andy Schuttinger rode Happy Thoughts hard ,and succeeded in momentarily reducing Sarazen's advantage but Sande gave Sarazen his head, and swinging into the stretch had the gelding four lengths in front. In the stetch Happy Thoughts closed up some ground but could not threaten seriously and Sarazen finished well in hand. The fractional times were: 24 3-5; 48; 1:14.

Sarazen paid $2.60 in the mutuels on a $2 ticket. The race marked the 9th consecutive victory for Mrs. Vanderbilt's little star.

In addition to the state the victory brought Sarazen a silver trophy valued at $500.

AMERICAN RUGBY HALFWAY MARK

Important Games Slated For To-Day — Harvard Meets Dartmouth.

By HENRY L. FARRELL

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(United Press)—Nothing but circus adjectives can be used to herald the approach of the weekly football attractions as the season draws to its close. "Bigger and better than ever, filling and thrilling," can be used aptly as descriptive for each succeeding program.

Little Centre College, for several years one of the finest attractions in the country, will make its annual invasion of the east by appearing against Pennsylvania in Philadelphia.

Earlier in the season, the wise birds in the east, remarked: "Well, this is Centre's last big whirl in the east. The Colonels are through"

On the contrary, the evidence points now that Centre not only is not through, but that Centre very likely will beat Penn and retain its former rating in the east.

Georgia Tech, once the leading standard bearer of the south and still one of the most illustrious representatives, also journeys across the border to meet the great Notre Dame team on one of the few occasions when the Notre Dame students have a chance to see their "Mick" idols in action in a big game.

This game should be one of the best in the season and Tech has assumed a big obligation.

Detroit University, which has risen high in the football world in recent years, also invades the east with a game against Washington and Jefferson. These two teams have become established rivals, and as both are high-class teams they should provide one of the real battles of the day.

Perhaps the most important game of the day, because of its effect on the eastern championship fight, will be staged in New York between the powerful West Virginia eleven and the always good Penn State team.

West Virginia was one of the outstanding teams of 1922 and the Mountaineers have another fine eleven this year. Penn State always has a smart, capable team.

Two good games will bring the spotlight on a part of the "Big Three." Yale will not have much to do with Brown, although Brown has a habit of making things interesting for the "Big Three."

Harvard will get the first real test of the season against Dartmouth and much more will be known about the real ability of the Crimson eleven after the game.

So far, Harvard has lacked the speed believed necessary to cope with the fleet, fast moving and alert Yale and Princeton teams, and Dartmouth will make Harvard put out everything it has to win.

Princeton, after two hard games with Georgetown and Notre Dame, has a tough prospect against the Navy in one of the feature games of the day to be played in Baltimore.

The Navy team has been brought along slowly by Bob Folwell with the idea of keeping the squad in shape for the toughest schedule that the midshipmen have ever faced.

Princeton also picked a very hard road to travel this year and the Tigers probably will be approaching their top form as well as the Navy.

It should be a great game if the Navy follows the warning sounded everywhere: "Don't fumble! Don't fumble!"

Pittsburgh has Carnegie Tech as an opponent at Pittsburgh, and Lafayette plays Rutgers at Easton. Cornell, getting ready for a tough game with Dartmouth, will lay off for the day. Cornell has a rather coy way of doing that. The Army, getting ready for the Yale game, will take on an easier opponent in Lebanon Valley and the Army will need the rest.

With the season just halfway along, nothing has been established in a definite line to give a bearing on any of the mythical championships. Beginning with the first of the November games, the leading candidates for the honors will start knocking each other off.

Boxers Lose Purse Are Suspended

NEWARK, N.J., Oct 26.—The sum of $19,572 was turned over to the Elk's Fund for Crippled Children of Elizabeth by representatives of the Broad Athletic Club which conducted the match between Mickey Walker, welterweight champion, and Jimmy Jones of Youngstown, Ohio, several weeks ago.

The money represented the boxers share of the receipts which they forfeited when they were ordered from the ring charged with stalling. Walker was allowed $1,965 and Jones $2,000 for training expenses.

In addition Walker drew a six month suspension by the State Boxing Commission, while Jones was suspended for one year. Thomas E. Collins, Chairman of the Elks' Committee, received the money.

PRINCE OF WALES AND KING GEORGE A DRAW

Good Soccer By Both Teams in School Competition.

A draw—no scoring—was the result of the King George versus Prince of Wales School soccer game at King Edward Park last evening. These teams have drawn twice now.

Opening exchanges were very even. A break away by Pammett was stopped by Dainard in front of goal, Bradshaw kicking clear. Pat Calladine tried hard to force the play into Prince of Wales area but their half backs were tackling close. An individual effort by Griffine ended in quick recovery through Don Clarke when in on goal. A few minutes later Wales centre forward and Jack Hope collided when one of them should have scored, Calladine clearing. After this King George held Wales boys down in their own territory until half-time.

Half Time.

Next 35 minutes was set at a fast pace with the play running from end to end, where the full-backs of each team frustrated the attacks of the opposing forwards. Playford manouvered into position to get a shot at goal which he did with a rising shot. Hollingsworth threw himself up in the air to make a brilliant save. He picked up another from the foot of Ellis when everybody cried goal. Close tackling was the order of play, with Prince of Wales boys worrying King George's defence who responded well. All East City forwards had a shot at Hollingsworth but he was the hero of the game by his clever goal-keeping. Two minutes to go Batchelor gave away a penalty that was sent sky-high over the bar by Griffen. Full time—no scoring.

The teams:

King George—Geo. Page, goal; Pat Calladine and Dan Clarke, full-backs; Bill McCartney, L. Batchelor and Don Fowler, half-backs; A. Pammet, J. Ellis, John Playforth, B. Williams and T. Tooms

Prince of Wales—Harold Hollingsworth, goal; G .Neville and G. Dainard, full backs; E. Dulmage, G. Cuthbertson and E .Bradshaw, half-backs; K. MacDonald, J .Hope, Fred Griffen, J. Murphy and G. Weir, forwards.

Referee—George Coleman.

AVERAGES USED BY TEN FOOTBALL COACHES

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—(United Press).—Accurate "fielding averages" of football players are necessary to insure fairness in choosing the eleven best men from the big squads which turn out each fall at "Big Ten" schools, according to coaches. Elaborate score sheets are used to show how many tackles each man made or missed passes caught and dropped, success or failure at blocking, and a dozen other details in which coaches are interested.

Fraternity and class rivalry make a record necessary, according to Coach Fisher of Michigan, to protect coaches against charges of favoritism in picking the "varsity." Men who are "flashy" on the gridiron sometimes accomplish less than the man who remains in the background.

The scoring system is also helpful in aiding a coach to select a team from his squad suited to the opponents for a particular game. If the opponent aggregation is known to have steong ends and the centre of the line is weak, the scoring charts will show which backs are more efficient at gaining through the line rather than skirting the extremities.

By use of the charts, coaches are able to instruct quarterbacks which carriers are liable to gain on certain plays. Interesting comparisons are found in yards gained by bucking and running backs.

The idea of gauging football efficiently by keeping a written record is not new, but has been developed to a much greater extent this season, it is said. Lake Forest (Ill.) college is credited with a well organized system of scoring tackles by both linesmen and backs as early as 1893.

Scoring is done by student experts at Michigan, where the system is said to be most efficient. At other schools, a coach or assistant keeps track of the plays.

TICKETS FOR BIG BANQUET

Some 110 complimentary tickets have been issued for the big civic banquet to be tendered to Peterboro's ball teams by the City Council at the Empress Hotel next Tuesday night. In addition a limited number of tickets will be sold which may be had from the managers of the different teams. The fathers or brothers of members of the team will be given the preference in the disposal of these extra tickets.

UNITED STATES HOCKEY ANNUAL Meeting in Cleveland To-Day With International Skating Union.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 26.— Cleveland will be the centre of the continent's skating interest to-morrow and Sunday with the United States' Hockey Association and the International Skating Union holding meetings here. The Hockey Association meeting will be held under the chairmanship of President William S. Haddock, of Pittsburgh, and the Skating Union meeting will be presided over by President Julian T. Fitzgerald, of Chicago.

Eleven district associations in the United States and Canada will send delegates to the Skating Union's annual meeting to elect officers.

The Hockey Association also will elect officers and will draft a schedule.

Plans for U.S. participation in the winter sports programme of the Olympic games next January, will be made at the meetings.

The hockey team of the Boston Athletic Association has been recommended as the U.S. representative in the Olympic hockey matches, and is said to be practically certain of being the selection of the hockey league.

Plans for the selection of a team of six speed skaters to represent this country include a series of elimination races at Lake Placid, Johnson City and Newburgh, N.Y. Entries in the eliminations will include Charles Jewtraw, international champion, Harry Kaskey, National and Canadian champion, William Steinmetz, former international champion; Joe Moore, international indoor champion; Roy McWhirter, former U.S. national champion and others.

10 NAVAL COMMANDERS TO BE COURT-MARTIALED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—The largest single courtmartial in the history of the Navy was ordered yesterday following an inquiry into the loss of seven destroyers off Honda Point, Calif., Sept. 8. A squadron commander, two division commanders, seven commanders of destroyers and the flotilla navigator will be brought to trial at San Diego.

CHAMPIONS ALL

KAHANOMOKU PADDOCK DEMPSEY

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—A great galaxy of championship talent faced the camera when this picture was taken. Duke Kahanomoku, a champion swimmer with Olympic laurels; Charley Paddock, greatest of all dash runners, and Jack Dempsey, heavyweight boxing title holder. The three met here recently in connection with an Olympic drive. Los Angeles hopes to get the games in 1923. A stadium seating 78,000 is planned.

IS SATISFIED WITH YANKEES

Huggins Doesn't Contemplate Many Changes — Seeks Southpaw—Kelly Best in Series.

NEW YORK, October 26. — Miller Huggins will be just as well satisfied to stand pat on his world's champion Yankees next season, although he would not spurn the services of another left hande pitcher and an outfielder who hits from the right hand side of the plate. That was the gist of remarks made yesterday by the mite manager as he began packing his trunks and cleaning up his affairs in this city preparatory to a getaway to Cincinnati. Huggins will stay over to see the Penn State-West Virginia football game in the stadium on Saturday and will probably leave for home the next day.

"What do the Yankees need" he said, in answer to a question. "Well, chiefly a southpaw to help out Herb Pennock. Next, a right-handed hitting outfielder who can step up to the plate and sock the left-handers. That isn't casting any aspersions on Whitey Witt, who played fine ball all seasons long. But I need a man who can be pushed into the line-up and produce if Witt should go into the slump. I certainly wished we had one in the world's series when we had the bases full and Witt coming up. I had to use Bush. As it turned out, Joe did the best possible thing by drawing a base on balls.

"But I'm not worrying about replacements for the Yansk — not thinking much about it yet. Whatever trades are made will be started at the American League meeting in Chicago in December. For the present we won't do anything. In fact we may do nothing all winter, for I can afford to stand pat on the Yankees. The catching, pitching and infield is O.K., and the outfield needs only the addition I have mentioned."

Still Interested in May.

Huggins said he had given no thought to the case of Carl Mays, who may be waived out of the league before April. Hug admitted that he is still interested in Jakie May, the southpaw star of the Vernon Club of the Pacific Coast league —it is possible that May will be the left hander who will collaborate with Pennock next season. Huggins has great faith also in his two young pitchers, Oscar Roettger and George Pipgras.

"These boys are comers and they will get more work then season than last," he promised.

For the present the Yankee chieftain will repose at ease in his native Cincinnati, where the eager citizens will wine and dine him at a dinner on November 10. Later Huggins intends to go to Milan, Ind., and play golf and take life easy, as the manager of a world's championship team should take life. He will also be at the league meeting in Chicago to meet Colonel Ruppert and Ed Barrow and go over plans for trades and releases, besides deciding on a spot for spring training.

John McGraw will probably leave on his Atlantic Ocean boat trip on November 13th. A week over and a week back, and two weeks in Europe will compose the McGraw junket. He will be back in mid-December to attend the National League meeting, and rumour hath it that the meeting will see McGraw making some of the most startling changes in his line up that a manager ever made.

"Watch for the big shake-up in the Giants," one baseball observer remarked. "This will be the busiest winter that McGraw has spent in some years. He is going to stick closer than ever to the Forty-fourth Street offices, and I for one look for trades involving some well known Giants. McGraw was displeased by the work of several players in the world's series, and probably his eyes were opened to the real mediocrity of his pitching staff. Some of the athletes have been marked for the auction block. It is a sure thing that there won't be many salary increases for the Giants this winter.

To all of which McGraw makes no reply, unless it be that he hopes the boat trip will be enjoyable. The Giant manager is not in the habit of tipping his hand.

Kelly's Play Landed.

Miller Huggins, by the way agrees with McGraw in one thing at least—that George Kelly's stop on Ruth's terrific ground smash and his throw to the plate to nip Dugan in the firts game constituted the best individual fielding play of the world's series.

"For speed, skilful fielding, throwing and above all, thinking, that was the star play of them all," said Miller. "The second best was also by a Giant. I refer to Frank Frisch, who did wonderful work to catch a hard fly over his head in the first game, and then turn in time to catch Ruth at the plate.

"And the third best play was that of Joe Dugan in the third inning of the second game when McQuillan bunted and caught him flat footed, scooped and threw in one motion, and nailed McQuillan, who is a fast man. What a play that was!"

George Sisler's chances for getting back into the game next season, are not considered bright by the local baseball men, who have been informed by underground sources that the peerless first baseman's eyesight is as bad as ever. After a distinct improvement during the summer, Sisler had a relapse, according to this information, and still suffers from double vision of the worst type.

Next to the untimely death of Ray Chapman, the case of George Sisler is the greatest tragedy in all baseball history. Fandom everywhere will wish him as much success as a manager as he enjoyed as a player.

OTTAWA MINUS TWO REGULARS

Bill Baker and Emerson Out of Game To-Day in Toronto.

OTTAWA, Oct. 26.—Ottawas will be without two of their regular players at least when they line up against Argos in Toronto to-morrow. Bill Baker is out of the game with a dislocated shoulder and while he may make the trip it is not probable that he will get into the game. Eddie Emerson is the other man about whom doubt is expressed. He received a severe shaking-up in Hamilton, the results of which have not entirely left him as yet. A supply of good subs, however, is boasted of the Senators After a slight indisposition Joe Tubman will take up the kicking duties against the scullers, and the remainder of the team will be intact. The team leaves tonight accompanied by a few executive members.

RUINS OF ANCIENT CITY UNEARTHED

Discovered In Italy It May Antedate the Romans.

FERRARA, Italy, Oct .27.—(Canadian Press)— Ruins of an entire ancient city, believed to ante-date the Romans by perhaps a thousand years, have been discovered near here. More than a hundred tombs have been uncovered, together with the remains of a number of persons buried in them.

There are traces also of an immense temple, fragments of which are being placed together in an effort to decipher the markings and trace the origin of the city. Wearing apparel and numerous jewels and vases with elaborate artistic designs resembling Greek forms, were found in the tombs.

Some experts point out that it may be an Etruscan city, the language of which is still unknown, as no traces are left to form sufficient material as a basis for translation, while others believe it to be the ancient town of Spine.

MISSIONARY A PRISONER.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 27. — A despatch from Chang-Sha received here to-day says a German missionary by the name by Strauss, has been captured by bandits, who are holding him for $10,000 ransom. Conditions in Hunan province are reported to be rapidly getting worse.

SPORT GOSSIP

"BILL" CAMERON WITH THE CANADIENS TEAM

MONTREAL, Oct. 27. — Some time ago Leo Dandurand announced that he would likely have three of last year's amateur hockey players with him when the Canadiens' hockey team went into training at Grimsby, for the 1923-24 season.

Morenz was the first, and he has been signed up. The second he expects to take with him is Bantha, the local defence player; but he has not definitely thrown in his lot with the Canadiens as yet. The third is made known today, when it is learned that "Bill" Cameron, stalwart centre man, and right winger, has sent his contract, with his signature affixed thereto, to the managing-director of the local N.H.L. team.

Cameron, who is of Scottish and French-Canadian extraction, played last year with the Timmins team of the N.O.H.A. He weighs 160 pounds and according to experts, is one of the best "finds" of the northern district, where so many star puck-chasers have made their start, Frank and Billy Boucher, of the present of players, for example. He speaks French and English with equal fluency.

Incidentally it has been decided to put over the Canadiens' trip to Grimsby until November 2, one week later than they had originally intended to leave here.

THAT FAMOUS FAKE KICK.

The failure of the fake kick play which cost the Ottawas the game in Hamilton has brought up an old controversy locally, St. Brigids team were the first to uncork the fake kick here, and it made more yards than any other deceptive method. There is always the danger of it failing when outside wings do not play their part well. A halfback usually skirts the end, and the outside wing must not cross the three yard line or her is offside. Minore, of Ottawas, was supposed to have done so Saturday, and the officials promptly disallowed the touch made by Connell. The decision in no small way accounted for the Tiger victory, as the touch would have put Ottawas ahead 6 to 2. A referee, not matter how competent he may be, cannot properly interpret the fake kick rule. To call it he must pace of three yards from the scrimmage line. He is never in position to gauge three yards on the play, and there is usually so much deception to the fake that an official is as much surprised as the opposing team when the ball carrier crosses the three yard line. Rules such as this one do more to kill than improve the game of rugby. The only way to settle the controversy is to abolish the three yard limit rule.—Ottawa Journal.

GOTCH WAS CURED.

Ten or twelve years ago, while attending some sort of an athletic entertainment at the C.A.A., we heard the late Frank Gotch, then world's wrestling champion, tell how he wanted to become a boxer, and the sidelights of his first fight.

"I caught the gold craze back in 1899 and went up to Dawson City," he said. "Although I hankered for gold, I couldnt' quite give up my ambition to become a scrapper. So I hung around that city for a few days. My chance finally came.

"A boxer there named Frank Slavin had quite a reputation. He was no champion nor was he even close to being one. But he had enjoyed quite a career and possessed considerable of a wallop.

"One day the news went around that Slavin was looking for an opponent and I leaped at the chance.

"I was in excellent physical shape and really thought I had a show against Slavin. Anyway by dreams were rosy and I could see fortune staring me in the face.

"Came the night when I faced him in the ring. The bell rang and I squared off at him. I remember the smile that came over Slavin's face as he looked me over. He cut loose a ripping punch that caught me flush. I believe I hit the canvas fully as hard as he socked me. That completed my boxing career."

SLOW BALL PITCHING.

A veteran base ball writer recently raised the question, "Could a genuine slow ball pitcher get by now?" And, from another veteran came the answer: "He could. Not alone should he get by, but he should be the leading pitcher in his league."

The National League has but one slow ball pitcher, Sherdel, of St. Louis, who won 15 and lost 13 games this year. The American League has no out-and-out slow ball pitchers "Shucks" Pruett of St. Louis, comes nearer to being one than any other pitcher, but Pruett's chief reliance in the fadeaway.

We have heard pitchers remark that Pruett would be a wonder if he had a fast ball on top of his other stuff, but that he can not hope to be a success on the slow ball and fadeaway, because he can not show enough variety. He gives batsmen a chance to get a fairly safe line on his delivery and take a toe hold. A sensation in 1922, Pruett won four games and lost seven last season.

When bases are jammed and a relief pitchers appears he steps into hereditary complications, for the sins of a pitcher are visited upon his successor. Often the successor takes a beating, although he has plenty of stuff for a team that is in a rally and has its confidence at top pitch and can not be frightened at that particular stage by any newcomer.

FATAL ENDING TO PICKPOCKET'S FEUD

One Dead and Another May Die From Gun Fight in Detroit.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 27.—Joseph Tucker was shot and instantly killed, and his brother John suffered wounds which it is believed will prove fatal, when several gunmen opened fire on them as they were dining at a restaurant here last night. The gunmen escaped in an automobile.

According to the police, shooting is believed to have been the culmination of a feud between rival gangs of pickpockets.

The Tuckers, who, officers assert, were known under many aliases in every large city of the United States, are reputed to have been the leaders of one gang. Distribution of spoils is said to have been the cause of the feud.

CREES STAGE NOVICE OF THEIR HISTORIC PAST.

EDMONTON, October 27 (Canadian Press). — One hundred and fifty Cree Indians are back once more on their reserve at Hobboma after spending ten days in which they were able to live over again, in something more than mere imagination, the free and wild days when their forefathers roamed the Prairie in pursuit of the buffalo.

Led by their chief, Samson, the Cree braves have been spending the past ten days on the big game preserve at Wainwright, taking part in the filming of scenes based on the history of the opening up of the West, in which the Crees, armed with bows and arrows, will appear as in the old days, riding their lithe cow ponies, neck and neck with the pounding herds of buffalo, and shooting don the biggest of the bulls for the meat and hide which supplied food, clothing, and shelter

ELECTED IN NEWFOUNDLAND.

ST. JOHN'S, N.F., October 27 (Canadian Press). — Hon. M. E. Hawco, Minister of Posts and Telegraphs, was returned in yesterday's by-election in Harbour Main by a majority of 379 over his opponent, J. J. St. John, who stood as an Independent. Only a small vote was cast, the total being five hundred less than cast in the general election last May.

The final count received this morning gave Hawco 817 votes against 438 for St. John.

COMING TO McGILL.

MONTREAL, October 27 (Canadian Press). — Sir Paul Vinegradoff, M.A., D.C.L., LL.D., Corpus Professor of Jurisprudence at Oxford University, and probably one of the most distinguished authorities on jurisprudence in the world, will visit McGill University early in December.

A special convention has been arranged to take place on 3rd December, at which the degree of LL.D. will be conferred on this distinguished Anglo-Russian, it is announced by Col. Wilfred Bovey, assistant to Sir Arthur Currie.

DENY HORNSBY TRADE.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 26.— Manager Branch Rickey, of the St Louis Nationals, to-day described the report that Rogers Hornsby would be traded to the Chicago Cubs for four players, as a "grand insult."

Sam Brandon, president of the Cardinals, said Hornsby would not be sold for cash under any consideration, and that the possible way he would be traded would be if the trade assured St. Louis a pennant.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

Milton Sills, who plays the part of the clever crook in Thomas H. Ince's special production, "SKin Deep," at the Capitol theater, is one of the screen's greatest players of crook parts.

Mr. Sills portrays a criminal who is a gangster largely because he has a crook-type face and society has come to expect nothing but evil from the man who "looks like a crook."

Following a terrible injury sustained while he is making his escape from the penitentiary, a skilled plastic surgeon gives the crook the features of an honest man. How this change in indentity, together with his love for the wholesome girl who is his nurse, removes his criminal tendencies is the remarkable story told in "Skin Deep."

The trumph of love and the surgeon's knife over the policeman's club in the redemption of a fearless crook forms the feartile soil from which springs the remarkable story in "Skin Deep."

When the cops in the tenement district steps up to Bud Doyle, played by Milton Sills, and remark that they would like "to bend a club over his head," the crook merely cracks a cynical smile.

Later Bud's pals and his former wife railroad him into the penitentiary. He escapes but is fearfully injured in making his thrilling getaway by means of a speeding train and an airplane.

He wakes up in the hands of his nurse, a beautiful girl, played by Florence Vidor. She opens up a line of thought in the crook which the police had failed to open with clubs.

In these leading roles in "Skin Deep" Miss Vidor and Mr. Sills are at their best.

HAROLD LLOYD'S GLASSES ON DISPLAY HERE

Considerable curiosity has been evinced at the display in Fowlers Optical Parlor of the original glasses used by Harold Lloyd in making "Why Worry" his latest and greatest 5-reel comedy success now showing at the Capitol theatre. The famous Lloyd goggles were sent to the head office of the Famous Players Canadian Corporation in Toronto who in turn loaned them to the Capitol theatre here, for display during the showing of "Why Worry."

JACKIE COOGAN AT CAPITOL THURSDAY, FRIDAY, AND SATURDAY.

Jackie Coogan in Charles Dickens famous story, "Oliver Twist" will be the feature at the Capitol, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week. Lon Chaney is featured in the supporting cast as "Fagin."

AT THE REGENT.

SPEED GIRL IS BEBE DANIELS IN PICTURE

Star's Role in "The Exciters" is a Captivating One.

Bebe Daniels, who is known as "the speed girl of the movies," because of these speed roles she has played in pictures has ample opportunity to gratify her craving for fast movement in her latest Paramount picture, "The Excitres," which Maurice Campbell directed, and which comes to the Regent Theatre next Monday. In the picture Miss Daniels as Ronnie Rand, chief of the "exciters" has the thrilling experience of riding an aquaplane, participating in a motorboat race, riding in an aeroplane and dashing madly about the Florida turnpikes in a speeding roadster.

"There are more speed stunts in this picture than in a half dozen of my former pictures," explained Miss Daniels. "When I get through whizzing through the air for scenes in the photoplay I was ready to sit still for the rest of my life. I don't think I will ever want to see a speed boat or an aeroplane again so long as I live."

Antonio Moreno, recently seen in support of Gloria Swanson, in "My American Wife," is co-starred with Miss Daniels in "The Exciters." He has the role of a young man of wealth who to enjoy the thrills that accompany danger, joins the United States Intelligence Service, and later identifies himself as a safe-cracker with a band of crooks in order to obtain evidence of crime. Believing him to be a real burglar, Miss Daniels as Ronnie, true to her reputation as an exciter, marries him. Many interesting developments follow, and the climax is novel and dramatic. The supporting company is made up of several well known screen artists.

AT THE ROYAL.

FROM MASSEY HALL TO ROYAL MONDAY

"Married Love" Seats Now on Sale

"Married Love," the world famous motion picture, will open at the Royal Theatre on Monday. The story of the picture was written especially for the screen by Dr. Marie Stopes, author of the widely known and much discussed book of the same name, "Married Love." Dr. Stopes is a prominent figure both in the medical and literary world, having received world-wide fame and recognition in consequence of her great work, "Married Love."

Dr. Stopes does not believe in the age old traditions of false reticence and misplaced modesty. She points out that modern society conditions which abound in cases of marital unhappiness are proof of the fact that life's most sacred functions are endangered by this policy of wilful, moral and mental befogging.

Despite Dr. Stopes' status in the scientific world, she writes primarily from the standpoint of a woman, a woman who has lived and experienced life. Dr. Stopes was married twice, the first affair when she was a young girl, resulting in disillusion and disappointment, and it was not till she was approaching thirty that she found herself safely embarked on the sea of matrimonial happiness, and Dr. Stopes is determined to do all she can to save womankind in general from experiencing the pain and sorrow that she was forced to go through.

The motion picture is a lavish and spectacular film production. The story is a powerful one blending drama, romance and pathos. The central figure is that of the heroine, Maizie Burroughs, the eldest child of a family of fourteen, brought up in the squalor and misery of ignorant parenthood, Maizie has come to look upon Romance as a myth and marriage as a dreadful evil. On the other hand, the case of Dick Reading, the hero, is exactly the reverse, Dick being an only child and brought up with the kind and intelligent care of a mother who had learned to discriminate what was best in life.

The story takes these two simple figures and plunges them into the whirlpool of life, that threatens to tear their moral foundations to pieces, that rides them on the crest of the foam of happiness and dashes them on the rocks of dissipation and sweeps them on towards the haven of knowledge and marital felicity.

The film production is a tremendous one, no money being spared staging cabaret scenes, the underworld and the big conflagration.

The cast is full of numerous stellar performers, some of whom have played leads in previous big pictures, and others who have been quite prominent on the legitimate stage.

TWO SHOWS AT ROYAL TONIGHT, 7 AND 9

Owing to the popularity of "The Midnight Alarm," at the Royal, and patrons being turned away last night, Manager McGeachie has decided to run this production twice tonight at 7 and 9, so that everyone may have an opportunity of witnessing the best melodrama he has gooked since taking charge of the Royal.

MARRIED LOVE

by Doctor Marie Stopes

Author of the CELEBRATED BOOK of the same name

A WORD

In presenting the book and the motion picture MARRIED LOVE, Dr. Marie Stopes does not deal with the sex-abnormalities and pathological conditions which bulk so largely in books of sex. On the contrary, MARRIED LOVE, the widely-known and much discussed BOOK, is a blend of Romance and Treatise designed to help normal healthy mating beings find THE KEY TO HAPPINESS.

And MARRIED LOVE, the spectacular and no less famous MOTION PICTURE is a lavish and sensational film production blending Romance and Drama, merging the Sordid with the Beautiful, but ever reflecting the frank and indomitable spirit of Marie Stopes, the author.

And if the publication of the book and the exhibition of the film will save even A FEW PEOPLE from groping in the dark after married happiness, then the author's work will not have been in vain.

HONEY BOY, MINSTRELS

The amazing announcement that there is something really new under the sun unquestionably applies to the Gus Hill and George Evans "Honey Boy" Minstrels, the next attraction at the Grand Opera House, Matinee and Night, Saturday, November 3 with the customary matinees. Here we have two shows in one a rare combination of all that is best and supreme in the category of blackface humour, song, music revelry, terpsichore, frolic, screams, surprises fun and contagious laughter. Something radically different from the usual run of modern theatrical achievement—an all-men offering in which the gamut of originality is run and a host of unusual features never before attempted in one production. His prodigious undertaking which could only be fostered by a manager of Mr. Hill's calibre and reputation is already the talk and sensation of the show world and bids fair to revolutionize the traditons of this particular kind of entertainment. Here we have a consolidation of high-Class talent genfuses and past masters of their particular line of endeavour, the cream of Ethiopean mirth provokers, vocalists, dancers, all contributing to the good cause of inciting hilarity wholesome, contaminating and infections at a biff bang yet sane burst of speed, crowding in three hours more jollity and happiness that is one's quota in a life time. There are forty of these artists making merry and portraying types of the negro, their life customs, habits, etc., backed by a ornate and unique scenic adornment, electrical effects, atmosphere and spectacular innovations reaching on the whole a pinnacle never accomplished by any other organization in the history of the theatre. In addition there will be a free street parade, on extraordinary lines a pageant in burnt cork which in itself should prove the best remembered and unprecedented event of the century.

RANDT IN HARD LUCK.

BERLIN, Oct. 27 (United Press).—Herr Randt is a chauffeur and has a flock of children. He couldn't earn enough millions to meet their needs. So he hid in a freight car headed for Holland. Randt took along some bread, but forgot to take any water. It was raining. Randt rolled a piece of heavy paper into a funnel and stuck it through a hole in the ceiling. Water came dripping through and Randt thought the day was saved. But the piece of paper waving above the car attracted a passing trainman. Randt was taken back to Berlin and fined 50,000,000 marks—a mere 10-cent piece at this writing—but he couldn't pay. Sentence was suspended and Randt went back to work.

EYEGLASS OF FASHION

(By STEVE HANNAGAN)

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (United Press) —Eyeglasses have become an adjunct of beauty and style, as well as vision.

Eyeglasses and spectacles for every occasion are being shown. Some are made of most precious metals, and are given added value by the profuse use of precious stones.

An optician must also be a modiste of the eye. He must dress the orbs in the fashion most befitting various styles of facial architecture.

Girls are having eyeglasses made to match their dresses. The lens are colored to match the hue of the gown.

Charles Schwab, steel magnate, recently spent $1,000 for a complete set of up-to-date eyeglasses, it is stated.

"Oxfords" are the approved style for evening wear. They are eyeglasses which fold up, being carried in the waistcoat of a gentleman and dangling on a rich chain when worn by women.

Made of platinum white and yellow gold, they also are decorated with diamonds.

Lorgnettes, expensively decked with diamonds and onyx, appearing as a pendant worn about the neck until a secret button is pressed, are the rage among the 400.

For those unfortunates who must give weakened eyes constant assistance, "skeleton" eyeglasses, everything the name indicates, are suggested. Shell frame spectacles, light in weight, are considered very good form for ordinary wear by the eyeglass fashion creators. A combination shell and gold rim also is good taste.

The face-hiding, ponderous shell-framed spectacles, first worn by actors and authors, radiating an air of intelligence and dignity, and later adopted by bootblack and butcher boys, should now be worn only in the library or other hiding place.

Increased general participation in amateur athletics has brought about a new vogue in spectacles. Tennis players, golfers hunters and others are wearing large flexible spectacles that look like old-fashioned automobile goggles made modern. The shafts which fit behind the ears can be bent at will and there are hinges on the nose rest.

For polo players back-lot baseball and sturdy kiddies who are inclined to be a bit rough in their daily antics, there is a new type spectacle which has an outer rim as a protecting wall and unbreakable glass as lens.

They resemble the head-gear worn by millionaire prize fighters who do not want their soothing features marred by cauliflower ears.

"I must rush home and change my dress and glasses," will be the new cry.

BUFFALO MEAT WILL BE SOLD OPEN MARKET

Something New in Tough Meat Coming So Get Your Teeth Sharpened.

THE HIDE TOO

WAINWRIGHT, Alta., Oct. 27.—(By Canadian Press).—Buffalo steaks, tongues and tails, as well as pemmican after having disappeared from the menu of the plainsmen many years ago, are again about to become articles of commerce. And at the same time buffalo hides will be placed on the market for the manufacture of automobile robes, and rugs, and buffalo heads will be available to clubs or wealthy individuals who desire to use these for ornamental purposes for their hunting lodges or other premises. This is due to the fact that the Canadian government's buffalo herd at Wainwright has increased to such an extent that slaughter of 2,000 of the animals has been found necessary. The slaughter is to be carried out on November 1st, by experienced workmen, and under the watchful eye of Superintendent Smith, of the Wainwright Buffalo Park, who will represent the government in seeing that the animals are quickly and properly dispatched.

Cowboys, mounted on fleet-footed cowponies, will herd the selected animals away from the rest of the buffalo when the fall roundup takes place.

Every fall the entire herd is moved down from its summer range to winter quarters, which have been saved from grazing during the whole summer. This fall when the move takes place, the animals selected for slaughter will be cut out of the main herd, and the slaughtering will be done with rifles in the hands of skilled marksmen. At the same time, motion picture rights have been acquired by an American concern, which will film the roundup.

In olden days the buffalo roamed the plains in countless thousands; today the Canadian government owns, at Wainwright, on the Canadian National Railway between Saskatoon and Edmonton, the largest buffalo herd in existence. Sixteen years ago the herd began with a nucleus of 176 animals; today there are 8,300. As this number is far more than can be carried over the winter with the available hay and pasturage, and also as in the increase of the herd there have naturally been more bulls than are required for its further maintenance, the decision has been reached to kill 2,000 of the animals and offer the meat, hides and heads for sale. In this way it is expected that the products of the herd will go a long way towards making the buffalo venture of the government financially successful.

The buffalo was to the North American Indian what the reindeer is to the Laplander. Its hide furnished him with clothing and shelter; its flesh with food. Robes and coats made from buffalo hides afforded the utmost shelter against cold weather, while the nourishing qualities of the meat provided the nomad of the plains with the necessary vigor to pursue his hunting career. With the forthcoming killing of the surplus animals, buffalo meat will again be available to Canadians and Americans, the contracts let call for the preparation of all parts of the carcases for sale. Buffalo steaks and tongues, the latter regarded as a delicacy of the highest order, will grace the menus of many of the leading hotels of the continent, as well as of the railway dining cars. Enquiries are being received by the Dominion Parks Branch from all parts of the world, and it is anticipated that the returns will go a long way toward paying for the upkeep of the herd.

The history of the main portion of the Canadian herd goes back to 1875, when a Pend d Orielle Indian, in Canada on a hunting trip, captured four buffalo calves, two bulls and two heifers. The Indian took the animals home as a peace-offering to his father-in-law whom he had offended, and won his pardon. The animals were taken to the Flathead reservation in Montana, and later part of the herd which grew from this nucleus was acquired by Michael Pablo, who raised it wild of the Pend d Orielle reserve. When the United States government in 1907 decided to throw open this reserve for settlement, Pablo was faced with the necessity of disposing of his animals, but first approached the Canadian government immigration officer with the idea of securing a free range for the animals in Canada. The matter was referred to Ottawa and the then Minister of the Interior, realizing that this was probably the last chance of preserving what had once been the most characteristic native animals of the continent, strongly urged the purchase of the herd. Pablo was so afraid that his herd might not number 300 that he had the agreement read 'not less than one hundred and thirty animals. The total number of buffalo secured was 716.

When the buffalo were purchased it was known that transporting them to Canada presented a task fraught with difficulties and dangers. No one dreamed, however, that the difficulties would be as great as they eventually proved to be. In the early summer of 1907 Pablo got together a body of the fastest horses and best riders in Montana with the idea of rounding up the herd. This was no easy task, since the animals had roamed with absolute freedom over the range. About 411 were captured that year and Pablo offered to let the Canadian government have all that were left. The proposal was accepted and next autumn another attempt was made. After six weeks strenuous work a couple of hundred additional animals had been rounded up in the corral, and the cowboys, thinking all was safe, had gone home to sleep when the whole herd made its escape by climbing an almost perpendicular cliff.

The next season Pablo decided upon a new method, constructing strong wooden cages which were hauled to the station at Bavalli and there unloaded into a small corral to await shipment. The last and final struggle, that of getting them on the train, then ensued. These were the wildest members of the herd, and it took nine days to load two hundred of them. The great animals resisted to the last, and eight of them killed themselves in their struggles. The majority of them had to be drawn on the cars by means of block and tackle. At length the last of the herd was put aboard the train for Canada; the train was given right-of-way and the shipment arrived at Wainwright over the Grand Trunk Pacific in express time. The loss in delivery was less than one-half of one percent. During the next few years a few additional buffalo were received from Pablo, and in 1910, to bring about an infusion of new blood, about 30 animals were purchased from the Conrad herd at Kalispel, Montana, and shipped to Buffalo Park.

Proof For Head—Gal 2 Contd Zeihr

The reserve of 158.75 square miles in extent, situated near the town of Wainwright, close to the main line of the Canadian National Railways, is enclosed by a galvanized steel fence 75 miles long and nine feet high. The construction of this fence called for the use of more than 25,000 posts and 1,700 miles of wire. As a protection against prairie fires, a strip of ground 40 feet on the inside and 20 on the outside of the fence is ploughed. The area is an ideal buffalo park, affording as it does, good pasture, plenty of shelter and is also well watered by small lakes.

BETTER A BARBER THAN A BANKER

That Is When Banking Must Cope With Exchange Puzzles.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 27.—John Kerment of this city prefers to be a barber in the United States than a banker in Jugoslavia, and he proved his statement by giving up the vice-presidency of four banks in Jugoslavia and returning to San Francisco, where he is again manipulating a razor.

Kerment, better known as "John the Barber," left here three years ago for his native Jugoslavia. He carried with him $11,000 in American money, which he exchanged for 2,000,000 crowns. Having become a "millionaire" overnight, John started a bank at Virvitica. The institution, capitalized at 5,000,000 crowns, grew and three branches were added. The San Francisco barber became vice-president of the group, being in charge of the branch at Zarget, Croatia.

"We made money, and while I like the banking business better than the barbering business, I didn't like the unsettled condition of the country," explained the barber-banker on his return here. "Everybody in Jugoslavia wants to be a general and shoot somebody. Nobody wants to work. Every morning I would shake my head to see if it was still on my neck.

"After I had been there for several years I learned that I would lose my citizenship in America if I stayed any longer. I wouldn't lose that for a dozen banks in Europe, so I quit and came back to San Francisco to re-enter the barbering business."

INTERESTED IN SPORTS

(By GUS M. OEHM)

BERLIN (United Press).—Germany, despite every apparent disadvantage, continues her activity in sports without the slightest abatement. Her track and field representatives have met with great success in such meets as the Gothenburg and Vienna meets. Her football teams have shown well against teams from all over Europe. Entries in tennis, golf, motorboat racing, rowing, handball—in fact every sport imaginable—are greater than ever in history, and the interest is such that crowds overflow every contest.

More than 60,000 persons attended the recent football game between Berlin and Vienna in the Stadium here.

KLAN CASES GO TO JURY IN NOV.

But Has Louisiana State Secured Any Trump Card Evidence?

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 23 (United Press).—Whether the State of Louisiana has secured any "trump cards" evidence since its open hearing and subsequent Grand Jury investigation into mob activities in Morehouse parish, which culminated, it claims, in the murders of Thomas F. Richard and Watt Daniel, residents of the parish, on Aug. 24, 1922, probably will be known shortly after Nov. 4.

This date has been tentatively fixed by Attorney General A. V. Coco as the date for presentation of charges to the Grand Jury against several residents of Morehouse parish who, the State alleges, had a hand in floggings, kidnappings and the killings of Daniel and Richard, whose bodies were discovered in Lake La Fourche following a mysterious dynamite blast on Dec. 22, 1922.

"Trump card" or "startling" evidence rumors were whispered about during both the public hearing and the Grand Jury investigation of the Morehouse trouble.

The State decided to file charges against persons it alleges had a hand in mob activities in Morehouse parish following the failure of the open hearing and Special Grand Jury to bring in indictments. Among those against whom charges have been brought by the State and who are now under bonds are Captain J. K. Skipwith, an official of the Ku Klux Klan; Dr. B. M. McKoin former mayor of Mer Rouge; Newt Gray, Jeff Burnett, and others.

The charges against the men range from assault and battery to conspiracy to murder, and as many as seventeen separate charges have been filed against some of the individuals.

Attorney General Coco has announced that he will press the charges relentlessly and ask the maximum sentences for those convicted. He expressed the belief that indictments will be returned against the majority of the defendants.

The November trials will come in the midst of one of the State's bitterest political campaigns. Four candidates are already fighting for the Governorship, with the possibility of others entering the race. Attorney General Coco is standing for re-election to his office on his fight against the Ku Klux Klan.

WEDDING BELLS

HAMILTON—BROWN.

A quiet and pretty wedding took place on Thursday evening in St. Andrew's church, when Miss Ada Jane Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hamilton, was united in marriage to Mellville James Brown of Port Hope.

The bride wore a beautiful dress of navy crepe, with cloak and hat to match, and carried a bouquet of ophelia roses. Miss Lena Hamilton, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid. She wore a dress of brocaded crepe with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of carnations. Mr. Gordon Frys acted as the best man. Rev. James Rollins performed the ceremony.

The bride received many beautiful gifts. Mr. and Mrs. James Brown will reside at 441 Roger St.

HURLBERT—ROOT.

IN MEMORIAM.

LEBAR — In loving memory of Cecil, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Lebar, who departed this life, October 28, 1921.

Not dead but only sleeping, dear Cecil,
Free from all sorrow and pain.
You have gone too that beautiful haven of rest
Where we all hope to meet you again.

Do not ask us if we miss him;
He was always good and true,
Never murmured in his sufferings,
No one knows what he went through.

—Sadly missed by Mother, Father, Sisters and Brothers.

IN MEMORIAM.

TURNER.— In loving memory of Herbert, the beloved husband of Alice Mary Turner, who died serving his country at Passchendaele Ridge, Oct. 27, 1917:

O' rest in the Lord, wait patiently for him,
"Thy Will be Done."
We little thought, when he said good-bye
He had gone to a far-off land to die;
His heart was good, his spirit brave
He is laid to rest in a soldier's grave.

Oh God alone in your loving grace,
Find for him a resting place
Rest on, dear father, thy labor's o'er
No willing hand will toil no more;
A faithful father true and kind
No friends on earth like thee we find.
From the battlefields of France
To the realms of light.

FRANCE AGAIN BACKFIRES ON RUHR PROBLEM

Premier Poincare Had Drawn the Eye Teeth Of Advisory Committee Of Experts.

GERMANY MUST PAY

(By John D. Gandt, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PARIS, Oct. 29.—Premier Poincare has drawn the eye teeth of the proposed advisory conference of experts to determine Germany's capacity to pay reparations, in the opinion of well-informed quarters here to-day.

In his speeche in Sampigny yesterday and subsequent official communiques it was said here to-day, have headed off what was believed to be an attempt to reduce the total of the German reparations debt and a proposal to get France and Belgium out of the Ruhr.

"France will never consent to discuss again the total fixed in May, 1921," a communique said, "and will never reduce the amount fixed by the Reparations Commission."

In his speech at Sampigny the Premier declared France would remain in the Ruhr until totally paid.

He pictured Germany as a hypocrite seeking to dodge her debts, while secretly forming a huge army, air fleet and ammunition factories for a war of Imperialistic revenge.

The proposed discussion of Germany's capacity to pay was seen here as a misguided effort to help Germany to recuperate before she had been brought to necessity of making payments.

It was viewed also as an effort to wrest the "productive guarantees" of France in the Ruhr from her hands and leave her without means of collecting if Germany defaults again.

As pointed out previously by the United Press, France's acceptance was accompanied by reservations which would limit the scope of any international inquiry to a fresh investigation of how to make Germany pay.

Attempts to interpret the French acceptance as a willingness to discuss a fresh economic settlement of Europe disregarding previous settlements were believed to have brought the fresh declarations of the French Premier.

In England, British political circles were discussing fresh plans to-day to meet the "unencouraging attitude of France toward the proposed advisory conference by experts on reparations problems. It was expected that the cabinet might meet to-day to discuss "the questions raised" by Premier Poincare's speech and the communique of the French Foreign Office limiting the inquiry to the methods of paying reparations."

France's insistance that she shall not evacuate the Ruhr until all reparations have been paid and that no reduction shall be made in the total German debts as now fixed, was thought to have narrowed the scope of the inquiry so as to make it of little use.

Efforts will be made despite the dark outlook to avoid losing the chance to get America co-operating again in Europe, it was said.

If France will consent to nothing else it might in the view of well informed persons here be useful to hold the proposed inquiry in the hope that it would convince France she could get nothing from Germany until she fixes the debt within Germany's capacity to pay.

He Must Marry By Armistice Day, or He'll Lose $62,000

EATON, Col., Oct. 29.—(Canadian Press).—A wife by November 11 will be worth $62,000 to J. P. Cominsky, 23, an employee of the Great Western Sugar Company here.

A year ago an uncle left that sum to young Cominsky, provided he married by Armistice Day, 1923. Otherwise the $62,000 goes to charity.

As the deadline draws near, Cominsky fears he may not find the "right girl," and lose the fortune besides.

THE PREMIERS BACK TO WORK

Imperial Conference Mill Starts to Grind Once More.

LONDON, Oct. 29. — (Special Cable by George Hambleton Staff Correspondent) — After some days of respite the Imperial Conference to-day again resumed its sittings. The principal business before the conference this week is the question of the Status of Indians in the Empire and the question of the participation of the Dominions in the British Foreign policy.

Both subjects have been touched upon already to some degree. Representatives of India have stated their position with regard to the status of the Indians and it now remains for the conference if possible to reach some common understanding on the market. Along with the question of foreign policy will also arise the treaty making right of the Dominions. This, it is understood, has been considered by a special committee and indications are that although final direction has not yet been reached some formal recognition will be given to a report of Dominion to execute a treaty with a foreign state without the signature of a represenative of the British government when treaty does not affect any other portion of Empire and plenipotentiary powers in connection therewith have been given by king.

CITY DISPOSES OF LOTS FOR TAXES

Eighth Property Had No Bidders—Two Sold To Perfect Title.

Seven lots in the city which were offered for sale on failure of the owners to pay arrears of taxes and water rates have been disposed of, City Treasurer F. Adams said to-day. An eighth lot had no bidders.

Two lots, one on Prince street and one on Elias Avenue were redeemed by payment of the arrears, and three two of which were on Cross street and one on Bethune street were sold to perfect the title. The lot on Rogers street was sold the owner being absent from the city and not replying to notices of taxes due.

A lot on Woodbine Avenue was sold, the owner failing to pay the taxes due.

PRESBYTERIANS' KOREA MISSION DOES GOOD WORK

But Same Problems Have To Be Faced as Those In the Canadian Mission Field.

LETTER FROM WONSAN

Interest will no doubt be found in the following letter from Rev. D. A. Macdonald, B.A., to Rev. Robert Pogue, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, Peterborough. Rev. D. A. Macdonald is secretary of the Korea Mission, with headquarters at Wonsan, toward the support of which St. Paul's congregation contributes.

"Wonsan, Korea, Sept. 20, 1923.

"Dear Mr. Pogue. — I have just returned from a trip to the other side of the country, where I attended some of the annual meetings. The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Korea, met this year in Sin Wiju, which is at the very end of the peninsula, on the Yalu river. Across the river is the Chinese city of Antung. The river is crossed by a fine steel bridge, the longets in Korea, about 3000 feet in length. There were about 150 delegates in attendance, of whom not more than one-fourth were foreign missionaries. One of my first and most definite impressions, visiting the Assembly after a lapse of three years, was that the foreigners are playing an ever-decreasing part in the proceedings. Of those present probably more than one-half did not open their mouths on the floor except at the daily roll call. Of the few who spoke their remarks were short and not at all calculated to dominate the proceedings. On the whole the Assembly could have gotten along quite well without any foreign missionaries at all. Do not think that we regret or resent this ability to do without us, on the contrary, it is what we want and what we are working for.

Local Christians.

"I arrived late the second evening, and on going to the church found it packed with a large audience of delegates from every part of Korea, and local Christians. The evening was given up to hearing a report from the Foreign Mission in Shantung, China. This is a department of the work of the Presbyterian Church in Korea which has received much prominence. It is a regular Foreign Mission, supported and carried on by the Korean Assembly. Mr. Hong, who has been there for a good many years, gave a graphic account of his work, with its difficulties and successes. Talk of retrenchment or even withdrawal, on account of financial difficulty gave a familiar note to the proceedings and made the Canadian delegates feel quite at home. The Korean Mission both at home and on the field, is feeling the same problems as the Canadian mission. The missionaries want their salaries raised, they want school work, they need new buildings, etc. After considerable discussion in committee and on the floor of the assembly, it was decided to fix next year's budget for Foreign Missions at Yen 20,000. This will include the work in Siberia.

Fraternal Methodists.

"The Assembly welcomed and heard a fraternal representative from the Conference of the Methodist church. To me this was a humiliating experience. The Foreign Missionary must surely take the blame for having brought over from the West the denominational divisions which have already sown seeds of bitterness and suspicion among the new-born Christians in this land.

"Among the overtures from Presbyterians were some that might interest the people at home. An overture re the marriage of Christians to non-Christians brought out a long discussion. The line is pretty sharply drawn as yet, and the church forbids the inter-marriage between those who believe and those who still remain heathen. This often involves real hardship to the individual and might seem too legalistic at times, but I suppose the new and growing church must be protected, and the Korean leaders are quite sure on this point, even when the foreign missionary might incline to be lenient.

"Another overture was one asking for a decision against the use of church buildings for theatrical performances and lectures of a non-religious character. To the western Christian this might seem puritanical and narrow, but Christianity is a new thing out here and the church must be careful of its associations. For example, not long ago, a group of young ladies went around the country speaking in any halls that they could secure, and attracting large audiences. They openly derired the church and advocated 'free-love.'

College for Women.

"A larger place is being given the Koreans in all the work and even in the control of institutions financed by foreign money. At this assembly for the first time, Korean members

CHILDREN MAY BE IMMUNIZED LOCAL SCHOOL

Board of Education Endorse Plan of Dr. A. W. McPherson, Medical Officer for Schools.

HOW PLAN WORKS

In the near future the Board of Education will offer to children attending the public schools of the city an opportunity to become immunized against diphtheria. In order that parents may understand the importance of immunizing children against diphtheria, several informative articles will appear. These articles, which have been prepared by Dr. A. W. McPherson, health officer for the schools, will show the necessity for such procedure as well as certain details in connection with its use. This matter has been brought before the Peterboro Board of Education by Dr. A. W. McPherson, and has received the approval of the Board. The Prince of Wales' School has been selected as the first school in which to do the work. On Thursday evening a meeting of the Prince of Wales' Home and School Association will be held in order to acquaint parents with the necessary details concerning the work.

A comparison of the number of diphtheria cases with the number of deaths throughout the province and in Peterboro for the last three years follows:

In 1920 there were 5,940 cases in the Province and 654 deaths. For the same year in Peterboro there were 25 cases and 2 deaths.

In 1921 there were 6,313 cases in Ontario and 525 deaths, and in Peterboro the same year there were 166 cases and 7 deaths.

In 1922 there were 3,529 cases in Ontario and 341 deaths, and in Peterboro the same year there were 72 cases and 9 deaths.

The two articles that follow deal with the subject of antitoxin and toxin-antitoxin.

Antitoxin Not Harmful.

In the prevention and treatment of diphtheria we often hear the word "antitoxin" used, but how many of us could give a satisfactory explanation of what it means? Misinformed persons, oftentimes noisy and truculent in attitude, announce that antitoxin is a "filthy animal product." Were this true it would be the height of foolishness for physicians to make use of it in the prevention or cure of disease. But it is not true. Antitoxin, cannot be rightly described as a "filthy animal product," but rather as a serum made from the blood of the horse under Government regulations which require every precaution to ensure absolute cleanliness.

Many people will ask why horse's blood is used for the treatment of diphtheria. Because the horse is a very suitable animal for the purpose, and it contains lots of blood, from which the serum can be made at small expense as compared with other animals not so common. The horse too is a strong animal and its blood is even more suitable than the cow for the preparation of antitoxin.

What causes diphtheria? It is caused by minute plants only seen under the microscope, getting into the nose and throat and growing on the mucous membrane, just as larger plants which are visible to the naked eye, grow in the garden. While the individual diphtheria plents are too small to be seen, the beds of diphtheria plants are plainly visible in the patient's throat, forming white spots or patches. Sometimes

VETERAN OF WAR IN SAD PLIGHT

Unable to Secure Work Found on Peterborough Streets Without Means Of Support.

Alfred Kirby, a veteran of the Great War with several wounds received in action, was charged before Magistrate O. A. Langley this morning with vagrancy. It was said he came from St. Catharines where he had been unable to secure work suited to his physical condition and on Sunday he was found on the streets of Peterboro' without means of support: On application of G. N. Gordon, K.C. the case was remanded for a week to enable him to endeavour to obtain employment for the man.

George Sukloff, in whose stead his father appeared was fined $5 and costs $3.50 for taking a wide turn at George and Hunter streets in contravention of a City by-law.

A. C. Cole, Bailieboro, was fined $5 and costs on pleading guilty to having no light on his car.

USE HER AWARD TO FINISH EDUCATION

Iris Payne Receives Scores Of Congratulations on Hero Fund Recognition

Iris Payne awarded the Carnegie Hero Fund Bronze medal in recognition of her rescue of a little boy from drowning will use the $1,600 which accompanies the award to complete her education she told the Examiner to-day. Miss Payne has received scores of congratulations, and has been kept busy answering the telephon, her school and other friends expressing their pleasure in her good fortune.

A letter received by the young lady to-day credits Mayor W. H. Taylor with drawing the rescue to attention of the Commission. It reads as follows: 'Through the courtesy of Mr. W. H. Taylor of Peterboro', the attention of the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission has been called to an act performed by you by which on February 5, 1921 you saved Leslie D. Hoyland from death by drowning in the Otonabee river ot Peterboro'. Your case, after a thorough investigation, was considered at a meeting of the Commission, and I have much pleasure in informing you that in recognition of your heroism on that occasion the Commission awarded you a bronze medal and a sum not exceeding $1,600 for educational purposes."

PRESENTED WITH A LIFE MEMBERSHIP

Mrs. G. L. MacDougall Remembered by St. Andrew's W.M.S.

At the close of the evening service Sunday, Oct. 28, the ladies of St. Andrew's W.M.S. gathered at a special meeting, held in the Manse, to say farewell to Mrs. G. L. MacDougall, and to present her with a Life Membership in the W.M.S. After a short prayer service, Mrs. Weddall read the address, while Mrs. G. A. Gillespie made the presentation. Mrs. MacDougall made a most beautiful reply. Mrs. MacDougall has been a faithful worker of the W.M.S. and for the past two years has acted as treasurer. It was with real regret that the ladies said farewell. The meeting closed by singing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

HUNGRY RIOTERS IN DUSSELDORF ATTACK POLICE

Starving Germans Raid Food Stores, And Attempt To Confiscate Live Stock From Villagers.

SAXONS ARE DEFIANT

BERLIN, Oct. 29.—(Special).—A bomb thrown by hungry rioters in Duesseldorf wounded five policemen, despatches say to-day.

The police were attempting to suppress angry demonstrations and attacks on food shops.

Separatists Active.

Five persons were killed and scores injured in clashes between Separatists and German citizens loyal to the Reich in Bauschtem, a despatch from Mayence to-day says.

The fighting occurred when a detachment of Separatists from Russelheim attempted to confiscate livestock from the villagers.

Employees of the stock yards repelled the first Separatist attack, but the plunderers returned later with reinforcements and burned buildings and crops on three estates.

The wounded were transported to hospitals in Mayence.

Saxons Protest.

German soldiers to-day entered a Saxon building in Dresden and arrested a number of Communists, some of whom were members of the Diet and others leaders of the Communist party, says a Central News despatch from Berlin to London. Another despatch says members of the Saxon Cabinet submitted to their dismissal by the Central Government only under protest.

Demands New Cabinet.

Chancellor Stresemann backed up the Central Government's demand that Saxon President Zeigner dismiss his Cabinet to-day by sending Herr Schultze to be Civil Commissaire of Saxony.

Schultze had orders to demand that the State Diet form a new Cabinet in place of the one dismissed by the Central Government. He was instructed to give the Diet a chance to show its willingness to submit to the authority of the Central Government. If it refused he had orders to effect the dissolution of the Assembly.

Following the receipt of Zeigner's refusal to reform his Cabinet, without its Communist Ministers who have become obnoxious to the Federal Government, President Ebert issued the order for the dismissal of the Saxon Government.

Refused the Demand.

Zeigner refused the demand after an all-day Cabinet session.

In a letter to the Chancellor he declared there was no political reason why any of his Ministers should resign.

It was expected Zeigner would appeal to the Saxon Diet for a vote of confidence in his action. This might be accorded him, it was said, because his Government commanded a majority of the Assembly.

Communists and Extreme Socialists in Saxony called for a general strike in protect against the Federal Government's action, but no decision had been reached up to early to-day.

Dismissed Cabinet.

A note from the Government of the Reich, dismissing the Cabinet of Saxony from office was handed to the Cabinet to-day, and members of the Ministry submitted to dismissal, says a Central News despatch from Berlin to London.

General Von Mueller, commander of the Reichswehr, has prohibited the Assembly of Saxony from sitting to-morrow, says a Central News despatch from Berlin to London, this afternoon. This action prevents members from taking any measures under the protection of the Parliamentary Immunity Act.

ESKIMO MURDERERS MAY BE REPRIEVED

OTTAWA, October 29. Canadian Press. — Further consideration of the case of the two Eskimos condemned to death at Herschel Island on December 7th, will probably be given by the cabinet this week. A petition for a stay of execution was presented at the Justice Department this morning, and it is understood that several more are to follow.

Those who have seen him recently say that he has failed greatly.

LLOYD GEORGE SURVEYS SITE

Compares Battlefield Of Today With One Many Years Ago.

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 29.—(By Lawrence Martin, United Press Staff Correspondent).—Having surveyed the scene of a great Union triumph at Gettesburg, Lloyd George to-day saw the fields on which Lee beat off McClellan's drive at Richmond in 1862.

He was taken for an automobile tour of the ground covered in what is known as "The Seven Days' Battle."

Lloyd George saw the Confederate flag waving alone over the forts and earthworks just as it waved from a flagstaff in front of the house where Stonewall Jackson died.

The British statesman displays an insatiable passion for historical data and is constantly comparing the conditions which prevailed when these battles were fought with the vastly greater horror and potency of modern warfare.

To him the studies made since civil war days in the science of slaughter is one of the strongest arguments for world peace. Lloyd George said to-day military science is going on from the horrible efficiency of slaughter which the world war produced into new and indescribable horror unless somehow war is prevented.

Following his battlefield tour today Lloyd George planned to rest at the home of John Stewart Bryan, a Richmond editor, whose guest he is. He will leave to-night for Philadelphia, where on Tuesday he will deliver one of the last speeches of his tour.

BOYS INFORM ON 5 BANDIT TUTORS

Twelve Children, 3 Men And 2 Women Arrested As Robber Gang.

DETROIT, Oct. 29.—Five adults, two of them women, were arrested Friday night as the patrons of a gang of boys ranging from 10 to 15 years of age, whom they are said to have organized into a bandit band to burglarize East Side business houses. Twelve boys were also arrested and taken to the Juvenile Detention Home.

The exposure of the gang followed the arrest of three boys as they were emerging from Bernard Schwart's tobacco warehouse late at night, with boxes of cigars under their arms.

The boys were Alyard Gibbs, 15 years old, 953 Catherine street; Lawrence Jamieson, 13 years old, 987 Napoleon street, and Eugene Bremen, 13 years old, 2514 Hastings street.

Adults Arrested

Acting on information given at Hunt station by the boys, the police arrested Victor Rader, 37 years old, his wife, Kate, 33 years old; Solomon Mitz, 36 years old, his wife, Eva, 35 years old, and Gabe Lampkin, 24 years old.

Nine other boys were also arrested and taken to the Juvenile Detention Home.

Cigars worth about $5,000 were found in the homes of the adults. They are all believed to have been taken from the Schwartz warehouse. Mr. Schwartz declares that about $10,000 worth of cigars has been taken from his place in the past two months.

Some of the Loot Sold

The adult leaders of the gang are believed to have disposed of the balance.

The boys gained entrance to the warehouse through a back window. The three caught coming out are held on a temporary charge of burglary. The five adults are held on charges of violating the United States code.

The cigars in the warehouse were not yet provided with revenue stamps, so the specific charge against the five adults is disposing of unstamped cigars.

DEVELOPMENTS IN RADIO TOLD TO ROTARIANS

Will Soon be Able to See Specks Thousands Of Miles Away Declares A. B. Gates.

DINE ON WILD DUCK

That the radio developments of the next ten years are likely to be such that a person will be able to sit at home and not only hear what is transpiring in a theatre or hall thousands of miles away, but will be actually able to see the singer or speaker was one of the striking statements made by Mr. A. B. Gates in his most interesting address before the Peterborough Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon at the Empress to-day.

Mr Gates, who is widely known in Peterborough as a radio expert and enthusiast, dealt in a most effective manner with the developments that have taken place in the last few years in wirless telegraphy and telephony. He referred to the difference between the result of the experiments attempted in 1915, when an effort was made to carry on a wireless conversation between Arlington in Virginia and the Eiffel Tower in Paris, and the successful test in January of this year when for over two hours, without a break or interruption, a wireless conversation took place between New York and London. Between those two events Mr. Gates pointed out that there had been many months of patient research work on the part of engineers making the January success possible.

The speaker dealt with some of the developments that had taken place in receiving tubes and circles, showing that the consumption of 5 watts had now decreased, in the case of one tube, to 18-100's of a watt.

Mr. Gates, referring to the loud speaker horns, which he likened to the horn formerly used on gramophones, which has now disappeared, said that the time was at hand when the radio horn would also be banished and either concealed in a cabinet or built into a wall.

Speaking of the expense of broadcasting, about which there had been worry for some time, Mr. Gates pointed out that it had been proven that the cost could be charged to advertising. The radio was now used by politicians, employed in broadcasting church services, and utilised by the United States Government in giving widespread publicity to health talks and similar propaganda. On one occasion, he said, the same health talk had been broadcasted at the one time from sixteen different stations. He asked his hearers to do a little mental arithmetic in estimating how many people heard that lecture and how much it would have cost to transport sixteen lecturers to appear in person before that many people.

The speaker explained some of the improvements that had been made in the broadcasting stations and in the relieving of the congestion in the air, and pointed out the big part that radio was likely to play in knitting the nations together and strengthening international goodwill.

His address was greatly appreciated by the Rotarians.

Rotarians W. R. Morris and Reid Wrenn gave an interesting report of the inter-city meeting held in Toronto last Friday night.

Rotarian Chris Graham had been duck shooting all last week, and the result of his marksmanship was demonstrated in the menu to-day, the Rotarians dining luxuriously on juicy wild duck.

Rotarian Graham was given a hearty vote of thanks for the treat he had provided.

It was announced that Rotarian Jack McHardy had had a 100 per cent. attendance record since 1st January, the only member of the club with that mark, although four or five others were better than 95 per cent.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

SWEET POTATOES

Sweet potatoes have played quite as important a part in the making of American history as beans. Men have fought many a good fight for our country on the energy produced by these "sugar spuds."

The fact that sweet potatoes contain a large amount of sugar makes them a quick energy producing food.

Compared with Irish potatoes, the food value is higher in fat but lower in protein, higher in carbohydrates but lower in water.

If sweet potatoes are served in a dressed-up fashion the dessert should be plain fruit of some sort. Sweet potatoes themselves make delicious desserts and are served as such in many instances.

This sweet potato dessert will rival "marron glace" mixture and cost about one-fourth as much.

Sweet Potato Trifle

Pare potatoes and cut in slices about half an inch thick and an inch in diameter. Drop in slightly salted boiling water and boil 10 minutes. Drain and let cool. For two cups of potato make a syrup of two cups sugar and one-half cup water. When sugar is dissolved add potatoes and simmer until the syrup is thick and the potatoes clear. Remove from fire and when cool add one-half teaspoon pistachio flavoring and one teaspoon vanilla. Serve cold in high standing glasses. Top with whipped cream, slightly sweetened and flavored with vanilla.

Sweet Potato Pie

Two cups cooked sweet potato, 2 tablespoons butter, cup sugar, 2 eggs, 1 cups milk, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, teaspoon ginger, teaspoon salt.

Cook potatoes and put through a vegetable ricer. Beat eggs with sugar and butter until light. Add milk, potato and seasonings. Turn into a deep pie pan lined with pastry and bake in a moderate oven until custard is firm to the touch.

Baked Sweet Potatoes

Four medium sized sweet potatoes, 3 tablespoons butter, cup sugar, teaspoon salt.

Pare potatoes and cut in slices about one-quarter inch thick. Put a layer in a buttered baking dish, dot with butter, sprinkle with sugar and salt. Continue until all is used. Pour over water to half cover. Cover baking dish and bake 45 minutes in a moderate oven. Remove cover, increase heat and brown top.

Glace Sweet Potatoes

Four medium sized sweet potatoes, cup light brown sugar, cup water, 1 tablespoon butter, 1-8 teaspoon nutmeg.

Pare potatoes and cut in slices one inch thick. Parboil 10 minutes. Drain. Make a syrup of the sugar, water and butter. Put potatoes in a buttered baking dish and pour over half the syrup. Sprinkle with nutmeg and bake in a hot oven until a pale straw color. Baste with remaining syrup.

Candied Sweet Potatoes

Four medium sized sweet potatoes, 2 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons sugar, teaspoon salt.

Pare potatoes and cook in boiling salted water until tender. Melt butter in a shallow pan and lift potatoes from the water in which they were boiled into the melted butter. Roll each potato in butter. Sprinkle with sugar and salt and shake pan until potatoes are well coated. Cover and brown in a hot oven.

Sweet Potato Puff

Four medium sized sweet potatoes, 2 tablespoons butter, teaspoon salt, 12 marshmallows, milk.

Boil potatoes until tender. Peel and mash. Add salt, butter and milk to make moist. Beat until light. Turn into a buttered baking dish, cover with marshmallows cut in halves and bake in a hot oven until the marshmallows puff and brown.

BETHANY VILLAGE AND THE DISTRICT

Epworth League Indulged In Interesting Debate—Personal and News Nuggets.

BETHANY, Ont., October 29.—Miss Lillian Westlake, of Toronto, has been visiting friends in the village during the last week.

Miss Evelyn Whitehouse, who has been engaged by Mrs. W. Card for several months past, has gone to Toronto.

Mrs. O. Urry, of Beaverton, is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Rowan.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Fair, of Listowel, are renewing acquaintances in and around the village.

Mrs. W. Price has returned home after attending the funeral of her uncle, Mr. W. Blake, Roseneath.

Miss Helen Byers attended the masquerade party given by her friend, Miss Marjorie Winslow, 10th Line of Cavan, on Saturday evening.

News Paragraphs.

The Bell Telephone Company are busy loading telephone poles at the railroad siding.

Messrs. Twigg and Staples shipped a carload of mixed stock to Toronto on Saturday.

The recent rain has enabled the farmers to get at their fall ploughing although not sufficient rain fell to fill the wells, which are very low.

The Affirmatives Won.

The Epworth League met in the basement of the church on Wednesday evening. The meeting was opened by Rev. Dafoe with prayer, after which the secretary, Mr. F. Bigelow, read the minutes of last meeting. Misses Hazel and Frances Fallis, Helen Crerar, and Margaret Jackson rendered a quartette entitled "Jesus Loves Me," followed by a reading by Miss Hazel Jackson, and then a song by three girls, Betty Salisbury, Winnie DaDwe and Doris Driver. A spirited debate was next entered into on: "Resolved, That the tractor is more beneficial on the farm than the horse." The affirmatives were Misses Hazel Jackson, Jean Thorndyke, and Marion Fallis, the negative side being taken by Misses Helen Byers, Mildred Davis, and Army Wright. The debaters were all school children, and both sides acted very well. Many useful suggestions were given in favour of both agencies. Army Wright pointed out that the horse's life was from 20 to 25 years as against a comparatively short life for the tractor, and when the horse died the hair was still left for plaster.

The judges, Mrs. C. Porteous, Mr. Milton Challice, and B. Monk gave their decision in favour of the affirmative. Nevertheless, the debate put up by the negatives indicated that old Dobbin does not need to ahead of him yet.

SPANKED THE PRESIDENT

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 29 (United Press).—With the exception of Father John Coolidge, Henry C. Howe of this city claims he is the only man ever to have turned Calvin Coolidge across his knee and administered a good old-fashioned spanking.

Howe, Federal meteorologist for West Virginia, tells how the punishment was handed down in his early life when he was a schoolmaster in Vermont.

Calvin was one of the pupils. On a certain fateful day, the boy who is now President of the nation, then but ten years old, wavered from his accustomed paths of studiousness and good behavior.

A minor infraction of rules was committed. The spanking was awarded at once.

Howe said he had seen Mr. Coolidge since the latter had taken his oath of office as President of the United States.

"Mr. President," Howe asked, "I don't suppose you remember me?"

"Yes, I do," was the quick reply. "You are Henry Howe, and I remember you gave me a pretty good shaking up one day when you were my school teacher."

"We Have Reached the Limit of Our Concessions, We Shall Not Go Further" —Poincare

FRENCH PREMIER SAYS FRANCE ASKS ONLY FOR FULFILLMENT OF THE TREATY OF VERSAILLES

Opposed to Any Diminution of the German Debt — Poincare Says the Reparations Commission Is Impartial and Competent to Consider Germany's Future Ability to Pay Her War Debt As Definitely Determined in the Treaty.

CREDITOR NATIONS MUST BE UNANIMOUS.

SAMPIGNY, France, Oct. 28.—(Canadian Press).—Premier Poincare, in a speech here today, declared that France would refuse to allow the Reparation Commission to be divested of its functions, or replaced by some other body. He said that France could not agree to any reduction in the German debt.

The Premier asserted that he welcomed United States representation on a committee charged by the Reparation Commission to investigate Germany's capacity to pay, but that every act of the committee must remain within the terms laid down by the Versailles Treaty.

Oppose Reduction.

The Premier, who delivered a long speech at the unveiling of a monument to the war dead of the village in which his country residence is situated, said:

"We constantly are being asked to proceed to a fresh estimate of Germany's capacity to pay. What does that mean? If it means by a roundabout way to reach a diminution of the German debt, that is a combination we are resolute not to favor.

"If it means an estimate of what Germany can pay tomorrow and in the near future, nothing is more necessary than such an examination.

"The Commission on Reparations is charged by the treaty with such a task, and there are no grounds to take one of its most important functions from it."

M. Poincare said the commission was above suspicion. It had shown itself competent and impartial; it was obliged to give Germany with each decision a fair opportunity to present her observations.

"It has the good fortune," the Premier continued, "to have at each meeting a semi-official representative of the United States, who is a man of the highest sense of justice and absolute integrity. Its British, Italian and Belgian delegates are most distinguished men, and its President none could say lacked intelligence."

"Germany has just resumed contact with the commission," said M. Poincare, "and the Reich delegates will undoubtedly soon be heard by it. Let it work and fulfill its mandate."

Baldwin's Invitation

Having thus stated what he considered the position and value of the Reparations Commission, M. Poincare took up the "invitation and supplication" addressed to him by Stanley Baldwin, the British Prime Minister—"a courteous invitation to an international conference or a commission of experts placed under the commission on reparations and a friendly supplication to reflect thrice before refusing these propositions"

"As Mr. Baldwin's speech dates over thrice twenty-eight hours," M. Poincare continued, "I have taken time to meditate it — more than thrice."

M. Poincare's first thought was that there was agreement on the essential point as to the necessity for a settlement of the reparations question and concerted action by the Allies to insure payment.

"We also, like Mr Baldwin," said M. Poincare, "hope that the United States consents not to keep itself completely dissociated from the affairs of Europe We believe that the stronger the economic, financial and moral solidarity is between the old and new continents, the better will the cause of humanity be served.

"But what would such international conference discuss? How would it be composed? What relations of collaboration or dependence would it have as regards governments or the Commission on Reparations? What would be its powers?

Homes to be Rebuilt.

"All these problems passed through my mind during the first stage of meditation without me being able to solve them. Much fun has been made in Engalnd over my Sunday discouses; but what daily contradictory and useless discourses would an international conference mean while you, my friends, still were waiting for stones and tiles to rebuild your homes?

"If, in truth the British Government is not thinking of asking us to make Germany come and sit at the conference of which it speaks; if it has simply, like ourselves, a desire for obtaining the co-operation of the United States, it is easy for us to reach an understanding on the idea already considered at Paris, as at Washington, Brussels and Rome.

"The Commission on Reparations is there. It makes investigations; experts make inquiries daily; it can, without the slightest innovation, ask the semi-offical delegate of the United States to nominate American experts to examine with the French, English and Belgians, the present capacity for payment by Germany, and to demand that the Reich draw up a programme of financial restoration and a detailed plan of reparations without going outside the Treaty."

Replace Commission.

Here the Premier seemed to have reached the point he desired to emphasize:

"We cannot," he said, "accept that the Commission be dispossessed of its functions, or replaced by an organism in which our share of influence, already inferior to our interests, would be still further reduced. We have reached the limit of our concessions We shall not go further."

M. Poincare began his speech by pointing out that he, unhappily, had proved himself right in advising caution when "the German Government noisily announced the cessation of passive resistance and when he warned France that intrigues and evasions had not yet ended He then denied that France had been instrumental in arousing internal troubles in Germany.

No Annexation Plan.

"We have always scrupulously remained outside the internal affairs of Germany," declared the Premier, "and the allegations of the German Government, scandalously spread in Europe and the new world, will not obscure the truth from impartial spectators Whatever Germany's future constitution may be; whatever may be the relations between the States composing it, we shall never think of violating the conscience of the population We nourish no plan of annexation, but we shall never renounce our claims to permanent guarantees for security."

M. Poincare then deal with Germany's war preparations in aviation and other ways, saying France would not sacrifice her rights to reparations any more than her claims to security. He defended the occupation of the Ruhr, saying that without that Germany would to-day be able to refuse payments and continue to enrich herself through her factories using Ruhr coal, whereas it now was to her interest to pay her creditors at the earliest possible time in order to hasten the evacuation of the Ruhr.

Fulfil the Treaty.

"All we ask of our Allies," said M. Poincare, "is observation of the treaty they signed as well as we. The schedule of May 5, 1921, is definite, and it cannot be modified without our consent. The treaty lays down no reduction that can be granted Germany without unanimity on the part of creditors, and France is too much tried to adhere to a reduction"

The Premeir ended his discourse with words of gratitude to the Allies, recognizing that fraternity of arms had assured success to the French efforts.

"But," he declared, "each of us struggling for the others, struggled also, and above all, for himself. We have given as much as we have received ,and we can claim gratitude eqaul to that we owe our friends.

"We will no longer remain exposed to fresh aggressions on our eastern frontier, which President Wilson one day very justly called the frontier of liberty."

U.S. SUBMARINE SUNK IN CANAL

Rammed By Vessel and Five of Crew Reported Missing.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(Canadian Press). — The United States submarine O-5 was sunk in Limon Bay, Canal Zone, after a collision early yesterday with the United Fruit Company's vessel Abargarez, the Navy Department has been notified by radio. Five members of the submarine's crew were reported missing.

The Abarangez was undamaged.

In the belief that the five men missing went down with the submarine, divers immediately began efforts to recover their bodies.

The collision occurred at 6.25 a.m. off Buoy 3, in Limon Bay, which is at the eastern terminus of the Panama Canal.

The O-5, although launched during the world war, was one of a class already considered practically obsolete and restricted to coast and harbor defence. Built at the Fore River Shipbuilding Company's plant at Quincy, Mass., in 1917, the submarine displaced slightly more than 520 tons, and measured 176 feet in length, with 18 feet beam. Her motive plant gave 14 knots on the surface and 10.5 submerged. Four torpedo tubes and a 3-inch gun comprised the offensive armament.

The crew, if complete at the time of the disaster, would have included three officers, three warrant officers and 24 men.

Dominion Premiers to See Battle Squadron.

LONDON, October 29. Canadian Press Cable. — When the Dominion premiers visit Portsmouth next Saturday to inspect the Atlantic fleet of Spithead they will witness the assemblage of warships which did not exist as fighting units when the great war broke out.

The battleship Queen Elizabeth, the flagship of the fleet, with four other vessels of her class, the Barham, Malaya, Valiant and the Warspite, which now form the first division of the battle squadron, although included in the 1912 program, were not completed until 1915 and 1916, while the ships of the Royal Sovereign class, the Revenge, Ramilies, Resolution and Royal Oak, of the second division, all belong to the 1914 program. Indeed none of the vessels which were at the last review off Spithead immediately before the outbreak of the war will be present on Saturday next, and many of the craft wihch will steam past the visitors from overseas will be altogether of a novel type compared with the pre-war fleet. An example is the Hermes, the first ship specially designed by the Admiralty as an aircraft carrier, which was launched at Elswick in 1919.

Twelve-inch gunned submarines are another new class and in addition there are nippy little coastal motorboats which were first employed successfully in the Zeebrugge raid. Altogether well over seventy vessels will be gathered at Spithead including the eight battleships mentioned above, the battlecruisers Hood and Repulse, the second light cruiser squadron, several divisions of destroyers, two submarine flotillas and other units.

13TH HUSSARS DINNER.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Presiding at a dinner of the Old Comrades Association of the Thirteenth Hussars, Sir Robert Baden-Powell, honorary colonel of the regiment mentioned that he had met many old members of the regiment during his recent visit to Canada and the United States He understood that certain Canadian regiments wished to be allied with the Thirteenth Hussars and he hoped before long that their regiment would have sister regiments in Canada wearing the same uniform. The gathering applauded these sentiments.

Reparations Commission Has Plenary Power to Deal With Methods of German Payments

Text of Poincare's Communique Issued By the French Foreign Office Refusing to Agree to Any Reductions of the German Debt.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—An official communique written by Premier Poincare and issued at the French Foreign Office last evening, reiterates the French Government's determination to refuse to agree to any reductions of the German debt as fixed by the London Conference in May, 1921.

The communique insists that a committee of experts, organized within the scope of the Reparations Commission, to investigate Germany's capacity for payment, has no authority to make any reduction in Germany's debt. It says it considers that such a committee will be practically a mere addition to the present staff of experts of the Reparation Commission.

Quoting the Versailles Treaty, the communique says the Reparation Commission itself has no power to grant any reduction the treaty stipulating such a measure must be decided by the unanimous vote of the nations interested.

The text of the communique follows:

"The French Government, in its reply to the British Government, concerning the creation of a committee of experts, bases its authority on Paragraph 7, Annex 2, to Part 8, of the Treaty of Versailles, permitting the constitution of such committees.

"This paragraph empowers the Commission to nominate all functionaries, agents and employes necessary to the execution of its functions, to create committees, the members of which are not necessarily chosen from the Commission, and to give such functionaries, agents and committees full powers and authority.

"Thus the Reparation Commission, acting within the limits of its powers, may designate such experts, the help of which appears necessary in order to obtain the information it requires.

"Thus this in no way implicates on the part of the Commission any abandonment of its powers, which it retains integrally; the information, advice and recommendations it would receive from such a committee would have no other object than to enlighten it, as in the case of the experts now employed by the commission, which has the authority to increase their number.

"On the other hand, Paragraph 9, Annex 2, to Part 8, of the Treaty permits the Commission to hear all arguments and testimonials presented to Germany upon any questions relating to the latter's capacity for payment. The above paragraph interprets that part of Article 234 in which it is said that the Commission must study from time to time the resources of Germany, and after having given the representatives of that country equitable facilities to be heard, has full powers to extend the period or modify the methods of payments fixed by Article 233.

"Thus Germany, although not represented on the committee of experts, may be heard by them and present all arguments and evidence, the latter not necessarily from German, but also neutral and even Allied sources. The experts, or a group of experts, can in no case infringe upon the powers of the Commission, which are fixed by Article 234, which specifically states that the Commission alone can extend delays and modify the mode of payments to be made in conformity with Article 233.

"Article 233 itself stipulates that in the event Germany should fail to meet her obligations and payments as scheduled by the Commission, all the balance remaining unpaid must be carried forward to payments to be received in following years, according to decisions of the Commission. But with this the powers of the Commission end. It can agree to no further decrease without special authorization from the various governments represented on the Commission.

"Furthermore, according to Article 233, the allied and associate governments may even intervene in the settlement of the yearly balances remaining unpaid, and, although the Commission has the authority to carry such balances to following years, it cannot cancel such debts, such action being determined by the allied and associated governments.

"The net results of the interpretations of the above text are that although the Commission may determine the methods of payment of German debts, extend the periods and modify the methods of such payments, it cannot make any reduction whatsoever, such reductions only being granted by the unanimity of the creditor nations.

"Thus, France will not accept that a committee of experts make any changes in the amount of the debt as fixed May 5, 1921, and will give it consent to no reduction whatsoever, in the amount of the obligations of Germany as determined by the Reparations Commission in May, 1921."

The above document was written entirely by M. Poincare in his own hand and turned over to the Foreign Office before his departure for Sampigny, where he delivered his address to-day. It was intended as a definite and final statement concerning the French Government's position with regard to the forthcoming meeting of the committee of experts, and it is said there is certain to be no alterations in it as long as the present Cabinet remains in charge of France'es foreign policy.

COUNTESS CHOSEN LABOR CANDIDATE

Socialist 25 Years Countess of Warwick Gets Nomination.

LONDON, Oct. 29.— (Canadian Press Cable.) — The Countess of Warwick was enthusiastically adopted Saturday night at the labor candidate for the Warwick and Leamington division of Warwickshire in the by-election made necessary owing to the elevation of the member Sir Ernest Pollock (Conservative) to the judicial bench.

The Countess, addressing the electors last night, said she had been a socialist for 25 years and had had to stick it out with her friends and meet all the difficulties that go with such diversity of opinion. She declared she had no axe to grind and added: "I am too old for political ambitions and I wish to place the short time left me at the disposal of those who are struggling to make the country fit to live in."

George Nicholls, former member of parliament for the Peterborough division of Northampton has been adopted as the Liberal candidate in Leamington.

Ian Hamilton Says French Cause Ruin.

LONDON, Oct 29.—(Canadian Press Cable)—In an outspoken speech delivered at a meeting of the branch of the British Legion in Yorkshire Saturday General Sir Ian Hamilton said the way French politicians were now turning down British appeals against the ruin they were inflicting showed that they must rally believe they owned nothing to Great Britain but "this meeting of the Legion" showed there were forces that would not long submit to their country being treated as a spent and negligible force." He declared that the British legion wanted the establishment of a national employment committee and the raising of a national works loan of at least £200,000,000.

CANADIANS MEET KING OF BELGIANS

Possibilities of Importing Grain From Canada Were Mentioned.

BRUSSELS, Oct .29.—(Canadian Press Cable vai Reuters.)—King Albert of Belgium Saturday received in a half-hour audience the members of the Canadian economic commission which is now completing a tour of France.

His Majesty said Belgium was sympathetically grateful to Canada which had contributed much to the success of the allied armies in the war. The Canadians were good soldiers, said His Majesty and had held even the most difficult Arras regions.

Belgium was compelled to import most of its grain, added King Albert who commented on the possibilities of Canadain trade with Belgium. The mission had inaugurated a unique system of exposition. He remembered pleasantly Canada's participation in the 1910 Brussels exhibition. Canadian products were well presented. He was happy to realize that the Canadian exhibition train would enable Canada to cement by business relations the ties between the two countries.

Senator Beaubien, chief of the Canadian mission, thanked King Albert for the honor accorded the Canadians and dwelt on His majesty's heroic part in the war. The Senator also testified to the gracious and generous hospitality received everywhere in Belgium. The Canadians had now about accomplished their mission and were returning home tto try to develop closer trade relations with the countries visited.

The members of the mission afterwards attended the opera at the Theatre Royal for the benefit of the Japanese earthquake fund. The King and the Crown Prince were present.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Smythe, Bolivar Street, have arrived home from Oklahoma, where they visited their son and daughtr-in-law.

SAXONY DEFIES ULTIMATUM OF CONTROL GOV'T

Demand For Resignation of Socialistic Government Disregarded By Saxon Ministry.

MOBILIZE WORKERS.

BERLIN, Oct. 29. — (Associated Press).—The Ebert-Stresemann Government fired the opening guns Saturday night in its battle for unchallenged authority within the federation of the German States by despatching an ultimatum to Dresden, demanding the immediate retirement of Dr. Zeigner's Socialistic-Communistic Government, and simultaneously demanding of the Bavarian Government the restoration of the Berlin Government's military authority within that State.

DRESDEN, Germany, Oct. 29.—(Associated Press).—Premier Zeigner last night notified the Central Government at Berlin that the Saxon Ministry had voted to disregard Chancellor Stresemann's ultimatum calling for its immediate resignation.

The Saxon Government's reply sets forth that the Berlin Government's procedure is wholly without foundation in law and not warranted by the political situation. It declares that the Saxon Diet is the sole tribunal to determine the issue, which is now to be put up to it. Its findings will then be communicated to the Berlin Government.

One of the manifestoes issued by the Saxon Communist Party with the approval of the Communist Ministers, which was partly responsible for Berlin's action, contained the following:

"We Communists declare that we whistle at the prohibition of the centuries by General Von Mueller and that we whistle at any other decree that may be issued. We summon the workers to reply to the prohibition of the centuries by forming innumerable centuries. We will mobilize the workers, and, if the generals of industry want to fight, the workers will be ready."

THIRTEEN KILLED.

BERLIN, Oct. 28.—Thirteen persons were killed and a score wounded in a clash Saturday at Freiburg, Saxony, between rioters and Reichswehr troops. The mob attacked a battalion of Federal troops and the troops opened fire.

FIX REPARATIONS IN PRACTICAL FIGURES NOT FABULOUS DREAM

Further German Default of Payments Would Be Impossible, Says J. L. Garvin Editorially Commenting on the Proposed Conference.

OTHER PRESS OPINION

LONDON, Oct. 29.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The Sunday newspapers devote much space to the Imperial Conference especially the Observer in which its editor, J. L. Garvin writing on the European situation expresses the belief that the general conscience of mankind had been awakened to facts during the last few days and adds: "We owe this to the fact that one of the Dominion premiers who was long ago recognized as a statesman of the world J. C. Smuts, spoke as nobody else has spoken in Europe for five years. As a decisive act of faith and courage this speech was a landmark of post-war history, as an expression of mind and conviction it came to millions of men and women like emancipation. They know a light has been kindled which can never suppress."

"The speech of Smuts" continues the Observer, "was not only a memorable appeal to the conscience and reason but it enunciated a policy which never can be dropped no matter how long it may take for accomplishment."

Define French Claim.

As regards Premier Smuts' proposal for a conference to settle the difficulties of Europe, the Garvin article says nothing as a first step could offer more hope for Europe and the World; nothing could point more surely towards the only exit from choas and nothing could be more fair and favourable to France. Her claim, legally defined as it never yet has been would have overwhelmed moral and practical backing. When reparations were fixed at last in terms of practical figures instead of in fabulous dreams further Ger-

SIX-DAY BICYCLE GRIND UNDER WAY

Fifteen Teams Started in Chicago International Race.

CHICAGO, October 29 (Canadian Press). — Fifteen teams, comprising the strongest field that has ever appeared here, wheeled away last night at the Coliseum in the start of appeared here, wheeled away last night at the Coliseum in the start of a six-day bicycle race, which will end at eleven o'clock next Saturday night, after 146 hours of pedalling.

Maurice Brocco, of Italy, and Willie Coburn, of New Jersey, were popular favourites.

Thirteen new racers, all internationally famous, are making their first appearance in Chicago. Peter Van Kempen and Peter Moeskops, of Holland, the latter the world's champion, are being watched closely in the belief that they may try to gain an early advantage.

Alfred Grenda, who, paired with Alfred Goulett, won the last New York race, is teamed with Alexander McHeath, of Australia, and this combination also has many backers.

NEW LEASE FOR STATUE

LAHORE India Oct. 29.—(Canadian Press Cable via Reuters)—The Lahore municipality has rescinded its recent resolution urging the removal of the Sir Henry Lawrence statue from a prominent position in the city and the substitution of a new one without the inscription: "Will you be governed by the pen or the sword."

The decision was dictated by questions of financial stringency and also saner political feelings.

IMPERIAL DELEGATES AT EMPIRE SCHOOL.

LONDON, October 29 (Canadian Press Cable).— The delegates to the Imperial Conference will visit Stowe School on 2nd November, and will plant saplings, one for each Dominion represented.

Stowe is stated to be particularly an Empire school, and that it is appropriate that the Dominion delegates should plant the first trees in daunching what is intended to be a distinguished visitors' plantation.

CAN'T COME TOO SOON.

Judging by the number of cases that have come to the attention of the Examiner recently of motorists who, involved in an accident, have driven rapidly away without stopping to see what damage they have caused, it is a good thing for the interest of the general public that a new regulation will come into force at the beginning of the year providing a jail sentence for motorists who fail to return to the scene of an accident.

The case reported on Friday in which a young man was knocked from his bicycle by a motor car and left lying on the road, the driver at fault making his escape, is only one of half a dozen that have occurred here lately, and it is high time that there was a law in force by which such callousness could be punished.

A careless motorist is bad enough, but a motorist who adds cowardice to his carelessness and tries to escape the consequences of his reckless driving by speeding away from the scene deserves nothing but a period in jail that will give him a chance to reflect upon his conduct.

There are evidently a number of such gentry in Peterborough, and the rounding up of some of them would be a feat that would be greeted with general applause.

ONE REASON.

One of the reasons why it is becoming more difficult to secure capable citizens to become candidates for public office is illustrated by a story told by a London contemporary of a conversation among three citizens on municipal matters, during the course of which the Council was described "as a lot of grafters."

He was challenged by one of the party, who declared that the man who made the charge couldn't even name all the Council.

And he was right—the other fellow got as far as seven, including the Mayor, and then had to stop.

He didn't know the names of the rest.

There are a lot of people in Peterborough in exactly the same position.

They grumble about and criticize and condemn in season and out the men who are the head of affairs, and some of them go as far as the London critic did and talk about grafters and that sort of thing, and yet most of them could not put their finger on a specific charge, and the majority would be at a loss if asked off-hand to name the personnel of the Council.

It is because there is so much of this connected with public office that many citizens who have the necessary qualifications to be of service to their fellow-citizens are coy about embarking on the sea of municipal politics.

NOT STARTING RIGHT.

Of special campaign weeks and propaganda days there seems to be no end.

There is fire prevention week, and clean-up week, and safety first week, mother's day and father's day, and others of the same kind until some people are seriously advocating a mind-your-own-business week.

The latest in the list is a national fish day, an effort to increase the consumption of fish and to stimulate Canadian fisheries.

Towards the expenses of the publicity for this campaign the Federal Government has made a grant of $10,000, and the Canadian Fisheries Association will carry out an educational drive to increase home consumption.

There is nothing new about the national fish day idea, and it is doubtful whether it will get very far in the direction aimed at by those responsible for its establishment.

Canadians need no education as to the food value or the appetizing qualities of Canadian fish, but they do need to be assured of a plentiful supply of the good varieties, fresh and at reasonable prices.

That is where the campaign falls down.

Apparently no real effort is being made to see that the fish are available, and that the prices are low enough to be attractive.

Once those two features are properly attended to there will be no necessity of a national fish day, for there will be a ready and a constant demand for the products of Canada's fisheries.

And until then the money spent in publicity seems to be more or less wasted.

A NEW MOVE IN AN OLD GAME.

The Foreign Offices of London, Paris and Berlin must be enjoying with keen zest the latest moves in the great chequer game of diplomacy which have just been played, for the parry and thrust of skilled swordsmanship, with here and there the glint of steel, is pure joy to the heart of the true diplomat. Moreover if he has a sense of humor he will obtain additional enjoyment.

Belgium started the fun when she put forward a new proposal for the settlement of the perennial reparations problem. Knowing that France was on record as opposing any reduction in the amount which was in some way to be squeezed from Germany, Belgium was careful to set no fixed amount, and knowing also France's attitude towards a moratorium, Belgium refrained from mentioning delayed payments. But Belgium by proposing that there should be a modification of the 1921 reparations agreement practically proposed that the reparations total should be cut down to he figure which it was the concensus of Allied opinion, outside of France, could be collected, amounting only to about forty per cent. of the 1921 total. Furthermore, in view of the fact that no basis of settlement has been made by the Allies, other than France, without mention of a moratorium, the proposal of Belgium implied such a delay.

Diplomats naturally saw in the Belgian proposals the thin edge of the wedge of disagreement between Belgium and France, and a gradual solidifying of Allied opinion on the problem along lines opposed to the policy which Poincare persistently adhered. There was some sword-play by the German experts and this was followed by the formal acceptance by Germany of the Belgian proposals.

These proposals of Belgium contained one important stipulation. If the 1921 agreement was to be set aside and a new sum fixed as the reparations total Belgium went on record as saying that she thought that Germany should be heard in her own defence. Here lay the crux of the whole note. While the Belgian scheme mentioned no definite figures, it was quite obvious that if Germany was to be heard in her own defence it could only mean that she would be allowed to plead for reduction and that those who heard her tacitly acknowledged that there was some basis of equity in her request for relief.

France will probably refuse the Belgian scheme. She can hardly do otherwise in view of the attitude she has consistently adopted; for if France was to accept the Belgian plan and hear Germany in her own defence pleading for a reduction in the reparations sum, it would be an acknowledgment that the amount set by the Reparations Commission in 1921 under the authority of the Versailles Treaty was too high and beyond Germany's capacity to pay, which no French Premier could support and remain in power and which is in direct opposition to the stand taken by Poincare during the last nine months.

Now Britain, Italy and Japan have already unofficially accepted the Belgian plan, and if France refuses there will be a new situation in Europe. In view of this fact, the speech made yesterday by Premier Smuts has an additional significance.

What then will the next move be. Will Belgium waver and refuse after all to hear Germany? It is hardly likely. The Belgian plan will be discussed. France's hope of winning the next victory must lay in the fact that Germany will flame with revolution, the Communist rising become more general and the federated states dissolve into their original segments.—Montreal Star.

LONDON SHOULD GIVE A CLEAR LEAD.

If the Imperial Conference ends in a large, round "zero," that will be exactly what the preliminaries logically suggested.

It is absolute folly for the leaders of British opinion in the United Kingdom to look to the Overseas Dominions to "follow their lead" in foreign politics and measures of defence—when they give no "lead." As in the case of Chanak and the dramatic appeal made to us on that occasion to rally to the flag, we now hear coming from London widely differing, not to say discordant, voices. It is not the mere carping of irresponsible and light-weight critics which always accompanies democratic government under even the gravest circumstances. It is the appearance of deep divisions among leading statesmen and important journals on what are commonly regarded as non-political questions.

Take, for example, Singapore. It is very easy for those in Canada who do not want to assist in the strengthening of the pivotal naval base at Singapore to quote apparently authoritative British opinion against it. Quite a case can be made out for the contention that Great Britain herself is divided on the question—though those who study carefully the political and other affiliations of the disputants know that practically all weighty British opinion is convinced that, sooner or later, the Empire must have a first-class base somewhere in Austral-Asiatic waters.

* * * *

But—as in the case of Chanak—London must make up its mind before it can expect Ottawa or Cape Town or Melbourne to accept guidance from that central and presumably well-informed intelligence.

The Overseas Dominions have never failed to act bravely and to the utmost limit of sacrifice when the need was plain and the call from the Empire's capital clear and undivided. This is, indeed, the answer given in Canada to those of us who think an ounce of preparation in peace-time might save hundreds of thousands of lives in war-time—might, indeed, avert war. We are referred to the magnificent readiness and whole-heartedness with which our people responded during the Great War.

But this is no reason why we should not do as all other communities do who are exposed to the danger of being drawn into war—make reasonable preparations in advance which will render the war easier to win, and may—as we have said—prevent it altogether. However, the poisonous Pacifist doctrine still persists to a great extent—the doctrine that preparations for war bring on war. And those who accept this silly theory are naturally against arming a man or spending a dollar with a view to making the Empire too dangerous to attack.

* * * *

The element in such communities as ours, which must be convinced, is a perfectly loyal element. Disloyalty is insignificant and negligible. This loyal element will fight when it finds its back to the wall. But it is steadily opposed to preparing to fight. It serenely ignores the logic of the situation which surely is that then Great Britain should not arm—should scrap her navy and demobilize her army. This, of course, would dissipate her Empire overnight. But if she must keep armed, then we should in all decency and honor either get out of the shelter of the Empire or help keep it up—should resign from the club or pay our dues.

But when it comes to concrete action, we ought to get a united and unmistakable "lead" from London. They should make up their minds over there what they want us to do before they ask us to do anything. For if they fail to agree, obviously those here who are dubious about the wisdom of any warlike preparations at all will side with those who speak more or less authoritatively at the centre of Empire and who think that the proposed concrete action in question should not be taken.

We cannot follow London, while London stands bickering at the cross-roads.—Montreal Star.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, October 29 (Canadian Press).—Good buying, credited to exporters and United States millers, kept the local wheat market undertone firm on Saturday, and values moved within a narrow range. The early buying orders sent prices up, but they later eased off and closed 1-8c to 3-8c lower. There was also considerable spreading reported between October and November, buying and selling in both futures. Offerings were not large and hedging sales were well taken care of.

May wheat was in demand by investment interests.

There was no particular feature to the coarse grain markets. Prices showed only fractional changes and the trade volume was small. Trade was very light in cash wheat, with Nos. 1 and 3 Northern going through the clearing house and No. 2 Northern in just fair demand.

A fair demand existed for cash coarse grains, but only small amounts changed hands.

WINNIPEG CATTLE

WINNIPEG, October 29 (Canadian Press). — Receipts, 115 cattle and calves, 85 hogs, and 390 sheep and lambs.

Lights receipts hampered trade on the cattle market on Saturday morning. The few sales completed found prices holding firm.

The hog market was unchanged, thick smooths $8.25.

Good lambs held at $10.50, and fair to good sheep at $5.50 to $7.70.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, October 29 (Canadian Press). — The volume of business in cash grain in the domestic market on Saturday was small, but the tone of the market was steady. There was no important change in the condition of the flour market. Demand for millfeed continues steady, and for rolled oats the demand was fair. The egg market was brisk. Total receipts from 1st May to date have been 42,099 cases larger than in the same period of 1922. Trade in butter was only moderate. Total receipts from 1st May to date have been 145,482 packages smaller than in the same period last year. The condition of the cheese market is very unsettled. The total receipts from 1st May to date have been 114,588 boxes in excess of the same period last year.

MONTREAL PRICES.

MONTREAL, October 29 (Canadian Press). — The egg market quotations on Saturday were as follow:

Extras 40 to 42, firsts 36 to 37, seconds 31 to 32.

Butter, specials 37, pasteurised, none sold, firsts 36 1-8.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, October 29 (Canadian Press). — Estimates that 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat, duty paid, had so far been bought to come into the United States at 2 cents a bushel less than the price of domestic grain of equal quality had a bearish effect on Saturday on the wheat market here.

Closing quotations were unsettled 1-4c to 3-8c to 1-2c to 5-8c net lower, with December $1.06 1-4 to 3-8 to $1.06 3-8, and May $1.07 1-2.

Corn finished 1-8c to 1-4c to 5-8c to 3-4c down; oats at 1-8c off, to a shade advance, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 5 cents.

Notwithstanding a slight upward tendency at the opening the wheat market soon turned down grade, and during the remainder of the day showed but little power to rally. Initial declines were ascribed to the fact that Liverpool quotations had failed to reflect yesterday's decline here. The majority of traders, however, took more notice of indications that imports of Canadian wheat into this country were growing heavier, despite the tariff of 30 cents a bushel. To offset this factor, bulls continued to put stress on gossip that news helpful to higher prices were likely to come out of Washington, but the market made little or no response, and the close was at almost the day's bottom level.

Most of the Canadian wheat imported into the United States up to this time is said to have been for the mills, much of it to be ground into flour at various places east of Chicago. Besides, millers at Minneapolis and elsewhere north-west were said to have purchased liberally from Canada in the last few days. Talk of increased competition from Russia in Durum wheat was also given some notice.

Enlarged shipments of new corn made the corn market easier, despite unfavourable weather. Rural offerings of oats were scarce. Firmness of hog values upheld provisions.

YOUR HEALTH

By Dr. Clifford C. Robinson

HEALTH EXAMINATIONS

The day will soon come when the health of a community will be safeguarded just as carefully and in fact more so than is our social and civic safety by the police, and other agencies, whether it be city, town or country.

To the foregoing must be added the habits and actions of the individual himself of acquiring and practicing those rules which build for health and prosperity. Not for himself alone, but for the good of all.

What then is a health examination? Who gives them? Where, when and how?

Purpose of Examination.

A health examination is putting yourself into the hands of a competent physician for a complete examination and to find out just what you are and where you stand in the matter of bodily health.

The Government has given health examinations for many years that are very rigid. You must be physically fit or you cannot be employed by Uncle Sam in any of his great departments, or enter his army or navy.

Lessens Mortality.

Many of the States hold health examinations for all boys and girls who desire to go to work before they are 16 years of age. Insurance companies are taking up this work and it has been found that policyholders may add years to their lives by submitting to a health examination from year to year and accepting sound advice as to their habits.

Many unions too are requiring an annual health examination. They know it is a paying investment in lessening the cost of sick benefits. The examinations or physical tests are given by Government or company doctors at certain stated periods. The dates of which may be ascertained by writing to any of the parties concerned.

It might be well to have the doctor for supper once in a while in order to check up a little and talk over the health affairs of the family and the community. Let him divide up with the minister who is our occasional guest to remind us of our spiritual ailments.

ICE HOUSE BURNED.

WIARTON, Ont., Oct 28.—Fire which was discovered early this morning destroyed the ice house and freezing plant, a quantity of fish and the tug Sailor belonging to the Booth Fishing Company with a loss of $20,000. Considerable lumber belonging to the Peninsula Tug and Towing Company was also burned.

A Broad Market

Into the north lands of Ontario and Quebec a rapidly rising tide of capital is flowing to expedite the opening of nature's greatest storehouses of gold.

In consequence a broad market in mining shares is developing and investors are being offered so many securities they may readily be pardoned if their sense of values sometimes becomes confused.

To all who are interested in mining securities we offer every facility for the transaction of business. Complete reference fyles available. Inquiries invited.

Taking WINCARNIS

"I was very sick; lost almost 18 pounds in weight; was extremely weak and nervous, and could not get a single night's sound sleep. I had constant medical attention and the best of wholesome foods, but my condition grew more alarming until I began taking Wincarnis, which helped me from the first few doses.

I have completely regained my former weight and strength, sleep soundly every night, eat most heartily and have an abundance of energy. My husband and my mother were so amazed at the effect of Wincarnis in my case that they both began taking it as a tonic. Today, they are just as loud in praise of Wincarnis as I am, and we do wish it were known to every weak, nervous or run-down person."

LINDSAY REBEKAHS VISITED MILLBROOK

Motored Over for Occasion and Initiated Two Candidates.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 29.—The Degree Staff of the "Kawartha" Rebekah Lodge of Lindsay visited their sister society, "Golden Sheaf" Lodge, Millbrook, this week, forty or more motoring over for the occasion, and initiated two candidates, Misses Jeanette Fallis and Ada Attwool. The work was done in a particularly capable manner and the large number of members, and visitors from outside lodges, including several carloads from "Golden Link" Lodge, Peterborough, who were present, found the entire evening one of the most enjoyable in their experience of fraternal relationship.

The banquet which followed the regular Lodge session, the guests being accommodated in the dining hall which was most attractively decorated for the occasion, while the daintily arranged tables were abundantly supplied with good "eats," offered an opportunity for delightful social intercourse which was taken advantage of to the fullest extent by the one hundred and twenty-five, or more guests, and will long leave pleasant memories in the minds of those who were privileged to enjoy them.

Mrs. T. H. Bradley, Mrs. J. W. Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. P .I. Bentley, Mr. and Mrs. E.' Armstrong, Mrs. H. J. Armstrong, Mrs. T. Harkness, Mrs. W. E. Ball, Misses M. Byam, H. Barnard, Irene Francey, Mr .and Mrs. B. R. Raper, Miss E. Lowery, Miss Essie Hutchison, Miss Gertrude Harkness, Messrs. E. Morden and J. Yakes, were among those from "Golden Sheaf" Rebekah Lodge who motored to Peterborough on Friday evening to enjoy a special evening with the "Golden Link" Lodge of that city. A sister organization from Toronto, "Viola" Lodge, had their Degree Staff present for the occasion and initiated four candidates, the attendance of local members and from other outside lodges being very large and giving an excellent opportunity for a pleasant interchange of fraternal greetings and of social enjoyment under the most favorable auspices.

ELECTION MAY BE POSSIBLE

Candidates in Great Britain Taking No Chances On Being Caught Napping.

LONDON, Oct. 29 (Canadian Press Cable).—Discussing election possibilities today one parliamentary candidate said: "I am not taking any risks." He meant that he intended to pay particular attention to his constituency in view of such a contingency.

This sums up the general feeling as represented in the political clubs. City and businessmen want the election postponed as long as possible and most members of parliament share this view but those to whom protection accompanied by imperial preferences is the sole remedy for unemployment and the only weapon capable of developing the British Empire, are anxious for an election on that issue at any time. They hope that if the government is challenged in any of its proposals to protect British industries it will appeal to the country immediately.

Such a challenge is expected to develop soon after parliament meets on November 13 when the labor party probably will immediately attack the government for not doing enough for the unemployed. This will give the government an opportunity of submitting its chief remedy for unemployment, namely protection of British industries against the exports of countries with depreciated exchanges, protection being applied in the first instance only to industries where unemployment is clearing, due to the dumping of foreign goods such as Macclesfield silk and Nottingham lace.

The protectionists contend that the government can protect such industries in a special budget without violating Bonar Law's pledge not to disturb the fiscal system of the country but if the liberals and laborites seriously challenge this policy it is pretty certain there will be an election early in the new year. If, however, the government's measures go through as emergency measures, then the question will arise whether the government will proceed with a general tariff next year. If they do, then there will be a great educative campaign throughout the country which is bound to disclose great differences of opinion. One argument in favor of Premier Baldwin going to the country before spring is that a nation kept in a state of speculation and unsettlement on an issue so vital is liable to manifest resentment upon the disturbers while the new policy will probably re-unite the Liberals in defence of their traditional policy of free trade.

Premier Baldwin is handicapped by the fact that he is devoid of great platform powers and his cabinet is not conspicuous for its oratorical talent while the Liberals have considerable platform assets and if the return of Lloyd George to the party were facilitated they would be overwhelmingly strong.

TONNAGE STILL SHORT.

FORT WILLIAM, Oct. 29. — Tonnage is still a little short in the harbour, only three boats being reported the Lake Shippers as loading wheat Saturday afternoon Eight vessels cleared to-day with 1,456,000 bushels of wheat those clearing being five which came in during the night and got their leoad early in the morning, two which had been discharging package freight. The shortage seems however, to be only temporary since there are now sixteen boats reported coming up to light for grain and several coal boats are en route which will probably take return cargoes from here. Among the vessels clearing to-day is the J. F. Taylor, with 5,000 tons of iron pyrites this being the second cargo of pyrites to be taken from here this season.

"My Hands Trembled and I Could Not Sleep"

Mr. Thomas Honey, Brantford, Ont., writes:—

"When I began taking Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I was so nervous that when I picked up a cup of tea my hand would tremble like a leaf. I could not sleep well, could not remember things, and there were neuralgic pains through my body. After taking seven boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, however, I am in perfect health."

CHASED CANADIAN LIQUOR CRUISER

Rum-Runners Ran Boat Into Dock at Buffalo And Escaped.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 29 (Canadian Press).—After a running fight with the United States coast guard crew and an exchange of more than twenty shots, the crew of a fifty-foot gas cruiser which approached the Buffalo Harbor from the Canadian shore at daybreak yesterday, crashed their vessel into a dock and escaped, apparently without injury, in the dimlight. In the rum-running cruiser, which was confiscated by the Coast Guard, 250 cases of Canadian ale were found.

Prohibit Dumping of Steel From Germany.

LONDON, Oct. 29. — (Canadian Press).—Speaking at Canterbury on Saturday night, Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Minister of Health, said the Government contemplated spending £50,000,000 on schemes during the approaching winter for the purpose of relieving unemployment, but if necessary they would spend another £50,000,000.

Sir William declared that no government dare allow Germany to dump millions of tons of steel into Great Britain while the country was finding £50,000,000 to provide work for unemployed. The proposal to tax corn, wheat and meat in order to give a preference to the colonies was quite impossible with the present unemployment because a tax on imported food would possibly make it dearer, but where taxes existed the Government wanted to make the preference to the Empire as great as possible. This was not a breach of Bonar Law's pledge.

WELCOME ATHLONE IN SOUTH AFRICA

The Appointment of New Governor-General Cordially Received.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Oct. 29. — (Canadian Press Cable, via Reuters). — The announcement of the appointment of the Earl of Athlone as Governor-General of the South African Union is cordially welcomed by all classes. It is emphasied that he is no stranger, and as a brother of Queen Mary, he has a special claim on the esteem of South Africa.

Leading articles in the newspapers refer to the Earl's high sense of duty, a characteristic which distinguishes all his family, and it is felt that he will endeavor to be of real service to South Africa. His military service and his work for Middlesex Hospital is also recalled. The natives are deeply gratified that a member of the Royal Family should be their supreme chief.

SATISFIED WITH NEW CONDITIONS

Lots of Boats Available When Agreement is Finally Signed.

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 29. — (Canadian Press). — Satisfaction with the arrangements they have been able to make with United States owners regarding the carrying of Canadian grain under the provisions of Inland Waters Freight Rates Act, was expressed by Leslie H. Boyd, chairman of the Board of Grain Commissioners, who returned yesterday with Commissioner Stow from Cleveland. It only remains for Canadian shippers to acquiesce in the agreement made at Cleveland, Mr. Boyd said, when all the United States boats that can be utilized will be available. The commissioners were assured of reasonable rates.

HUNGER STRIKERS CHANGED MINDS

Saw No Hope for Release, So Started to Eat On Sunday.

DUBLIN Oct. 29. — (Canadian Press) —Following the Governments pronouncement that none of the numerous hunger strikers would be released from prison, it was announced officiallly yesterday that 1,490 persons who were refusing food abondoned their strike during the week-end.

Richard Mulcahy, minister of defence, replying to the Cork corporations demand for the release of the prisoners, said in a note; "surely your corporation may consider its duty to offer to these charged with the grave responsibility of securing peace and good will more serious minded and effective assistance toward that end than that of unreasonable telegrams."

GRAIN STORAGE HAS INCREASED

Four and a Half Million Bushels More in Lake Superior Terminals.

FORT WILLIAM, Oct. 29. — (Canadian Press).—In spite of shipments for the week just ended being half a million greater than those of the week before, receipts were considerably havier and stock of all grains in store at the terminals rose by over four and a half million bushels. Wheat accounted for the largest part of the increase the stocks of oats actually diminishing slightly, although a million and a third bushels were received but demand caused more than this to be shipped. Movement in barley was lighter than last week and on flax a little heavier while rye was virtually stagnant with no shipments and anly about 187,000 bushels received.

Compared with the stocks in store a year ago, the present stocks are less by six and a half million bushels.

Following are the figures of stocks receipts and shipments for the week.

In store—wheat, 32,255,008 bushels oats, 1,787,879; barley 1,780,018; flax 613,990; rye 1,820,559.

Shipments—wheat 12,079,257 bushels; oats 370,338; barley 419,571; flax 108,347; rye nil.

CROWLEY HANDICAP AT GROVE SCHOOL

Annual Cross Country Run Brought Out Field of Forty-Three Entries.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 29.—The Cowley Handicap (cross country race) was run off on schedule time at the Grove School on Friday afternoon. The silver cup, awarded to the winner of the race, is the gift of Mr. G. B. Hilliard, of Victoria, B.C. (formerly of 'Cowley,' Lakefield), and the race is always held on October 26th, which is Mr. Hilliard s birthday.

The weather was ideal, a clear bracing day, which invited an event of the kind and a goodly number of spectators viewed the race with keenest interest. Mr. Marling was the official starter, which involved a considerable amount of responsibility as 42 boys, varying in age from about eight years to 16 years, entered the race. Two little chaps started off with keenest enthusiasm and in turn were followed by the others.

Spectators with field glasses watched the procession as they sped over the fields. The course is over the fields to the site of the sugar bush, down the road to the gate of 'Cowley (now the home of A. E. Vanson), and back over the fields, finishing at the big fir tree at 'The Grove' gate.

Special mention may be made of the record of Kenneth Dawson, who though one of the smallest boys in the race, was first at 'Cowley gate and finished a strong fifth.

The following is the complete list and record:

First, Massie, time 13.23; Strickland i, 14.08; 3, Little ii, 13.59; 4, Rainnie, 14.01; 5, Dawson iii, 18.48; 6, Bonnell, 15.50; 7, Forrest, 17.54; 8, Fawcett, 14.44; 9, Christmas, 14.45; 10, Loosemore i, 14.03; 11, Dench, 14.34; 12, Little i, 15.10; 13, Peck, 16.03; 14, Dawson i, 17.39; 15, McRae, 17.40; 16, Young, 16.12; 17, Leggat, 16.43; 18, Howe, 15.39; 19, Elmsley, 17.58; 20, Mackenzie, B., 16.47; 21, Hedley, 19.19; 22, Strickland ii, 19.21; 23, Griffiths ii, 16.40; 24, Loosemore ii, 16.13; 25, Boultbee, 17.25; 26, Hunt, 17.26; 27, Pullen, 17.34; 28, Smith, 18.07; 29, Barnard, 17.08; 30, McMullen, 19.11; 31, Strickland iii, 21.15; 32, Neilson, 17.19; 33, Jack, 21.01; 34, Wilgress, 19.11; 35, Miall, 18.53; 36, Robertson, 18.56; 37, Wetherspoon, 19.11; 38, Earle i, 21.43; 39, Adams, 23.03; 40, Earle ii, 22.40; 41, Cockburn, 22.52; 42, Mackenzie, M., 24.30.

man default would be impossible. The whole finances of the Reich would be brought under direct international supervision and control. At the least sign of renewed evasion the world would be with France in compelling the Reich to redeem her obligations established by a tribunal firm as well as just.

"The thing can be done, in this manner with the aid of America, continues the Observer. "There cannot be the same moral and practical efficiency without America. Every economist knows that through such a conference as Premier Smuts proposed France would get more real money from her present victim and recover more of the world's friendship and regard than she can win by any other means."

Heard Round the World.

The Sunday Express says no other Dominion Premier, not even Deakin or Hughes in their fighting moods made a speech which reverberated round the world like Smuts' oration. The speech challenges Lloyd George at his best says the Express During the post-armistice period the very highest patches of Lloyd Georgian rhetoric were lacking but their inferiority was made good by a better show of arrangement and balance in intellectual argument. "Nobody in the Empire is likely to remain entirely deaf to the tone of the moral appeal which runs through General Smuts' utterance. There is in it almost a reminiscence of Gladstone and the Midlothian campaign.'

Won't Wreck Entente.

The Weekly Dispatch commenting on "Smut's latest incursion into European politics" says that absorbed as his mind doubtless has been by problems besetting the South African government, Smuts probably lacked both time and opportunity to study the European situation as it deserves to be studied."

"He must be singularly ignorant of the trend of popular opinion in Britain if he imagines that any government could continue to exist which announced a policy of quarreling with France in order to give moral and financial support to Germany. The people will refuse to accept Smuts proposal to wreck the entente."

LLOYD GEORGE'S VISIT PIECE GOOD FORTUNE

A Complimentary Letter From U. S. President Read at Dinner.

WASHINGTON, October 29 (Canadian Press). — The visit of Lloyd-George to the United States has been a "piece of good fortune for both his country and our own, and for the cause of international accord," declared President Coolidge in a letter read on Saturday night at a dinner given by overseas writers to the former British Premier.

President Coolidge's letter was addressed to Mark Sullivan, chairman of the writers, an organisation of newspapermen who served overseas, and expressed the chief executive's regret at being unable to attend the dinner at which Chief Justice Taft, several Cabinet officers, members or the Diplomatic Corps, and Senators were guests.

Start this delightful test Combat that dingy film

Your druggist this week has these trial tubes. Go get one and watch the results.

Dainty people—millions of them—now use a new method of teeth cleaning. It brings them whiter, cleaner, safer teeth. It will to you. Go prove this.

All must fight film

All people who want prettier teeth must fight the film. Film is that viscous coat you feel. In oldway brushing, much of it clings and stays. Soon it becomes discolored, then forms dingy coats.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Thus cloudy teeth and tooth troubles became almost universal.

Dental science has now found and proved out ways to fight that film. One disintegrates the film, one removes it without harmful scouring.

Many careful tests proved these methods effective. Then a new-type tooth paste was created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Now, the world over, that tooth paste is bringing a new dental era. Careful people of some 50 nations are employing it today.

Multiplied helps

Pepsodent also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids. It multiplies the starch digestant in saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits.

Those are Nature's great tooth-protecting agents in the mouth. Every use of Pepsodent gives them manifold effect.

Whiter teeth seen everywhere

Look about you. Note the glistening teeth you see in every circle now. One glance in any dainty crowd will show you what Pepsodent is doing.

Learn what it means to you. Present the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

Do this for your sake. Do it for your family's sake. These are effects you need and want. Cut out coupon now.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

CHURCH FILLED FOR BIRTHDAY

Anniversary Services At Fairmount Methodist Church Conducted By Rev. W. B. Tucker Of Toronto.

FAIRMOUNT, Oct. 29.—The anniversary services of the Fairmount Methodist Church were held on Sunday, Rev. W. B. Tucker, B.A., B.D., of Toronto, being the preacher for the occasion. The church was well filled, both morning and evening, the special musical selections prepared by the choir adding to the spirit of worship and reverence which prevailed throughout. In the morning the anthem, "Crown Jesus Your Saviour, Lord and King," was sung effectively, the solo by Miss Black, of Peterborough, "Just For To-day," which carried out the main theme of the sermon most appropriately, being particularly enjoyed.

Rev. Mr. Tucker, who stated that it was about 30 years since he had preached at the Fairmount appointment shortly after his ordination, chose his text from Deuteronomy 33 : 25, "As thy days so shall thy strength be." The futility and actual sin of undue worry over the future was the theme developed in the sermon, many promises from God's Word assuring us of His unfailing care and assistance being advanced as evidence that "He that keepeth Israel neither slumbers nor sleeps."

Diligence and Business

The words of our Saviour, "Take no thought for the morrow," are not to be understood as repressing forethought and industry, and encouraging idleness and shiftlessness. On the contrary, "diligence in business' 'is straitly enjoined, coupled with an unfaltering trust in our Heavenly Father, so that should circumstances beyond our control arise which render our provision insufficient, we may confidently assume that "there is no want to them that fear Him." To prevent undue fretfulness and care lest possible emergencies should come upon us for which we are unprepared, having done our utmost to be provident, is the very reason why the precious promises are given in both Old and New Testaments.

What sometimes look like long, steep hills turn out to be only gentle grades upon a nearer approach, so in the journey of life troubles bravely approached prove to be less in reality than in anticipation. When our resources are exhausted God will send help from another quarter that will abundantly meet the need. Delayed assistance may but test our faith, but all the time He knows what He will do as He brings us up against some problem that is clearly beyond our solution. We weigh ourselves down with unnecessary cares—"no man e'er sank beneath the burdens of to-day, tomorrow's sburdens added overweigh."

Eliminate Worry

Worry is an evidence of lack of faith, and of fellowship, with our Lord, and we are slow to take to heart Paul's experience, "I have learned in whatsoever state I am to be content," the emphasis being on the word, "learned." The lesson is a hard one, breaking down a stubborn will and a froward heart, for worry is always chiefly against God and is ungrateful, unreasonable, and uncomfortable.

"The world is wide, in time and tide,
And God is guide. Don't hurry.
That man is blest who does his best,
And leaves the rest. Don't worry."

ALLAN CRAWFORD LEFT SCHOLARSHIP

Last Letter Written By Hero of Wrangel Island Provides for Bequest.

TORONTO, Oct. 29 (Canadian Press) —Just as many of his friends are planning a memorial to the late Allan R. Crawford, there comes from the scene of his untimely sacrifice tangible proof that the last few secks of that heroic lad's existence were warm with remembrance of his home, his school and the chums of his boyhood.

On its return from Wrangel Island, the relief expedition brought to Prof. J. T. Crawford of this city a last letter from his son. From his letter, written in January, before he and his companions started out across the ice for the Siberian coast, and containing no word of complaint nor any mention of suffering, the following is an extract:

"From my estate I should like a fund, to yield $25 annually, set aside as a scholarship in U. T. S. for the student getting highest marks in chemistry and physics, and," he added, "at the test examination for pass matriculation."

Allan Crawford passed through all the forms of the university schools and at honor matriculation was awarded the first Edward Blake scholarship in science, and was ranked for a number of other scholarships. Every year, so long as the U. T. S. exists, the heart of some bright young student in science will be gladdened by his scholarship, which Sir Robert Falconer has consented to present for the first time in May of next year.

Gave A Recital.

The small pupils of Mrs. M. B. Hoyland, violin teacher, gave a pleasant recital at the Conservatory of Music, Friday evening, the violin selections by the different pupils being interspersed with numbers by the Junior Orchestra of the Conservatory, numbering about 20 pieces. The small soloists and the orchestra exhibited excellent training, and careful attention to bowing and tone production. The clever playing of Miss Kathie Taylor was particularly admired, Miss Taylor being one of the more advanced pupils of Mrs. Hoyland. Those taking part were: Robbie Wylie, Albert Wright, Helen Weatherhead, James Mullen, Willie Gaskin, Kathie Taylor, Harry James and Bruce Hall. The accompanists for the evening were the Misses Olga Fowler, E. Webber and Margueriet Weatherhead.

Young Women Saw Picture

The film, "The Gift of Life," and the film accompanying it, portraying the ravages of social diseases, were shown for the last time at the Public Library hall Friday evening to a large crowd of women, including many of the younger women of the city, by Miss Edna L. Moore, the Government representative who accompanies the picture, and who gave the picture here under the auspices of the Social Hygiene Council, in cooperation with the Local Council of Women and the local Home and School Council. Mrs. A. Mowat presided at last evening's showing, and Mrs. J. Knox spoke to the audience at the close of the meeting, em phasizing the need for more encouragement of the Government's work in disseminating information of this type, and admonishing the young ladies to look to the higher things of life. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Miss Moore at the conclusion of the programme.

Yesterday afternoon at four o'clock, the first film, "The Gift of Life," was shown at the Collegiate Institute Hall to girl pupils of the P. C. I. and the Normal School. Mrs. J. Knox presided. Miss Moore, in connection with this showing, gave an eloquent talk to the girls, comparing the violation of God's natural laws in social respects to the violation of natural laws, such as gravitation, when disaster results as inevitably from a violation of one as from the violation of the other.

An Interesting Local Debate

The young people of the Mark street Methodist League were recently given a great treat in the form of a debate. The topic was "Resolved that the Spoken Word is of a Greater Power to People than the Written Word." The speakers of the affirmative side were Miss Helen Throop and Mr. Clive Robb, while those of the opposing side were Miss Fern Stenton, Mr. Percy Oke and Mr. V. Boorman. The affirmative speakers were handicapped insomuch as at the last minute their third speaker was unable to be present. This necessitated Mr. Robb speaking twice. The judges, Mrs. Spear, Mrs. Bamforth and Miss Whattam, had considerable difficulty in coming to a decision, but they finally gave it in favor of the affirmative side.

During the meeting the very important announcement was made that on Sunday, November 11, the anniversary services of the Mark street Methodist church, would be held, Doctor Joliffe of Queen's University, Kingston, speaking both morning and evening, also that on the following night, Monday, November 12, the ladies of the church will give a fowl supper, the programme being rendered by the Trinity Sunday School Orchestra. A good crowd is expected.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

TO THE EDITOR OF THE EXAMINER:

Dear Sir.—In our humble opinion, all the legislation in the world isn't going to help our farmers. No doubt there will be countless bills introduced at the next sessions of Parliament to relieve the situation but we haven't much hope that they will accomplish anything. To our own way of thinking, the farm situation is bound up absolutely with the foreign situation. Settle the Ruhr trouble and improve conditions throughout the rest of Europe and we will have the remedy for our own domestic agricultural difficulties. There is not too much food in the world at present. There is only the inability on the part of many foreign counties to buy their normal requirements, but soon as they are able to adjust their industrial affairs you will see the volume of our exports of food products and raw materials swell to immense proportions because there will then be provided a reasonable basis of credit for their purchase people are looking for a settlement of the Ruhr troubles this fall, and are confident that business will be above normal from now until the expiration of 1924 at least, should other unlooked for settlement occur and a heavy foreign demand appear there might even be boom times like what we had in 1919-1920, and especially is the young farmer I would say that it is not known where he that invented the plow was born nor where he died, yet he has effected more for the happiness of the world than the whole race of heroes and of conquerors who have drenched it with tears and mannered with blood and whose birth and education have been handed down to us with a precision precisely proportionate to the mischief they have done.

Thanking you, I remain
Yours, etc.,

3 GUNMEN SHOOT DETROIT BROTHERS

Pickpocket Slain, Other Near Death — Restaurant Owner is Quizzed.

DETROIT, Oct. 29.—Joseph Tucker, 32 years old, is dead and Louis Tucker, 38 years old, his brother, is near death in Receiving Hospital with a bullet wound in his head as the result of a shooting in a restaurant at 2804 Hastings street, where three armed men entered the place and fired point-blank at the Tucker brothers, both of whom are said by the police to be notorious pick-pockets.

The police assett that the Tuckers came to Detroit from Brooklyn, N.Y. Both have long prison records, Joseph having served 19 prison terms on charges ranging from grand larceny to larceny from the person.

Arrested Wednesday

Joseph Tucker was arrested on a Fourteenth line car in company with Morris Stone, 1043 Alfted street and charged with picking the pocket of Joseph Powell, 3799 Seneca avenue. He was later released on a $500 bond. It is thought that a quarrel over the commission of the bondsman brought about the shooting.

There is some possibility, however, the police say, that the shooting grew out of a slaying in New York in which Louis Tucker was believed to have been involved. It is known, officers state, that he was threatened at the time of that affair and was in fear that friends of the victim would find and kill him. A postcard, covered with scribbled threats, was found in his quarters.

Both men were married and lived at the Abbotsford apartments, 620 Peterboro street.

Restaurant Men Held

Nathan Katz, and Louis Robach, proprietors of the restaurant where the shooting took place, were arrested for alleged violation of the prohibition law. According to the police they also recently came to Detroit from New York and since they started their restaurant it has been a hang-out for crooks and underworld characters of all kinds.

Statements in the case were taken by Eugene A. Walling, assistant prosecuting attorney. Police think they know the three men who did the shooting and are seeking them.

NEWS MILLBROOK AND THE DISTRICT

Sale and Tea in Armouries a Huge Success—News Paragraphs.

Millbrook, October 29. — The sale of homemade baking, and the tea, held in the Armouries on Saturday afternoon, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church, passed off most successfully, the opening hour of 3 p.m., finding many customers ready to take advantage of the opportunity to purchase the appetizing wares on the various tables. The aid, instead of their usual big church dinner, are this year giving a series of such sales and teas to raise the necessary funds to fulfil their obligation for the upkeep of the parsonage, make their regular contribution to the annual thankoffering of the church and otherwise assist the trustee board as circumstances may render possible.

The president, Miss M. Needham, had a general and efficient oversight over the entire proc- lings, and was ably assisted by the other officers and members.

Mrs. C. Garside and Mrs. A. Weatherup were in charge of the bread, buns and tea-biscuits; Mrs. R. H. Edmunds and Mrs. G. Locke of the cakes, while Mrs. J. McKnight and Mrs. A. J. Brown, were at the pie counter, their wares selling readily, as did those of all the tables, so that practically everything was practically disposed of. The candy table was well handled by Miss A. Hampon, assised by Miss Marjorie Skitch, and the afternoon tea tables, as well as the meal served at the regular hour, had as most attentive waitresses, Mrs. Ross Edmunds, Miss May Duncan, Mrs. G. E. Burnham, Mrs. C. Richards, and Mrs. G. Freelove. Mrs. F. W. Fallis acted as cashier for the afternoon and the evening, the total receipts being quite satisfactory.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Ketchison of Trenton, were guests of her aunt, Mrs. F. Johnston, Falls Line, this week.

Misses Mary Higgs of Whitby, Dorothy Higgs, of Madoc, and Eileen Higgs of Peterboro, and Mr. F. Rowe of Whitby, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Burnham on Saturday.

Mrs. Fraser of Whitewater, Man., is the guest of her nephew and niece Mr. Leonard and Miss Bertha McNeil, of Cavan.

Mr. Matthew McIndoo, who is attending Albert College, Belleville, with his friend, Mr. H. Kirby, spent the week-end at his home on the 12th line of Cavan.

Miss Isabelle Black of Peterboro, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. O. Ball, Fairmount, over the week-end.

NEW OFFICERS FOR GIRLS' BASKET BALL

W. Perks Heads League—15 Players on Each City Team.

A meeting of the Girls' City Basketball League was held at the Y.W. C.A, with the following representatives present:

Mrs. R. W. Cormack, convenor of Y.W.C.A. Physical committee.
Mr. F. J. Gandy—Quaker Oats.
Mr. V. M. Perks—De Laval.
Mr. Thos. Turcotte — Canadian Woollens.
Mr. Wilfrid Gandy—C.G.E.
Miss E. McVannell — Normal school.
Miss M. McIntosh—Collegiate.
Miss C. F. Littlefield— Physical Director of Y.W.C.A.
Dr. Phyllis Young.

The Basketball League regretted very much the resignation of Mr. F. J. Gandy as president of the League but are glad that he will still be on the committee. Mr. Gandy spoke very appreciatively of the basketball league and emphasized that we must look beyond the mere winning of a game or a trophy. Basketball games in the Y.W.C.A. should mean higher principle and we should play the game for friendship and recreation. Each team is naturally hoping to win if possible but should realize that the high aim of the organization is to develop our girls in better, nobler womanhood. Mr. Gandy spoke of the wonderful work the Y. W.C.A. is doing for the girls to-day and highly endorsed every department of the work. Mr. Turcotte of the Canadian Woollens, spoke of the noticed improvement in girls who came to the Y.W.C.A. "They are a better asset to any place of business. The "Y" girls can easily be picked out of a group. She is alert, healthy ,conscientious and interested."

The election of officers for this year resulted as follows:

President—Mr. W. Perks.
Secretary—Dr. Phyllis Young.
Press Agent—Miss Bessie Hutchison, of Normal school.
Schedule Committee—Miss Littlefield and Mr. Gandy.
Executive—President, Physical Director, Canadian Woollens and C.G. E. representatives.

It was decided that games should start Nov. 16 .The schedule to be published in the paper later.

It was moved by Mr. Perks and seconded by Mr. Turcotte that 15 players may be signed by each team. —Carried.

Moved by Mr. Gandy and seconded by Mr. Turcotte, that a registration fee of $2.00 be paid for each team and 15 basket ball certificates be given to each team.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Turcotte, seconded by Miss Littlefield, that intercollegiate rules be adopted.—Carried.

Regarding the adoption of these new rules Dr. Phyllis Young and the physical diector pointed out the advantages. The girls come for health and recreation and development is more important than an extra strenuous spectacular game of ball. Dr. Young will give a medical examination to every girl on the teams. Dr. Young has played on several college teams and spoke very favorably of the intercollegiate rules.

It was moved by Miss Littlefield and seconded by Mr. Turcotte that the league consist of 6 teams here represented.—Carried.

Teams wishing to rent the gym floor at certain periods for practice are asked to get in touch with the physical director.

PRESBYTERIANS'

were elected to the Boards of Control of Chosen Christian College and Severance Union Medical College. A college for women has been under discussion and the Assembly appointed a committee to confer on the matter. This is characteristic of the trend of things at the present time. The Koreans are demanding more control in all departments of the work, and with few exceptions the foreign missionaries are willing to hand things over. This is as it should be. Of course this involves problems and difficulties and points of possible friction which can only be understood by one who has had experience on the foreign mission field. It is a time that calls for the highest qualities of mind and heart on the part of the missionary.

After the Assembly, the Federal Council of Protestant Evangelical Missions in Korea met in annual session. This meeting was held in Seoul and was well attended by the missionaries. This body is composed of delegates from the different Missions working in Korea and has functioned for several years in caring for work of a Union nature. We were visited by representatives from the government and by a fraternal delegate from Japan. For the first time the question of a 'minimum wage' was brought up and a special committee was appointed to consider and investigate and report on the matter next year. So progress is being made. Probably this will be the last meeting of this old Federal Council, and already it has been decided to organize a new council,composed not of missionaries, but of delegates from both churches (Koreans) and missions. If this new organization functions well, the former exclusively missionary council will almost certainly pass out of existence, which will mark another and an important step toward Korean autonomy.

Great Catastrophe.

"I suppose you know as much as I do about the great catastrophe in Japan. Judging from the reports of eye-witnesses it is almost impossible to overestimate the awfulness of it. Yokohama is reported as completely destroyed—a city probably some what larger than Toronto. Tokyo is three-fourths destroyed. In Tokyo it is estimated that 350,000 houses were demolished, and some days ago 815,000 refugees had been taken out of the city. While of necessity the casualty lists are not complete, the loss of life is certainly enormous. It is pretty safe to say that half a million people have been killed. One particularly shocking incident will give some idea of the horrors of the inferno which followed the earthquake. 40,000 people had taken refuge in a large open square surrounded by big buildings. When these buildings burned all the people were baked alive in the enclosure. Let us hope that the disaster will bring something of good with it. Reports say that the people are taking it cheerfully and seriously. This may mean much to the progress of Christianity in Japan. Of late the attitude of the Japanese people to Christianity has been their attitude towards the American people. You know what that has been for some years. Now American help and sympathy at this time is likely to materially change this attitude. So financial loss may be atoned for by a change of life, politically and religiously. With all good wishes, yours sincerely,

"D. A. MACDONALD."

MARKSON SENTENCE SETS A PRECEDENT

Opens Way For Punishing Where Public Are Misled to Their Injury.

Peter McArthur in the "Globe" says: The sentence passed upon Bernard Markson of Peterboro' for "spreading of news false and harmful" may have established a precedent of great importance. But before it can be applied we need a good working definition of "news". Is news to be confined to matter published in newspapers? If not, this decision may do away with the necessity of passing blue-sky laws. When any individual or company sends out a statement that is false and intended to mislead the public, should not this be regarded as "news false and harmful" and punished accordingly? It seems to me that every false and misleading prospectus and false monthly statement is a case where false and harmful news has been spread to the injury of the public. If news is defined as information on which the public is likely to be guided in its business transactions—and that was apparently, the view taken of news in the Peterboro' decision—a new way to punish offenders has been found. Understand, please, that I am not objecting to it. I merely wish to point out that it opens an easy way to bring other offenders to book. I understand that, in the matter of libel, if a man dictates a libellous letter to his stenographer he is regarded as having published a libel. So, when swindling companies send out false circulars and misleading information they may be regarded as publishing false news. If the authorities would act along the line of this decision, many notorious cases would be greatly simplified. It would not be necessary to have long and costly investigations to get after offenders. If they issued false news that misled the public, they could be dealt with at once, as Bernard Markson was dealt with. Then their other offenses could be dealt with later. Judging by the circulars that reach me through the mails, and by reports that have been furnished to the Government and published by it, the newspapers are not the great offenders in spreading the false news; and there have been advertising campaigns that might well be reviewed in the light of this important decision. It remains to be seen whether the law that was applied to Bernard Markson can be applied do much more dangerous offenders.

Romance! You do not have to go to the fiction page for it. The advertising columns carry you to the far corners and the odd folk of the world. Read the advertisements.

THROWN FROM HORSE.

HAMILTON, Oct. 29.— (Canadian Press.) — Thrown from his mount when it did not clear the third obstacle in a steeple chase at the annual Gymkhana of the Hamilton Cross Country Club on Saturday, William J. Southam, vice-president of the Spectator Printing Company, was painfully injured about the head and shoulders.

WHEN A NEW TRIBE IS DISCOVERED.

Occasionally a new tribe is discovered that has lived for ages untouched by the disease of civilized races, which destroy them as soon as they take on civilized habits. Whey does an ancient race perish from tuberculosis, cancer, kidney and other diseases under the influence of civilization? The answer is the white man's food, robbed of its growth and repair substances destroys the "protective' elements of the blood, lessening resistance to disease.

One serious defect of civilization is failure to think about our foods. If we did, we would know that if we refine out of our most important food stuffs, the grains their "protective substances," decay, disease and premature death must follow. Yet we do that in making white flour refined cereals, polished rice, white sugar, etc.

Our blood must be alkaline or we perish. Foods must keep it alkaline, yet it is their alkalis we remove when we refine out of the grains the brown flour. This makes these foods "Excess Acid," which makes acid blood. Acid blood lowers resistance strains vital organs ,and permits disease germs to distroy the body.

Roman Meal is the only alkaline cereal. It corrects the acids of "Excess Acid" white flour, other cereals, meats and sweets. It is therefore of the utmost importance that Roman Meal should be served to your family. It makes the most delicious porridge on which to start the day. Added in 25% proportion to white flour it restores the valuable growth and repair element lost in making flour white, and improves in flavour everything you bake. Roman Meal is sold by grocers everywhere.

ONE MAN KILLED IN CAR ACCIDENT

NORTH BAY, Oct. 29.— (Canadian Press.)— Frank Miller, electrician in the employ of the C.P.R. here, was fatally injured and F. Doyle, also of North Bay, suffered three broken ribs in a motor accident near Verner last evening. The smash up is said to have occurred when in taking Demor's crossing, Miller who was driving, failed to slow up the car, with the result that it turned turtle. Miller's neck was broken when he was pinned under the wreckage.

Mechanically able to keep pace with busy minds

Eversharp is a worker, a business pencil—the world's favorite. It keeps going day after day with no other attention than an occasional loading. Many people carry two—one with black lead, one with the new colored lead.

Eversharp is comfortable to hold. It never tires the hand because it is perfectly balanced. The lead never wobbles—the exclusive rifled tip grips it like a vice. You know when to put in a new lead—the automatic index tells how much is left in the barrel. New leads are found under the cap. So is the handy eraser. Eversharp features can't be copied.

The all-metal Wahl Pen is a writing innovation, a fountain pen improvement that makes it a worthy companion for Eversharp. The barrel holds more ink. Wahl Pen cannot crack or split. It is beautiful. It is durable. Wahl Pen will last a life-time.

Wahl Pen and Eversharp are matched in gold and silver. Buy both. Eversharp, $1 to $10; Wahl Pen, $4 to $10. Solid gold at higher prices. Look for the name on each. Wahl Pens in rubber are the finest rubber pens made. $2.75 up.

MORE MYSTERY LINDSAY'S END

Revolver with Which Man Was Slain Found On Hamilton Mountain Side—Also Watch.

HAMILTON, October 29. — Canadian Press. — On Saturday afternoon the revolver with which Homer C. Lindsay was slain on October 17, and the gold watch he wore when shot, were both recovered on the side of the mountain, almost in a line with the spot where the slain man't hat was picked up on the morning after the shooting.

The recovery of these articles tends to disprove the story of being shot by a lone gunman which Lindsay told before he died. But these same articles, instead of solving the mystery, have made the case more mysterious.

Provincial Inspector John Miller said yesterday that the theories have been narrowed down to two. It is possible that Lindsay ended his own life. On the other hand, the revolver and the watch may yet lead to the discovery of some person who shot Lindsay for a compelling motive, and then tossed the gun and watch over the mountain side where it might have been believed they would never be found.

CONDITIONS IN MOSCOW RED RUSSIA'S CAPITAL

A Newspaperman Tells What the Soviet is Doing in Cities of the Russian Republic.

(From a Staff Correspondent of the United Press).

BERLIN (By Mail)—Moscow, Petrograd and the other great Russian cities I have visited, will within a few years be the richest cities in the world. They are, right now, literally pulling themselves up out of the mire of distress and bankruptcy through the revenues they get out of the rents and the street railways.

Think of the Astor fortune! Think of the Vanderbilt fortune! Remember half a dozen other fortunes in New York and London, built up on city real estate, and then remember that these big Russian cities own all the real estate! They collect all of the rents, either direct or through leases, and to date they have expended most of their efforts toward keeping rents down.

Just wait until they start raising rents! Think of the revenue in rents from a town of over a million and a quarter.

In addition, the city administration own all the theatres, the big stores, the banks, the gas, electric light, fuel depots, etc. They operate the big gambling casinos and, while warning all good workmen against the evils of gambling, they cheerfully take their percentage if he will gamble.

The city administrations are, of course, very closely interwoven with the central administration, or the federal soviet administration; they are not 100 per cent. efficient, but considerably more efficient than under the old regime. They are fanatics on public service and they will have all of this tremendous revenue to devote to civic progress.

Already, they are building schools, hospitals and a number of other civic institutions, looking toward educating the people either technically or generally, looking after the health of the people, etc., but in their program this is merely a start.

The big men in the Soviet Government have convinced themselves that all money spent on exterior propaganda is money wasted, until Russia itself is its own best selling argument—until all they have to do to put their idea over in a capitalistic country is to point to Russia and say: "Look what we did in Russia!" From an American standpoint, that will be a long time, but from the German, for instance, it won't be so long.

Peasant Is Grouchy

The city man right now in Russia is in pretty good shape. The peasant is grouchy—not at the political system particularly, but at the economic disabilities under which he is working. In brief, the Russian farmer is up against the same thing the Minnesota farmer is fighting—low grain prices and high cost of manufactured produce. Times aren't so good with the peasant, but the peasant has no alternative program than that offered by the Soviets, which, in brief, is pretty much the same advice that the American Government is giving American farmers—simply to stick it out, better times are coming.

The Russians are exporting some grain—seven shiploads to France while I was in Moscow, and I read the announcement of a big rye contract being signed with the Dutch. If the export business picks up, this will stiffen the grain price.

Moscow is infinitely more Russian than Petrograd and, being the capital, is infinitely more busy. With a million and a half inhabitants, there are barely 500 non-Russians in Moscow.

The Cost of Living

The cost of living in Moscow is about on a par with that of London and New York—for the tourist and the non-union man. Of course, for union members, who comprise about 80 per cent. of the population, the cost of living is about 50 per cent. cheaper than in any of the other world capitals. There is plenty of food in Moscow, even though the cooking may not be particularly appealing to an American or English appetite.

The theatres are all running. The summer season was waning when I left, but three summer gardens with musical shows, vaudeville, etc., were running, and seven legitimate theatres were opening shortly for the winter season.

Trotting races are held daily at the track—with twenty-five races on the card, opening at 1 p.m. and closing at 7:30 p.m. The exposition, which was then in full swing, was the really big "show," bringing in an average of 30,000 transients daily from all parts of Russia.

The restaurants are all open and doing good business, serving good food at Broadway prices, not to speak of at least a dozen cabarets which open at midnight and continue until 4 a.m. There are about a dozen "movie" houses running to capacity.

Chaplin Popular

Charlie Chaplin is popular, and his films were playing at several houses in Moscow during the same week, although I was unable to determine the English equivalents to the Russian titles in the announcements displayed prominently in the city. The Russians are making a number of their own films each month—both dramatic and educational. They have their own news reel. The Government is using the motion picture very widely in educating the peasant and find it very effective.

The schools are literally jammed everywhere by students of all ages and conditions. I was informed that new schools and universities are being opened constantly; that every man in the army is taught to read and write, and that the demand for education is so overwhelming that the officials are simply swept off their feet. It is a demand of hundreds of thousands, not merely a handful.

Big Department Store

Practically all of the large department stores are open. The G. U. M., which is a department store operated on the arcade method and which is one of the biggest stores I have ever seen anywhere, is running full tilt. It is over 200 yards long and 75 yards deep and looks bigger than Pennsylvania Station in New York. The stocks are not as complete as they might be, but for food, clothing, machinery, women's good, shoes, etc., there seems to be everything that anyone would desire.

Most of the stores are State "trusts," but, of course, there are many privately operated concerns. In a gown shop, much larger and more sumptuously furnished than anything I had seen even in Paris, there was not a gown on display for less than $150. It was a Government store, or State "trust." It is rather difficult to know which is a Government shop and which is privately owned.

CARRY INQUIRY TO CAPE BRITON

Commission Will Hear Strike Evidence at Public Meeting.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 29.—(Canadian Press).—Members of the Commission appointed by the Federal Government to inquire into the calling out of troops durings the Cape Breton strike have concluded their executive sessions here, and leave to-day for Sydney, where they will hold their first public meeting on Wednesday. A preliminary session will take place to-morrow, when arrangements will be made for the series of public hearings at which evidence will be taken.

Dealing with the scope of the enquiry a statement has been issued indicating that the probe would be extended to the circumstances surrounding the strike of coal miners if it was found that that occurrence had an important bearing upon the intervention by the militia.

CANADIAN WHEAT CROSSES BOUNDARY

Fordney-McCumber Tariff Not High Enough to Keep It Out.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 29.—Canadian Press. — Canadian wheat began sifting through the thirty cent Fordney-McCumber tariff barrier here last week in quantities sufficiently large to indicate that foreign competition will face the United States crop this year, the local millers and grain men said yesterday.

A record amount of Canadian wheat was purchased on Friday when 350,000 bushels of No. 3 Northern Canadian wheat was purchased by local milers in Fort William and Port Arthur elevators.

Buyers in the local pit on Saturday waited for a chance to get more Canadian wheat but the price was a point or two too high.

Local millers declared that they would buy Canadian wheat whenever its price is such that they can can pay the duty and get it here at a price equal to our lower than United States wheat.

LAKEFIELD VILLAGE AND THE DISTRICT

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 29.—"Garnie" Graham, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Graham, celebrated his fifteenth birthday on Wednesday, the 24th. Twenty-two of his friends spent the evening with him at his home and had a delightful time. The evening passed pleasantly, being spent in games, with music and singing. "Garnie" received a great many presents, including generous gifts of money, and in reply to the congratulations and good wishes of his friends, he says he hopes to have many happy returns of the occasion to which he can entertain his friends. The community at large join in hearty good wishes to Garnie, who is a general favorite in the village.

The approach of Hallowe'en is marked by even more than the usual number of parties, which to a great extent, have superseded the orgy of destruction of property and foolish horse-play which formerly marked this night. There is more fun, certainly, and less serious consequences in the modern methods of celebration.

As a night for lovers, Hallowe'en vies with St. Valentine's as the first favorite. Many a youth and maiden try the charms, which have grown out of superstitions, hundreds of years old, born in Scotland where All Hallowe' Eve received its abbreviation "Hallowe'en."

The mission, which is being held from November 11th to 18th in St. John's Church, promises to be great spiritual uplift to the parish. Rev. R. Seaborne, M.A., of Toronto, is the missioner and is a man of highest repute in his sacred calling.

Rev. C. W. Rose, of Murray Street Baptist Church, Peterborough, will give a lecture on Monday evening in the Lakefield Baptist Church on the world's Baptist congress, held during the summer in Stockholm, Sweden.

The Million Dollar Doll

By C. N. and A. M. Williamson
Authors of "The Lightning Conductor"

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY:

Miles Sheridan, to facilitate his wife's obtaining a divorce is taking a yacht trip; supposedly with

Juliet Divine, a beautiful show-girl, known as the Million Dollar Doll. In reality, however, he is not with the Doll but

Teresa Desmond (Terry), Juliet's unbelievably innocent half-sister, whom the Doll sent to masquerade as herself. Ever since a kindness Miles did her in childhood, Terry had made him her Dream Prince, and they are now madly in love with each other, although he believes her to be the notorious Juliet Divine.

Paul di Salvano, a handsome Italian, formerly the lover of Miles' wife, has deserted her for

Rose Callahan, a somewhat ordinary young heiress, now traveling in Europe with her father.

Betty Sheridan, Miles' wife, frantic at Paul's desertion finds herself in danger of losing her husband also and goes to Algiers where Miles' yacht is lying.

Eustace Nazlo, a wealthy Greek, meeting Miles and the "Doll" recognizes Terry Desmond whom he knew and loved in New York. He it is who warns Betty that her husband's companion is not a show-girl, but a convent maid.

Miles, enjoying a brief sojourn at Bousaada with Terry, and his faithful old servant Mrs. Harkness as chaperone, receives a wire that his wife is in Algiers, demanding to see him. On his way there he is overtaken by Nazlo who informs him that the "Doll" is really Terry Desmond.

Miles and Nazlo race back to Bousaada, each to plead his suit.

Nazlo arriving first tells Terry that Mrs. Sheridan is in Algiers.

Nazlo assures Terry that her only course is to marry him, and Miles will forget her.

At last Miles recognizes in Terry the little girl he befriended years ago. Terry feels she has betrayed Juliet.

CHAPTER LXXVIII

Terry's Soul-searching

"I can't think, if she knew about us, that Miss Divine would mind the truth coming out," he said. "You needn't tell me the rest of the story—why she didn't come on the cruise herself; or why she let a child like you take such risks . . . till she gives you permission.

"The biggest and best part I know. And it's the sweetest, dearest thing that ever happened to me. Talk of 'casting bread on the waters'! Mine—carelessly cast, more for my own pleasure than for your good—has come back to me in glorious blessing. Little Cinderella, the prettiest child I ever saw, has grown up to be the loveliest girl in the world, and some day she'll be my wife!"

"But—Mrs. Sheridan—if it's true what Mr. Nazlo says about her?" Terry couldn't tell him now how she'd been making up her mind that they must not marry!

"I'd forgotten—just for one happy second!" said Miles. "Still, if you love me, if you'll stick to me, dearest, and have faith and patience, it will work out right."

"How can it," Terry asked. "If she doesn't want to be divorced?" (Let him believe just for this dear moment that their marriage depended on his freedom!)

"I—why, I'll think of some way to make her want it again," Sheridan said.

"What way could there be?"

"Oh—she loves money better than most things. If I offer her enough—"

"Bribe her to give you up?" Miles felt a little shudder run through the form between his arms. "Mr. Nazlo said you'd do that. But you couldn't. It wouldn't be—honourable."

"Even honour will have to go by the board, then, if it comes to my choosing between it and you," he answered. "Child, I can't give you up. I won't. I know now that life wouldn't be life without you. I'd rather die and be done with it all."

She bent and kissed his forehead, as he still knelt at her feet; two small, cold hands caressing his head with a soft and a loving touch.

"You love me—as much as that? I can't make it seem possible! There's nothing about me. I love you as I love heaven. You're my only heaven, the only one I ever knew. I can't lose you."

"You shan't then!" the girl cried out sharply and suddenly. "Rather than you should suffer so, or—stoop to bribe your wife, or do anything not worthy of yourself, I'll belong to you forever, my Prince, without being married. That couldn't hurt you, could it?"

Sheridan sprang to his feet and clasped her in his arms. He kissed her as if they were to part forever before the stroke of the clock. Then he loosed the hold which had taken her breath.

"I won't let my Cinderella come to me in that way," he said. "No! I've sinned against her enough. It's got to be marriage or nothing. But it shall be marriage—and everything."

Terry was glad—if it was in her then to be glad—that Miles asked for no promise.

He did not know about Captain Guilbert's insults, and of her own soul-searchings. He did not guess how all the bewildered shame and humiliation she had suffered for Julia and for herself had culminated today; so he took it for granted that she was of the same mind as last night, when a storm of love had swept her into his arms.

If he had tried to get some promise from her now, it would have been hard to refuse. She would scarcely have known how to refuse. Yet she wanted above all things to be strong. Her Prince had been wretched with Betty Sheen, who had stained the honour of his name.

She—the girl who owed him everything that was best in life—must not be the one to stain that name a second time. If he wouldn't take her in a way that could not harm himself she must be brave, and not think too much of her own happiness. But she hadn't the heart to hurt him more. There was time by and by, when she had quite made up her mind what to do.

Meanwhile she must think how to pain him least. She must learn to feel that it was his future that mattered. It was only last night that this dream of happiness had come—and dreams always broke! She would never be so sad, whatever happened, never so sad, as if she had not known these few wonderful hours of love. She could live on the memory, it seemed, for the rest of her days.

Sheridan was torn between the need to go, and the wish to stay, until the inspiration came to take the girl with him, rather than leave her in Bousaada, with Nazlo there. In the morning, when she had begged to go, Miles had refused: but everything was different now. He thought that Terry would snatch at the idea, and was surprised when she demurred.

"Truly, it's best not," she pleaded. "We couldn't let Mrs. Harkness stay behind. And if you want to travel all night, as you say, she'd be tired. I'm not afraid of Mr. Nazlo. I was, a little, once in New York. But I don't think he means to be bad. Anyhow, he can do me no harm—here, with Mrs. Harkness."

It was true, Nazlo could do her no harm. She was safe with Harky, and Sheridan could almost have laughed, with his love in his arms, at the thought of Nazlo daring to want her for his wife. The man had as much chance of getting her as of growing wings!

It was hateful to part from the girl, but common sense was on her side. With Betty and Terry Desmond both in Algiers, some disagreeable scene might take place before he could intervene.

In the end, Miles gave up his "inspiration," and resolved to begin his journey again within an hour. The chauffeur had agreed to start at a few moments' notice.

Dinner would give time for a little rest, and the moon would see the travellers through the night.

SIXTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF HASTINGS CHURCH

Brief History of Organized Methodist Faith—Pastors in Charge Since The Year 1866.

HASTINGS, Oct. 29.— Hastings Methodist church yesterday celebrated their sixtieth anniversary. Previous to the erection of the present brick structure in 1863, the congregation worshipped in the temperance hall and the old school house, but much to the credit of these pioneers, a sacred edifice was then erected for worship.

The ministers were Rev. Ward and Rev. Graham, father of Hon. G. P. Graham and brother-in-law of James Stevenson, Sr., who is 90 years of age, and who was present at the anniversary service yesterday. The ministers in charge after the erection of the present church were: In 1863, Rev. D. A. Perrin; 1866, Revs. Mark and Weldon; 1867, Rev. Wm. Scott; 1869, Rev Robt. Godfrey; 1872, Rev. Robt. Robinson; 1874, Rev. W. Woodsworth; 1877, Rev. T. Clewworth; 1879, Rev. H. Kenner; 1882, Rev. E. D. Lewis; 1885, Rev. Wm. Limbert; 1888, Rev. A. R. Campbell; 1891, Rev. S. B. Phillips; 1894, Rev. J. A. Jewel; 1898, Rev. Francis Johnson 1901, Rev. A. L. Adam (who died on duty); 1902, Rev. T. P. Steele; 1905, Rev. Wesley Elliott; 1908, Rev. C. W. Barrett, who is now chairman of the Campbellford district, and during whose pastorate the church was enlarged and remodelled; 1911, Rev. T. H. P. Anderson; 1915, Rev. Isaac Snell; 1919, Rev. A. R. Walsh; 1920, Rev. M. L. Hinton, the present esteemed pastor, under whom the church was further enlarged by the addition of an alcove and the installation of a pipe organ.

Anniversary sermons were preached on Sunday by the Rev. Dr. Shorey, of Picton, who gave two most inspiring addresses, which were both helpful and encouraging.

Good congregations attended.

The floral decorations were worthy of note, being most profuse, and perhaps the most prominent of which was a bunch of 60 carnations in honor of the event.

The ladies of the congregation are serving a fowl supper in the town hall this evening, after which a good concert programme will be given in the church.

Personals.

Mr. Wm. Thomson of Detroit, is visiting friends in town.

Mrs. F. Prest, of Detroit, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. B. F. Doxsee.

Mrs. Aubrey Doxsee of Peterborough, is visiting Mrs. B. F. Doxsee.

Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Hess and family, were in Wooler on Saturday, attending the funeral of the former's sister, Mrs. S. D. McColl.

Unsolved Mysteries

THE CAROLINA SCHOOLMASTER

Upon few subjects connected with the career of Napoleon Bonaparte is history as explicit and as detailed as it is in dealing with the trial and the execution of Michel Ney, Marshal of France, Duke of Elchingen, Prince of Moskva and one of the most romantic characters connected with the Napoleonic wars.

Charged by Louis XVIII. with the capture of Bonaparte after the latter's escape from Elba, Ney had discovered that his loyalty to his old commander overshadowed everything else and, falling upon his knees, he had offered his army to the Emperor and accompanied him upon his victorious entry into Paris. Then, after the final victory of the allied forces and Napoleon's exile to St. Helena, Ney was arrested on a charge of treason, convicted and sentenced to be shot on the morning of December 5, 1815. The most graphic details of the manner in which this sentence was carried out are to be found in the annals of the time, but . . .

On the morning of December 7, Philip Petrie, a sailor who had served under Ney, was scrubbing the decks of a vessel bound from Bordeaux to Charleston, S. C., when, glancing up, he chanced to catch sight of the face of a cloaked and hooded passenger who was just stepping aboard. Instantly the sailor was on his feet, his hand snapping into an involuntary salute.

Startled, the stranger inquired: "Who do you think I am?"

"I know that you are Marshal Ney," was the reply.

"Marshal Ney was executed in Paris two days ago," answered the mysterious stranger as he disappeared into his cabin, from which he did not emerge during the remainder of the voyage.

Some weeks later, a number of French immigrants met a man whom they were certain they recognized in the streets of Georgetown, S. C. "Le Marechal Ney" they exclaimed, but the man vanished into a nearby house and was not seen thereafter.

Within a few months a stranger, who gave his name as Peter Ney, made his appearance in Cheraw, S. C., and secured an engagement to teach school in a nearby town. One morning the members of his class noted that he opened a newspaper which had arrived by mail, that he glanced at the headlines and that his face went white as if he were about to faint. Classes had to be dismissed because of the schoolmaster's indisposition and, on the following morning, when Ney did not appear, a searching party found him in bed, with his throat partially cut and a newspaper still clutched in his left hand. The paper contained the news of the death of Napoleon at St. Helena.

Thanks to skilful nursing, Peter Ney recovered and continued to teach school until 1846 when he died, after having been reported to have confessed his real identity to the physician who attended him. In addition, Mrs. Mary C. Dalton, of Ireton County, N. C., one of the intimate friends of the dead man, declared after his death that she had in her possession a statement in which Ney admitted that he was the former Marshal of France and said that he had escaped death through the intervention of the Duke of Wellington and the substitution of another body for his own. According to this story, the firing squad had been selected from Ney's own men and had been instructed to aim above the Marshal's head, the officer falling forward and crushing a bag of blood which had been concealed in the breast of his coat. He had then been smuggled out of Paris and had taken passage on the vessel which sailed from Bordeaux, the whole affair being conducted with great secrecy in order to avoid the suspicion that some of the Napoleonic sympathizers were not being dealt with sufficiently harshly.

The chain of evidence which appears thus to connect Peter Ney, the Carolina schoolmaster, with Michel Ney, Marshal of France, is strong and complete, save for one link: Why did Ney continue to live in comparative poverty in America when, after amnesty was granted to all political offenders in France, he might have returned to his home, where he would have been famous and wealthy? After all, was it merely a string physical resemblance and a similarity of names which led to the confusion of the marshal with the schoolmaster?

DEANERY MEETING HELD AT MARMORA

Archdeacon Beamish of Belleville Visited the Parish.

MARMORA, Oct. 29.—The Venerable Archdeacon G. R. Beamish, M.A., of Belleville, visited the parish of Marmora last Thursday. Owing to the inclemency of the weather the gathering of the members of the Deanery did not realize expectations. Divine service was held at St. Paul's at 7.30 p.m., at which the archdeacon, the Rev. W. H. Rowle, of Rowdon, and the rector officiated. Mrs. Wm. Lett, the organist, received good support from M. S. B. Wright with the violin. The lessons were read by the Rev. W. H. Towle. The infant son of the Rev. and Mrs. Watson was baptized, receiving the name of Lewis Ross. The archdeacon delivered an eloquent sermon, choosing for his text: St. Matthew, 22:42, "What think ye of Christ?" This was prefaced by an impressive tribute to the life and labors of the late beloved rector, Canon C. M. Harris, for long years a highly valued personal friend of the preacher. He also appealed for support of the present rector. The anthem, "Great and Marvellous," was rendered by an augmented choir, the solo being taken by Mrs. G. R. Hartley with pleasing effect. It was to be regretted that a larger attendance was not to be seen at what was so impressive a service

The regular meeting of the A. Y. P. A., was held at the home of Mrs. Wiggins on Monday evening.

The Young People's Society of the Methodist Church met on Wednesday evening under the leadership of the fourth vice-president, Miss Hilda Thomson. The Rev. D. R. Clare spoke on patriotism and citizenship.

The Ladies' Aid of the Springbrook Church, spent an enjoyable evening at the home of Mrs. Tom Neal. The evening was spent in contests, after which a dainty lunch was served by the hostess.

Mr. Alfred Sutton, of St. Ola, spent Tuesday of this week at the home of Rev. D. R. Clare.

Mr. Sabine, of Weston, returned home Thursday evening, after spending several days in town on business.

Mr. Bennett, of the Marmora Herald, attended Stirling Masonic Lodge meeting on Thursday evening. The meeting was held as Mr. Laycock was making his annual visit to Stirling lodge.

Rev. D. R. Clare took anniversary services Sunday, 21st, in Norham. Mrs. Clare accompanied him and spent the day with friends there.

Rev. Ernest Cafley, of Norham, preached in the Methodist Church on Sunday, October 21.

Mrs. Edith Howes returned Friday from a week's visit with friends in Belleville.

JUNIOR RUGBY SQUAD SWIFTLY ELIMINATED WENT DOWN FIGHTING

Defeated By More Experienced Toronto Team That Got All the Breaks —Peterboro Deprived of Try By Visitors' Offside.

LOCAL BOYS LIGHTER.

Toronto ..... 5 0 0 1—6

Battling every second of the game against a heavier and much more experienced team the Peterboro juniors were eliminated from the O.R.F.U. race on Saturday afternoon when they went down before the Y.M.H.A. crew, Toronto City League champions in a sudden death game at Riverside Park. The score was 6 to 0, a figure that testifies to the stubborn defence put up by the Peterboro youngsters against odds and yet leaves no clear idea of the closeness of the struggle which is better illustrated by the fact that in the last minute of play the Petes were within an ace of scoring a touchdown which if converted would have put the teams on an even footing.

It was a case of a penalty hurting the unoffending instead of the offending side. With the ball on Toronto's ten yard line and a Peterboro end run under way the whistle blew for a Toronto offside. The decision gave the Petes a five yard gain but it cost them a touchdown for the end run had been successful and Sheehy had crossed the visitors goal line with the ball under his arm It was a tough break and cost the home crew a chance to tie up the game for the Toronto line held and on the third down broke through and smothered an inside kick, the final whistle sounding immediately after.

An it wasn't the only tough break the homesters encountered during the afternoon for official decisions caught them both coming and going. The visitors' first five points were the result of a couple of decisions by Referee Nip Dwan of Toronto, who first gave them the ball on the Petes thirty-five yard line for an alleged forward pass and then after the ball had been batted forward following a fumble behind the Y.M.H.A. line and the Petes apparently recovered possession Dwan handed it over to the visitors who took advantage of his generosity to score the only touchdown of the game.

A Ponderous Machine.

The Toronto crew, a ponderous and sturdy machine with not a great deal of speed afoot but with a well executed series of line plays and a wing line that was equally good on the defensive and attack, pivoted their campaign on mass plays and inexperience of the Peterboro line made it easy for the Hebrew ball carriers to smash through for big gains ,especially in midfield. The game Peterboro linesmen although outweighed and considerably at sea at times by reason of the criss-cross line plunges and delayed bucks hurled at them by the visitors tightened up in great style in their own territory and despite the frequency with which the Y.M.H.A. gang made yards around the centre the field, they only succeeded once in carrying the ball over the Petes goal line, a record that speaks volumes for the plucky resistance of the Petes who were playing their second game as a team against a heavier outfit who have played together for three seasons.

Runs Were Smothered

Against the hard tackling and bulky Y.M.H.A. line the Petes bucks made no impression and practically all the end runs attempted were smothered before they got started. Under the circumstances it might have been the wisest tactics to have kicked on, the first down in most cases for it was noticeable that the aerial attack launched in the last half enabled the home crew to more than hold their own and came near to snatching the game out of the fire for them.

The Petes back division were most effective especially on the defence. Mulholland, Sheehy and Ward caught splendidy, handling kicks while surrounded by enemy wings without anything that looked like a fumble Mulholland did fine kicking and Ward contributed a new defence method when he stopped Levine the visitors' quarterback with a body check when a touchdown seemed certain. Sheehy in spite of a bad leg was always prominent and Jack Turur at quarter-back worked himself into a state of exhaustion. All the wing line gave everything they had with McPherson, Wilgar and Cowan especially standing out.

The most effective backfield men for the visitors were Barney Cohen the centre half who had a sure pair of hands and a nice turn of speed, although he slowed up badly on end and Godkin the heaviest man on the team whose line plunges were great ground gainers Goldman did some good punting in the first half and Levine was very useful at quarter. The two outside wings, L. Listers and A. Cohen were in the limelight on the wing line, although there were not weak spots.

The teams:

Toronto Y.M.H.A.

Flying wing—Gorback.
Halves—Godkin B. Cohen, Goldman.
Quarter—Levine.
Snap—Letovitch.
Inside wings—Salamanski, Ceeman.
Middle wings— Herenhorn, G. Lister.
Outside wings—L. Lister, A. Cohen.
Subs—Bronstein, Altman, Sher, Samuels, Males, Einbinder.

Peterboro.

Flying wing—E. Johnston.
Halves — Mullholland, Ward, Browne.
Quarter—Turner.
Snap—A. Johnston.
Inside wings—Griffin, Wilgar.
Middles—Ashmore, Cowan.
Outside wings—McClellan, McPherson.
Subs—Sheehy, Clancy, Holland, Patterson, McColl.
Referee—Nip Dwan, Toronto.
Umpire—Major Gifford, Toronto.

The Play.

The visitors kicked off and the Petes soon worked the ball to midfield, a Yake extended run giving Browne a chance to skirt Toronto's right wing and get away for yards. Play was in the centre of the field for some time with neither team having much advantage. A long punt by Goldman put the Petes on the defensive on their thirty-five yard line and when an extended run was called back for a forward pass the visitors got possession within striking range. Godkin made nine yards in a line plunge and on the next play the ball was fumbled and bounced forward off Levine into the line. The Petes apparently recovered possession but Dwan gave the ball to the visitors twenty-fve yards out. Godkin made twelve yards, Lister added three more and on the next down Levine was shoved over for a touchdown which was not converted.

The Petes rallied and drove the visitors back on the defensive. When quarter time was called Y.M.H.A. had the ball on their own one yard line but they worked out of danger early in the second quarter and honors were even throughout the period, most of the play being away from the scoring zone. Only once was either line seriously threatened. Levine the visitors' quarterback squirmed through the line at Peterboro's thirty-five yard line and was clean away, sprinting down the side for what looked like a sure touch. Ward, however, met him a yard from the goal line with a terrific body check that jolted the ball out of his hand and into touch giving Peterboro possession. They held their own safely until the whistle blew. Y.M.H.A. might have booted to the dead line for a point but they played for a bigger prize and got nothing.

Chance to Score.

The Petes kicked off at the beginning of the third period and held the visitors on the defensive. The line smothered two bucks at Toronto's quarter and then broke through and blocked the kick. It was a royal chance to score, but two end runs failed and Ward foozled a drop kick on the third down, giving the visitors possession. They chased the Petes back in their own territory after this failure and nearly forced a rouge. Sheehy just managed to carry the ball out by inches.

The visitors continued to press early in the last period but the Petes line held well in their own territory Finally, however, Cohen booted over the line to Ward who was pulled down for a rouge. Play was in mid field for the next ten minutes and Toronto's lead looked enough to win without trouble. Then came the play that nearly saved the day of the Petes. With the Petes in possession at centre Mulholland placed an inside kick neatly over the heads of the wing line and Turner, grabbing the ball, carried it to Toronto's twenty-yard line before being downed. He was almost away for a try. The Y.M.H.A. line held and the Petes were forced to kick, Levine lost the ball when tackled and Cowan fell on it at Toronto's ten yard line. Griffin failed to gain on a buck and in the next play Sheehy went over for a try but the ball was called back for a Toronto offside .With the Petes in possession five yards out a score seemed certain but a line plunge failed to gain, the ball was poorly snapped on the next play and Turner was lucky to recover and on the last down with an onside kick on the cards, the Y.M.H.A. crew broke through and blocked the kick. Time was called before another lineup was possible.

It was a hard fought, strenuous game and the Peterboro youngsters deserve every credit for the game stand they made.

Australian Boxer Dies After Fight

MELBOURNE, Australia, Oct. 29—(Canadian Press Cable via Reuters).—A tragedy attended the heavyweight boxing contest at the stadium here last night (Sunday) between Max Gornick of Queensland and Jack Dunstan, the latter dying in the hospital after being knocked out in the eighteenth round. Dunstan who joined the Australian navy at the outbreak of the war was champion boxer of the grand fleet.

ROUND TIED UP.

OTTAWA, Oct 29.—(Canadian Press)—Brockville tied with Ottawa New Edinburghs for first place in the O.R.F.U. when they defeated Ottawa seconds by 9 to 2 here Saturday. The game was replete with loose plays and fumbles by both teams. The first half was scoreless although both goal lines were threatened several times.

WIN FOR MANITOBA

WINNINPEG, Oct. 20.—(Canadian Press)—Manitoba University rugby-lists triumphed over the Saskatchewan University team by 14 to 10 on Saturday afternoon after the hardest and most exciting rugby game of the season. The game was the first of a home and home series

HALIFAX RACE STARTS TODAY

Canadian Skipper Asks For Measurements of the New Challenger.

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 28.—(Canadian Press).—At nine o'clock tomorrow morning, Bluenose, international champion of the Canadian and American fishing fleets for the past two years, and Columbia, Gloucester challenger for that honor, will be at the starting line to get away over the Halifax race course for the first of the series to decide the ocean classic for the fourth time since its institution in 1920. Captain Angus Walters and Captain Ben Pine tonight declared all was in readiness and that they were anxious to test their respective vessels against each other. The only thing that might interfere with tomorrow's race would be lack of wind. In case of this eventuality, the Columbia would be hauled out and officially measured as to depth. Her other official measurements have been taken and have shown that she comes well within the specifications required by the deed of gift of the international trophy. If there is no delay in the series because of lack of wind the Volumbia will be hauled out for measurements when the races are over.

The delay in measuring the Columbia resulted in the usual crop of rumors which arise when racing fans have a day to spare before the race and have nothing much to do, but any suggestion that the race might be delayed was dispelled tonight when Captain Angus Walters issued a statement saying that an arrangement by which the Columbia would be hauled out at the first opportunity or after the series, was satisfactory to him.

Avoid Discord.

"We are going to finish this series without a hitch and without illfeeling if we can. We are not worrying about technicalities. All we ask is a fair field and no favors," Captain Walters said.

The official measurements of the Columbia so far taken were made by R. J. Milgate of the Nova Scotia Technical College and show the following:

Load waterline, 110 feet; overall length, 140 feet; sail area, 9,159 square feet, or 420 feet less than allowed; displacement, 269.6 long tons; main mast, deck to top mast-head, 110 feet, 6 inches (116 feet allowed).

The Columbia was given a tryout today, but there was little wind and at times absolute calm.

Two Out of Three.

The course for the races starting tomorrow will consist of six miles straight out of Halifax harbor and about thirty-four miles of a triangular course, chosen to give at least one leg of windward work under the wind prevailing at the start of the race. The time limit will be six hours. The championship goes to the vessel winning two out of three races.

The statement issued by Captain Walters tonight read as follows:

"During her two years of international racing the Bluenose, at the request of the owners of the Elsie and the Henry Ford, was hauled out for measurement. In Halifax, in 1921, the Bluenose was hauled out after she had won the series and was measured on the Dartmouth Marine Railway. Last year the Bluenose was hauled out at Gloucester before the series began.

"This year, on behalf of my crew, of the people of my own country and all Canadians generally, I have asked that the Columbia be hauled out and measured. We are not insisting tht she be hauled out before the races. She arrived with little time to spare—and I am taking Captain Pine's word. He asssure's me that if the Columbia wins she will be hauled out and measured here."

MA STRIBLING AND HER BOY FIGHTER DISCUSS AN OFFER

MACON, Ga., Oct. 29.—When Young Stribling school-boy light-heavy-weight, who caused the champion Mike McTigue, and his imported referee Harry Ertle such great embarrassment some days ago at Columbus, gets an offer to fight his mother decides whether it should be accepted or not.

"Ma" Stribling ,as she is known here is virtually the business manager of her rising young gladiator. She feels that Young Stribling is a match for any man of his weight in the world especially after the manner in which he cuffed McTigue around, but she is careful to see that he is not overly matched—or under paid. In short, "Ma" Stribling is a regular manager, and none of the wise-alecky promotors are going to put anything over on her.

COLLEGIATES RAN UP SCORE ON LINDSAY IN THE FINAL QUARTERS

Local Students Got Away to Bad Start and Were Held to 17-13 Score in Their Favor at Half Time—Kicking Was Big Factor.

Team Performed Well.

P. C. I. took a big lead in the first lap of their Junior Interscholastic Schedule of this year, when they defeated the Lindsay Collegiate in the Scugog town to the tune of 34 to 18. Although the local school have lost most of their gridiron stars, who formed their sturdy team of last year, this year's team demonstrated Saturday to the satisfaction of every one taht due to the coaching of C. S. Browne they are from from novices and should creditably uphold the honor of the school on the gridiron this year.

Saturday they out-ran, out-tackled and out-kicked the Lindsay team. The only department of the game in which the heavier Lindsay crew had any edge whatver was in their line plunging. The P.C.I. backfield, after the first costly fumbled punt, caught errorlessly. The Lindsay team's play grew better as the game progressed, and in the last half the teams were fighting toe to toe.

Used Kicking Game.

The P. C. I. team after the first few minutes of play, got into their stride and every member of them starred in some part. The winners had a couple of men down on every kick who dropped the catcher in his tracks or jumped on the fumbled ball. The kicking game showed up so successfully that in the third quarter it was used almost solely. The P.C.I. got three touches on intercepted passes.

Lindsay's Stars.

Piercy, the flat footed and slippery Lindsay halfback was head and shoulders above the rest of his team on the play. His open field running was a feature and he obtained most of his team's touches. Lockie and Logan, the Lindsay big middle wings repeatedly ripped holes in the P. C. I. lines. Hall kicked nicely for the losers, obtaining the only field goal of the game.

First Quarter.

Lindsay kicked off. Peterboro made large gains on runs around the end. Piercy grabbed up a fumbled pass, and was only stopped on the P.C.I. twenty yard line. Lindsay chose to kick and Meyers fell on the ball when Cole fumbled behind the P. C. I. Hall failed to convert. L.C.I., 5; P.C.I. 0.

The P.C.I. worked the ball down on end runs and Bookhout on a long run earned a bye, which Young converted. L.C.I. ; P.C.I. 6.

The play swayed around centre, but Cole made a long punt which was fumbled behind their bunt line by the Lindsay halves, and Chew fell on the ball. Young failed to convert. L.C.I. 5; P.C.I. 11.

Second Period.

The P.C.I. took the offensive and Bookhout tore over for a try, which Young converted. L.C.I. 5. P.C.I. 17.

Lindsay worked the ball down on successful line plunging and Piercy raced over for a try. Young stopped the chance to convert. L.C.I. 10; P. C.I., 17.

Another long open field run by Piercy was only stopped twenty yards out in front of the P.C.I. goal. Hall seized the opportunity and sent over a field goal. L.C.I. 13; P.C.I., 17.

Martin picked up a loose ball and was away for yards Half time was called with P. C. I. in possession on the Lindsay forty yard line.

Third Quarter.

Outram interrupted a pass and raced over for a try. Young converted. L. C. I., 13; P. C. I. 23.

On some P.C.I. fumbles and good line plunging the Lindsay team worked the ball down but were stopped right on the P.C.I. touchline and Cole kicked out of danger. Lindsay failed to make yards and on the first down P. C. I. kicekd and regained the ball at centre, when Chew got it on the fumbled punt. Cole kicked again and Outram fell on the ball twenty yords out from the L.C.I. touchline when the punt was fumbled. Cole doing the best open field running of the day tore over for a try. Young failed to convert. L. C. I. 13; P.C.I., 28.

Fourth Quarter.

Lindsay kept the ball near P.C.I. touch and repeatedly were only stopped a few yards. The good kicking of Cole only saved for P.C.I. on these occasions. Piercy then made his second try on a great individual run. L.C.I. 18; P.C.I. 28.

Peterboro worked the ball down but on a fumble Lindsay gained possession. Stevens then intercepted a Lindsay pass and went over for a try, which Young neatly converted. L.C.I., 18, P.C.I., 34.

Lindsay on repeated criss-cross play and line bucking worked the ball down, and time was called with Lindsay in possession on P.C.I. twenty yard line.

The teams lined up as follows:
LINDSAY C. I.:
Centre, Moore.
Inside wings, Webster and Blackwell.
Middle wings, Lockie and Logan.
Outside wings, Meyers and Barker
Flying wing, Lonergan.
Half backs, Piercy, Hall and Cook
Quarter back, Balfour.
Subs, Alsop, Peel and Rogers.
PETERBORO C. I.:
Centre, B. Copping.
Inside wings, B. Craw and O. Martin.
Middle wings, W. Rye and H. Ebbs
Outside wings, T. Outram and A. Yelland.
Flying wing, H. Chew.
Half backs, H. Cole, A. Bookhout, and F. Stevens.
Quarter back, H. Young.
Subs, G. Pogue, R. Thompson and A. Neal.

It's the Blade that Counts

In the last quarter—score tied—everyone "on their toes"—each man on both teams straining for an advantage, and using his last ounce of energy toward one purpose—to "bulge" the net and score the winning "counter".

That's when the skate blade counts—it must have just the right "edge" that it has early in the game—It must grip the hard ice sufficiently to give you the speed advantage over your opponent.

In moments like this the skates are all-important—games have been won or lost on the efficiency or inefficiency of a single player's skates.

That's why, year after year, hockey players, whose names are almost household words, stick to STARR Skates with their correctly tempered blades—the blades that hold their "edge" long after ordinary skates are dull.

Firpo May Meet Friday's Winner

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(Canadian Press)—Luis Angel Firpo or Harry Wills, the dusky aspirant for Dempsey's crown, may meet the winner of the match between Jack Renault, Canada's heavyweight champion, and Floyd Johnson, the Iowa cornhusker, scheduled for next Friday night at Madison Square Garden, Tex Rickard indicated last night.

The promotor promised to do his best to have the victor in Friday's clash meet either Firpo, when he returns to this country, or Wills.

VETS WON THE WHITE TROPHY

Defeated the Thistles By Owo Goals to One.

A large crowd of spectators witnessed the Vets win the White Challenge Trophy (League Championship) from the Thistle at the Oval, on Saturday afternoon, by two goals to one.

THE GAME.

The Thistle won the toss and decided to take advantage of the sun on their backs. Prompt at 3.20, the game started in nice fashion with each team playing clever football. A corner was awarded the Thistle that was cleared by Wade. From a throw in, Monks travelled down the wing to run close in upon McKay for the opening goal. Play was confined to mid-field for a while where the halfbacks of each team tackled close, until Dyer swung the ball out to Sharman who got two unsuccessful corners. Monks retired with a twisted knee. This was followed up by an accident to Richmond that nullified his usefulness for the rest of the game. A combined attack by Scots resulted in Blowers giving away a penalty-kick which was converted by Richmond, to equalize. A fine run and shot by Melvill, brought Griffine in to action again and next item of note was clever tackle by Jackson against the Vets outside-left who was about through. Near half-time the Vets men got into the Thistle ground, but Rae came to the rescue and beat off the attack, offsides sending the Vets further back. Interval—one goal each.

HALF-TIME.

Next forty-five minutes had a scraggy and most unsatisfactory and annoying opening. Dyer was the first to become prominent in a solo raid that was cleared by Anderson. At other end, Richmond beat Wade but was held at critical moment by Hurle. Dawson returned to Burgess who centered to Richmond, then Wade robbed him to clear. McMillan sent forward to Hutton and a bad miss by Blowers left inside-man of Thistle a chance at goal which missed by inches. Both territorities were visited in rotation and a shot by Richmond gave Griffine some trouble when he threw himself across the goal to save and touch the ball round the post. The play was again in Scots area and hot aggressive work was seen Sharman forcing the pace upon Scots goal, where Jackson tipped the ball against McKay and through his own goal. Away went the play to the other end, that was minus of anything startling until a foul-charge against Crowe looked dangerous for the Vets which was frustrated. To give a synopsis of the play would be hard to write. The last ten minutes was a matter of throw-in's from the touch, until the final whisle blew. G. W. V. A. 2. Thistle 1.

Thistle: McKay, goal; Anderson and Rae backs; Jackson, McMillan and Dawson half-backs; Melville, Hutton, Richmond, Williams and Burgess forwards.

G. W. V. A.: Griffine goal; Crowe and Blowers backs; Burrows Wade and Hurle half-backs; Monks, Chambers Dyer, Bestard and Sharman forwards.

Referee: J. C. Russell.

TIGERS REMAIN IN THE RUNNING

Montreal Showed Reversal of Form and Mussed Up Plays—Big Crowd Out.

MONTREAL, Oct. 29.—Hamilton Tigers remained in the running with the Toronto Argos for the 1923 inter-provincial rugby union championship when they blanked the M. A. A. A. squad in a listless game played at the Winged Wheelers' gridiron here on Saturday afternoon by a score of 8 to 0. The loss not only eliminated M. A. A. A. from the championship race but also deprived the local squad of what chance place.

A record crowd for a Big Four game locally attended Saturday's contest the 6,500 spectators who had anticipated a rare battle between the two teams being disappointed with the display . Tigers played good football, though they lacked the necessary finish to carry the ball across the line, but the local players were away below form they showed against Argonauts here the previous Saturday. Time and again they fumbled the ball, mussed up end runs and generally lacked punch, with the result that the Hamilton squad conpart of the game and their line was never in danger. Any rallies that the Winged Wheelers staged never proceeded far. miscues invariably nullifying good starts.

Two minor fistic encounters broke out during the progress of the struggle, Joe Glickman taking exception to some heavy playing by Sammy Manson and Ryan rushing in on Cox when the Hamilton centre had tackled high. All four were banished by Referee W. A. Hewitt.

GERMAN STARTS AGAINST HOPPE

Round Robin Tournament For 18.2 Balkline Billiard Title.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(Canadian Press)—New record runs and averages are expected to be established during the third annual tournament for the world's 18.2 balkline billiard championship starting here today with William F Hoppe, the present champion, and five other leading billiardists as competitors.

Hoppe, in fine stroke, is generally favored to retain his title. He will have the honor of opening the play with Erich Hagenlacher, the German champion, as his opponent.

The tournament will consist of 15 games, a round robin of matches at 500 points each, continuing to Monday, November 5 Besides Hoppe and Hagenlacher, the contestants are Jake Schaefer, Jr., who won the title two years ago, an lost it to Hoppe again last year; Walker Cochran, United States; Roger Conti, champion of France, and Edouard "High Run" Horemans, of Belgium

Hoppe has fully recovered from the muscle hitch that affected his masse work last year, his perpendicular stroking now being at its best. His averages in practice have been unusually high and his judgment of speed excellent.

TRAINING SCHOOL FOR BALL PLAYERS

Major Leagues Could Develop Their Own Material Heydler Proposes.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(Canadian Press) — Establishment of a training school for promising young baseball players from the sand-lots and college diamonds was proposed yesterday by John A Heydler, President of the National League, in a statement declaring he believed little would be gained by resumption of draft regulations between the majors and big minors.

President Heydler also declared against excessive prices that numerous minor league stars have brought, asserting that the investments had brought comparatively little return and pointing out that better results were being obtained by the majors through development of their players from sand-lot and college material. A training school, he added, with old major leaguers as instructors, would afford an ideal method of giving preliminary development to budding stars.

President Heydler's statement was prompted by the recent proposal of a $10,000 draft price limit for players from Class AA leagues, which will be laid before the Pacific Coast League at its annual meeting next month.

HARVARD LOST TO DARTMOUTH

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(Canadian Press).—Among the many noteworthy gridiron happenings of Saturday that which stands out as the most sensational was the 16 to 0 defeat of Harvard's stalwart eleven by Dartmouth.

There was a crisp decisiveness about the Dartmouth triumph which left no room for alibis. Two touchdowns clearly earned and a 40-yard placement goal from the field, plus a point following touchdown gave Dartmouth its winning margin.

The defeat of Pittsburgh by its next-door neighbor, Carnegie Tech., was another upset.

Slightly under-ranking the Dartmouth-Harvard and Pittsburgh-Carnegie games, were Pennsylvania's victory over Centre of Kentucky, 24 to 0. Williams' third successive triumph over Columbia, 10 to 0, and the bitterly waged tie contests between Penn State and West Virginia, Princeton and Navy and Rutgers and Lafayette, the respective scores of which were 13-13, 3-3 and 6-6.

Detroit Blanked.

From an intersectional viewpoint the east scored a slight advantage over rival sections, with Pennsylvania's victory over Centre, Washington and Jefferson's 6 to 0 win over Detroit and Colgate's 27 to 0 triumph over Ohio Wesleyan counting for the east against Marquette's 7 to 6 victory over Boston College and Oberlin's 14 to 7 win over Amherst.

Five Western Conference football teams trotted from gridirons Saturday with unblemished records, after having fought game, and in some instances, spectacular battles with rivals for the big ten championship. The scoreless tie of Minnesota and Wisconsin at Madison, Wis., was the principal upset of the day.

Chicago defeated Purdue, 20 to 0. The defeat placed Ohio in the second division of conference teams.

Notre Dame Wins Again.

Michigan, in a non-conference contest, had little trouble in disposing of the Michigan Aggies, 37 to 0. In the principal intersectional contest in the mid-west, Notre Dame duplicated its wins from Army and Princeton by taking the Georgia Tech. eleven into camp, 35 to 7.

SOCCER NOTES

Regular meeting of P. and D.F.A. will be held to-night in Chamber of Commerce rooms at 8 prompt

Canadian Packing Co. junior soccer team defeated the junior soccer champions—De Laval— in Mayor Taylor's cup final by three goals to two. Goal scorere for the winners were: Jones two and Chambers; and losers, Studeley and Grant The winning goal was obtained in first fifteen minutes of extra half hour play.

The Association are to be congratulated upon the success of the school games which were inaugurated this fall. Breaking into entirely a new game is a difficult proposition There has been splendid material developed in the school boys, who give startling displays that even astonished the experienced players. All fans should watch for school final.

The cup donated by Mayor Taylor to the Junior Soccer Association and won by C.P.C. junior team, was on display in Matthews-Blackwell lower store window, George street, Saturday evening.

Central school defeated King Edward school in Alex Kay's soccer trophy by two clear goals to nothing in second round. They now await the winner of Queen Mary vs. Prince of Wales or King George, which will be the final of the school soccer competition.

The White challenge trophy was presented to the G.W.V.A. team as winners of the league championship and Clarke shield to Thistles after the game on Saturday afternoon.

BONAR LAW'S CONDITION.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—(Canadian Press Cable)—Some anxiety is caused by the medical bulletins regarding the condition of former Premier Bonar Law who for a few days has been confined to his bed suffering from a feverish chill The bulletins issued yesterday and today were confined to the mere statement that there was no improvement in the condition of the patient.

UNITED STATES SPEED SKATERS

Selected at Cleveland For the Olympic Games Next February.

CLEVELAND, O., October 29 (Canadian Press). — Skaters who will represent the United States at the Olympic Games at Chamonix in the French Alps next February, were selected by the International Skating Union of America, at the closing session of its seventeenth annual convention here on Saturday.

These selections will be forwarded to the American Olympic Executive Committee for approval.

The speed skaters selected are: Charles Jewtraw, Lake Placid, international outdoor champion; Harry Kaskey, Chicago, United States and Canadian outdoor champion; Joe Moore, New York, international indoor champion in 1922 and runner-up this year; and William Steinmetz, Chicago, last year's international outdoor titleholder.

The Boston A.A. team will form the nucleus of the team which will represent the hockey skaters. Where it needs strengthening, players will be replaced by players from other teams in the United States Amateur Hockey League.

The international championship speed races will be held at Lake Placid, and the United States national championship at Saranac Lake after the Olympic team returns.

Joseph Savage, of New York, was elected president of the skating union. Vice-presidents elected were: Harry Ufflein, Lake Placid; Louis Rubenstein, Montreal; and John H. Gourlay, Cleveland. Charles Goldsmith, Saranac Lake, is the new secretary-treasurer.

SOCCER SCORES WERE HEAVIER

Cardiff's Defeat By Preston Was Surprise of Old Country Games.

LONDON, October 29 (Canadian Press Cable). — The state of the grounds after the recent heavy rains was a big influence on the fortunes of Saturday's Association football games.

The attendances at the principal games totalled 1,610,000, which shows a slight falling off from that of last week.

Aston Villa-West Bromwich and Manchester City-Blackburn had the best gates, each numbering 40,000.

Four London teams in the First League, all playing at home, drew 40,000 spectors.

There have been gibes by sporting writers during the past week to the effect that modern forwards have lost the art of scoring goals. It is therefore satisfactory to note that the scoring on Saturday generally ruled higher.

The surprise of the day was supplied when Cardiff, hitherto unbeaten this season, were defeated by Preston, who are without a victory to their credit. The result caused great disappointment in Wales, but when a team with Preston's traditions get in a bad way fireworks must be expected. The Lancashire team at last found their form at the expense of the most brilliant side in the country. Cardiff were three goals down at half-time.

Everton has been very much stronger since Jack Cook, Chelsea's cast-off led their forward line. The Arsenal should have scored at least three times, and would have won comfortably if they had accepted all the chances offered. Walker of Aston Villa and Moule of Millwall each had the personal honour of scoring three goals. The success of Villa's centre forward came two days after his remarkable performance of scoring five out of seven goals for the Football Association against the Army.

Cardiff's defeat, coupled with the downfall of Notts County, puts Huddersfield on top of the First League table by dint of goal average.

West Ham United played a new centre forward in Richardson, late of Plymouth Argyle and Stoke, in place of Watson, who is suffering from a broken bone in the foot. The new man did well. Fulham was handicapped by the absence during the second half of their new forward Edmonds, late of Wolverhampton Wanderers, who was injured in a collision in a rough game.

Queen's Park Rangers just pulled the game with Northampton out of the fire, Davie scoring the winning goal with the last kick of the match

Norwich City missed a penalty against Charlton, thereby losing a point.

Soccer Rooters Were Arrested

LONDON, October 29 (Canadian Press Cable). — Some consternation was caused in Glasgow on Saturday following the football match between the Rangers and the Celtics when forty supporters of the latter club were arrested.

They were all members of what was known as the Brake Club, and after the match they travelled from Ibrox Park in a motor charabanc.

Detectives followed in motor cars, and it is alleged that stones and bottles were thrown from the charabanc, and in some instances pedestrians are supposed to have been hit.

LADIES NOW BOWLING.

The ladies are now taking to bowling five pins in this city at the Water Street Alleys, and it is expected that many of the factory and business houses will have teams represented in the bowling line. Five-pins has taken strong in the city of Toronto with the ladies, as they find it a pleasant and healthful recreation.

"JOE DUFFUS WEARING THE SMILE THAT WON'T COME OFF

Too modest to divulge the reason why, but investigation revealed the fact that last week at the great International Plowing Match at Sarnia the Fordson Tractor and Oliver Plows carried off all the first prizes, winning the first prize in stubble, first prize in the expert class in sod, as well as the Grand Championship Hundred Dollar Delco Light Trophy.

Taylor will preside at the civic banquet to be held in honor of the Peterborough baseball teams Tuesday night at the Empress Hotel when the numerous trophies won in City and Ontario championship competitions will be presented to the victors. Each player of the Rotary, Curlers, Maple Leafs, Lakeviews and Canadian General Clubs, will receive a group photograph of his team as a gift from the City.

The City Council will be present along with Mr. G. N. Gordon K.C., M.P., and Mr. W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P. Officers of the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association have been invited to come to Peterborough for the occasion ond present the Ontario championship trophies. Mr. Wm. Duncan, from Spalding Bros., Toronto, will present the Spalding medals to all five teams, the medal being emblematic of city championship honors. The donors of silver cups for city honors have been invited to be present and present these trophies.

The photographs for the players will be presented by Dr. W. T. Holloway chairman of the Reception Committee of the City Council. This fine gift from the city will be acknowledged by officers of the City Baseball League.

W. J. Smith of Toronto one of the fathers of the present Ontario baseball body, and J. J. Solomon, 2nd vice-president, are on the programme for replies to the toast of the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association.

The Tickets for the banquet may be had from the managers of the baseball teams.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

Patrons of the Capitol Theatre will be offered the rare treat of seeing a stirring melodrama produced with the subtle finish and artistry of a staid classic when Thomas H. Ince's special production, "Skin Deep," opens here to-day.

Although the picture is highly melodramatic and is packed with tense situations, it is a type of production that you can freely bring your children to see. Cheap sentimentalism has been religiously kept out of "Skin Deep."

Crooks and police are ever present in "Skin Deep," and guns flash, but there are no murders. There are penitentiaries but no eleventh-hour pardons. No innocent girl is called upon to protect her honor. There is no white-haired mother of the escaped convict. Nobody's parentage is questioned.

And yet, with this new style melodrama, Thomas H. Ince has produced some legitimate thrills seldom equalled on the stage. It's the kind of picture you'll urge your neighbors to see. Milton Sills and Florence Vidor are starred.

Milton Sills, one of the most noted interpreters of "crook" roles, takes the lead as a master crook in Thomas H. Ince's remarkable melodrama, "Skin Deep."

JACKIE COOGAN CLUB FORMED IN PETERBORO.

The announcement that a Jackie Coogan club has been formed in Peterboro has aroused a great deal of interest among local children, all of whom, are anxious to become members and win free tickets to the Capitol Theatre. Application blanks may be secured at the Capitol. After getting a blank the boy or girl gets as many friends as possible to sign the paper; the twenty-five children with the most names on their application forms will be declared winners of free tickets for two weeks at the Capitol. The contest closes next Saturday, at which time all application forms must be in.

AT THE GRAND.

HONEY BOY MINSTRELS.

The amazing announcement that there is something really new under the sun unquestionably applies to the Gus Hill and George Evans "Honey Boy" Ministrels, the next attraction at the Grand Opera House, Saturday Matinee, and night November 3, with the customary matinees. Here we have two shows in one, a rare combination of all that is best and supreme in the category of black-face humor, song, music, revelry, terpsichore, frolic, screams, surprises fun and contagious laughter. Something radically different from the usual run of modern theatrical achievement—an all-men offering in which the gamut of originality is run, and a host of unusual features never before attempted in one production. This prodigious undertaking which could only be fostered by a manager of Mr. Hill's calibre and reputation is already the talk and sensation of the show world and bids fair to revolutionize the traditions of this particular kind of entertainment. Here we have a consolidation of high-class talent, geniuses and past masters in their particular line of endeavour, the cream of Ethioean mirth provokers, vocalists, dancers, all contributing to the good cause of inciting hilarity, wholesome, contaminating and infectious at a biff bang, yet sane burst of speed, crowding in three hours more jollity and happiness that is one,s quota in a life time There, are forty of these artists, making merry and portraying types of the negro their life customs, habits etc., backed by an ornate and unique scenic adornment electrical effects, atmosphere and spectacular innovations reaching on the whole a pinnacle never accomplished by any other organization in the history of the theatre. In addition there will be a free street parade on extraordinary lines a pageant in burnt cork which in itself should prove the best remembered and unprecedented event of the century.

AT THE ROYAL.

THRILLS IN PICTURES.

"The Exciters" Packed with Highly Dramatic Incidents.

"Come down to earth!"

An expression especially applicable in the case of Ronnie Rand played by Bebe Daniels, co-starred with Antonio Moreno in the Paramount picture, "The Exciters," which is due for a run of two days at the Regent theatre, starting to-day.

Miss Daniels as Ronnie Rand, a typical example of the modern girl, seems to take great delight in leaving mother earth as far behind as possible. To accomplish this, Ronnie to the annoyance of her parents, forces into service a number of power boats and airplanes, either from her own collection or those loaned by admiring friends.

But into the life of this carefree girl comes a certain Pierre Martel, a supposed crook, who is in reality a secret service agent, thus employed for the same reason that Ronnie employs speed wagons—for excitement.

Antonio Moreno plays this role to perfection. It is at the first meeting of this paid, that the love interest of the story is brought to light. Their marriage in dramatic circumstances follows and then comes an unexpected climax. The picture is delightfully entertaining, and is said to have exceptional heart appeal.

AT THE ROYAL.

"MARRIED LOVE."

Dr. Marie Stopes' Widely Discussed Book in Picture Form at Royal To-Night — Direct From Massey Hall, Toronto.

To-night will see the opening at the Royal Theatre of the world-famous film production, "Married Love," written by Dr. Marie Stopes, famous psycho-physiologist, who has cut a wide swathe both in the literary and medical world.

Dr. Stopes is the author of perhaps the most original work published in the last few centuries, namely, "Married Love." This author believes in freeing society from the age-old shackles of sex-ignorance and sex reticence, and advocates a frank and outspoken policy of education for all adolescents. She believes that life's sacred functions should not be endangered by the prejudices of false modesty. Dr. Stopes is the first writer to undertake a work on this subject handling the topic from a popular viawpoint, all other works of this type taking the form of dry and scientific theses.

Dr. Stopes, however, writes primarily from the standpoint of a woman, a woman who has lived and experienced life. Dr. Stopes was married twice; the first affair being a source of much unhappiness and disillusion. Dr. Stopes was determined she would do her part to enable womankind to avoid this pain and sorrow to which she was subjected. She believes that marital unhappiness is due almost entirely to ignorance and thoughtlessness on the part of young couples who have crossed the threshold of matrimony.

Dr. Stopes believes that a novitiate into matrimony should be aware of the moral, mental and physiological structure of his or her mate, and so the young wife, or the young husband can understand and appreciate the weakness and failings, or apparent failings, of the life partner, and can then make allowances and sacrifices where necessary to conduce to a state of blissful and reciprocal happiness.

The motion picture is a lavish and spectacular film prodiution with a story specially written for the screen by Dr. Stopes. The story is a powerful one blending drama, romance and pathos. The central figure is that of the heroine, Maizie Burroughes, the eldest child of a family of fourteen, brought up in squalor and misery of ignorant parenthood. Maizie has come to look upon romance as a myth and marriage as a dreadful evil. On the other hand, the case of Dick Reading, the hero, is exactly the reverse. Dick being an only child, and brought up with the kind and intelligent care of a mother who had learned to discriminate what was best in life.

The story takes these two simple figures and plunges them into the whirlpool of life, that threatens to tear their moral foundations to pieces, that rides them on the crest of the foam of happiness and dashes them on the rocks of dissipation and sweeps them on towards the haven of knowledge and marital felicity.

The cast is full of numerous stellar performers, some of whom have played leads in previous big pictures and others who have been quite prominent on the legitimate stage.

LARGE AUDIENCE AT BAND C NCERT

Enthusiastic Response to Numbers by Peterboro Rangers and.

Upwards of eight or nine hundred people attended the first of a series of Sunday evening concerts which will be given during the season in the Grand Opera House by the band of the Peterborough Rangers, and manifested by their enthusiastic response to the different numbers on the programme their appreciation of the efforts of the bandsmen, who conducted themselves in an admirable manner, their music showing careful training by their conductor, Lieut. W. H. Peryer, and a degree of hard work in the preparation of a programme at times difficult, but always well rendered.

The accompanist of the evening was Mr. R. J. Devey, who gave his work his usual thorough and capable attention.

The feature of the band's programme was a selection entitled, "A Musical Switch," a descriptive number, including many of the old, well-known favourites, the music switching from melody to melody in a manner that must have required much long and persistent practice to bring to such a height of pleasing perfection.

Suppe's "Light Cavalry" overture and the always-liked selections from "Pinafore" proved to be popular favourites.

Bandsman J. Minicolo played in excellent style a cornet solo, "Beyond," and the vocal numbers by E. H. Lewis and A. Everett, who sang respectively "In An Old-fashioned Town" and "God's Garden," were both accorded hearty encores.

Canadian Stock Exchange — And Mines — | New York Stock Exchange — and Curb Prices

Today's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

New York, October 29. (United Press.) — A continuation of the selling movement in progress at the week end of the stock exchange took place in the early dealings today. Sentiment was disturbed by France's insistence that no attempt be made to reduce her reparations claims against Germany. The industrial leaders showed weakened resistance, Studebaker breaking to a new low on the movement a 94 3-4 while Baldwin dropped 5-8 to 115½. Union Bag and Paper, which declined practically 10 points last week, recovered a full point to 51. Relief from the persistent pressure on the general list was not forthcoming in the first hour and new loans on the movement were reached in many instances, including a few speculative favorites of the type of American Can and Studebaker. Money conditions had nothing to do with the continued heaviness on the market. Wall street brokers have taken a drop of about $50,000,000 in the last month, the total now being approximately $1,325,000,000. The decline from the high point of $2,000,000,000 in February amounts to $675,000,000.

In the later morning the market was quiet, American Can 91½ off 3-4; Baldwin 115 7-8 off ¼. Pan-American B 51½. Studebaker 95 off 1-2; United States Steel 86 1-2 off ¼. Selling was not so insistent in the late morning but the general list showed little rallying power and most of the active stocks turned sluggish. Mercantile stocks like Woolworth and May stores afforded exceptions as did Pressed Steel Car, whose strength was accompanied by reports of dividend resumption at the November 8th meeting.

Opening prices included Famous Players 54 off 1½, Studebaker 94 3-4, off 3-8; United States Rubber 31 1-8 up ¼; U.S.S. 86 5-8 off 1-8; Union Pacific 127½ off 1-4; Bethlehem B 46 1-2 off 1-8; Sinclair 18¼ off 1-4; Pan-American 54 off 5-8; American Woollen 66 off 3-4; Chesapeake and Ohio 66 3-8; Baldwin 115 ½ off 5-8; Northern Pacific 84 5-8 off ¼; Reading 73 1-2 up 1-8.

WEDDING BELLS

WHITFIELD—BLANCHARD.
The marriage took place at half-past seven o'clock on Saturday evening, 27th October, at the home of the bride's parents, 568 Aylmer street, Ila Florence, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Blanchard, and George Whitfield, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Whitfield, of North Monaghan, Rev. A. J. Langford, pastor of Trinity Methodist church, officiating. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion, the ceremony being performed under an arch of smilax and roses placed in the drawing room.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was dressed in grey flat crepe, with grey shoes and stockings and corsage bouquet of ophelia roses. The yong people were unattended. The wedding march was played by the bride's sister, Miss Alma Blanchard.

After a dainty supper, served to the immediate family and friends, Mr. and Mrs. Whitfield left by motor for their home in North Monaghan, the bride wearing a dress of cocoa brown, trimmed with mink, brown hat, shoes and stockings, and brown fur-trimmed wrap.

OBITUARY

JOHN HUGHES.
The death occurred last night at midnight of John Hughes, after a lingering illness. He leaves to mourn his loss three sons and six daughters: Chris of Peterborough, Frank of Edmonton, and Joseph of Hamilton, Mrs. A. Robertson and Mrs. J. A. Vandruff of Moose Jaw, Mrs. J. D. Dawson of Windsor, Mrs. H. E. Browne of Toronto, Mrs. Burt Hunter of Brantford, and Mrs. Andrew Ross of this city.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday at 2.30 from the residence of his son Chris Hughes, 14 Charles Street, East City, to the Little Lake Cemetery.

MARRIED.

RECITAL WORTHWHILE OPERA HOUSE TONIGHT

Jules Falk, Violinist, Vanette Van Sweringen, Soprano, Auspices Of Rotary.

Diagnostics are the bane of the average physician. Once he has arrived at a conclusion as to the illness he is called upon to treat, all apparently is smooth sailing. Text books and reference works of medicine will in that case easily supply what he has forgotten or never known.

Jules Falk, the noted violinist, who will be heard here in joint recital with Vanette van Sweringen, soprano, had the doubtful pleasure some time ago to catch a physician in flagrante delicto in this respect. An extended concert tour which took Falk over the greater part of the United States— from Maine to California and from the Great Lakes down into Mexico and a long jump back to New York—had left him in not the best physical shape. Falk was rather the worse for wear, confinement in trains and indifferent food had not helped to better conditions. His manager insisted a doctor be called in Protests proved of no avail and no chances were going to be taken by his manager.

"What you need," said the doctor, after a careful survey of his patient, "is a change of scene." Ever since then, Falk has been quite positive that it is human to err.

Under the auspices of the Rotary Club, Falk, associated with Vanette van Sweringen, the eminent soprano, will give a recital here in the Grand Opera House to-night, October 29th.

LAID TO REST.
The funeral of the late R. W. R. Grubbe was held at 2.30 this afternoon from the family residence, 47 McDonnel Street, to the Little Lake Cemetery, Rev. Robert Pogue of St. Paul's Church, and Rev. Dr. Blagrave of St. John's Church, officiating.

The pall-bearers were J. C. Smith, Robert Fair, George Gladman, E. J. G. Vanstone of the Bank of Toronto, and H. W. Baldwin, of Toronto.

BLUENOSE BEAT AMERICAN BOAT

Won the Opening Race by a Good Safe Margin.

HALIFAX, Oct. 29.—(On Board the Lady Laurier of Race Course.)—The Bluenose successfully defended the International fisherman's trophy in the first race of the 1923 series to-day, when she demonstrated that she was an abler boat in light airs and a moderate sea than the Burgess' designed American challenger, Columbia. Captain Ben Pine, of the defender, proved the superiority of the challenger on all points of sailing and had it not been for the costly mistake of Captain Angus Walters in overstanding the mark on a thresh to windward, the race would have been a walkaway. What the Columbia can do to the Bluenose in heavy weather remains to be seen. In to-day's moderate weather the defender gained upwards of one minute in a stretch of six miles to the first mark, doubled this gain in the reach to the second mark, threw away two minutes and twenty-seven seconds on a thresh to windward, allowing the Columbia to round the mark in advance and then retrieved the loss and won handsomely by upwards of one minute.

Elapsed time: Bluenose 4:43:42. Columbia 4:45:02.

At eight o'clock the schooners slipped from their berths to be in readiness for the start. The wind at the breakwater was at this time riled and at between sixteen and twenty knots and freshening, while the weather showed signs of clearing. Number two course was the one decided to be sailed and at the five minutes gun both schooners were back of the line. The Bluenose had the windward position and turned about and made for the line. The Columbia was slow in turning and was just coming about a hundred yards behind the line when the starting gun was fired. They were both headed for the line, the Bluenose well in the lead. Both had all sails set.

The Bluenose won the start when Pine, attempting to blanket Walters, failed to put his vessel on the line in time. Ten minutes after the start the champion was about three lengths ahead.

CITIZENS UNSAFE ON THE HIGHWAYS

One of Dangers Brought About by Prohibition.

TORONTO, October 29. Canadian Press. — Emphatic condemnation of the attempts to enforce prohibition laws in the United States and Canada in the absence of a strong measure of public opinion in favor of its enforcement, was voiced by the Rev. T. Crawford Brown in addressing the 48th Highlanders at their special church service in new St. Andrew's church, yesterday evening.

He made pungent allusion to the manner in which officers of the law were attempting to deal with suspected violations thereof, saying that here in Canada the life of a citizen wasn't safe, as he might be held up on the highway by constables on mere suspicion.

A BEAUTY CONTEST
Mayor W. H. Taylor ras received a letter requesting the City of Peterborough to choose a 'Miss Peterboro' to represent the city in a beauty contest. This request will probably come before Council at its next meeting th, Mayor said.

The invitation is from the International Beauty Contest, and Miss Peterboro is to compet, at the Royal Coliseum, Toronto, for the right to call herself "Miss Ontario." The contest in Toronto will be on December 7 and 8. The headquarters of the Ontario contest is 331 Bay street, Toronto.

The ultimate aim is to find the most beautiful lady in America. By contest in various parts of the Dominion contestants will be eliminated until five in each Province earn the right to compete for "Miss Canada" honors. The first three in the "Miss Canada" contest will enter for the North American prize.

In Belleville on Friday three Aldermen were selected to choose the most beautiful girl in that city who will go to Toronto as "Miss Belleville." No details have yet been given out as to the rules of eligibility.

Society

Local delegates who have gone to the annual Provincial meeting of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire, held at Windsor on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, are Mrs. E. B. Clegg, representing the 57th Regimental Chapter, and Miss S. A. Tomkins, representing the Otonabee Chapter.

Miss Maud Gillette of Toronto, was a week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Blanchard, 568 Aylmer street.

r. and Mrs. W. F. Fleming of Lindsay, formerly of Peterborough, are visiting in the city, looking up old friends and acquaintances.

DRECO IN PETERBORO AT J. P. BOND'S

Display of Herbs, Roots, Etc. Which Go Into the Makeup of Remedy.

Mr. J. W. Vaughan, the "Dreco" expert in charge of the introductory campaign which his company are conducting at Bond's Drug Store, is decidedly pleased with the rapidly increasing demand for "Dreco" in Peterboro many local people having already testified as to the benefits received from the use of this now famous herb and root remedy, hence its growing popularity and the increasing demand for it.

Special attention is called to the North window of Bonds Drug Store where the herbs, roots, etc., which go to make up "Dreco" are at present on display.

CHILDREN MAY

these patches are confined to the tonsils and surrounding tissues, but once in a while they spread to the larynx or passage leading to the lungs, and interfere with breathing. But whatever part of the throat is affected, the chief harm, apart from interfering with breathing, is done by the poisons or toxins which this growth of diphtheria secretes. As the membrane on the throat grows, so the poisons are produced, and these are absorbed by the patient, often making him seriously, if not dangerously, ill. So except in cases where the larynx is closed up so as to prevent breathing, a person who dies from diphtheria really dies from poison. Someone will now perhaps ask why does not every exposed person take diphtheria and why does not every person who takes it die? In fact why hasn't the human race long since been wiped out by contagious diseases? In the case of diphtheria it is because healthy persons have in their blood a natural resistance or antidote which prevents the microscopic plants from growing, and neutralizes the poison produced, even if we do "take" the disease. This is what is known as an antidote, anti-poison or anti-toxin. It is our natural protection against all kinds of invading germs, and when we get into a condition which we often describe as "run-down," it simply means that our supply of natural resistance is exhausted, or at least lower than it should be. That is when we are most susceptible to disease, for the invading germs have nothing to stop their onward march, and so we become sick and feverish, and show all the symptoms of an attack of illness.

If a child takes diphtheria, it is because its natural immunity or power of resistance is low and it hasn't enough of its own antitoxin to resist the disease. What do we do then? We simply help the weakened child by trying to remove part of the load he is carrying, and which is too heavy for him. In other words, we do what any sensible person would do: give him enough antitoxin to fight off the disease. We borrow the horse's strength for the child who needs that strength. We take from the horse's blood the antidote which it has in abundance to help the child who has not got enough, and who is dying from lack of it. Common-sense, isn't it, when once the process is explained. But that is in reality what all scientific knowledge really is—an application of common-sense to the facts of life.

Toxin-antitoxin

"To-day is the to-morrow you worried about yesterday and all is well." So says an advertisement which stares at you these days from many a street car in Toronto, and perhaps in other cities as well.

This is an interesting bit of advice for it points a moral it hints that preparedness is advisable even if a little worry beforehand is involved. How well we could apply this scrap of homely reasoning to everyday life but particularly to health, without which life matters little. Let us think of one common disease—diphtheria, a disease that carries off large numbers of children in this province every year. A little prevention would work wonders in dealing with diphtheria a disease from which no child should be allowed to die. Many children and many adults will never take diphtheria for they are immune — which means that there is in their blood some antitoxin, or curative agency that prevents the poison of diphtheria from gaining an entrance to their systems. But many children and some adults are not immune — they will take diphtheria if exposed to the germ. Wouldn't it seem a reasonable thing if all the people who are liable to take diphtheria could be picked out or selected so that means might be adopted to make them immune? This can actually be dne and done very simply by what is known as the Schick test—a method that involves no trouble or annoyance to anyone. It consists in merely injecting a minute quantity of diphtheria toxin into the skin of the arm, with a hypodermic needle. If there is enough antitoxin in the child's blood to prevent it from taking diphtheria no change takes place at the point where the injection is made; if on the other hand the child is susceptible to diphtheria a slight redness and swelling will be noticed for a day or two at the point where the needle entered but this swelling will soon subside and fade away.

Antitoxin can then be injected as a preventive or what is called prophylactic dose, and the person is thus made immune from diphtheria for some time. If toxin-antitoxin mixture is available the resulting immunity will be considerably greater and of longer duration. It is worth noting that if a child who has reached the age of three years shows natural immunity, the immunity will probably be permanent all through life.

The Schick test is of practical value in determining the immunity to diphtheria of the public general, but especially of the child population in schools, hospitals institutions and in homes during an outbreak of diphtheria. The Schick test is so reasonable and so simple a method of controlling diphtheria that once its value is known it should be adopted in every home and school throughout this Province and Dominion.

It is worth repeating that there is no reason why a child should die of diphtheria if these effective precautions are taken to bring about its protection from the disease.

SALUTE OF GUNS PROCLAIMS THE TURK REPUBLIC

Organizing a Great Celebration at Angora To Hail Birth of State on Freedom's Lines.

APPOINT A CABINET

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 30.—(United Press). — A salute of guns here to-day proclaimed the birth of the Turkish Republic.

A great celebration was reported as being organized in Angora to hail the creation of the state on new lines of freedom from the pre-war corrupt government under the Sultan.

The first President, Mustapha Kemal Pasha, was expected to use the power accorded him in the constitution to appoint a Cabinet following the resignation of the present one on Saturday.

Mentioned For Premier.

Among those mentioned prominently for the Premiership was Ismet Pasha, who has been regarded as a hero since successfully negotiating the treaty at Lausanne, where Turkey regained almost everything she had lost in the great war and the treaties following it. Ali Fuad Pasha was also mentioned. The Ministers of reconstruction, religion and the office of the Chief of Staff will not be changed, it was said.

CALL COTTON EXPERTS TO DISCUSS PROBLEMS

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 30.—(Associated Press).—Plans for obtaining uniform laws on cotton production, warehousing, rural credits and standardization of farm products in southern states will be outlined at a conference to be held at some southern city the latter part of November. Call for the conference has been made by Charles E. Baughman, Texas commissioner of markets and warehouses, who proposes the meeting.

Invitations have been sent by Commissioner Baughman to governors and agricultural officials of 18 states, and officials of a dozen states have signified their intention of attending. Mr. Baughman has brought together information regarding conditions in the various states on production of cotton and other crops, and this will be presented to the conference as a basis for working out uniform laws. He proposes that at the close of the conference an association on uniform agricultural laws be organized, the primary purpose of which will be to carry into effect the proposals of the conference. Laws covering different phases of agricultural and marketing problems will be worked out and presented to legislatures for passage.

"Co-operation between the states interested in a common industry must be brought about before agriculture will be placed on a paying basis," according to Mr. Baughman. "We need uniform laws in the southern states as a means of obtaining greater efficiency in growing and marketing crops and to ensure greater stability in prices."

The states expected at the conference are: Oklahoma, Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana, North and South Carolina, Virginia, Alabama, Mississippi, Florida, Georgia and Texas.

Portsmouth Police Arrested Number of Parading Klansmen

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio, Oct. 30.—The edict of Mayor Wiliam N. Gableman, against the Ku Klux Klan, was enforced here in the afternoon, when the police stopped a parade fo Klansmen and arrested 244 of the paraders. Of this number 187 were fully garbed in Klan regalia.

The paraders assembled in a park and were marching to a church to take part in the laying of a cornerstone when a squad of policemen placed them under arrest and marched the entire procession to the police station. They were charged with having obstructed traffic and ordered to report for a further hearing. Most of the marchers were residents of near-by town and villages.

While a crowd estmated at 10,000, gathered about the police station, some one set up a burning cross on the adjoining school property.

PREMIER KING SENT WREATH

Maple Leaves a Tribute To Canadian Origin of Late Andrew Bonar Law

LONDON, Oct. 30.—(Special.) — The country will not forget that he sacrificed his life in her sacrifice," Premier Baldwin said to-day when told of the death of Andrew Bonar Law.

"For him I am thankful that he was spared further suffering. For his friends the loss is irreparable."

Touching Reference.

Word of Bonar Law's death was received by the Canadian delegation to the Imperial Conference with the deepest regret. Premier Mackenzie King sent a wreath of maple leaves and chrysanthemums, in themselves touching reference to Bonar Law's Canadian origin.

Birkenhead Shocked.

Lord Birkenhead, who was Lord High Chancellor in the Lloyd George Cabinet when Andrew Bonar Law was Chancellor of the Exchequer, was "profoundly shocked" to learn of the death of Bonar Law, he told the Press to-day at New York.

Birkenhead was informed of his former colleague's death while in his apartment at a hotel here. He said he would issue a formal statement later before going aboard the Mauretania to-day to sail for England.

Not Unexpected.

Word of the death of Right Hon. Andrew Bonar Law was received with deep regret by David Lloyd George upon his arrival at Philadelphia. News of the passing away of the British statesman was kept from Mr. Lloyd George by his associates until he had finished breakfast in his private car. He then despatched a message to the daughter of the late Mr. Bonar Law and in a statement to the Press said: "I have heard the sad news with deep regret, tinged with relief that the long and severe suffering has at last come to a peaceful end. I saw him shortly before I left for this country and the news certainly was not not unexpected by me."

"During the last years of the war and the first years of the peace, we worked in closer coopertion and partnership than probably any two worked before. There was hardly a ministers of the Crown had ever day we did not meet, and not a day we did not communicate with each other and interchange views. No man could wish for a more loyal, sagacious and helpful partner in times of emergency. Although we had serious political differences that severed cooperation during the past year, our friendship never broke and we met just a few days before I left for these shores. It fills me with sadness to think I shall never meet him again."

Former Premier Asquith paid tribute to the dead statesman as "one of the greatest parliamentarians, gallant fighter formidable opponent much valued calleague and devoted servant of the state."

King George sent a message of sympathy to the family.

Premier King of Canada declared that in no part of Empire would deeper sympathy be felt than in Canada which claimed him as one of her own sons, "and he passes, a gentleman unfraid, into the Great Beyond and leaves behind a name and memory which will be honored."

Premier Bruce of Australia stated that "we of outer empire know and appreciate the self-sacrifice and devotion with which he served his country."

Premier Smuts of South Africa, referring to Bonar Law's war work said that a combination of Lloyd-George and the late statesman "at a critical time proved the most power ful the country ever had in its public life."

For the first time a definite statement was made in Press today, that Bonar Law had been suffering from cancer of the throat for a considerable time.

HERO'S DARING SWIM FAILED SAVE FRIEND

Plucky Angler Tows Dying Companion on Upset Boat One Mile in The Numbing Sea.

TWO ARE DROWNED

Refusing to abandon a half-drowned companion who could not swim, Emanel Lebane of White Plains very nearly gave his own life in a vain effort to get the man to shore alive after their rowboat had been upset in Long Island Sound near Mamaroneck. A third man, heavily clad, toppling into the water unawares, sank like a stone. Lebane's strength as he shoved his unconscious friend through the water atop the capsized boat was just about spent when a chance motor boat rescued him.

The little craft sped to shore and the unconscious man was treated with a pulmotor, but he could not be revived. Lebane, on the verge of exhaustion and suffering with shock and grief at the loss of his two companions, was hurried to bed and cared for by a physician. He will recover.

The men who were drowned were Charles Rowe, a blacksmith, and Ernest Baison, a plumber. Like Lebane, they had been residents of White Plains for a number of years. Both victims of the accident were married; so is Lebane.

The three went fishing off the Scotch Caps in Long Island Sound, about four miles from Mamaroneck Harbor. The flounders bit slowly and they decided to row further inshore. Lebane, leaning over the side, heaved at the anchor. It came away with a jerk and the little boat keeled over. Rowe, thickly dressed against the biting breeze that swept the Sound, toppled over the side and plummeted down before he could take a stroke, although he could swim. He never came up again. It was conjectured that either the sudden immersion in cold water paralyzed him, or that some of the fishing gear slung about him caught on a rock.

As Lebane hit the water he saw Baison sinking near him. He knew his friend could not swim so he lunged and caught him just as he was going down. With only a bit of a struggle, he got Baison back to the upset boat and told him to grab hold. Baison held on and Lebane, swimming with one hand, pushed the boat and his companion with the other.

It was slow, cold, exhausting going. And Baison, almost helpless with cold and half strangled from the water he had swallowed, seemed unable to keep his head in the clear. So Lebane, pushing and heaving, managed to sling him across the bottom of the craft. Then he started once more, heading as best he could for the distant Rye shore, and scanning the Sound for some sign of rescue.

He travelled a slow, agonizing mile that way, his strength ebbing, then numbing cold creeping over him. But even while there remained hope of striking out for himself and reaching shore, he refused to leave the boat and Baison. And then there came the chug-chug of a motor boat. Over his shoulder he saw the little craft, bearing down upon him at its best speed, and took a new grip of life.

It was only minutes then until Mr. and Mrs. E. Dixon, of 224 South Lexington Avenue, White Plains, who had been fishing when they spied Lebane pushing the rowboat, were upon him. The three lifted Baison into the moat boat. Lebane was hauled in beside him and the trip to shore was begun.

While Mrs. Dixon steered, Dixon and Lebane did their utmost, rubbing and chafing the arms and legs of the unconscious man and trying with artificial respiration to get his lungs going again, but when the motor boat made harbor he still lay motionless in the bottom.

After that it was only minutes until they got an ambulance and a pulmotor. Because Baison had not been fully immersed for long they believed that they could revive him and worked a long time, but in the end they saw that he was dead.

Rowe's body has not yet been recovered.

WARM WELCOME RIDER OF PAPYRUS

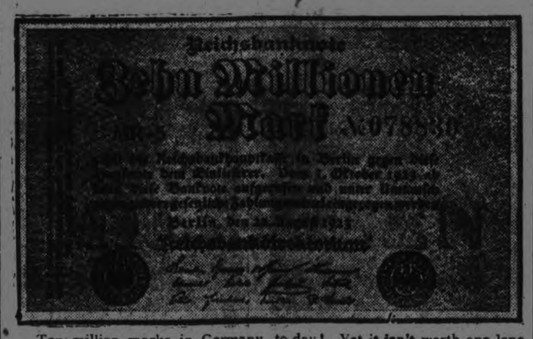
Tells Folks at Southampton Best Horse Won on Track Conditions.

SOUTHAMPTON, Oct. 30. — (Canadian Press.)—Steve Donoghue, who rode Papyrus in the International race at Belmont park, and Basil Jarvis, trainer of the thoroughbred, were warmly welcomed upon arriving aboard the Aquitania.

Papyrus was brought ashore this morning.

"It was the track that beat us," Donoghue told reporters at the dock. "Until the terrible rain downfall the night before the race, we had a good chance of winning, but the rain changed everything. However, on the day's conditions we were beaten by a better horse."

It Isn't Worth a Cent



Ten million marks in Germany to-day! Yet it isn't worth one lone cent of Canadian currency. In Germany, however, it buys a loaf of bread, five cigarettes or a box of matches. With the fall of the mark, the government is even cutting down the size of the paper it's printed on.

ESCAPED CONVICT IS HAULED OUT OF HOT, STUFFY CONDUIT

Sing Sing Guards Find Their Man Half Baked After a Night Near Hot Steam Pipes—All Night Hunt

OSSINING, October 30. — A young convict for whom about 70 guards had hunted through all the hidden recesses of Sing-Sing Prison for several hours, was hauled yesterday out of a hot, stuffy conduit, where he had stowed away all night among steampipes under the new deathhouse.

"Gee, it was terribly hot in there," exclaimed nineteen-year-old Thomas Jefferson Carroll, former Queen's County robber, as his hiding-place was found after an all-night search. "I was mighty glad when morning came."

So were the tired guards. They had been searching everywhere inside the prison walls for Carroll since six o'clock on Saturday night, when a count disclosed his cell empty.

Warden Lewis E. Lawes was quite confident he had been unable to get out of the closely guarded prison. He was inclined to believe Carroll was stowed away waiting for a chance to get out after guards were withdrawn from atop the walls and outside the river-front fence, at 10.30 o'clock at night. But the guards were not withdrawn from the outposts. Instead, all of those off duty were called in for the emergency and the task of searching every nook and corner inside the walls was started.

Twice during the night guards poked lanterns into the steam conduit.

This subterranean passageway is about four feet in height and six feet wide. Through it run steam pipes of large size to heat the new deathhouse. The guards saw nothing. The draft of hot air they encountered persuaded them that it was too hot for anybody to hide there, so they withdrew.

After breakfast, when careful searching everywhere inside the yard failed to disclose Carroll's whereabouts, the guards decided to venture into the hot conduit again. This time one of them crawled further in it than on the previous visits.

Their diligence was rewarded. Keeper Frank O'Neill and Engineer John Shannahan backed out of the hot tunnel with the missing convict.

Carroll looked haggard and exhausted after his long hours of suspense.

"I suffered something awful in there," he exclaimed as he was being led to an isolation cell for reflection.

OFFER BY LARKIN HE CANNOT FILL

Would Settle Irish Labor Disputes Were Political Prisoners Released.

DUBLIN, Oct. 30.—(Canadian Press).—James Larkin wrote Premier Cosgrave yesterday, offering to settle all labor disputes in the Irish Free States in the Chief Executive would release political prisoners.

President Cosgrave returned a caustic reply, expressing his "disbelief in the ability or desire of Mr. Larkin to settle any dispute.

COTTON'S THRONE GOES TO LONDON EXPOSITION

LONDON, Oct. 30. — (United Press).—King Cotton's throne is moving eastward.

The fleecy white monarch who has always bounded his domain with the Mason Dixon line and water to the South is due for new surroundings from June next.

His new palace will consist of 32,187 square feet of floor space in the "Palace of Industry" at the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley, a few miles out of London.

There won't be a thing missing to make H. M. feel perfectly at home. In fact, there will be a number of improvements. For instance, Cotton in its raw state will only have to cross a corridor to be Cotton as a finished or partly finished product.

Everything that can be done to Cotton will be done to it before the eyes of visitors to the exhibition. Cotton may even be masqueraded as wool occasionally to show those who buy thirty-dollar "all-wool" suits how it is done.

One friend and one enemy, neither indispensable, will be missing in the Cotton corner of the "Palace of Industry."

The kinky-headed darky will be represented by an automatic picker, if at all, and the boll weevil will be taboo.

The spinning trade and Empire producers of cotton are combining to make the British Empire Exhibition display of this peculiarly American product the best ever shown.

The Exhibition begins in June of 1924 and continues for six months.

THE SKY LIZZIE IS RUN BY HAND

Successful Demonstration Of Balloon Operated by Hand-Driven Pulley.

BELLEVILLE, Ill., Oct. 30. — A successful demonstration of a "Lizzie" balloon, operated by a hand-driven pulley, was given at Scott Field, the Army lighter than air station, near here.

The exhibition was one of the features of an air carnival given for the benefit of the Army Relief Society.

The little balloon, which is only 21 feet in diameter, carries no ballast and descends without any gas being discharged. To go up one merely works the pulley and a six-foot propellor does the work. To come down one only has to reverse the pulley. The gas capacity of the "Lizzie" is only 5,000 cubic feet.

A "Sporting Balloon."

The craft was designed by Norman Meadowcroft and Charles Brannigan, civilian aircraft engineers employed by the Army. Meadowcroft was the designer of the British NS-2, which holds the non-rigid aircraft duration record.

With Meadowcroft in the single seat, the little craft ascended 800 feet, stayed aloft several minutes and then descended.

There also was an exhibition of a "sporting model" balloon, which also was designed by Meadowcroft and Brannigan. This is the same size as the "Lizzie," only it is operated like a larger balloon with ballast and discharge of gas.

HOME FROM CHICAGO

Dr. A. Moir has returned from the Surgical Congress in Chicago, where he was made a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons receiving the degree of F.A.C.S. This is the highest degree in Surgery given in America. The College is rapidly becoming international in its scope as candidates for the degree were present from England, Ireland, India, China, South Africa, South America and Canada.

TESTED FEELING OF SHAREHOLDERS

Guide to Judge in Winding Up Affairs of Defunct Financial Concern

LONDON, Oct. 30.—(Canadian Press).—The group of shareholders represented by T. H. Purdow, K. C. appears have gained success at yesterday afternoon's session of shareholders of the defunct Dominion Savings and Investment Society The session was called on an Osgoode Hall order to test the feeling of shareholders on proposal to wind up affairs of the company in accordance with the petition of Harry Bapty archdeacon young and the group now demanding action.

The tenor of the meeting will be a guide to the judge in ruling on a winding up motion, but whether the court will be influenced by the number of shares they represent remains to be seen.

The Purdow group, represented by A. C. McMaster, K.C., of Toronto, brought argument to focus on a motion to place assets of the company in the hands of the Trusts and Guarantee Company or some other independent liquidator to be named by the courts. The motion included a clause authorizing mortgaging of assets to the amount necessary to pass off the claim of Huron & Erie which has had the liquidation in charge. On this motion shareholders divided 17 for and 28 against Decision is to be translated, however, into terms of shares, and as Mr. Purdow and his supporters control 55 per cent of the stock they will have the majority.

The resolution

At the expiration of arguments by the various counsel interested the following resolution was read to the shareholders by Judge Doss:

"That all necessary steps be taken to place the assets of the Dominion Savings Society in an independent Trust Company, namely the Trusts and Guarantee Co. or such other company as the court may approve to realize the same with care and solely in the interests of the shareholders of the Society and that in connection there with shareholders of the Dominion Savings and Investment Co. do hereby authorize raising the assets of the company by mortgages or otherwise on such terms and in such manner as may be approved by the court of the necessary amount to pay the Huron and Erie."

POLICE ORDER IS NOT ON THE BOOK

Attorney-General Nickle Discussed the O.T.A.

TORONTO, Oct 30.— (Canadian Press.)—Hon. W. F. Nickle, Attorney General of Ontario, declared today that an editorial in a morning paper stating that an order had been issued directing the city police not to prosecute standard hotels for breaches of the Ontario Temperance Act was made entirely out of wholecloth.

The statement was made following an examination of members of the Ontario License Board and officials of the Provincial police.

The Attorney General declared that after examining all officials and going over all the departmental records no such order had ever been issued by the Ontario government through any department of the service.

Mr. Nickle was informed by Mayor Maguire that no such order was issued by the Toronto police. General Victor Williams, Commissioner of Provincial Police, Inspector Ayerst and Chief Inspector Paxton discussed the matter with the Attorney-General this morning and all declared that they knew nothing whatever about the alleged order.

SECOND RACE WAS POSTPONED TODAY

Hoped That Next of The Series of Schooner Contests Will Be Run Tomorrow.

HALIFAX, Oct. 30. — (Canadian Press).—After a series of half-hour postponements that commenced at 8 o'clock this morning and ended at 10.30, when the Racing Committee announced that there would be no satisfactory sailing conditions today, the second of the international schooner race series was postponed until to-morrow. Fog of such density that motor cars and pedestrians in the city were bewildered and lost prevailed during the early hours of the morning, and those on the waterfront could not see a boat's length.

WILLIS BOOTH WILL TAKE ACTIVE PART

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(Canadian Press.)—Willis Booth, President of the International Chamber of Commerce, sailed to-day on the Maure tania to arrange for a special conference of delegates from thirty-eight nations to make recommendations regarding proposed reparations discussions advocated by Secretary of State Hughes.

5,000 Movie People To Lose Their Jobs Costs Are Too High

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—Production of new motion pictures by the Universal Pictures Corporation will cease as soon as negatives being filmed are completed, it is announced here by Carl Laemmle, president of the company. About 5,000 persons in the company's Southern California organization will be thrown out of employment, he said.

Laemmle's announcement followed a similar one by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.

"Inflated cost of production brought about by tremendous competition, made possible through the increasing demand for high-class products, rather than cheap blood and thunder trash, is causing this action, which must eventually lead to a readjustment of conditions in the motion picture world," said Laemmle.

"This is a condition that faces the Southern California district every year. In rainy weather all studios must close down, and thousands of employees thrown out of work. While the closing this year will be tighter than ever, there will be no serious conditions in the Los Angeles area through unemployment."

Laemmle has left for Los Angeles.

KEEN INTEREST IN REFERENDUM

Voting on Liquor Question in Alberta Province Is Now Only Six Days Distant.

CALGARY, Alta. Oct. 30.—(Canadian Press).—With voting six days away interest in referendum on the liquor question in Alberta is becoming very keen.

The campaign has been conducted quietly over a period of months by organizations favoring prohibition and the legal sale of liquor as beverage but in the closing days, a large number of meetings are being held and every effort is being made to impress the voters with importance of the issue.

The vote is to be taken Monday next on preferential ballot which permits expression of opinion on continuation of present system of prohibition, on sale of beer through government or on licensed premises and on establishment of government control and sale of liquor.

TRACES ANTHRACITE GOUGING TO MINES

Federal Report Finds the Wholesalers Not Alone To Blame.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Anthracite is being sold by some Pennsylvania mine operators, the Federal Trade Commission declared, at "prices which are neither reasonable nor necessary."

This conclusion was announced in the second of a series of weekly reports on the anthracite price situation as if has developed since the short strike last month. It was grounded on the finding that 6.7 per cent. of anthracite is sold by the operators to wholesalers at $9.50 to $9.99 a ton, 45.5 per cent. at $10 to $10.99, another 13 per cent. at $11 to $11.99, and the remainder amounting to 34.8 per cent., at $12 to $13 and more.

"Such wide differences in prices in the present period of normal operations," the commission observed, "are neither reasonable nor necessary, and often become the cause, but still more often the excuse, for excessive prices now being extensively charged to the consumer."

The commission's first report on the price situation, aimed chiefly at the wholesaling practices, indicated the opinion that too great profits were being taken by the middleman for anthracite handling, particularly during the period when the strike was in effect. During recent weeks, however, the report said, there has been a decrease in the number of cases where excessive profits were taken on coal bought and sold by a wholesaler.

During the week ending October 6, the report added, only 38 per cent. of the anthracite of domestic size had a wholesaler's profit of 50 cents a ton or more added to it while passing through channels of distribution, while during the week ending September 22 as much as 66 per cent of the coal bore this charge.

The subsidence of 'panic demand' for anthracite since termination of the strike, and publicity as to facts, the commission concluded, have operated to bring down the middleman's profits.

BETWEEN SOBS TELLS STORY OF HER DESERTION

Husband of Ten Days Leaves His Young Wife Penniless in Dingy Windsor Lodgings.

SHATTERED DREAMS

WINDSOR, Ont., October 30. — Canadian Press. — Heartbroken today, the short honeymoon of wedded bliss shattered, when her husband of ten days deserted her, Helen Maud Malone, 21 years old, told her story, between sobs, to the Windsor police this afternoon. The police immediately issued a warrant for the arest of the husband, Patrick Malone who fled to Detroit on Monday.

In this morning's mail the young wife received a letter posted from Detroit, and in her husband's handwriting. "I'm through," the letter stated, and then went on to assert that their wedded life could never be happy.

Left Penniless.

The young wife is left penniless in dingy quarters in a rooming house here, which her husband secured on their arrival in Windsor, on the day following their marriage in Toron on Friday, October 19th. They arrived there from Almonte, where both have relatives.

DISCUSS IMMIGRATION AT OTTAWA CONFERENCE

EDMONTON, Oct. 30. — Hon. George Hoadley will represent the Alberta government at the conference of provincial ministers to be held in Ottawa Nov. 14 and 15 for the purpose of discussing immigration. The whole question of attracting and regulating a flow of new settlers into Canada is to be dealt with at the meeting which will be attended also by officials of the federal government and from the Alberta standpoint Mr. Hoadley will have a number of suggestions to offer with a direct bearing upon the immigration interests and problems of this province.

While in Ottawa the Minister of Agriculture will also take up the question of provincial representation at the British Empire Exhibition in London next year. Alberta will take a part in the big event, but the precise terms on which it may do so have not yet been ascertained.

BRITAIN ACCEPTS POINCARE TERMS

United States Will be Advised of the Conference

LONDON, Oct. 30.— (Canadian Press.)— Britain has accepted the terms specified by Premier Poincare for a conference of experts to consider the reparations questions.

The United States' government will be acquainted with the willingness of all countries concerned to participate and will be asked immediately to designate its members of committee of experts.

To-day's meeting of the Reparations Commission to hear German experts plead the inability of their country to pay reparations at the moment will be adjourned, at the German's request, until a decision has been reached about the proposed inquiry of the advisory committee of experts, it was announced.

The meeting was to be held at 3 p.m. for a short session, after which further discussion would be postponed, it was said.

If the negotiations for the expert inquiry fail, it is expected that the German experts will then explain before the Commission the declarations in Germany's latest note.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

Hallowe'en usually reveals the "Peter Pan" in all of us. For the old-fashioned games of our ancestors continue to charm and interest.

Apple bobbing, apple paring, nut naming and innumerable simple old tricks are heaps of fun and require no great outlay of money.

To bob apples fill a tub or shallow pail with clear water. The tub should not be more than two-thirds full of water. Carve the initials of the girls on fine red apples and place in tub. The men "bob" for the apples, capturing them with their teeth. The initials are those of their future wives.

The apple paring game is played by both men and girls. Each person pares an apple, making the paring as long as possible. This is swung over the head three times and then dropped over the right shoulder. If the paring remains unbroken and forms an initial, the initial is that of the thrower's fate.

Nuts

Naming nuts is fun when a wood fire burns in a fireplace. Each girl is given three chestnuts. These she names for her three "best beaus," so to speak, and as the nuts burn or "pop" so will the lover declare his regard. Some nuts gently burst open with a lovely little pop. This means that the gentleman will "pop the question" in the most approved manner.

Another nut test is tried to determine the "true love." Three nuts are named as in the first game. The nut that cracks in this case means a fickle lover. The one that burns with a consuming blaze means a love for the lady fair, but one which vanishes out before aught can come of it and burns steadily foretells a faithful husband.

Oracles

The Delphic Oracle provides much amusement. Some member of the party should be stationed in a dark corner. Let him stand on a box to increase his height, shroud him in a sheet and let him hold a jack 'o' lantern on his head. The Oracle can answer only yes or no to questions asked her, but the vehemence with which she nods or shakes her head can be very expressive. One of the tin pumpkin lanterns is easier to handle than a real pumpkin.

A gypsy fortune teller is a shock of corn can tell the future by reading palms or cards. She provides a very decorative touch as well as much fun.

And speaking of the decorative touch, there is nothing more effective than corn stalks and autumn leaves and vines simply arranged. Pumpkins and vegetables of all sorts can be used for candle sticks. And as far as possible let the lights be candles.

Ghosts

Ghost stories are always in order for Hallowe'en. These should be told before an open fire if possible, with a cleverly arranged banging shutter or door in some distant part of the house for an eerie accompaniment. If an open fire is out of the question try this:

Fill a shallow pan two-thirds full of salt. Pour over as much alcohol as the salt will absorb. Light and place in the center of a square of asbestos. Put on the floor or on a table, the guests forming a ring around the blaze.

A "Swedish lunch" is a spookerish form of amusement. An old kid glove is stuffed with sawdust or straw and soaked in water, two or three oysters are sewed together, a piece of dough, an odd-shaped bottle filled with ice water, another filled with hot water, a tiny rubber hot-water bottle partially filled with water with all the air excluded, leaving it very limp and illusive, an old piece of fur, a handful of feathers pasted onto a square of cloth, a prickly brush and other peculiar articles are passed from guest to guest under a table.

The light should be dim and the guests warned to be silent and not to drop any of the things. The players who drop an article must leave the game and do a stunt of some sort for the amusement of the party when the "luncheon" is finished.

More Spooks

More than likely the small boys of the neighborhood will quite unconsciously add to the spookiness of the party by tick-tacking the windows and throwing corn at irregular intervals.

A sheet and pillow case party is always fun and most appropriate for Hallowe'en. When everyone is masked the same it's much harder to guess who's who than when the very choice of the costume itself often proclaims the masquerader.

The very atmosphere of autumn bespeaks success for a Hallowe'en party and, with nuts and apples and pumpkin pie and cider during the evening, 10 or 20 young men and girls are sure to have a jolly time in playing informal games.

CANADIAN CHIEFS UNITED TO HONOR FRANCIS PARKMAN

Plans Are Under Way to Observe Anniversary of Birth of American Who Chronicled Canada's Early Days.

OTTAWA, Oct. 30 (Associated Press—Organization plans are well under way for an observance of the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Francis Parkman, the American historian who won his fame as the chronicler of the early days of Canada.

A Canadian national committee has been organized headed by Sir Arthur Currie, principal of McGill University, with Lawrence J. Burpee, president of the Canadian Historical Association, as secretary. The committee, probably the most representative ever brought together in the Dominion, includes the prime minister of Canada; the leader of the opposition, premiers of the provinces, representatives of all Canadian universities and learned societies, and many Canadians prominent in public and business life.

At a public meeting to be held in Montreal November 13, Jules J. Jusserand, Ambassador of France to the United States, has been invited to be the principal speaker. Professor Bliss Perry, of Harvard, and Dr. C. W. Colby, former professor of history at McGill University also will be on the programme.

A permanent Canadian memorial to Parkman also is being considered. Suggestions as to the form this shall take include research scholarships in Canadian history, a chair in Canadian history at some of the universities, or an appropriate monument at one of the Canadian cities associated with Parkman's historical writings.

Although Parkman was a New Englander—he was born in Boston—the centenarary of his birth is a significant occasion in Canada, of whose early days he was the greatest historian. Laboring under serious physical handicaps, including blindness, he brought a triumphant conclusion to a life's work and left the world a picture of New France which is a romantic story of adventure, achievement and pathfinding.

BONAR LAW DEAD AFTER A VAIN SEARCH FOR HEALTH

HOW TO SOLVE MAID PROBLEM IS EXPLAINED

Less Fetching and Carrying and More Modern Conveniences in British Homes Recommended.

GIVE THEM VOTE.

LONDON, Oct. (29.—A little more civility on the part of housewives and a little less servility on the part of their domestic helpers is recommended as a solution of the servant problem in Great Britain by a committee which has been studying the subject for several months at the behest of the Ministry of Labor.

The committees report, made public today suggests that a maid-servant be addressed as 'Miss Blank,' rather than merely "Mary' or "Jane" and also plead with the house owners give their maids to get a little romance out of life and perhaps even a husband. To this end it is suggested that they be given a room in which to receive visitors, and not be kept in the house for the purpose of answering the doorbell or doing other light tasks after their heavier work for the day is done.

Modernize Homes

Without saying it in so many words, the committee also asks the servant-employing families of Britain to modernize their homes a little bit so as to relieve the domestics of some of their harsher burdens. For instance, it is also suggested that open coal fires be replaced to some extent by gas or even those unromantic but efficient things called radiators; that lavatory basins be installed in the bedrooms so that the maids will not have to be fetching jugs of hot or cold water several times a day, and that all house owners make a study of labor-saving devices and buy those suited to their pocket books.

Even the housemaids' knees receive a kindly thought from the committee. It recommends the use of vacuum cleaners which are almost unknown in most British houses, where the floors stoops and steps are scoured in the good, old-fashioned way.

Let Them Vote

Other suggested changes include instruction in domestic science in all the elementary schools for every girl between the ages of 12 and 14 with advanced specialized work for those desiring it; provisions for the pensioning of servants beyond the age of 55, and most democratic of all in a political sense, permission for women domestic workers who have attained statutory age to cast their votes in Parliamentary elections on the same qualification as men. At present housemaids as a rule cannot vote because, being sheltered by their employer they do not pay the amount for room rent which is necessary under the British law to qualify as voter.

Finally, the committee pleads with the playwrights humorists and news paper paragraphers to quit joshing and caricaturing domestic servants.

OPEN THE LARGEST DRYDOCK IN WORLD

Structure at St. John, N. B., Marks Progressive Step by Industrial Canada.

MONTREAL, Oct. 30.—The official opening yesterday of the new dry dock at St. John, N.B., the largest dry dock in the word, will mark the most progressive step in the history of industrial Canada in years. Immediately after the official luncheon at noon, Baron Byng, Governor General of Canada, will release the ship, the prow of which will sever the ribbons stretched across th dock and announce that it is open for the reception of the largest ship in the world in need of overhauling or repairs.

A special Canadian Pacific all-steel train, made up of compartment cars left Windsor street station yesterday carrying over a hundred representative personages.

Canadian Pacific officials included Grant Hall, vice-president who will represent E. W. Beatty, president of the company; vice-presidents A. D. Mactier and W. R. Machinnes and G. M. Bosworth, chairman of the Canadian Pacific Steamships, Ltd.

The new dock will be in full operation within the next few days and it will attract to Canada a great deal of the business which has hitherto gone to other parts of the continent.

The length of 1150 feet on the keel blocks with a main entrance width of 125 feet will allow for the handling of the largest vessels in the Atlantic service at highwater there is, he said, a draft on the entrance sill of 42 feet, the biggest draft for a dock of its kind in the world.

Special Canadian Pacific trains will be placed at the convenience of returning delegates to the opening ceremony after all the attendant functions have been observed.

RIGHT HONORABLE BONAR LAW, BRITAIN'S EX-PREMIER, SUCCUMBS TO SEPTIC PNEUMONIA AT HIS HOME TODAY AFTER FRUITLESS FIGHT IN ENGLAND AND CONTINENT

Passing of Great Canadian-Born Statesman Causes Profound Grief Throughout The Whole Empire.

SACRIFICED LIFE

Knew He Was Signing Own Death Warrant When Taking Over The British Premiership.

LONDON, October 30 (Special to The Examiner). — The Right Honourable Andrew Bonar Law, Prime Minister of Great Britain from October, 1922, to May, 1923, died at his residence in London early today.

He had been ill for many months. The cause of death was septic pneumonia.

Death followed a long but fruitless fight in England and the Continent in an effort to regain health shattered by his duties as chief of the British State during one of the most trying periods in its history.

The passing of Bonar Law, although not unexpected, caused profound grief throughout the nation when announced in the morning papers, for he held the affection and admiration of his fellow-countrymen, regardless of political faith, as have few leading statesmen in recent years.

Right Hon. Bonar Law really sacrificed his life for his country. He knew he was signing his own death warrant when he took over the strenuous duties of the Premiership after the resignation of David Lloyd-George, last year. The situation at that time, however, was such that Bonar Law felt his own life of little importance and he came out of temporary retirement to take up public life. He had been in poor health since he was forced to retire from his cabinet post as Chancellor of the Exchequer under David Lloyd-George, due to the breakdown he had suffered from overwork during the world war.

For months before Lloyd-George went out of office Bonar Law had been the Prime Minister's right hand man and his spokesman in the parliament.

Another Martyr

Andrew Bonar Law died another martyr to the terrific responsibilities of office in the opinion of his friends here.

The heavy strain of the decision to finally rupture the war entente probably contributed more than any other thing to bring about his break down.

The mental strain of making a decision that might change the fate of Europe and the British Empire left Bonar Law a broken man.

When Bonar Law left the conference room where he virtually ended the war time entente of France and England, he was scarcely able to walk. His face was drawn and haggard and his lips and hands trembled

He came immediatey to the room of the eagles in the Hotel Grillon, where he slumped in a chair facing a hundred eager newspaper correspondents and in a voice barely audible told them that the entente was at last virtually ended.

Bonar Law's secretary told the writer, that Bonar Law's health never very strong, was broken in that fateful two hours at the conference table in the Quai Dorsay.

From that time on the decline was rapid and he was soon forced to resign as Premier, although he retained office several months, after he was suffering intensely from throat trouble because there was nobody else in sight to assume the responsibilities of leadership of the British Empire.

Andrew Bonar Law, one of the most powerful figures in political Europe preceding, during and immediately following the World War, became Prime Minister of England October 23, 1922, upon the resignation of David Lloyd George—last of the famous war Premiers and of the "Big Four" at Versailles to step down from office.

Bonar Law had distinguished himself five years before as the man who refused a King's offer to make him Prime Minister. As leader of the Conservatives, the largest single party in the House of Commons, he was summoned by King George to form a Cabinet late in 1916, after Lloyd George, then Minister of Munitions, had forced an issue with Premier Asquith and brought about the latter's resignation. The political colleagues of Asquith, however, declined to promise adhesion, and believing that a coalition government was essential for the successful prosecution of the war, Bonar Law refused the honor. Lloyd George and his famous War Cabinet was the result.

Often called the "Roosevelt of England" because of his tremendous following from all parties and all walks of life, Bonar Law became Chancellor of the Exchequer under the new Premier and fought side by side with the "Little Welsh Giant" until the spring of 1921, when he was forced to retire because of ill-health.

Although always a champion of the man he had virtually made Premier, Bonar Law remained with his party when the Conservatives, in 1922, met and decided to withhold support from the Coalition Government, which, it was felt, had outlived the emergency for which it was created. Despite his failing health, he was considered the logical successor to Lloyd George, and when the King again invited him to form a Ministry, he found no words behind which to couch a refusal.

He managed to conduct the affairs of his strenuous office for seven months before it became publicly known that his health again had broken down. Late in May, 1923, it was announced that the Premier was suffering from a serious throat affection, and that his retirement was imminent. A few days later his formal resignation was filed with the King, and Stanley Baldwin, Chancellor of the Exchequer, was named to succeed him.

In contrast to the epochal period during the war, the armistice and the era of reconstruction subsequent to the ending of hostilities, the government of Bonar Law was eclipsed in importance, although it dealt with several problems of great domestic and international magnitude. Among these was the Irish question, the French invasion of the Ruhr Valley, which placed England in an extremely delicate position; the funding of the American debt, and the difficulties with Soviet Russia over the treatment of British subjects in the Near East.

A statesman with few political enemies, the career of Bonar Law was singular. He was 42 years of age before he entered politics. A successful Glasgow iron merchant who had been born and educated in Canada, his rise to eminence in the British Parliament began with his election in 1900 as a Unionist from the Blackfriars Division of Glasgow. Strong for tariff reform, he soon became noted for his clear reasoning on that subject, and as a result was made Parliamentary Secretary of the Board of Trade. Later he successively became leader of the Unionist or Opposition party in the House of Commons, Secretary of State for the Colonies, Chancellor of the Exchequer, Lord of the Privy Seal, and finally Premier.

Primarily a business man, he employed the tactics of business rather than the strategy of politics in dealing with national problems. With the advent of Lloyd George as Premier, he became the Welshman's Jonathan, and was referred to as his "Man Friday." As a member of the War Cabinet, as Chancellor and as the Coalition Government's leader in the House of Commons, he enjoyed the fullest confidence of his famous chief.

He interpreted administration measures, parried thrusts against the Government and answered interpellations from the floor. A lithe, slim figure of a man, scarcely five feet in height, with a bristling mustache, bright, active eyes, and a determined set to his mouth and chin, he was a typical hard-headed Scotch business man. In addition, he was something of an orator, quick of thought and speech, using short, sharp sentences that often smacked of that bitter, cutting sarcasm for which he was famous.

It was his persistency that brought about the evacuation of Gallipoli, of ill-starred Dardanelles campaign fame and the removal of more than 100,000 surviving British soldiers from an untenable position.

His services as Government leader in the House of Commons, a more difficult and thankless position than that the leader of the Opposition, placed Bonar Law high among his illustrious predecessors, Disraeli, Gladstone, Campbell-Bannerman and A. J. Balfour.

News of his retirement due to ill-health in the spring of 1921, came as a shock to his colleagues, and tributes to his work were paid even by former bitter opponents. Former

Bonar Law in Characteristic Stitudes

Mr. Bonar Law was born in New Brunswick, Canada, on 16th September, 1858. When he accepted his high office a year ago, his friends well knew that his health was precarious. Outside his close circle, it was known only that he had contracted a throat complaint, which prevented him from speaking.

Mr. Bonar Law was aware of his own condition, and promised the Unionist Party, when he accepted its mandate, that he would resign if and when he found his strength unequal to his work.

He gave place to Stanley Baldwin, his Chancellor of the Exchequer, almost before his new Government was fairly organised, retiring to the country to safeguard his failing strength.

SAXON CABINET RESIGNS UPON BERLIN'S ORDER

Boasts of Radical Communists Silenced By Stresemanns Forcible and Peremptory Demand

DRASTIC ACTION.

BERLIN, Oct. 29.—(Canadian Press).—Chancellor Stresemann's punitive expedition into "Red" Saxony is still in the initial stages, and it will be several days before its further progress reveals whether it is intended as something transcending the mere limits of a controversy with a federated state over the question of constitutional prerogatives.

The Chancellor of the Reich has appointed Dr. Carl Heinze as commissioner representing the Reich in Saxony. Dr. Heinze immediately demanded the resignation of the Saxon Cabinet and the Ministers complied with this demand, withdrawing from office at the time set, two o'clock in the afternoon.

General von Mueller who commands the Reichswehr in Saxony, prohibited the Diet from meeting. What further steps are to be taken by the Central Government has not developed.

Troops in Control

The Central Government obviously holds the whiphand over Dr. Zeigner and his radical administration in that it has literally honeycombed Saxony with Reichswehr detachments, thus repudiating the possibility of physical outbreaks. So far as competent political opinion in Reichstag circles is concerned, even down to the ranks of the moderate Socialists, it may be said that the Government's drastic procedure is being viewed as highly preferable to an attitude of waiting upon the pleasure of the Saxon Communists, who despite their minority in the Zeigner Ministry, were rapidly becoming a manace not only to Saxony but to the other proletarian sections of Germany, as well.

Both the political and social situation in Saxony had reached such a critical stage that President Ebert became convinced that it called for a strong show of authority by the Central Government as Saxony was rapidly developing into an incubator for German bolshevism. The Berlin authorities were also impressed with the urgent need of giving the Saxon industrialists very necessary protection against Communistic terrorizing, in order to halt the economic collapse with which the nation's most prolific industrial sector was being threatened.

Personally Concerned

Dr. Stresemann, who for nearly a score of years has been chairman of the Saxon Industrialists' League, was more concerned with the task of restoring order there than the other members of the Government the past ten days, during which he was freely appealed to by delegation Saxon industrialists for official intervention.

As much of the Communist agitation which has kept middle Germany in a turmoil during the past few years radiates from Saxony it is plain that President Ebert believed the present situation there warranted dictatorial procedure, and while the Socialist Party and the Labor Federation are outwardly viewing his armed invasion of Saxony with a show of impatience it is believed that both champions of labor are secretly not altogether opposed dt his peremptory removal from office of Zeigner and his radical allies.

The United Socialists and officials of the vorious labor federations will discuss the situation tomorrow, and on the outcome of these deliberations will depend the Socialists future relations to the Stresemann coalition government.

BELGIUM HAPPY OVER ADVANCE TO CONFERENCE

Preceded the French in Acceding to the British Invitation--Greet United States.

NOT MERE GESTURE.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 29.—(Canadian Press).—"Belgium is particularly happy that the reparation question has been advanced a step further through the friendly suggestions of the American Secretary of State," Foreign Minister Jaspar told the Associattd Press, in an interview today in which he highly praised the American initiative and predicted good results for the forthcoming conference of experts. After reciting the preliminary steps in the negotiations, he said:

"The Belgian government accepted the second proposition (in the British note to the allies) and afterward the French government did likewise. Thanks then to the happy intervention of the United States government accord was reached between the allies for a complete study of the reparation question.

Horizon Clearer.

"The acceptance given by the Belgian government was without reservation. Public opinion in our country, which is always grateful for American initiatives, and always profoundly conscious of what we owe the great republic, greeted with joy America's return among the European allies, and the announcement that she would no longer remain aloof from their difficulties. There seems no doubt to me that at this stage, thanks to the good will of all, the horizon is somewhat clearer and we can look for real improvement in the general situation."

"The importance attributed to the United States communication and its publication in full in the press, as well as the emotion aroused throughout the whole world, prove that it is not a matter of a gesture without consequences, but is really the result of a decided attitude and political resolution, of which the United States forsees a happy result.

Influence Commission.

The restricted nature of the inquiry to be undertaken and the cautiousness of America gave the Foreign Minister no concern.

"If the conference of experts succeeds unanimously in adopting a plan," he concluded, "that unanimity would exercise considerable influence upon the decisions to be taken by the Reparation Commission and the interested governments."

TONIGHT'S BANQUET.

The banquet given by the City Council tonight to the Ontario Intermediate, Junior, Midget and Bantam baseball champions and the runners up in the Juvenile series and in the Central Ontario League will be a sporting event of a very unique character and a fitting recognition of a most unusual record that is not likely to be duplicated for some time.

The Examiner is sure that the citizens generally endorse the action of the Council in paying civic honours to the members of these various teams who have given Peterborough so much publicity during the past season.

To win so many championships in one season is a feat that reflects most creditably upon Peterborough as a sporting community, and to win them as these teams have done, fairly and squarely, with every member of each organization qualified in every way to participate in the series in which he took part, is an even higher endorsation.

Every player was eligible in regard to age and residential qualifications, and there was no attempt to illegally strengthen the team when the O.B.A.A. playoffs were reached.

The champions played the game both on and off the field, and the honours that will be accorded them tonight have been richly earned.

BRITAIN'S UNEMPLOYMENT PROBLEM.

The extent of the unemployment problem in Great Britain is emphasized by the statement made by Sir William Joynson-Hicks, Minister of Health, that not only does the British Government contemplate spending £50,000,000 on schemes during the approaching winter to provide work, but, if necessary, was ready to spend another £50,000,000.

Talking about the expenditure of nearly half a billion dollars in such a manner will impress Canadians with the seriousness of the situation in the Motherland.

Providing work, even at this enormous cost, is, of course, a much better method of dealing with the problem than the simple but pauperizing system of paying unemployment doles, and, in addition, the nation will benefit because of the public work on roads, bridges and other things that will be carried out.

But the British taxpayer has already a staggering burden to carry, and the dumping of another hundred million pounds upon his shoulders will be a serious test of the patience and willingness of the people of the Old Land.

It is much better for the nation to provide work than to provide doles for idlers, but both methods are economically unsound, and one of the greatest problems confronting the British Government is to get British industry back somewhere near its normal condition—hence Premier Baldwin's reference to protection and the possibility of an early appeal to the country.

CONFUSION, WORSE CONFOUNDED.

The next session of the Legislature should see this farce in regard to the control of the exenditures of the Police Departments of Ontario cities, for which the Drury Government was responsible, settled one way or another.

If the City Councils are to regulate the police expenditures, let the Legislature say so in language that permits of no other meaning; if on the other aldermanic control, then by all means have that fact stated clearly

The amendment passed by the late Government has left nothing but a controversy which is apparently coming to a head in Peterborough.

The City Council says the change in the Act means one thing; the Police Commissioners are emphatic in declaring that it means exactly the opposite.

The framers of the amendment succeeded in making it as his opinion that the amendment gave municipal Councils the power to cut down police estimates if they saw fit to do so; City Solicitor Wearing, on the contrary, believes Mr. Raney was wrong in that view.

So far as is known, the opinion of the Hon. Mr. Nickle has not been obtained.

The famers of the amendment succeeded in making it so ambiguous in its language that at present it is meaningless, or rather it is open to two constructions—hence the local trouble and the confusion all over the Province in regard to this point.

The Legislature should clear up the situation early in the next session.

THE COAL GOUGERS.

In a recent report of the United States Coal Fact Finding Commission, wholesale dealers in antracite coal are blamed for the present phenomenally high prices, says the Border Cities Star. The commission says that the margin of profit made by these people is two hundred per cent. higher than it was before the war, and that retail dealers, if anything, are taking less profit than ever.

The wholesalers hasten to deny the charge. "Foolish," they cry, and go on trying to prove themselves the lily-white victims of calumny. But the public, which knows the retailer personally, and knows that he isn't getting rich any faster than any other hard-working man, is pretty apt to find him not guilty. Also, bearing in mind the general principle that the less right a man has to anything the louder he will squeal when it is about to be taken away from him, the public has little doubt of who is guilty of gouging in the coal business.

Last, but not least, why wholesalers in the hard coal business? And that's a question that the people of Canada are going to answer by making the business very useless as far as our market is concerned. We're going to build coke ovens, use our own coal in them and be independent of the American gougers.

A COMMUNITY FUND.

The Chamber of Commerce in setting aside an evening for the discussion of the desirability of inaugurating a community fund campaign in Peterborough to take the place of the multitude of minor campaigns that are carried on each year demonstrates its anxiety to be of service.

The community fund method has been successfully tried in other cities and has proven a businesslike, economical system of carrying on social service work with a minimum of annoyance or interruption to the public.

The idea is briefly to decide upon a budget capable of caring for the needs of all the different organizations, then link up the latter into a campaign machine, and in one drive each year secure the necessary funds,

The plan commends itself to most people because the assurance is given that the one appeal covers everything.

It eliminates these almost weekly drives that keep citizens eternally digging down into their pocketbooks to assist this, that or the other organization.

It should eliminate, too, a lot of overlapping and place all social service work in Peterborough on a businesslike basis, each organization getting exactly what it needs.

The present condition of a feast for some and a famine for others should to a great extent be mitigated.

The community fund plan will be discussed in some detail in the Examiner during the next few days, and the articles are commended to the attention of our readers.

THE CURFEW TOLLS.

Mr. William Montgomery McGovern, who recently made an adventurous journey into the heart of Tibet, recounts that he was startled on his first night in the forbidden city of Lhassa by the curfew. "Every night at 8.30," he writes, "curfew is sounded; but not by means of a curfew bell. Instead, a giant squib is let off in each quarter of the city, and after this no one is allowed to be out of doors."

He was there in contact with one of the most ancient expressions of feudalism; yet whence came this custom history does not record. William the Conqueror brought it to England. It was the signal for the extinction of all fires and lights, as well as for everyone to remain indoors. In 1100 Henry I. abolished that part of the requirement with respect to lights and the fire on the hearth; but the tolling of the curfew bell continued for many centuries to warn the people that being abroad after dark was contrary to the public weal.

In later times the ringing of the curfew—which is a mere perversion of the French words couvre-feu—had reference only to children under a certain age. Down to our own time that custom obtained, and it is not so long ago that Ottawa had its curfew with that significance attached to it. In that sense it was a sane law. Every consideration makes it desirable that children should be abed, at least indoors, at sunset. If we have no warning signal, sounded from some central point, parental control should be sufficient to keep boys and girls off the streets at night. We have, however, got dangerously far away from anything so obviously sound, and have swung to the other extreme.

The curfew bell began to die at the birth of democracy. It had always stood for the absolute rule of the princes. Private initiative and personal freedom had no place under such a system. Those who had the power to govern, carried their notion of authority into the homes of the people. There may still be something to be said in defence of that form of absolutism, especially when it is contrasted with the license of our time. If people were compelled to stay indoors, it might at least be assumed that the family tie and influence would thereby be strengthened. It may have been easy to do this during a period of social evolution when there were few extraneous allurements. The only question which seriously arises in our day is as to whether or not we have really gained by our modern multiplication of the things that call men and women away from their homes at night.

No one may say it is an entirely frivolous thought that attractions nowadays appeal more to the heels than to the head. We have, for example, got far away from a lecture period. Fifty years ago it was considered a great privilege to hear such mental giants as Henry Ward Beecher and John B. Gough. There were many others. They gave the people something to think about, and really stimulated the disposition to read. Today we have nothing to take the place of the old lecture platform. Instead, we have a great deal that robs the family fireside of its sweet influences; and we are probably losers to just that extent. The curfew would not be tolerated; yet it would seem that we need something which would restore the domestic hearth to its former power for good. If fathers and mothers, big brothers and sisters, are bound to leave their homes at night, it is a pity we have nothing to offer them better than mere amusements.

If we have swept away the last traces of overlordlordism, let us not be too confident about the flawlessness of our democracy. No man who seeks the centre and marrow of things can be entirely satisfied with the drift of social life in our time. That centre is unquestionably the home, and it is at precisely that point modern restlessness and modern conceptions of liberty are flinging out suggestions of danger. We need be on our guard. It is just possible that we require something in the nature of a curfew. No good would come from ringing it at the City Hall. In the present temper of the people it would provoke a revolt to even attempt such a thing. But unless we can do something to bring back the fast-fading fireside, with all that it means for the re-assertion of abiding domestic influence, we may regret it as time proceeds. The home is the basic unit of the state, and let us never forget that no state can possibly be stronger than the sum total of such units.—Ottawa Journal.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, October 30. — First indications at the Union Stock Yards yesterday morning pointed to a sticky day's trading in cattle. The net result of last week's business was a carry-over of 888 cattle. There was a full supply of stuff again yesterday morning, with receipts of 6,186 cattle, 533 calves, 3,540 hogs, and 3,856 sheep and lambs.

In the cattle there was also 186 billed through, and these could also be counted in. Two or three firms had some Western cattle, and all told there was about 17 loads of these.

Prices began no higher than they left off last week, and first sales included a few fairly good butchers' heifers about 800 pounds each at 5 1-2c a pound. Most of the pens had a load or two of heavy steers, but not many of these would qualify for the choice class. Packers were not keen buyers of the heavy cattle, and there was therefore not much competition for the exporters to meet. Early bids for these was about 25c lower than last week, but purchases made were accepted as being about 15c down. The average load brought $6.75 a cwt., and $7.00 was refused for a string of seven loads, one of which was extra good, and estimated as good for nearly $8.00 a cwt. Up till noon the exporters had taken about 400 steers, and a few bulls. For the latter 3 1-2c to 4 1-2c a pound was paid. The steers cost $6.25 to $7.25 a cwt.

Local butchers who kill a good quality of beef, said there was nothing in their class to buy. Some 1,250-pound butchers sold at $6.75 a cwt. The few baby beeves in were readily bought up at from 8c to 9 1-4c. Two at the latter price were shipped by Ed. Wise, of Clinton. Rough 1,100-pound butchers' steers sold at $5.55 a cwt. An odd choice butchers' cow sold at $5.00 a cwt.

In the poorer grades of butchers' cattle little was done during the morning, and it was with difficulty that prices were kept close to those of last week's decline. The stocker and feeder trade was decidedly quiet, and one specialist in these said that the farmers seemed to have lost heart owing to the low prices of butchers' cattle.

Veal calves about held their own. A few a little heavier than are acceptable, made 10c a pound, and 10 1-2c was refused for those of handier weights and finish. The market was at least steady with a drag only in the heavy calves. Choice calves sold at 11c.

Lambs were quietly strong and irregularly up to 50c to 75c a cwt. Some choice bunches sold at 12c and the general price for those of good killing weights was 11 1-2c to 12c, with $1.05 a cwt off on bucks. Most of the sheep on offer were the heavy kind, and these went at 3 1-2c to 4c a pound. Most of the lambs appeared to be promised before the opening.

Hogs were firm yesterday morning, with $8.25 a cwt. f.o.b., as the minimum for the thick smooth. Salesmen talked as though better than this was being paid in spots.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, October 30 (Canadian Press). — Wheat underwent something of a setback in price yesterday, chiefly as a result of prospective enlarged imports of Canadian wheat duty paid. The market closed steady, but 3-8c to 1-2c to 5-8c net lower, with December $1.05 3-4 to 7-8 to $1.05 7-8, and May $1.10 5-8 to $1.10 5-8 to 3-4.

Corn finished at a decline of 3-4 to 4 cents, the latter for October delivery.

Oats 14c to 3-8c off.

Although an upturn in Liverpool quotations gave the wheat market here a little initial strength, the bulls soon were at an evident disadvantage. Subsequent rallies failed to hold, and with the United States' visible supply showing a liberal increase, the day's lowest price level was reached just before the close. Throughout the day, special notice was taken of weakness in values at Minneapolis, where hedging sales against Canadian purchases appeared to be in progress. Besides, the seemingly unyielding attitude of France relative to German reparations counted somewhat as a bearish influence.

A striking feature of the wheat trade was the way the market resisted selling pressure on the setbacks in price. Every time the December delivery went below $1.08, opportune buying support developed, considerable wheat being purchased against sales of corn. Other buying of wheat was said to be based more or less on chances that as the result of an investigation which has been going on of late the Tariff Commission on Washington may decide on raising the tariff on wheat.

Increasing receipts of new corn had a bearish influence on corn and oats. Seventy per cent. of the 383 cars of corn which arrived in Chicago yesterday were new crop.

Provisions averaged lower in line with hog values.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, October 30 (Canadian Press). — Cattle, receipts 20,000; weak to 25c lower; top long yearlings, $12.40; best matured steers, $12.25; bulk fed steers and yearlings, $9.50 to $11.00; fat she stock weak; canners and cutters steady; bulls strong; stockers and feeders fairly active; bulk veal calves to packers around $9.50; upward to $11.00 to outsiders.

MR. AND MRS. WINN GET PRESENTATION

Honored By Friends on Eve of Departure From Downeyville.

DOWNEYVILLE, Oct. 30.—A large number of friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Winn gathered at their home to bid farewell to them on the eve of their removal to Toronto. An address and well filled purse were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Winn, the address being read by Miss Mary Milloy, while Mr. Frank Milloy made the presentation.

Following quite a few commendatory speeches dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

Mr. Winn, whose sale was held Saturday has rented his farm and is moving this week to Toronto to reside.

News Nuggets.

Threshing is the order of the day around here now, the farmers taking advantage of the fine weather to clean up.

Ailsike is a good crop and the price fair. Some farmers have from 60 to 100 bushel.

A couple of evenings ago two tramps appeared in the village and gave the residents a bad scare. They were warned however, to get out of the vilage in quick order.

Quite a number from here attended the party at Mr. and Mrs. John O'Neill's, Kings Wharf, on Wednesday night and report a good time.

Much sympathy is extended to Mr. Frank Milloy and family in the loss they sustained by the burning of their house and contents recently, especially as just a year ago Mr. Milloy had his son killed with a manure spreader, and three months ago his wife passed away.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Connell and family and Mrs. Thos. Harrington motored to Peterboro and spent the day the guests of friends.

Miss Mary Piggott went to Ops Sunday to spend a few days the guest of her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. John Hickey.

Mrs. Patrick Milloy and Miss Julia O'Neill of Lindsay recently visited their sister, Mrs. Geo. O'Connell, who is seriously ill.

Mrs. Simon Connell is home again after her serious illness in the Ross Hospital, Lindsay.

Messrs. Stanley O'Neill, Parel McGuire and Charles Meehan, Jr., were visitors to Lindsay, Sunday.

Miss Pearl Herlihey spent Sunday the guest of Miss Gertude O'Neill.

DIRECTORS WILL APPEAR AT ASSIZES THURSDAY

TORONTO, October 29 (Canadian Press). — The ten directors and officials of the defunct Home Bank will appear in the Criminal Assize Court on Thursday morning to be arraigned on the charge of making false returns under the Bank Act, and with conspiracy, following the direction of Mr. Justice Smith in the Assize Court to-day.

HYDRO GLEAMS IN WARKWORTH

Workmen Completed Installation Saturday — Village Well Lighted.

WARKWORTH, Oct. 30.—Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Summerly of St. Lamberts, Que., are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Baker.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Gooderich visited friends in Colborne on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Glover of Campbellford were guests at the home of Mr. N. D. Richards on Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Wiggins of Campbellford were in town on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Thompson of Cobourg visited relatives in town on Sunday.

Mr. Richard Grills who underwent an operation in Toronto General Hospital and whose condition was serious is now doing nicely.

The employees of the Hydro Electric Power Commission completed their work in the village on Saturday and the business place, public halls and streets are lighted to the satisfaction of everyone.

Rev. Elliott of Campbellford had charge of the anniversary services in the Methodist church here on Sunday and gave interesting and instructive addresses to a large congregation at both morning and evening services. The music given by the choir was excellent but the solos which Mr. H. R. Pollock of Toronto, formerly an old Warkworth boy gave were very much enjoyed an appreciated by all who heard him.

Personal Paragraphs From King's Wharf.

KINGS WHARF, Oct. 30.—Miss Pearl Herlihey has returned home after spending a few days the guest of her sister, Mrs. Patrick Perdue.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hickey of Ennismore spent Sunday the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Morrissey.

The Misses Lillian Condon and Ruby Perdue spent Sunday the guests of Miss Gertrude O'Neill.

Mrs. John Winn and little son, Clare, are at present visiting friends in Peterboro.

Quite a number from here attended the presentation at Robt. N. Winn's Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Milloy and the Misses Marie and Katie O'Neill of Lindsay spent Sunday guests of friends here.

Mss Lottie Fitzpatrick has returned from Toronto, where she has been the guest of friends for some time.

Messrs. Gordon Murtha, Robert Sullivan Emmet and Albert Herlihey have returned home after spending the summer in the west.

WEDDING CRUSH A ROYAL FLUSH

Kings, Queens and Princes Will Crowd Little Chapel When Sweden's Prince Weds.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—The wedding of Crown Prince Gustav Adolph of Sweden to Lady Louise Mountbatten, cousin of King George which will take place in London next Saturday, will attract more kings, queens, royal princesses and diplomats and noble personages than have bowed to one another at one place since the funeral of King Edward.

The ceremony will be performed in the exclusive little chapel royal in the West End. The place is so small that after those privileged to live in court circles have found their seats there will be room under roof for only two hundred of the invited guests. The remainder will have seats out in the yard. All those so seated are anxious for the weather to be good for the creations of the Paris modistes would hardly prove an inspiring spectacle in a drizzle.

When the couple walk down the aisle, they will be followed by the eyes of two Kings, His Britannic Majesty and the King of Sweden; four queens, Mary, Alexandra, Olga of Greece and Maud of Norway, and thirty princes and princesses including the Prince of Wales and Prince Wilhelm of Sweden the Princess Royal and also a long line of peers and their wives.

The Chapel Royal for centuries has been scene of various royal functions.

Vicks is The Thing For Asthma

ONTARIO MOTHER TELLS OF STUBBORN CASE RELIEVED.

Mrs. Wilbert E. Collier of Bowery street, Picton, Ont., says: "My little girl had a terrible case of asthma. I read about Vicks and sent out for a sample. I rubbed my child's chest and throat with it and put a flannel on. Vicks did her so much good that I bought two jars. She now sleeps well, and is a different child. I would not be without Vicks VapoRub in the house."

A good way to get relief from asthma is to rub Vicks over the spine from shoulders to hips; then melt a little Vicks in a spoon and inhale the healing vapors. Also insert some in the nostrils, snuffing well back. You will be delighted to see how it clears the head.

Vicks comes as a salve—the external direct treatment for all cold troubles—absorbed like a liniment and inhaled as a vapor.

Treatment with Vicks is especially desirable for children as it avoids so much internal dosing. Just as good, too, for cuts, burns, bruises, sores and skin itchings.

At all drug stores, 50c a jar. For free test size package, write Vick Chemical Co., 344 St. Paul St., W., Montreal, P. Q.

Though Vicks is new in Canada it has a remarkable sale in the States. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

ONLY PROTEST FROM CABINET

Saxon Ministry Isolated and New Government Planned—Food Scarcity Serious.

DRESDEN, Oct. 29. — The Saxon Ministry, composed of Communists and Socialists, and headed by Dr. Zeigner, withdrew from their official quarters to-day in compliance with an order issued by Dr. Carl Heinze, the newly appointed commissioner representing the Reich in Saxony.

Though deposed, the Ministers have not given up their fight as they met immediately and prepared a protest against the procedure of the Central government, demanding that the question shall be submitted to the Reichsrat, or Federal Council.

Their claim is that the premiers of the Federated states and the Federal Council, should pass on the question.

Ministry Isolated.

Dr. Zeigners ministry is now completely isolated, as a detachment of the Reichswehr is occupying the Saxon Diet, thus depriving the deposed government of calling a meeting of the legislature which function rests with the Central government's civil and military authorities in Saxony. The Saxon populace views the untoward situation with mixed feeling although there is a strong under current of satisfaction over the Berlin government's strong measures.

The deposed premier is blamed for having permitted his ultra-radical associates to gain the ascendancy in his ministry, and it is very doubtful if they will again figure in future coalition governments.

Present indications point to a union between the Democrats and the Social Democrats, with the possible inclusion of the German People's Party in the formation of a new government to succeed Zeigner's.

Food is Needed.

One of the most urgent problems confronting Dr. Heinze has to do with the organization of the food situation throughout Saxony, especially in the densely populated industrial sectors.

Quiet prevails in Dresden, Leipsic and other cities, although the offices of the Communist, Arbeiter Zeitung, at Leipsic, have been occupied by the police.

My Experience is that DR. CALDWELL'S LAXATIVE SYRUP PEPSIN Is just what you need

This Will Make Digestion Easy

WHAT the dyspeptic needs is not soda and charcoal and breath perfumes but a medicine that will help his bowels to move regularly, for dyspepsia and constipation are allied. If you will take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin systematically as the directions on the package call for you will soon digest your food properly and pass it out normally, and heartburn, belching, dizziness, nervousness and bloating will vanish. In time you can dispense with all medicines as Laxative Syrup Pepsin will have exercised the intestinal and stomach muscles so they act for themselves. Mr. E. N. Gagni, 338 St. Patrick St., Ottawa, Ont., Mrs. Uhriah Stewart of Crousetown, N. S., and hosts of others will verify this.

World Acclaims Success

Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin is the prescription of a well-known physician of that name who practiced successfully for 47 years. It has been on the market 30 years and is today the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. Thousands of families have it in their medicine chest ready when any member shows signs of dyspepsia, constipation, torpid liver, sour stomach, biliousness, coated tongue, offensive breath, headaches and such ailments that indicate deranged stomach and bowels. Many serious diseases are prevented by this timely aid.

Formula Plainly Stated

Have no hesitancy giving Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Syrup Pepsin to anyone young or old. It is a mild, gentle laxative free from narcotics. It will not cramp or gripe. The formula is on the package, a compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and simple aromatics. A bottle can be had at any drug store and averages less than a cent a dose. Economical for families and fully guaranteed. You will find it a great improvement in taste and action over castor oil, or "candy cathartics" made from coal-tar that cause skin diseases, calomel that loosens the teeth, salts in water or powder that concentrate the blood and dry the skin.

DOUBT HUDSON BAY SHIPPING

Navigability Discussed in Evidence Before Royal Grain Enquiry Commission.

MONTREAL, Oct. 29.—Concluding its four days' session, the Royal Grain Inquiry Commission left for Toronto last night. The concluding day's session brought out conflicting evidence on the navigability of Hudson Bay, the feasibility of the rail route to the bay for carrying grain and the various views on the alleged mixing of Canadian grain in bond passing through the United States.

Insurance brokers admitted that higher rates are charged on vessels and cargoes operating in the St. Lawrence route as compared with those in the United States but they asserted there is competition for business. One witness declined to supply the commission with the rates he had been charging suggesting that since business was competitive it was unfair to force him to expose his details to competitors and the question was not pressed.

At the conclusion Mr. Justice Turgeon, chairman, expressed the thanks of the commission to the Montreal business men for the frankness with which they supplied details of useful value to the commission. M. P. Fennell, general manager of the Harbor Commission replied, expressing thanks of the Harbor Commission and other business men and assuring the chairman that Montreal business men are in genuine sympathy with every effort to assist in rendering the men of the west who produce the grain every assistance in their power.

Need Steel Boats.

Captain N. E. Freakley, marine superintendent of Thomas Harvey and Sons, who has made twenty trips into the Hudson Bay, told the commissioners that navigation opened on August 1st, and closed Oct. 31. Accidents were always likely there. He admitted that in a specially constructed ship one could go into the bay as early as July 15 and as late as the first week in November and perhaps later. The Hudson Bay boats are steel steamers of 2,600 tons. He thought that grain carriers could not be made to go into the bay.

F. A. Haywood, export manager for James Richardson and Sons, told the commission that inspection of grain at Montreal was not feasible since it was but one of several seaboard export points. He was sure that a United Kingdom buyer does not prefer a seaboard inspection to one at the head of the lakes. The head of the lakes is the logical place for grain inspection, witness believed and the fact that grain shipped from there in the fall does not reach the buyer sometimes until the following spring did not affect the value of the certificate or cargo. Nothing could happen to the grain in the meantime that would justify another inspectcin.

Such inspection would merely add a dollar a thousand to the cost. There was no mixing after loading into lake boats.

Witness had heard of mixing of Canadian grain in the United States but had never had any complaint. His house shipped by Vancouver, New York and Montreal, he thought grain was shipped through the United States honestly but there were chances for error.

A. G. Burton, grain exporter, said that he had heard of United Kingdom buyers complaining of grain shipped through United States ports. Millers had told the witness that they would have to cease buying Canadian wheat that passed through United States ports, but they had not done so. He had never heard of but one specific case where Canadian wheat in bond was mixed in the United States. The commission had heard of that in New York.

As to seaboard inspection at Montreal, he thought it would be futile. Fort William inspection was accepted like a five dollar bill.

H. W. Cowan, of the Montreal Grain and Shipping Corporation, said his company was closely connected with moving United States' grain through Montreal. The wheat moved this way, Mr. Cowan said, because there was a difference of about three cents between Montreal and New York during part of the season. Canadian wheat coming through Montreal is on the increase and United States' shipments through here are decreasing he thought.

Insurance Rates.

R. J. Dale, insurance brokers, said the rates on marine insurance from Montreal as compared with those from New York are all subject to competition all over the world. Hulls are insured by the year, one rate on liners, another on tramps. The winter rate is twenty shillings a hundred pounds of hull, the summer rate is ten shillings on the Atantic coast. There is higher rate that operates against St. John and the St. Lawrence route. The witness did not think this a discrimination. The hazard of a vessel increases as it approaches land. Rates had declined in the past 20 years the witness said. These rates are between New York and London companies which fix them. When the rate at Montreal is forty cents per hundred dollars value of grain, the rate to New York would be 27 1-2 cents on the same class. Quebec is ten per cent. less than Montreal. This is a winter rate and is said to be one reason why so much Canadian grain goes to New York. In the summer the rate to Montreal would be 35 cents and in New York it would be 27 1-2 cents. On hulls there is proportionately the same. Every additional risk causes an additional rate. From Fort William to Port Colborne, the rate on grain fluctuates. The rate from Fort William to the bay ports is fifteen cents to November 1st. From then to Nov. 30, the rate advances rapidly on the late cargoes.

The commission wanted details of teh witness' own rates from Montreal for the year on flour and wheat. He objected. He thought in view of competition that he should not be asked to disclose his personal business. He would say flour risks and rates were much higher than risks and rates on wheat.

Question — Mill men have complained of ocean rates on their products and the commission wants some more details.

Answer— We don't consider the rates high.

DRIFTING BACK INTO NEW WARS

It is For The Churches to Say There Will Be No More War.

TOORNTO, Oct. 29. Canadian Press. — "We are drifting back into war. Labor has spoken in favor of no more war. It is for the churches to say 'More war,' or 'No more War.' I believe that it time for the churches to stand with labor in opposing war."

So spoke Dr. G. Sherwood Eddy, a noted Y.M.C.A. worker, who has just returned from a year's survey of conditions in Europe, here yesterday. He said that he has found Russia materially much better than he had expected—spiritually much worse. That country he added, was flourishing economically.

DR. STENMEITZ HAD NO WEALTH

Electrical Wizard's Estate Consisted of Only 1912 Auto and $1,500 Insurance Policy.

SCHENECTADY, N.Y., Oct. 29. —(Canadian Press.)—It was learned to-day that the late Dr. Charles Steinmetz, who died at his home here on Friday, left an estate consisting of only a 1912 electric auto and a $1,500 insurance policy, the same as is issued to all veteran employees of the General Electric Company.

The "wizard," who controlled electrical storms, probably could have made millions, but apparently he drew no more salary from the company than sufficient for the necessaries of life.

"I do not wish to work for money," Dr. Steinmetz once said to his employers. "Let me draw it as I wish, and if I draw too much, tell me. If I think of money I will not work as well. Build me a house and laboratory, that is all I want."

CLUB IN PETERBORO

To celebrate the showing of Jackie Coogan in Charles Dicken's famous story, "Oliver Twist," which comes to the Capitol Theatre the last three days of next week, the many admirers of little Jackie have decided to form a Jackie Coogan Club in Peterboro.' The Management of the Capitol Theatre is cooperating with this club and offers 25 passes to the winners, each good for two weeks at the Capitol. To start the club off with a smash, the founders have secured the patronage of distinguished Peterboro men and G. N. Gordon, K.C., M.P., and W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P. have consented to become honorary Presidents of the Club while His Worship Moyor Taylor has accepted the position of President.

APPOINT GOVERNOR

BERLIN, Oct. 29.— (Canadian Press).—Immediately upon receipt of a reply of Dr. Zeigner head of communist socialist government of Saxony, refusing to comply with the ultimatum of the Berlin Government demanding resignation of his government Chancellor Stresemann announced that the Government would appoint a Governor for Saxony. He will be impowered to administer Saxony's civil affairs until the present communist- socialist ministry is replaced by parliamentary government acceptable to the federal authorities.

Dupture with Berlin ministry is inevitable as the present Saxon diet would in all probablity be returned with Premier Ziegner and his associates to office.

ITALIAN IMMIGRANTS DISEMBARKED AT HALIFAX

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(Canadian Press).—The steamship American which arrived Saturday from Naples with 450 immigrants, destined for Canada will discharge these immigrants at Halifax, it was announced this morning at the office of the Commissioner of Immigration Henry Curran, at Ellis Island. The big influx of Italians seeking to enter Canada as farm laborers necessitated the move.

LIGHT WEEK IN DAIRY EXPORTS

Cheese Shipments For the Season Still Exceed Those of Last Year.

MONTREAL, October 30 (Canadian Press).—Export trade in cheese last week was very quiet, and in consequence the shipments from Montreal were the smallest of any previous week since the one ending 23rd June. The total exports were 21,591 boxes, as against 82,639 boxes for the previous week, showing a decrease of 61,048 boxes and a decrease of 24,855 boxes with the same week last year, but the total shipments from 1st May, 1923, to date have been 69,562 boxes in excess of the same period for 1922 and a decrease of 198,913 boxes with 1921.

The movement of butter for export account was also very small last week, the total shipments being only 750 packages, which show a decrease of 450 packages with the same week of 4,314 packages, as compared with the previous week, and a decrease last year. The total exports for the season to date have been 71,760 packages, as against 315,380 packages for the same period of 1922, showing a decrease of 243,820 packages, but they were 6,832 packages larger than that of 1921.

There was rather more activity in the export egg trade last week as far as the shipments were concerned, there being forwarded to British markets from here 15,715 cases, which show an increase of 5,350 cases as compared with the previous week, and an increase of 6,584 cases with the same week last year, but the total shipments for the season to date have been 26,674 cases less than 1922 and 26,277 cases smaller than 1921.

Food instead of flannels

Are you ready for the chilly days? Bodily warmth comes from nourishing, easily digested foods. Piling on flannels will not supply warmth to the poorly nourished body. Shredded Wheat Biscuit served with hot milk and a little cream gives warmth and strength for any kind of weather, and it is just as satisfying for lunch and dinner as it is for breakfast. It is ready-cooked and ready-to-eat. Contains all the bran you need for stimulating bowel movement. Delicious for any meal with sliced bananas or other fruits.

TRISCUIT is the Shredded Wheat cracker—a real whole wheat toast—eaten with butter, soft cheese or marmalades.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

I.O.O.F. Nominate Officers—Rebuilding in Fire Section — Action For Damages Threatened—News Paragraphs.

(By Staff Reporter).

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 30. — Sunday in Campbellford saw an exchange of ministers in several pulpits. Rev. Wesley Elliott, pastor of the Methodist Church, was at Warkworth for the anniversary services of the Methodist Church there, Rev. J. E. Glover, B.A., taking Mr. Elliott's place in Campbellford church, and Rev. S. A. Kemp of Warkworth supplying for Mr. Glover at the anniversary services at Stephen's Church, Hoard's Station. In St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Rev. Jas. McIlroy, of Havelock, officiated, while the pastor, Rev. C. F. McIntosh, took the anniversary services of the Presbyterian Church in Havelock.

I.O.O.F. Met.

Last week the regular meeting of Loch Lomond Rebekah Lodge, No. 248, I.O.O.F., took place, Mrs. S. J. Moore presiding. Nomination of officers was made, elections to take place at the November meeting. Campbellford Rebekah Lodge rejoices in a membership of 50, of whom seven of the most enthusiastic members are men, one a popular bachelor of the town.

Re-building Going On.

On Rear and Ranney Streets, in the section which was visited about six weeks ago by fire that destroyed several barns, re-building is going on. Mr. Chas. Black is putting up a new barn, Mr. George Hammond is repairing his barn and Mr. George Webber is erecting a double garage.

Preparations for the Redpath Chautauqua Festival are proceeding apace. It is reported that in Campbellford, as in the majority of other places, ticket-selling for the Chautauqua is not overly promising. The programme appears to be an excellent one.

Suit Is Threatened.

It is rumored that an aftermath of a recent accident is brewing between a Warkworth resident and Campbellford town. Mr. Wilbert Nelson, of the thriving little police village of Northumberland County, is reported to be considering an action for damages against Campbellford for placing its telegraph poles in an awkward position. Mr. Nelson's son, driving a motor car into Campbellford last week, swerved out of the roadway to avoid a horse and buggy at the roadside, and collided with a pole said to be placed in a very unsatisfactory position.

Dance Hall Needed.

The younger set in Campbellford these days is bewailing the loss of its dancing hall. The converted "movie" palace can only be secured for dancing purposes after half-past nine o'clock, and the weekly "hops" of the Bemersyde Chapter I.O.D.E. will perforce be discontinued this year, as well as their annual big Christmas season dance. The idea of a community hall as a War Memorial seems to be gaining in favor, although some residents incline toward a town clock as a more suitable memorial, this idea being flouted by those who declare that a new Post Office may shortly come to Campbellford, when a town clock in another building would then not be required.

News Paragraphs.

To-day, Miss May Gemmell, of Toronto, national secretary for the Presbyterian Church of the Girls' Work Board, is coming to address the young people on Canadian Girls in Training Work. Miss Gemmell is making a brief tour of Brighton and Belleville, Campbellford, Peterboro, Port Hope and Picton, in connection with her work.

The cooking sale held by the Women's Auxiliary of Christ church on Saturday was well attended and quite successful. The president, Mrs. J. P. Archer, acted as convenor, assisted by Mrs. A. Jenkins, Mrs. G. Benor, Mrs. Neil Dickson and Mrs. A. Denmark.

The services in Christ church during the absence of a rector, are being taken by a lay reader, Mr. Arthur J. Jenkines.

The proprietor of the Olympia Sweets has taken over Dr. McCowan's store on Front street, lately occupied by J .A. Burke, stationer, for use as a lunch room.

The stork visited Campbellford on Sunday last and left a boy baby at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Thompson. Mr. Thompson is accountant at the Standard Bank.

On November 7th, Rev. W. R. McWilliams, returned Methodist missionary from Japan, will be on the Seymour circuit.

Rev. W. Elliott took part last tvening in the anniversary services at Hastings church.

To-night is the big event at the Tabernacle Methodist church on the English Line, when the annual harvest dinner is held. The ladies of this church have the reputation of being famous cooks. Mrs. Albert Grills and Mr. Hodden have charge of the musical programmt.

At Petherick's Corners, on Monday next, Sentinel L.O.L. No. 2322 are holding a box social.

On Saturday of this week, the Ladies' Aid Society of St. Andrew's church is holding a bazaar.

Delegates to the Young People's League convention of the Bay of Quinte Conference in Belleville this week include Rev .J. E. Glover, Mrs. G. W. Turner and Miss N. M. Hoover, representing the ladies, and Carl McGuire and Willie Hore for the juniors.

Complete Brick Work Soon.

At the new school, the last ten thousand bricks from Milton have been received, and the brick work will be completed this week. The sewer connections are in, with about a block of the street still torn up for the laying of the drains. Water is interfering slightly with the progress of the work, a condition blamed by many on tht canal. A sump hole and float is designed to do away with the water inconvenience in the gymnasium work.

Personal Mention.

Mrs. McConnel, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Scott and Mr. and Mrs. Whaley all of Wooller, spent Sunday last with Ms. Hart and Dr. Lillian G. Young.

Messrs. Wm. and Fred Smith of town, received word to-day of the death of their cousin, Mortimer Smith of Rochester. Mr. Fred Smith leaves to-day for Rochester to attend the funeral.

Mrs. Stateley of Thorold is visiting her sister, Mrs. T. Brennan, and other relatives in town.

Mr. Ernest Cassan is quite ill with bronchial pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Smith and children spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brown at Victoria.

A Conference

A district spiritual conference of the Methodist church, with afternoon and evening sessions, will be held in Warkworth on November 8th.

OBSTACLES TO CHURCH UNION

Remove Divisive Clauses and Present Unanimous Agreement, Minister Advises.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Oct. 30. — That he had very grave doubts as to the fate that would befall the proposed church union bill if opposed on the floor of Parliament by such a formidable and influential body of Presbyterians as has already expressed its opposition to it, was the declaration here of Rev. E. D. McLaren, D.D., for many years secretary of the Church Union committee and a former supporter of organic union.

The well-intentioned effort towards union was evidently doomed to almost complete failure so far as a healing division was concerned, Dr. McLaren said in a sermon at the Kerrisdale Presbyterian church.

"Let the assembly's committee lay before the opponents a proposal to remove the obnoxious clause under which people would be forced into union not approved of and a proposal that the act does not go into effect until six months after receiving the royal assent, thus to obtain certificates of disjunction from the church before it ceases to exist. Let an amicable adjustment of property and funds be arranged before seeking legislation and the number who desire to enter the union and those who wish to remain out of it can be ascertained. These decisions could be embodied in an amended bill and presented to Parliament as the wish of the church as a whole," declared Dr. McLaren.

TEXT OF TREATY SENT TO NATIONS

The Question of Mutual Guarantees Approved Already By the League Assembly.

GENEVA, Oct. 30. — The text of the treaty for mutual guarantees approved by the recent assembly of the League of Nations was forwarded yesterday by the secretariat to all the member states, with a request that they communicate their views to Geneva as soon as possible. When these formal statements of national policy regarding both the general principles and the details of this particular pact have been received, the League Council will submit them to the commission of experts so that the final draft of the text may be placed before the next assembly.

It is generaly felt in league circles that while the adoption of such a pact will be very difficult, recent British statements of willingness to support France along these lines, together with the possibility of some advance toward a reparation settlement, make it highly desirable to have the subject thoroughly discussed textually, ready for the psychological moment.

Lone Farmer Died Homestead Shack

REGINA, Oct. 29.—(Canadian Press).—Lying in his lonely homestead shack the body of T. S. Carpenter, 66, Lilac district, Sask., farmer, was found today by Provincial Police from North Battleford detachment. Investigation showed Carpenter died of injuries which he received when he fell off a hay rack Saturday.

Explosion of 'Gas' Car Caused Death

TITUSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 29. — (Canadian Press). — One man is known to have been killed and several persons, including two women one of them the wife of Chief of Police H. S. Edwards, were seriously injured late today when a tank car of gasoline exploded at the American Oil works. The large barrel house of the plant took fire following the blast and was still burning tonight.

SAFETY FIRST WORLD MOTTO

Its Universal Application Sought By International Labor Congress.

GENEVA, October 30 (Canadian Press). — The International Labour Congress brought its 1923 meeting to a close yesterday after adopting a number of resolutions and calling the next conference on 16th June, 1924, in this city.

The resolutions include one introduced by the Swiss workers' delegate, asking the Council of the Labour Bureau to inquire among the Governments and labour technical organisations to learn if an international accord is desirable regarding the use of automatic brakes on ... road cars.

Another asks the Council to consider the desirability of discussing with the Council and Secretariat of the League of Nations the possibility of meeting the demands of the local labour bodies in the Sarre Valley.

The delegates of the 43 nations represented are highly pleased with their ability to reach unanimity in their principal work, dealing with the welfare of workers, with particular reference to factory inspection.

The recommendation of the conference on this inspection is divided into four sections. The first section concerns the sphere of inspection, especially the enforcement of conventions regarding the hours of night work in dangerous industries; the second provides full authority for inspectors, and the co-operation of other agencies in obtaining the adoption of "Safety First" methods, accident insurance, etc The third provides for the organisation of inspection staffs on a local basis, including women technical experts, and contemplates at least yearly inspections; the fourth details methods for making reports and gathering statistics.

FIX DATE FOR QUEBEC HOUSE

Opening of the Sixteenth Legislature Will Likely Take Place in December.

QUEBEC, Oct. 30.—It is expected that the date of the opening of the first session of the sixteenth legislature will be set this week at a meeting of the Provincial Cabinet, which will take place on Wednesday morning. The meeting will precede the taking of the oath by Hon. L. P. Brodeur, as Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Quebec. Though the eleventh of December is still mentioned as the possible date of the calling of Parliament in the absence of a definite decision, it seems probable that the legislative assembly and the legislative council will assemble on Monday, the 17th of December and that after a few days sittings in the course of which the speech from the Throne may be dealt with they will adjourn until January ninth.

WORLD APPEAL BY RHINE REPUBLIC

Provisional Government Heard From in Proclamation to All Nations.

WIESBADEN, Germany, Oct. 30. The provisional government of the Rhineland Republic has sent the following message to all the nations of the world:

"The Rheinish people has taken in hand the direction of its destinies. It has proclaimed its full independence and definitely rejected foreign dominion.

"The Provisional Government of the Rheinish Republic sends to all the nations of the world fraternal greetings. The Rheinish people solemnly proclaims the wish of the Rhinelanders to live in peace and friendship with all the universe; it condemns the world war loosed by Prussia, and it declares itself prepared to pay its share of reparations.

"The Rheinish people appeals to all nations, but particularly those who suffered from the war, and begs them to associate themselves loyally and frankly with its efforts to bring about the birth in Europe and the whole world of an era of peace and concord. The Rhienland henceforth must be the barrier of peace.

"May the nations understand the greatness of the task undertaken by the Rheinish people and help it towards the triumph of its cause.

"Government of the Rheinish Republic.

(Signed), "DR. DORTEN."

Rhinelanders Suffer

DUSSELDORF, Oct. 29.— Cardinal Schulte Archbishop of Cologne has issued to the Catholic world an appeal for aid for Rhinelanders, who he says, "are suffering from hunger and cold."

The Cardinal has asked the occupation authorities to facilitate railroad transportation of food, coal and clothing that may be sent.

High Tension Wire Kills Three Men

PARKERSBURG W.Va. Oct. 30.—(Canadian Press)— Three men were killed when an iron pipe they were lowering into a well came in contact with a high tension electric wire late yesterday. The three men, Worthy M. Johnson, Earle Coe, and Opal Lightner, were knocked to the ground and died a few minutes later.

Child Strangled By Hat Strings

OWEN SOUND, Oct. 29. —(Canadian Press).—Running out from her home toward the bush where her father had been working, the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Drain of Murphy's Siding, near here, was strangled to death about five o'clock tonight when the back of her cap caught in the barbed wire fence, and the strings choked the child to death.

Her father returned from work in the bush and found the child, hanging from the fence, dead. A doctor from Owen Sound was called and reached the scene of the tragedy in 18 minutes, but the child had quite evidently been dead for some time.

Ernest Drain is a returned soldier and the little girl was his only daughter.

POSTPONE HEARING OF GERMAN DEBT.

Probability of Enquiry By International Committee Obviates Action.

PARIS, Oct. 30.—An understanding has been reached in the Reparation Commission whereby that body will postpone action on the request of the Berlin Government that German representatives be heard regarding the capacity of the Reich to pay reparation, until the question of the appointment of an international committee of experts is settled. Louis Barhou French president of the opinion that it would be useless to hear the Germans now in view of the great probability of an inquiry in the near future by such an international committee.

It is expected in reparation circles that the British and French Governmens will come to an agreement before the meeting of the committee on Friday ,so it will then be possible to proceed with the nomination of the members of the committee.

ADJOURN INQUEST LINDSAY'S DEATH

No Evidence Forthcoming Calculated to Solve the Mystery.

HAMILTON, October 30. — Canadian Press. — Adjourned until Nov. 14 after four witnesses had testified the inquest last night into the shooting of Homer Lindsay, was not productive of any evidence that tends to solve the mystery. In the main, the evidence was a repetition or what has already been published, save that one alleged discrepancy in Lindsay's ante-mortem statement was partly accounted for.

Lindsay in his statement is recorded as saying that a bandit accosted him about one mile down the road from Vinemount, and it was there the shooting occurred. From there to the point where his hat and revolver and watch were recovered is over five miles. This feature puzzled the authorities.

However, Detective Crocker who wrote down Lindsay's ante-mortem statement, told that the document was hurriedly prepared, as Lindsay's life was ebbing fast, and the doctors wanted to get him to the operating table as quickly as possible.

LOOKING FORWARD ELECTION CONTEST

And Halifax Liberals Will Have Strong Candidate In Field.

OTTAWA, October 30 (Canadian Press). — Official announcement is expected any day now of the long foreshadowed appointment of the Hon. A .K. MacLean of Halifax to the bench of the Exchequer Court, succeeding the late Sir Walter Cassells.

Liberals of Halifax will have a strong candidate in the field for the resulting by-election, while it is expected that the Hon. F. B. McCurdy, former Minister of Public Works in the Meighen Government, will be a candidate.

Halifax is a good fighting ground, and the Hon. S. F. Tolmie, Conservative organiser, has been down there in anticipation of the seat being opened.

The death of A. T. Leger, Liberal member for Kent, N.B., causes another Federal vacancy, and probably there will be a contest.

KEMAL PASHA IS TURK PRESIDENT

Unanimously Elected By National Assembly At Angora.

Constantinople, Oct. 30.—The National Assembly at Angora has voted the establishment of the Turkish Republic. Musteapha Kemal Pasha has been unanimously elected president.

The Turkish Constitution was so amended within the last few months that the proclamation of a republic was merely a matter of form. It provided that Turkey should be proclaimed a republic with a president elected for a period of four or five years.

The title of President of the Grand National Assembly has been held by Mustapha Kemal, who also holds the post of Commander-in-Chief of the Army.

Kemal Pasha was credited with being largely responsible for the withdrawal of the British expeditionary forces from Gallipoli and it was under his direction that the Turkish Army gained its tremendous victories over the Greeks and drove them into the sea. His was the controlling hand of the Turkish delegation at the Lausanne Conferences for the settlement of the Greco-Turkish War, and here again the Turkish victory was admitted to be almost complete.

Mustapha Kemal Pasha is described as a cold, stern man unbending in his determination and thus far resistless in pursuit of those things which pertain to the advancement of his country to the position of a great power.

RIGHT HONORABLE

Premier Asquith said:

"I have for many years been engaged in giving and taking blows from Mr. Bonar Law but they never left any rancor behind them."

Lloyd George in reading the retiring Chancellor's letter of resignation repeatedly choked back sobs, and expressed the hope that his friend might return to his duties after a prolonged rest. Finally the Premier who had been so courageous and powerful in the conduct of the war, sank back into his seat with a jesture indicating his inability to continue.

Bonar Law's breakdown dated from shortly before the Paris Peace Conference of 1919 which he attended as one of the British delegates.

The disposition of Bonar Law to take the most positive stand on grave public questions caused him some embarrassment before his first retirement. He was an uncompromising foe to the Irish Republican movement, and when Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork lay dying, a hunger striker in Brixton prison, James Henry Thomas, president of the Trades Union Congress, representing 6,500,000 British workers, blamed Bonar Law as "the one man more than any other who had justified in Ulster and in Parliament the spirit of rebellion."

In a speech at Edinburgh the Chancellor prophesied that the government would fail unless it was firm in dealing with the Sinn Fein.

The desire of Lloyd George and Bonar Law to resume trade relations with Russia through the Soviet government also met with determined opposition from Earl Curzon, the foreign secretary, Winston Churchill, then secretary for war,and Austin Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer. The difficulty of the situation was made greater by the attitude of France and America, where there was much opposition to the British plan.

Bonar Law was born in New Brunswick, Canada, September 16th, 1858, the son of the Rev. James Law, M.A., of New Brunswick. In early youth he was taken to Glasgow where he attended high school, and finaly became bookkeeper for an iron firm. Later he was made a member of the concern, and when he retired from business to enter politics was one of the biggest iron merchants of Scotland. Golf and chess were his favorite recreations.

Nine years before his election to Pariament he married Miss Annie Pitcairn Robley of Glasgow, who died in 1909. Four children were born to them, two sons and two daughters. One daughter, Isabelle, became the bride of Sir General Frederick Sykes in London in 1920. Two sons, Anthony and Lieutenant C. T. Bonar Law, were lost in the war.

SETS A NEW RECORD.

TORONTO, October 30 (Canadian Press). — Premier Ferguson announced yesterday that the Government had received a cheque for $750,000, the amount of the net earnings of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway for the fiscal year, which sets a new record.

BUILD TRADE ON WAR-TIME BOND

Hope Expressed in Greetings Exchanged Between Canada and Belgium.

OTTAWA, Oct. 30.—(Canadian Press).—The visit of the Canadian economic mission and exhibition train to Belgium is the subject of an exchange of cablegrams between R. Jaspar, Belgian Minister of Foreign Affairs, and Rt. Hon. W. S. Fielding, Acting Prime Minister.

Mr. Jospeh cabled Mr. Fielding informing him that the visit of the mission and exhibition train was a great success. "This interesting manifestation points out once more the real sympathy existing between our two countries, and demonstrated by the bravery of the Canadian forces on the Belgian front during the war, and will contribute to develop further their mutual and economic relations," states Mr. Jaspar's cable gram.

Mr. Fielding replied as follows:

"The government of Canada have received with much pleasure your message concerning the Canadian economic mission and exhibition train which is now visiting your country. Receive our warmest thanks for the cordial welcome you are giving the mission. We join you in the hope that this will be an additional bond of friendly relations between Belgium and Canada and that the co-operation between our two countries which existed in time of war will be continued along the paths of peace and economic development."

TEACH CHILDREN YEAR IN FRENCH

Suggestion at Women's Club For Schools in Quebec.

MONTREAL, Oct. 30. — That children be permitted to enter the Public schools at the age of five years and be taught the first year entirely in French was the suggestion made by Mrs. Scott, President of the Montreal women's club at a meeting of the organization here yesterday afternoon.

The entire programme was devoted to a discussion of linguistic problems in this province in particular and in Canada as a whole. The chief speaker was Professor J. Squair, of Toronto University.

Rev. Jas .Fee, of the Protestant School Board Commission, thought Mrs. Scott's suggestion was well worthy of consideration. He would like to see it carried out as an experiment for one year in some of the schools.

Prof. Squair said some Canadians expected there would be an independent French-speaking state on the banks of the St. Lawrence. In his opinion forbearance was what was required; there must be no legislating in regard to the use of French or English. What was highly desirable was that each race should study the language and psychology of the other.

Miss Allen's TESTED RECIPES No. 13

Fairy-Devil Cakes

(This recipe was given to us by a New York woman who picked it up in England)

1 cupful Crisco
2 cupfuls granulated sugar
1 cupful milk
4 cupfuls flour
1 teaspoonful salt
½ teaspoonful each soda, cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves

Cream the Crisco add the sugar and cream again. Sift together all dry ingredients and add alternately with the milk. Bake in a shallow pan in a moderate oven until a delicate brown and while still hot, cut in squares. Place these in a can and they will keep for a long time.

Made without eggs, this is a very economical cake. Delightful for afternoon tea or the lunch basket.

All the constables who tok part in the shooting will be charged tomorrow with manslaughter. They are Patrol Sergt. Kerr and Constables Rooney, Fraser and Mitchell.

HUNGER STRIKERS HAVE BLOCKED OUR INTERESTS

DUBLIN, Oct. 30. — (Canadian Press)—Homer O'Higgins, speaking at Kingstown yesterday, said that the Government had hoped to reduce the number of political prisoners held by it to four thousand before Christmas, but that now it could not allow the "fabric of state to be challenged by the women's weapon, a hunger strike."

Passenger Train Hit Dynamite Car

JOPLIN, Mo., Oct. 29. — (Canadian Press).—A St. Louis and San Francisco train late today crashed into a box car loaded with 50-000 pounds of dynamite northwest of the city. The passenger train was not derailed. The car containing the explosives was set on fire and an explosion was feared.

RULES THAT RACING FORM WAS ILLEGAL

TORONTO, October 29 (Canadian Press).— That the racing form, even in expurgated edition, which was imported into Canada from Buffalo, supplied "information intended or likely to promote or assist in, or to be of use in, gambling, pool selling, betting, or wagering upon any race of any kind" was the decision of the Appellate Division at Osgoode Hall to-day, in dismissing the appeal of Orval Doney, who was convicted in Hamilton on 10th September, and fined $200.00 for importing this periodical.

WRESTLED TO DRAW.

NEW YORK, October 30. — Martin Piestina and Waldek Zbyszko wrestled to a draw decision before a crowd of six thousand fans at the 71st regiment armoury last night. The match went two hours and a half.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Clive Roberts Barton

GOODBY TO SOUTHLY-SCOTLAND

"Have you ever been to Dixie Land, children?" asked the Fairy Queen.

"Dixie Land?" repeated Nancy and Nick eagerly. "Where is that?"

The Fairy Queen laughed. "You've never been there, dears, or you wouldn't ask that question. You would certainly remember, for Dixie Land is a fine big place. It's the whole south. Didn't you ever hear a song about:

'Away down south in the land of cotton,
Cinnamon fields and sandy bottom,
I'll away, I'll away, I'll away, I'll away'?"

"Yes, we have!" answered both Twins together. "Is that Dixie Land?"

"It certainly is!" said the Fairy Queen.

"Does cinnamon grow there?" Nick wanted to know. "Is that why they're called 'cinnamon fields?'"

"No!" the Fairy Queen shook her head. "They are called that because in many places the soil is a rich reddish brown, exactly the color of cinnamon. And in many places there is a lot of sand, especially along the rivers and river valleys. That's called sandy-bottom, and good for many things to grow in. You'll like Dixie Land because it's different in many ways from the places you have been in."

"Are we going with one of your fairy helpers?" asked Nancy.

"No, my dear, I'm sending you by ourselves. I want you to go around and visit all of my friends there, the birds and wood folk and water folk and see if they are happy. Let me know at once if there is anything they need. Wear these magic shoes and they will not only save you from danger but help you to travel quickly. A wish will take you any place you want to go. Here are the addresses of some of my friends."

And she handed Nick a paper with a long list of names on it.

"Some of them are hard to read," explained the Fairy Queen when she saw Nick's puzzled look. "but you'll have no trouble making them out, for the magic shoes will help you to do many things that you could not do otherwise. What is the first place you are to go?"

"This says 'Philander and Philomena 'Possom, Buttonwood Tree, Near-the-Creek, On-the-Old-Plantation'," read the little boy.

"My, oh, my!" laughed the Fairy Queen kindly "I haven't heard from her for months. I wonder what she is doing. 'Possoms are always in trouble and always up to mischief, but they have as many troubles of their own as they give to other people, I think. And they are the bravest little people I know. Well, you'd better be starting. Tell Philomena 'Possom not to eat too many persimmons and to watch out for 'coon dogs. Goodby!"

"Goodby!" cried Nancy and Nick as Nimble-Toes, the Fairy Queen's door-keeper, bowed them out.

Unsolved Mysteries

While the identity of Catherine II of Russia appears to be a riddle impossible of solution, there is nothing in the least mysterious about the second Catherine, who was known as "the Great" and whose temper and capacity for intrigue both private and public, have become a byword in court circles. Through this very tendency toward plotting and conspiracy, however, Catherine II. became involved in one of the most puzzling problems of Russian history—the question as to the fate of her first husband, Carl Peter Ulrich, grandson of Peter the Great, and, in his own right, Czar Peter III.

Hardly had Peter ascended the throne when Catherine became involved in a plan to usurp the full ruling power for herself and, within six months, the Emperor was cast into prison and Catherine II. proclaimed head of the empire. Immediately after her coronation, it was announced that the former Czar had been put to death in prison, and, during the months that followed, Peter was almost forgotten.

Five years later, however, a stranger appeared in Cattaro, a seaport of Dalmatia, and was identified as the supposedly dead Czar by several persons who had been familiar with the Emperor's appearance and mannerisms. This stranger, who gave his name as "Stephen," crossed the border into Montenegro a short time later and, after the report of his true identity had followed him there, admitted that he was the rightful ruler of Russia who had escaped the death planned for him by his treacherous wife and who had taken an oath never to return to his native land. Being desirous of securing a strong leader, the Montenegrins offered their kingship to "Stephen," as the stranger insisted upon being known, and the latter accepted, instituting a number of much needed reforms and eventually establishing Montenegro as a nation whose power had to be taken into consideration by neighboring countries.

It was because of the prominence which he attained in connection with this achievement that Venice, Turkey and finally Russia determined upon the subjugation of Montenegro, lest the little kingdom become too powerful. Venice, alarmed lest Stephen succeed in his ambition to secure control of Dalmatia, joined the Turks in declaring war against Montenegro. Overwhelmed by an attacking force which outnumbered his little army ten to one, Stephen laid out an able campaign of counter-attack and finally, aided by a terrific storm which burst over the Turkish camp, swept down upon his enemies, seized their stores and completely routed their forces.

After a treaty of peace in which Montenegro secured everything which she demanded, it was apparent that the little nation would have to be considered in mapping out the destiny of the Balkans, a task which Catherine had allotted to Russia and to herself. It was for this reason that the Empress commenced a campaign notable for her typical duplicity and cunning. The Montenegrins were supplied with large quantities of arms and ammunition by Russia, in order to prove that Catherine was their friend and, at the same time, the Empress wrote personal letters to Stephen's generals and counsellors, denouncing the ruler as an imposter and giving apparently certain proof that Czar Peter had been put to death. As a result of this intrigue, Stephen was imprisoned and public announcement made that he had admitted his impostures. This, however, did not undermine the confidence which the people felt in his leadership and Catherine, convinced that she would have to attain her ends by means of a different plan, finally agreed to the release of Stephen and his restoration to the throne under the protection and virtual recognition of Russia. The situation tinued to rule in Russia while the man who claimed to be her lawful husband and whom she tacitly recognized as such, governed Montenegro until his death in 1774.

But in spite of this recognition by Catherine the Great, historians have never been able completely to answer the riddle of the identity of "Stephen the Little," one of the many unsolved problems of Russian history.

Her Latest and Best

This is the latest and favorite portrait of the Viscountess Curzon, American wife of the Viscount Curzon, British statesman. They were married in 1916.

world threatened with the collapse of white civilization lies in the rising generation," she declared, "yet parents of today are not building the type of men and women whose ideals will save civilization.

Meat At Meals

"There are girls today who do not know what their mothers' religious convictions are because they have never heard them discussed in their homes. When the family comes together nowadays it is only at meal times. Then, instead of discussing current topics, art, literature or subjects of a religious nature the conversation usually concerns new motor cars or rugs. When the parents chatter of such frivolous, material things what can they expect of their children? Only that they will be pampered, indifferent young creatures looking to the world for material comfort and gain."

The home, Mrs. Mead declared, is as much to blame as the school for the child's lack of imagination. Children who are permitted to go continually to the movies, she said, are the last to develop imaginations, because on the screen every possibility is presented to them.

"The spiritual side of our civilization," Mrs. Mead concluded, "has lagged, but the material has gone ahead with seven-league boots. Our great men of today are not philosophers, thinkers, peots. They are contractors and men who deal with coal, iron, steel and commercial and industrial interests. The three great powers to which the modern world bows are wealth, speed and force.

Humanity Motto

"To battle against all this in the upbringing of their children fathers and mothers must have their own philosophy of life, which should be broad, constructive and tolerant. Teach your children to be patriotic but not the flag-waving type of patriotism. The motto of the home and school today should be 'Humanity,' not 'America first' if the rising generation is to preserve the fast declinging civilization."

YOU HAVE NO ONE TO BLAME BUT YOURSELF IF YOU FAIL TO HEED THE ADVICE GIVEN

It is your own fault if you continue to suffer from stomach trouble, constipation, weak kidneys, backache, rheumatism, sluggish liver, dizzy spells or nervousness, says the Dreco expert, now located at Bond's Drug Store.

HAD OCCASIONAL FAINTING SPELLS

Dreco, the Famous Herbal Health-Builder, Makes Big Difference in Condition of Mr. John Holmes.

The remarkable tonic properties of Dreco are again demonstrated in the case of Mr. John Holmes of Scarlett road, Toronto, a returned soldier, whose health was in a precarious condition until Dreco came to help him. Here is Mrs. Holmes' statement of the case:

"My husband, who was a corporal in the 10th Battalion, Railway Troops, underwent an operation for appendicitis and gall stones upon his return. He has never had the same strength since.

"He suffered from pains shooting through his body, and also had an occasional fainting spell, his heart being in a very weakened condition. He was very nervous and felt tired all the time. His work as a teamster took considerable energy and his system became entirely run down.

"He has taken only two bottles of Dreco, but it is surprising how much better he is feeling already. He rests better and hasn't that tired-out feeling. Pains through his body are greatly improved and he feels better than he has for a long time.

"I am sure that if he continues to take Dreco for a while, he will be quite normal again. I feel quite happy over the results so far."

Dreco tones and strengthens the whole system and improves the health generally. It acts on the important organs of digestion and puts them in proper working order. As the body responds with growing health, aches and pains, gas on the stomach and other distressing symptoms disappear. Dreco contains no mercury, potash or habit-forming drugs. It is a reliable remedy made only from herbs, roots, bark and leaves of known medicinal value, a corrective that may be taken with perfect confidence.

Prompt Relief is Assured And Permanent Results May Follow When Dreco is Given a Fair Trial.

In justice to yourself and family don't you think you should heed the advice given which leads to a relief of those ails which, though seem simple at first, often lead to serious illness if not checked in the beginning?

The vital organs are so closely allied and dependent upon each other that when one goes wrong it is liable to affect the entire system. A little gas in the stomach indicates improper digestion, a headache, pain in the side or back, dizziness, constipated bowels, a skin eruption or nervousness may all be symptoms that some organ is not working exactly right. It is your duty to correct the trouble at once before some disease gets a grapple hold on your vitals.

Dreco is a combination of nature's own roots, herbs, barks and leaves known for their positive action on the vital organs. After taking Dreco it is soon noticed that the bowels action becomes free and easy, gas in stomach is allayed, the liver is freed of excess bile, and the kidneys are strengthened. Headaches disappear, the nerves become steady, sleep is sound and refreshing and the appetite improved. The entire system seems rejuvenated and one goes to their duties with renewed energy and vim.

DECIDED IMPROVEMENT QUICKLY NOTICEABLE

Dreco Proves Wonderful Help to Mr. Simpson, Who Feels Very Much Encouraged as a Result.

"For several years I have suffered from stomach trouble," says Mr. E. A. Simpson of 184 Williard avenue, Toronto. "I had bilious attacks and it seemed as though something was lying in my stomach. My food didn't seem to digest properly. My system in general was in fairly good condition until one of these gastric spells came on and then I was unable to eat but very little for several weeks and had to be extremely careful of what little I did eat.

"It seemed impossible to get a stomach remedy that would give me very much help. However, I read of Dreco doing so many people good that I decided to give it a trial. Much to my surprise, it has, in only one week's time, given me great benefit. My food digests better and that heavy feeling in my stomach has already improved. I am continuing the Dreco treatment, as I feel very much encouraged by the results obtained thus far."

Dreco's action on the organs of digestion is quick and sure. It gets right to the root of the trouble at once. Dreco contains no mercury, potash or habit-forming drugs, but is made solely from herbs, roots, bark and leaves. It has put thousands on the high-road to better health. Let it help you, too.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Peterboro by Bond's Drug Store. Go there to-day and ask for Mr. Vaughan, the Dreco Expert, and let him explain the merits of this great remedy. There is no charge and he will tell you honestly if he believes Dreco will benefit you. Dreco is also sold in Lakefield by E. H. Northey, by J. E. Birks, Campbellford, and by a good druggist everywhere.

GERMAN CATHOLIC PARTY STANDS BY GOVERNMENT

DUESSELDORF, Germany, Oct 30. — The German Center, or Catholic party, has issued a proclamation which was published in the newspapers yesterday afternoon, saying that its members are determined to stand by the German Reich and suffer the cost.

"Even the vilest misery shall not make us traitors to the Fatherland," the proclamation states.

AT TRENT RIVER AND THE DISTRICT

Large Congregations At Anniversary Services — Many Wells Dry—News Paragraphs.

TRENT RIVER, Oct. 30.—Rev. Bell (former pastor here for 21 years) preached anniversary services morning and evening Sunday to large congregations. The reverend gentleman, during his address at the morning service, remarked that during his 40 years' ministry he had only missed one Sunday and that was owing to illness.

The choir rendered appropriate numbers at both services.

The threshing machine is making its annual rounds through this vicinity, and farmers are satisfied with their harvest.

The "Bessie Butler" passed through here last week en route down the canal.

Mr. Matt. Greenly has gone to Hastings, where he has secured a position. Mrs. Greenly and son, Douglas, are leaving Wednesday to take up their residence in that village.

Mrs. Ridley Wood is confined to bed with pneumonia. Nurse Upton of Campbellford, is in attendance.

A number of wells have gone dry and many from here and surrounding country have to carry their daily water supply from distances.

Mr. George Scott, Church street, has had a 'phone installed in his home.

Willie McLaughlin arrived from Toronto last week to spent the winter with his mother.

HAVER'S FATHER DEAD.

LONDON, Oct. 29.— Owing to the death of George Havers, his father, Arthur Havers, the British open golf champion, has postponed his sailing next week for New York, for a 72-hole match with Gene Sarazen, the former United States' open champion.

The elder Havers for twenty-five years had been steward of the Royal Norwich Golf Club. Some months ago he lost all his savings in a financial venture.

"Never mind, I'll win it back at golf," said the son, who had been taught the game by his father since he was five years old. In a few days young Havers got a job as professional at the Coombe Hill Club. Then he bought a house for his parents and himself. A few weeks later he won the open championship. After this he was victorious in the Thousand Guineas Tournament at Glen Eagles, Scotland.

HUNTERS ASSURED SUCCESS.

It means much to prospective hunters, whether travelling in a party or alone, to be put in direct touch with the best location for their particular choice of game, and with outfitters and guides at the going-in point, with whom satisfactory arrangements can be made beforehand. A hunting party canot be other than successful under these conditions. The Canadian Pacific Railway offers this service to anyone who contemplates a hunting trip anywhere, either in Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, or in the Rockies, for mountain game. Any of its agents will gladly secure this information, or an inquiry addressed to W. Fulton, District Passenger Agent, Toronto, will be given immediate attention. Folder "Open Seasons for Hunting in Canada, 1923," will be also forwarded.

MRS. MEAD FLAYS HOMES AND 'FINE YOUNG ANIMALS'

DETROIT, Oct. 30.—The home and school of today are producing a generation of "fine young animals," pampered, apathetic and lacking in imagination and spiritual qualities, Mrs. Lucia Ames Mead, noted author and lecturer, declared at the opening of the Detroit Review Club.

Mrs. Mead came to Detroit on the invitation of the Review Club and to address the Highland Park women's Club, the W.C.T.U. and other local organizations.

Speaking Monday on "The Rising Generation," Mrs. Mead scored the home and school of today for the materialistic influences that have crept in and overthrown old ideals.

"We are living in a very material world, and it is difficult to bring up young people with any perception of values," Mrs. Mead told the members. "Our college graduates today are in many cases keen, shrewd, calculating young people, devoid of imagination, prejudiced, bigoted, apathetic.

Not All That Way

"I do not say they are all that way, but under our present system with the schools and colleges what they are today, it is impossible to produce just such a type, and there are many of that sort.

"We are producing a generation of fine young animals. They come out of college splendid physically but ignorant of the finer things, which even the home of today does not teach."

The home in which material comforts are placed above spiritual and cultural interests was condemned by Mrs. Mead as evidence of declining civilization.

PHILPOTT OUT WITH INJURED SHOULDER

McGill Star Half-Back Suffered Dislocation in Queen's Game.

MONTREAL, Oct. 30.—It was announced here tonight that Ben Simpson and Billy Mallet, the two Hamilton officials, had been appointed by President Ralph C. Johnson for the Ottawa-M.A.A.A. fixture. In preparation for this game the winged wheelers will resume workouts on Wednesday, no practice having been held tonight after the disastrous game against Hamilton Tigers last Saturday and tomorrow night the seniors will assemble for a conference at the Westmount Field House.

McGill's defeat at Kingston last week-end relegated the Red and White for another season to the cellar position in the inter-collegiate and the team came out of the Queen's game with casualties. Philpott received a dislocated shoulder, which will keep him out of the game for the balance of the year. His loss will necessitate Coach Shaughnessy calling on Eddie Hanna, the Sarnia boy, who has not had much chance to show this season through injuries that have kept him out of the game. Hanna will be started against the Tigers Saturday at the stadium in an exhibition game.

Proper seating, both in the home and at the school, play a most important part in prevailing spinal curvature. Proper muscular control is quite necessary to affect the well-balanced carriage and position of erectness, which insure a straight back, and health.

HEAVY LOADINGS OF GRAIN BOATS

About Twenty More Vessels Going Up Light for More.

FORT WILLIAM, Oct. 30.—A heavy week end movement of grain resulted in thirty two grain boats clearing with no less than four and a half million bushels of grain of all kinds, there being 3,478,000 bushels of wheat. The big Canadian freighter, W. Grant Morden, carried the biggest cargo, taking 452,000 bushels of wheat to Port Colborne. Among the vessels clearing on Sunday and yesterday are the three little Norwegian ships which have been plying in the Upper Lakes all fall.

Although all the boats in the harbor were loaded yesterday and the lake shippers' clearance association reported none as loading grain yesterday afternoon it looks as if the movement is not going to fall off, as there are twenty boats now reported coming up light for grain, including seven of the bigger United States vessels.

HAD 1,000 BAGS FROM SIX ACRES

Heavy Potato Crop Reported Near Port Perry.

PORT PERRY, Oct. 30.—What is believed to be a record yield of potatoes in the township of Reach, and probably in the province, is that of Thomas Harris, who lives on the 4th concession of Reach, about four miles from the town of Port Perry. From six acres of ground Mr. Harris has now stored on his barn floor and in the cellar, 1,000 bags of uniformly large, well formed, clean potatoes, while he has already sold in Oshawa and other nearby points 200 bags more. A 34-rod row yields between five and six bags or around 200 bags to the acre. Some of the potatoes weigh three pounds and scores of them over two pounds. Mr. Harris has contracted for the sale of some of the stock at $1.50 a bag in Oshawa. The soil is a sandy loam and the potatoes are of the Carmen No. 2 variety

LAKEFIELD BAPTISTS CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY

Methodists and Presbyterians Waived Service Attend Anniversary — Hallowe'en Festivities and Masquerade Dance.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 30.—The anniversary services of the Lakefield Baptist church were held on Sunday with Rev. W. S. Edgar, of Gilmour Memorial, as the church's special preacher.

In the evening the Methodists and Presbyterians waived their service and the united congregations attended the Baptist service.

Mr. Edgar took his text from St. Matthew's gospel, 12th chapter and 19th and 20th verses: "He shall not strive, nor cry; neither shall any man hear his voice in the streets. A bruised reed shall he not break, and smoking flax shall he not quench, till he send forth judgment unto victory."

This text is the outcome of a controversy between Christ and the Pharisees who were angry at our Lord's power and sought ways and means to destroy Him. The disciples found our Lord not an earthly conqueror but a Man of Peace; Christ will win the Universe, not by strife or tumult but by an infinite tenderness which is always Christ's method whether in dealing with the race as a whole or the individual sinner. In the Roman Empire, in our Lord's time, the father held the rights of life and death over his children and even in Palestine there was very little commotion over Herod's wholesale slaughter of young children.

Christ, coming as a little child, uplifted and hallowed little children, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven. He also increased the value of adult humanity as in His time the working man was a slave, but Christ made the commonest labor as much a service of God as things regarded as superior.

When Christ came the Jews were self-conscious in their belief that they were God's chosen people, the Greeks, who were the philosophers of the time were superstitious and the Romans who were the conquering race of the time regarded all others as inferior to themselves. Christ was the connecting link with these people as he drew no distinctions but sat at meat with publicans and sinners. The bruised reed referred to in the text is the man or woman who is so crushed with sin that it seems impossible to effect a reformation. The smoking flax refers to the man who is struggling to express the high aspirations which are struggling within him. Many social service workers despair of reaching these human derelicts but Christ alone has faith in their uplift. He came to minister to the deserted, the outcast and the fallen, and He responds readily to the feeblest desire for betterment in these bruised reeds for that which sin has marred Christ can make a thing of beauty. We have only to look at St. Mary Magdalen, Zaccheus, and the thief on the cross. Christ can restore the new man to which the old man is a stranger and present him faultless before the Father's throne.

The choir rendered two anthems, "Come Unto Me, Ye Weary," and "The Lord is My Shepherd." Mrs. R. Northey, Miss Galvin, Rev. T. L. White and D. A. MacDonald contributed a quartette which was much appreciated.

A. Y. P. A. Nasquerade

The A. Y. P. A. are giving a Hallowe'en masquerade on Monday night in the school room.

Masquerade Dance

The firemen are giving a masquerade dance on November 22nd, and hope that all their friends, which should include the community at large, will patronize them. Sufficient notice has been allowed for people to prepare unique costumes and it is expected that this dance will be one of the best of the season. Several novelties are being introduced and there will be plenty of variety to attract the young people and to entertain those who can no longer claim to be young.

A Friendly Game

The Peterboro Collegiate 2n d rugby team visited "The Grove" on Saturday and played a friendly game with the boys. In spite of the visitors being very much larger and heavier than "The Grove" team, the latter won by the satisfactory margin of 9—6.

Series Bible Studies

The Presbyterians and Methodists are adopting a series of Bible Studies to be held alternately in their churches during the months of November and December on Thursday evenings.

LOCOMOTOR ATAXIA

The public may not be as much interested in the cause and effect of locomotor ataxia as some few mortals who suffer its tortures. But not a few may be on the way and unaware of their peril.

To avoid its terrible inroads, live the hygienic life all your life and then you won't have to try and live it when it is too late.

Locomotor ataxia is a disease of the spinal cord and the nerve centres. It is caused by syphilitic trouble. No other real primal cause has as yet been discovered. The progress of the disease is slow. It continues for years, with occasional "shooting pains." The sensation may be described as the variety that comes and goes.

Sometimes these pain attacks seem rheumatic in character. They may also be called neuralgic pains, or kidney stone pains, gall stone trouble and many others, as locomotor ataxia has many aliases. Sometimes these attacks are varied by occasional forms of nausea, dizziness or serious stomach trouble.

At other times you are disturbed by mysterious pains or sensations which are almost indefinite and impossible to localize.

Locomotor ataxia has its inception in the posterior nerve roots, where they attach to the spinal cord. It will then extend into the spinal cord and will finally involve all the nerve tissues between the posterior arms and also the outside nerve tissues in many cases.

After some time the nerves of sensation or pain are destroyed. After this period the afflicted person cannot navigate well. This is the stage we all know, when we see the one afflicted incapable of co-ordination in his movements. He is uncertain, insecure and clumsy.

The nerves which control walking are out of commission or dead and one cannot exercise control. Successive stages lead to other and higher nerve structures and finally to their destruction and the end of life's processes.

MANITOBA RUN PROFIT

WINNIPEG, Oct. 30.—The profit on the first month's operation of the Manitoba Government Liquor Control Commission is estimated at $41,750, according to a member of the commission. Total sales to permit holders throughout the province from September 22 to October 23 amounted to $188,050.50, and wholesale sales licensed druggists Act, $51,125.17, making the month's under the Manitoba Temperance collections $239,175.67. The daily receipts are averaging about $8,000 the commissioners state.

UNITED STATES CODE FOR HOCKEY RETAINED

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 29. — There will be no change in the playing code of the United States' Amateur Hockey League during the coming season. At the closing session of its annual convention to-day, the Association voted down every proposed change submitted. William S. Haddock, President, and Roy D. Schooey, Secretary-Treasurer, both of Pittsburgh, were unanimously re-elected.

The team which will represent the League at the Olympic games at Chamonix, in the French Alps, will be chosen from the following players: Lacroix, goal; Small, defence; McCarty, right wing; Geran, centre, and Rice, left wing, all members of the Boston A.A. Club; Owen, the Harvard star; Goheen and Abel, St. Paul; "Chink" Johnson, Minneapolis, and Drury and Bonnick, Pittsburgh.

NEW EDINBURGH PROTEST

OTTAWA, Oct. 30.—Manager George Boucher, of the local New Edinburgh O.R.F.U. team tonight issued a statement declaring that he would appeal to the Canadian Football Association the decision of President Holland of the O.R.F.U. awarding the championship of the union to Brockville. Manager Boucher said that the local team had never been informed that the championship would be decided by home-and-home games within the schedule and had expected a play-off with Brockville in the event of a win over Ottawa seconds here Saturday.

TURNBULL'S GREAT BARGAIN EVENT

The Greatest Sale of Millinery in Peterboro's History

Two of our leading makers of ladies' high-class millinery are about to start on early spring models, and being desirous of cleaning up their present season's stock, they cleared it out to us at ridiculously low prices. While we felt the quantity is larger than we would buy at one time in the regular way, we decided the value is so extraordinary and the styles so varied that the women of Peterboro and district would be glad of this wonderful opportunity to secure a new hat, up to the minute in style, at a very low price.

Maintaining this popular price that we have established this season with some splendid creations in droops off the face, brimless flares, mushrooms, etc., daintily trimmed with ribbons, feathers, etc., and worth just about twice the price.

These hats were not made up specially for sale purposes, but represent the most popular and most authentic Parisian and New York models. Many of them have just been made up within the last two weeks. The very best of materials, trimmings and workmanship are represented. There are styles to suit matron or maiden, and the values range from $7.00 to $10.00 in the regular way. We have grouped them into two popular prices for this whirlwind sale.

A big variety of pleasing styles in mostly ready-to wear hats. Nothing better could be desired by the most discriminating of women. Not a hat but is worth easily twice the sale price. The season's most approved shapes and colors. Your choice at $5.00 each.

VALUABLE WOOD IS BEING USED

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 30 (Associated Press).—In spite of the fact that approximately two-thirds of Brazil's 8,000,000 square kilometers of territory is uninhabited wilderness, this country is feeling serious effects from deforestation. Axe and fire are stripping the land to an extent that constitutes a national problem.

Enormous quantities of timber were burned as fuel by the railways and river steamers during the war because of the shortage and high cost of fuel. Still greater quantities are cut and destroyed by the settlers who are pushing the frontier back from the Atlantic coast.

It is not unusual in the interior of this country to see railway ties roughly hewn from mahogany, peroba, rosewood, or any of the hundreds of species of precious hard woods that are worth almost their weight in gold in the United States.

The agitation against this destruction, however, is becoming greater every day with the public and press clamoring for preventative measures.

MANILA ON BUDGET BASIS

MANILA, Oct. 30 (Associated P —After drifting for more than Months, working on the figures of previous year's budget, the city o Manila today has an approved bu for what remains of the present fiscal year.

At the last election, the voters of Manila returned to office a city council composed entirely of Democrats. The mayor, Ramon Fernandez, was a Nationalist. The two departments could not agree on various items of the budget and as neither would compromise, the result was the city drifted along from month to month, using the previous year's budget. As a result the work of every department of the city's government has been seriously handicapped.

After the resignation of Mayor Fernandez and the Phillippine Cabinet because of differences with Governor General Wood, the chief executive appointed a Democratic mayor, former Governor Rodriguez of Rizal province. This removed the friction between the city councilmen and the mayor's office, and the long delayed budget was passed without difficulty.

ENGLISH PAY LARGE ANNUITIES

LONDON, Oct. 30 (Associated Press) Annuities for the royal family and for the descendants of England's great political and military heroes cost the people some $1,850,000 for the year ended March 31.

The royal family received their yearly stipend which amounted to care of the king and queen, the dowager queen and the royal princes and princesses. It entirely ignored the Prince of Wales, who derives his public income from the duties paid to the Duchy of Cornwall. The Duke of York received $50,000 of this royal annuity which has, since his marriage, automatically increased to $125,000 even in the face of labor opposition in Parliament.

The pensions for heroes included $25,000 to Earl Nelson, the descendant of the famous admiral, and $5,000 to Lord Rodney.

Lord Birkenhead received a judicial annuity of $25,000, and Viscount Haldane, Earl Loreburn and Lord Buckmaster received similar amounts.

Viscount Ullswater and Lord George Hamilton received amounts of $10,000 each for political services.

Annuities for judicial services in England reached the huge sum of $282,000, in Scotland 90,000 and in Ireland $125,000.

BELGRADE IS A CLEAN CITY

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, Oct. 29.—(Associated Press). — Belgrade, recovering from the effects of the Balkan wars and the World War, is going through a period of new building. All over the city one sees evidence of new construction, the materials being stone, brick and steel. The 200,000 inhabitants are bustling with activity, and the total of the population is growing. New public buildings, as well as dwellings are being fashioned.

Belgrade is coming to have a reputation as a remarkably clean city. The principal avenues and the side streets as well are swept every night and during the summer months they are watered every morning. The police are smart, upstanding young men, many with good records in the army.

Probably the most popular man in Belgrade is Alexander, the King. Along with a number of his policemen the King too had a good record in the army. He is an engaging personality, and he has learned the difference between reigning and ruling. Alexander reigns.

But even so the King has courage and determination. Not long ago the question of peace or war between Jugoslavia and Italy hung in the balance. Then Alexander showed he was no figure head. The most important of the Cabinet meetings were held in his private rooms, and Alexander presided. When the time comes he is not backward about expressing his convictions and judgments.

But the part that has made Alexander more popular than any other is his role as father of the heir to the throne. The baby's name is Stephen, after the great Stephen Doushan.

Getting Too Fat? Try This---Reduce

People who don't grow too fat are the fortunate exceptions. But if you find the fat accumulating or already cumbersome, you will be wise to follow this suggestion, which is endorsed by thousands of people who know. Ask your druggist for Marmola Prescription Tablets, and follow directions. One dollar is the price the world over. Get them from your own druggist or send price direct to the Marmola Co., 461‡ Woodward ave., Detroit, Mich. By doing this you will be safe from harmful drugs and be able to reduce steadily and easily, without starvation diet or tiresome exercises.

"Wonder what an idle Telephone thinks about?"

"I FEEL sorry for some of the youngsters at school, whose folks don't realize how much good a Long Distance call would do them.

"It's a comparatively new idea, calling up the boys and girls at school by Long Distance, and some people are slower than others getting on to a new idea.

"It beats a letter all to pieces.

"If you'd ever heard the cries of delight from the happy boys and girls that I hear, when a call for them comes over Long Distance from home, you'd believe they appreciate it.

That's the Part Women Will Take in Politics, Predicts Leader.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—In the capacity of "button-holers" women will help elect the next president of the United States.

That doesn't mean that they will sit at home and sew buttons on the pearl gray vests in which their husbands will make stump speeches or march in parades.

Not at all.

Mrs. Charles D. Hirst, executive secretary of the School of Democracy of New York City, explains it thus:

"When Mrs. Jones meets Mrs. Smith, she will get an affectionate but firm hold on the latter's new Chinese beads and, drawing close, will remark confidentially, 'My dear, just what do you think of the tariff issue?'

"The chances are that Mrs. Smith hasn't thought at all. Whereupon Mrs. Jones explains just how her party and her candidate will bring about quite the nicest tariff the nation ever has had."

It is as "button-holers" or in personal heart-to-heart talks that women can do their most effective work in politics, Mrs. Hirst thinks. Women ambitious for political activity should get into training for such political salesmanship, she points out.

"Not all women can mount a soapbox effectively and hold a crowd spellbound," says Mrs. Hirst. "But everyone can lean over the back fence and say to her neighbor, 'Won't you vote for So-and-So?' That's much better than saying, 'Did you hear how late Mrs. So-and-So's husband got in last night?'

"This is the work that the men ward workers have performed so effectively in elections. They have been the real factors in winning political contests. Women will have to organize and train for this kind of work if they expect to get anywhere politically."

There are two essentials for a good political "button-holer," says Mrs. Hirst.

First, knowledge of the subject. Women demand good intelligent reasons for casting their votes for certain candidates.

Second, a knowledge of the psychology of salesmanship. The woman "button-holer" who succeeds must play to the special interests of her prospective convert, must never lose her temper and must cultivate an engaging manner of approach.

NEW YOEK

New York City is doing its city-planning for the future on the basis that it and its suburbs will have nearly 29 million people in the year 2000. Which is only 77 years away. Population is expected to pass 11 millions before 1940.

Quite an interesting prospect for the farmers, who'll have to feed this mob.

But the best laid schemes of mice and men, etc. Airplanes may break up New York and all other big cities long before year 2000, enabling workers to live far out in the country, with cities reduced to centers of manufacturing, shopping and recreation.

Fury of the Flood

ANNIVERSARY AT HOARD'S STATION

Stirring Sermons at Stephen's Church — Aged Resident Passes Away—Personals.

BURNBRAE, Oct. 30.—Stephen's Methodist church at Hoard's Station, on the Seymour circuit, held their special services on Sunday, October 28. The special preacher for the day was the Rev. S. A. Kemp of Warkworth. The church which was beautifully decorated with house plants, was filled both morning and evening.

The Rev. Mr. Kemp preached two fervent and impressive sermons, taking for his texts in the morning, Romans 6 shall we continue in sin," in evening, Genesis 32: 24, "Jacob was left alone; and there wrestled a man with him until the breaking of the day." The reverend gentleman pointed out that it is only through stern struggle that men are victorious in the conquest of the self-life within them. The Rev. J. J. Black of Burnbrae was present in the evening and assisted Mr. Kemp in the service.

The church at Hoard's was founded over half a century ago, most of the men through whose effort the organization was formed and the neat little edifice erected for worship, are either deceased or have moved to nearby towns to spend their declining years. The work they so faithfully began is being carried on with enthusiasm and vigor by their decendants.

The service of praise rendered by the choir was a special feature of the service. They led the congregational singing with enthusiasm and the congregation sang with equal heartiness, adding warmth and brightness to the service. The two anthems sung by the choir at each service were greatly appreciated and reflects great credit to the praise leadership of Stephen's church.

The present pastor of the church is the Rev. J. E. Glover, B.A., under whose efficient leadership not only Hoard's church, but the other three churches that make up the Seymour circuit, have been making steady progress.

Aged Resident Dead

Mr. James Kerr, an aged and esteemed resident of Seymour township, passed away at his home on the Eleventh Concession on Tuesday last about midnight.

The deceased was a native of Scotland, born in the village of Lauder, Berwickshire, in 1844. He was bereft of his parents in infancy and was brought up by his grandparents in Scotland until he was 13 years of age, when he came to Canada to live with an aunt, then resident in the city of Kingston, shortly afterwards they removed for a number of years to Lansdowne, and in 1860 he came to East Seymour, where he resided until his death.

The deceased had three children, one died in infancy. A son, George Tait Kerr, died about four years ago in his 40th year. Lizzie, Mrs. Brunton of Seymour, and his wife survive him to mourn his loss.

For many years the deceased was confined almost entirely to his home. He suffered severely from rheumatism so that he had little use of his limbs, yet he always manifested a cheerful spirit and bore his affliction with great patience and fortitude. His general health broke down last spring and since then he has been gradually failing and last week, after a long and trying illness, he passed to his rest in the 79th year of his age.

The deceased was a life long member of Ryestone Presbyterian church. Although for many years he was not able to attend the services, yet he was deeply interested in the work of the Church.

The funeral service was conducted on Thursday afternoon in Rylston church, by the Rev. J. J. Black. Interment was made in the cemetery adjoining the church. The large attendance at the service indicated the esteem and respect in which the deceased was held.

The deep sympathy of the community is expressed to Mrs. Kerr and daughter in their bereavement.

Teacher Leaving

Miss Annie McAlpine, teacher of S. S. No. 11, Seymour, is compelled through ill health, to give up her work as teacher of the school.

Miss McAlpine came here September 1st from London, Ont., and has been very successful in her work. The community regrets that owing to the condition of her health and by the advice of her physician, she is compelled to resign and wish for her a speedy recovery.

Miss Boreland of Campbellford will succeed her as teacher at S. S. No. 11.

Personals

Mr. Walker Stewart and Miss Mabel Stewart have returned to their home in Guelph.

Mrs. Alex. Hume has returned from Cobourg, where she has been visiting for several weeks at the home of her son, Thomas Hume.

Rev. J. E. Glover, B.A. of Seymour Methodist circuit, occupied the pulpit of the Methodist church, Campbellford, last Sunday both morning and evening.

Mr. Carl Johnstone has been confined to his home for several days with a severe cold.

Mr. Charles Milne, who had his tonsils removed at Campbellford last week, is speedily recovering.

HAND PROBLEM OVER LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

Port on the Baptic is in Dispute Between Two Countries.

OTTAWA, Oct. 30 (Canadian Press)—"One more problem which the conference of ambassadors has signally failed to solve, has at last been handed over to the League of Nations," says W. Gleaves Doyle, representative in Europe of the League of Nations Society in Canada, in a report to that body on the problem whether Memel, a port on the Baltic, should be assigned to Poland or to Lithuania. He expressed the view that it seems destined to become the principal port of Lithuania, but it is of immense importance to Poland as the outlet to all the Niemen traffic.

Reviewing the Memel case, Mr. Doyles says that the conference of ambassadors decided some time ago to assign Meme to Lithuania, conditionally that a system of autonomy was set up in Lithuanian territory but later as a result of Franco-Polish pressure, tried to nullify their original decisions. This met with such strenuous resistance on the part of Lithuanians, he says, that the ambassadors have decided to abandon an impossible task and hand the whole question over to the League.

WARNED TO STAY HOME

By GUS M. OEHM
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN (By Mail to United Press).—German unemployed wandering into other countries seeking work are for the most part disappointed and must return to Germany penniless, according to a warning issued by the Government against such action.

During recent weeks, as a result of increasing unemployment throughout Germany, due to closure of factories and other businesses, hundreds of unemployed emigrate to Austria, Jugo-Slavia, Hungary and Rumania seeking work.

However, these countries, as well as the countries to the north, have more workers than jobs and the wandering German finds himself out of luck. He is forced to return to Germany, and the Government's warning includes an appeal to remain at home unless work is assured before leaving.

Relief organizations have announced they will be unable to care for all the returning Germans.

BRITAIN WAITS FOR U.S. VIEWS

Do Everything Possible to Prevent Breakdown of Proposed Conference.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—A special Cabinet Council was held this afternoon, at which consideration was given to the French reply to Great Britain's invitation for participation in a conference on Germany's capacity for the payment of reparations. It is understood, however, that the Cabinet decided to await the views of the United States on M. Poincare's Sampigny speech and French reservations before taking any new step in the direction of convening the conference.

It will be the general view of the ministers that everything possible should be done to prevent the breakdown of the present pourparlers and to get the conference going, no matter how limited its scope, so that the views not only of the British Government, but also of the Empire Premiers, as voiced in the Imperial Conference on the reparations question, could be set before the Allied statesmen in the hope of influencing French policy and extending the usefulness of the conference.

HOSPITALS EXTEND THE SPAN OF LIFE

Americans and Canadians Live Longer Because of Health - Promotion Teaching.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 30 (Associated Press).—People of the United States and Canada are living longer because of means employed by hospitals to promote health, according to Asa S. Bacon of Chicago, president of the American Hospital Association, who opened the twenty-fifth annual conference of hospital executives, trustees and nurses here today.

Mr. Bacon said that the thousands of people who pass through hospitals during a year become messengers of good health in their respective homes and communities, and thus sprea good work of the institutions.

"Hospitals make public health service possible and reduce the death rate in cities and towns," he continued. "Without the hospitals, physicians could not possibly make the great advances which are being recorded in medical science. Because of this steady advance of medical science, and the efficiency of hospitals, the average stay of patients in hospitals is 13 days less than it was 25 years ago when this association was started.

"At that time the cost of caring for a sick person was about the same as that of caring for a well person, plus the physicians' fees. Gradually the advance made in medical science called for the installation of laboratories with expensive equipment and high salaried persons in charge to aid the pyhsicians in their work. Occupational therapy, social service, dietetics and other specialties were also added as departments of the hospitals to increase efficiency and decrease suffering.

"The high cost of running modern hospitals on the one hand and the limited financial resources of many whom we serve on the other, compels us to look to charitably-minded persons in the community for help to finance the work. Every generation amasses more wealth than it needs, therefore it is a benefit to humanity that men and women bestow their wealth upon standardized hospitals of proved efficiency. It behooves us to keep the work of our institutions before such charitable persons to the end that health may be promoted and life be saved."

One of the features of the conference this year will be the enlarged educational exhibition covering two acres in the Milwaukee auditorium where scientific instruments and hospital equipment will be displayed.

GERMANY TO KEEP ZOO

By GUS M. OEHM
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN (By Mail to United Press).—Berlin is going to keep her lions, tigers, elephants and monkeys, reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

Stories printed in newspapers and cabled to America that the animals in the zoo would be transferred to Riga because of the economic breakdown in Germany are untrue.

Riga newspapers event went so far as to declare that Germany took many lions and other valuable animals from the Riga zoo during the war and that these would now be returned to their original cages in Riga. This the Berlin zoo authorities also deny. They claim no animals were sent back to Berlin from the German occupying armies at any time during the war.

The Berlin zoo was closed most of last Winter because the money taken in at the gate was insufficient to pay the numerous attendants needed to keep it open. Food for the animals was obtained with money raised by newspaper and popular subscription.

It has not yet been decided whether the zoos will be closed this Winter, although it is understood that some of the animals may be sold to American buyers and the money used to feed the remaining animals here.

SCOTS TO LEAVE HOME

GLASGOW, Oct. 30 (Associated Press).—Seventy thousand Scots, most of them wrenched away from home by unemployment, have emigrated since the first of this year the majority going to Canada and the United States.

Tradesmen unable to make a good living at home compose a large part of the moving mass. Of skilled craftsmen, no longer able to find work in the industries that feed the Clyde, hundreds have gone hopefully westward—engineers, building trade artisans, iron and steel workers—highly skilled labor that Britain deeply regrets losing.

Not long ago an American touring the Highlands and the Lochs near Glasgow remarked to his Scottish host that it seemed a pity men had to pack up and leave such a beautiful environment, whose legends and traditions were rooted deep in their hearts.

"Aye, but ye canna live on scenery," said the Scot.

The Million Dollar Doll

By C. N. and A. M. Williamson

Authors of "The Lightning Conductor"

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY:

Miles Sheridan, to facilitate his wife's obtaining a divorce is taking a yacht trip, supposedly with

Juliet Divine, a beautiful show-girl, known as the Million Dollar Doll. In reality, however, he is not with the Doll but

Teresa Desmond (Terry), Juliet's unbelievably innocent half-sister, whom the Doll sent to masquerade as herself. Ever since a kindness Miles did her in childhood, Terry had made him her Dream Prince, and they are now madly in love with each other, although he believes her to be the notorious Juliet Divine.

Paul di Salvano, a handsome Italian, formerly the lover of Miles' wife, has deserted her for

Rose Callahan, a somewhat ordinary young heiress, now traveling in Europe with her father.

Betty Sheridan, Miles' wife, frantic at Paul's desertion finds herself in danger of losing her husband also and goes to Algiers where Miles' yacht is lying.

Eustace Nazlo, a wealthy Greek, meeting Miles and the "Doll" recognizes Terry Desmond whom he knew and loved in New York. He it is who warns Betty that her husband's companion is not a show-girl, but a convent maid.

Miles, enjoying a brief sojourn at Bousaada with Terry, and his faithful old servant Mrs. Harkness as chaperone, receives a wire that his wife is in Algiers, demanding to see him. On his way there he is overtaken by Nazlo who informs him that the "Doll" is really Terry Desmond.

Miles and Nazlo race back to Bousaada, each to plead his suit.

Nazlo arriving first tells Terry that Mrs. Sheridan is in Algiers.

Nazlo assures Terry that her only course is to marry him, and Miles will forget her.

While Terry is pondering over Nazlo's proposal Miles returns.

At last Miles recognizes in Terry the little girl he befriended years ago. Terry feels she has betrayed Juliet.

Betty writes Paul di Salvano a peremptory letter, and later, she sees him with the Callahans, on the terrace.

CHAPTER LXXXIV.

Law of Love and Decency

Betty saw the three from a long way off, but she looked only at Paolo. His dark face was haggard. His eyes glanced about anxiously. He had read the letter.

Callahan, a big-headed, short-necked man, with grizzled, curly hair, made straight for a table whose three tilted chairs indicated that it was reserved. He had a sullen, bull-dog air, Betty thought, as if life had gone awry with him, and he was trying, without quite knowing how, to make the best of it. He had been very different when he first arrived from the West with Rose, to conquer New York. His blunt-featured face had been fresh-coloured. He had worn an almost perpetual grin of self-satisfaction, and pleasure in his possessions—including Rose. He had walked with a swagger, almost a strut, his chin up, glancing about to see if he and his daughter were observed. Now he marched doggedly, his head down.

Even a casual observer might have guessed that the man was morose from some secret disappointment; and Betty more than guessed. She was sure; and she knew what the disappointment was. All that had glittered about Paul di Salvano wasn't gold! Once Callahan had wanted the Prince for a son-in-law. Now he didn't want him. But was Paul his son-in-law? That was the only part about which Betty felt uncertain.

Rose's looks told nothing. The girl was pretty, with the beauty of youth, but her features were blunt like her father's, and already she began to be too full-blown. As the old man strode ahead, the girl had time to throw Salvano a smile, with raised eye-brows. Whether it were a married smile or an engaged smile Betty could not tell.

The three sat down, Rose between the two men, and directly facing Betty. Miss Callahan had never been introduced to Mrs. Miles Sheridan, but they had often seen each other in New York; and father and daughter would at one time have given a good deal to squeeze into Betty Sheridan's set. Later, Rose had doubtless heard of the flirtation between Salvano and the young married woman; or Betty's firm intention to snub had made an impression. At all events, the girl's wistful, admiring glances at theatre or restaurant, had changed to a stony stare; and it was now with graven-image gaze that she regarded the lady from New York.

Betty saw this, without looking up; just the ordinary trick that women are born with, and men can never learn. She saw also that Rose turned to Paolo, and spoke. He kept his profile in Mrs. Sheridan's direction, but Mr. Callahan's head moved, and Betty felt his gaze upon her.

This little drama, just begun, meant joy or misery for her future; but it hadn't developed to tragedy yet, and Betty found herself slightly amused, as if she were a spectator of the play, instead of a leading character. Could it be that Salvano would try to brazen it out, or was he working up the scene to make things easy for himself? She would soon know, because in the note she had warned him that Eustace Nazlo was in the offing, and that they had better have a talk before the latter came to her table.

The tea she had ordered was brought, and as she glanced up, after pouring herself a cup, she met Paolo's eyes. He was deliberately looking at her, as if seeing her for the first moment. She bowed, and he bowed, slightly rising from his chair. Then, with a word of excuse or explanation to Rose and Callahan, he walked to her table.

"How do you do, Mrs. Sheridan?" he asked, in a tone audible to everyone near. "This is a surprise. I thought you were in New York."

Betty held out her hand, and Salvano took it in his, pressing it sharply, so that the rings hurt her fingers. In spite of the pain, however, an electric thrill shot through her arm to her heart, for there was hope in that pressure, hope in the one flashing look telegraphed from the Italian's eyes to hers.

"He cares!" she told herself.

"May I sit down and talk for just a moment?" Salvano asked, still in the same "everybody can hear" tone. "I've promised Miss Callahan and her father to see a moving picture with them after tea, but——"

"Is she 'Miss Callahan'?" Betty broke in. Her tone was not meant for everyone. It was for Paolo alone.

"You mean——"

"You know what I mean."

"I know there's been talk."

"Of course, there's been talk! Paolo, you've got to tell me. Are you married to the girl?"

"No. I——"

"Are you engaged to her?"

"Betty—you shoot accusations at me! I've allowed them to think——"

"And everybody else to think! Paolo, what did you take me for—a marble statue? It's to me you're engaged."

"My dear," he soothed her, "you're a married woman. I heard that your husband wouldn't go in for a divorce, after all. What hope was there? I was desperate, and—and these things happen——"

"Listen, Paolo," she cut him short, "don't try any melo-drama with me. You can't help it! One's only got to You know all about Miles and his girl. look at old Callahan to see that he doesn't trust you, or like you."

"I realize that you need money, but I'm not poor.." she added. "I'll have more even than we thought when we thrashed things out one day you won't have forgotten. I'm doing you a good turn, taking you away from that girl and that old man who despises you. You won't have to be ashamed of me as your wife—and you would of Rose. Besides, you love me! You can't have changed so soon. I've come half across the world to claim you, because by the law of love and decency, you're mine."

WEATHER

Most interesting topic of conversation, in the long run, is the weather. Probably because it's always doing the unexpected. Two odd angles on the weather:

The Far North is steadily getting warmer, though very slowly, according to Dr. Walcott of Smithsonian Institution. In seven years the great Selkirk Glacier has retreated northward 1070 feet.

The other angle: Just as much snow falls now as when grandpa was a boy, the Weather Bureau finds by checking up the past. Seemed more then, for the snow that reached grandpa's shoulder in youth now reaches only to his knees.

To Men Earning from $30 to $40 Per Week

You don't have much left after paying expenses, do you? If some misfortune should deprive you of your income for a few months you'd probably run behind temporarily.

Now what about your family? How would they get along if—suddenly—your income should be permanently cut off by your death? Don't you realize that you should have at least $5,000 of life assurance to provide for them after you're gone?

And, of course, you want the kind of assurance that's absolutely safe. And you want the "savings bank" kind under which you don't have to "die to win"—the kind that in addition to protecting your family will also provide a competency for your own old age.

Write to-day for free information about such an Imperial Life Policy—one to suit your particular needs. To-morrow you may be uninsurable.

COBOURG, Oct. 30.—Mr. Rupert Barr, a popular young citizen of this town, was brought to his home here on Thursday afternoon quite seriously injured. Mr. Barr is a brakeman on the Canadian National line, and while on duty at noon that day, fell from a freight near Oshawa and seriously injured his spine.

Funeral Alexander Moore

The funeral of the late Dr. Alexander Moore, a man who was well-known throughout Northumberland County, took place from his late residence here this morning where a service was held before the remains were taken by train to Guelph for interment. Dr. Moore was 73 years of age, and had been ill since February last. He was born in Ireland but came with his parents to this country when he was a year old. He graduated from an Ontario Veterinary College and went to Mansfield, Ohio, to practice for a time, but settled in Cobourg thirty years ago, where he has since carried on his profession. Mr. Moore married Miss Elizabeth McCarthy of Rockwood, who died twelve years ago. His only son, Mr. Mac Moore, also predeceased him, passing away in 1919. Mr. Moore is survived by his three daughters, Mrs. F. W. Blackwell of Dunnville; Mrs. L. A. Holland of Montreal, and Miss Eleanor Moore, at home, and by his sister-in-law, Miss Rose McCarthy, who has made her home with the family for some years. Dr. Moore is also survived by a sister, Mrs. John McWilliams of Owen Sound, and by a brother, Mr. Thomas Moore of Essexville, Mich. He was a member of St. Peter's Anglican church.

Ben Ewing Appointed

Mr. J. G. Orr has resigned his position of Division Court Clerk here and Mr. Ben Ewing has been appointed to the office.

Alberta Coal

Two cars of Alberta coal came in here on Thursday, the one for Colborne and the other for Brighton. Cobourg allotment of five cars, or at least a part of this, are expected to arrive today. The demand for this fuel is greater, it is feared, than the supply. Orders are being taken by the town clerk and treasurer, Mr. A. W. Young.

October Marriages

The marriage took place at St. Joseph's church, Toronto, on Tuesday, of Miss Helma Blanche, Ash, daughter of Mrs. Ada Ash, Toronto, and Mr. Vincent Fox, son of the late John Fox and Mrs. Ella Fox of Cobourg. Rev. Father O'Leary conducted the ceremony. Miss Alma Fox, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and Mr. Basil Fox, the groom's brother, was best man. After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Fox will take up residence in Toronto.

Brignell—Irwin

A quiet wedding took place at the manse on Saturday evening, when Mrs. Ida Irwin was married to Mr. Frank Brignell, Rev. W. A. Bremner officiated.

Ogden—Robson

The marriage took place at the Methodist church on Wednesday, Oct. 24th, of James Ewart Ogden of Flenton, Ont., to Miss Florence Edna Robson, daughter of Mr. Thomas Robson of Hamilton township. Rev. R. F. Stillman officiated. The happy couple left for a trip before taking up residence at Capreol.

Thanborn—Watt

A marriage took place at Plainville, Hamilton township, on Wednesday last, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Watt, when their eldest daughter, Harriett, was married to Mr. Thomas Thanborn of Brampton, Ont. Rev. Dr. James W. Pedley, Toronto, conducted the ceremony. The house was charmingly decorated with roses, chrysanthemums and autumn leaves. The bride who was given away by her father, wore a pretty gown of white canton crepe, and carried roses and lilies of the valley. After the wedding luncheon the happy couple left by motor for a trip to New York and Atlantic City, the bride wearing a dress of broom crepe, with marvella wrap, trimmed with sable. Mr. and Mrs. Thanborn will reside at Brampton.

Addressed Rotary Club

The special speaker at the regular weekly meeting of the Cobourg Rotary Club was Canon Shatford of Montreal, who is conducting a mission in Port Hope. He is a member of the Montreal Rotary Club, and the local Rotarians were very pleased to have his presence and inspirational address.

Canon Broughall's Address

The Cobourg Rotary Club was privileged recently in having an able address by Rev. Canon W. Broughall of St. Catharines, which was helpful and interesting. Capt. Broughall was in town for over a week conducting a most successful mission at St. Peter's Anglican church, of which Rev. Canon Sawers is the popular rector. Canon Broughall outlined four essential qualities which a man must have in order to lead the best kind of a life. He outlined the first quality to be straightness. Such a man, whether consciously or not, always influences others. The second quality is sympathy, which will manifest itself in kindliness but not in sentimentalism. A man who has a heart that really feels and a mind that understands is a tower of strength to others. Another essential qualification is a sense of humor, or the ability to see things and events in their proper light. The fourth essential and the greatest of them all is a belief in a personal God. A man, if he is going to be a help to others, must have the will to be righteous, to be merciful, to be truthful, in fact to be Christlike in his endeavors, and like his great Master to go about doing good. Such a man will have influence and favor with other men.

Highway Opened

Motorists passing through report with a great amount of satisfaction that the bitulithic pavement on the Provincial Highway between Whitby and Oshawa will be finished this week. This will give a paved street from Toronto to Oshawa and afford opportunity for a fine spin. The only setback to full enjoyment in stepping on the gas is the speed officers. The road is now in excellent shape and motorists appreciate it accordingly.

Dominion Stores' Dance

Managers of the Dominion Stores from Cobourg, Trenton and other places along the line went up to Toronto on Wednesday of this week for the first "At Home" which was held in the Masonic Temple, and which is to be an annual event. Dancing and cards were on the program, and an enjoyable time spent.

Will Hold Conventions

Arrangements are being made by West Northumberland section of the Ontario Council of Religious Education to hold three township conventions about the middle of November. Centenary, on the Roseneath circuit, Camborne and Centreton are the centres chosen and there will serve the township of Alnwich, Haldimand and Hamilton. The arrangements so far go to show that very interesting sessions will be the result, and it is hoped that attendance will be similarly gratifying.

REPORT 3 MEN KIDNAPPED GIRL

Neighbors Start Police on New Search After Suspect Refuses to Talk.

DETROIT, Oct. 30.—The search for Bessie Davis, missing 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Davis, 4330 Warren avenue was broadened today when residents of the Warren avenue neighborhood told Scotten station detectives that saw three men leap from a touring car and kidnap the girl while she was walking from her home to the corner drug store, early Tuesday evening.

Homer Ray, 35 years old, 5206 Roosevelt avenue, where it is known the girl spent some time Tuesday night, is believed by the police to have been one of the three men in the machine, but he has refused to state who the others were or admit how or where he met the girl.

Ada Anderson, 47 years old, who is under arrest charged with contributing to delinquency, states Ray brought the girl to the Roosevelt avenue house early Tuesday night, but that he left there with her about 11:30 and reported he had escorted her to the front door of her home. He agrees to this story.

The police believe, however, it is not true and if the men seen in the automobile can be found the girl's present place of detention will be revealed. Meanwhile Ray is being held for investigation and the police are endeavoring to trace the movements of Mrs. Anderson since Tuesday.

Inspector Gustave Shenk, of Scotten station, stated today she was evicted from a disorderly house she operated on Vinewood avenue, Sunday, and neighbors of the Davis' told the police early in the week she was seen several times in the Warren avenue neighborhood, attempting to make friends with girls of Bessie's age.

At dinner time, Tuesday, Bessie went to a nearby grocery store to purchase a bag of potato chips. When she returned she told her mother and sister she was going to the drug store for a soda. She did not take her hat or coat, but picked up her mother's cape and hurried out. That was the last time she was seen by members of her family.

REDUCE NUMBER OF SALES TAX PAYERS

Informative Meeting On Question Thurs. Next In Commerce Chamber

Licensed Manufacturers and licensed wholesalers who sell to unlicensed concerns for their own consumption will be required after January 1st, 1924, to pay 6% Sales Tax to the Government. Under the present law all manufacturers and all wholesalers are accountable for sales tax. Under the new law very few wholesalers will be able to qualify for a license. While all manufacturers will be licensed, only those who sell finished goods will pay sales tax. Consequently the number of those who will pay the tax after January 1st will be greatly reduced.

How local concerns will be affected by the new Sales Tax will be explained on Thursday next, November 1st, by Mr. R. N. McCormick, Assistant Manager of the Tariff Department of the Canadian Manufacturer's Association, Toronto.

This meeting will be held on the above date in the Chamber of Commerce Rooms at 8 p.m., and all interested are invited to take advantage of this opportunity. The meeting is being held under the auspices of the Canadian Manufacturer's Association, Peterborough Branch.

SWEDEN TO EXTEND QUAY

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 30 (Associated Press).—The Stigberg quay at Gothenburg will be extended at the eastern end and the harbor depth will be increased at this point to ten meters in order to accommodate the largest steamships from the United States. The cost of the scheme is estimated at 500,000 crowns.

BACK ACHED TERRIBLY

Mrs. McMahon Tells How She Found Relief by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chatham, Ont.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a run-down condition after the birth of my baby boy. I had terrible pains and backache, and was tired and weak, not fit to do my work and care for my three little children. One day I received your little book and read it, and gave up taking the medicine I had and began taking the Vegetable Compound. I feel much better now and am not ashamed to tell what it has done for me. I recommend it to any woman I think feels as I do."—Mrs. J. R. McMahon, 153 Harvey St., Chatham, Ont.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has for nearly fifty years been restoring sick, ailing women to health and strength. It relieves the troubles which cause such symptoms as backache, painful periods, irregularities, tired, worn-out feelings and nervousness. This is shown again and again by such letters as Mrs. McMahon writes, as well as by one woman telling another. These women know, and are willing to tell others, what it did for them; therefore, it is surely worth your trial.

Women who suffer should write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Cobourg, Ontario, for a free copy of Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women." C

Window Gardens

BY LOUISE S. MARSHALL

The small expense and the little effort required for a beautiful window box make it possible for every home-loving woman to have one.

Window boxes can be kept charming for a whole season by filling them with hardy begonias and ferns. Primrose, the Chinese or common variety, and Irish ivies make a window box with a delightful color note.

For late autumn, if the room is kept cool, some of the darling little chrysanthemums in brown and yellow are effective and will last for several weeks.

For late winter or early spring, flowering bulbs may be used among the ferns.

Royal Order Of Wouff Hong

(Special to The Examiner)

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 30.—The Royal Order of the Wouff Hong, which is a secret organization of amateur radio men, will once more predominate as the feature of an American Radio Relay League convention when amateurs of the Fourth District meet in this city for three days, December 27, 28 and 29, for a great "hamfest," according to the announcement of a tentative program today by H. L. Reid, manager of the League's East Gulf Division. An initiation into the weird order will take place on the last night of the radio convention.

In order to hold this initiation it was necessary for the program committee to obtain permission from the supreme council of the Wouff Hong at Flint, Mich., and League Headquarters at Hartford, Conn. The ritual for this organization was prepared by a group of amateurs at Flint and was polished up for final approval at the Second National American Radio Relay League convention in Chicago last month.

About 1,000 candidates were initiated in the Wouff Hong at that time and it was agreed then through special arrangement with originators of the order that such initiations should be held only at district state or national League conventions. The forthcoming radio meet here will be the first since this national recognition.

The headquarters for the Atlanta convention will be the Ansley Hotel, the management of which has agreed to turn over its Roof Garden for banquets, technical meetings, initiation, and registration which are to be centralized at this point. Arrangements have been made where by many visitors and delegates will be entertained at the homes of local radio amateurs, or at special hotel rates.

SAY POINCARE NOW HOLDS SPOTLIGHT

Premier of France Most Talked-Of Man in the World.

(By GUS M. OEHM)

BERLIN (By Mail to United Press).—The most talked of man in the world today is Premier Poincare of France, according to the German writer, Arno Arndt.

Arndt declares Poincare is spoken of differently in Berlin than in Paris, but admits that he holds the spotlight.

Arndt says Lloyd George has held public interest longer than any man in recent years, having public notice focused on him more than ever by his recent writings and his American trip.

The resume starts with Bismarck, who for half a generation stamped all Europe with his personality.

"Bismarck's name was everywhere—in the mouths of lowly Westphalians as well as the grandest persons in the finest salons in Paris," Arndt says. Then came Captain Dreyfus and Waldersee, Witte, Kuropatkin and Nogi.

In 1910 Zeppelin stepped to the front as the most talked-of man in public affairs. In 1914 Franz Ferdinand was brought to the attention of the world through his murder at Sarajewo, which brought on the world war. Sir Edward Grey, Bethmann Hollweg, Safonow Berchtold and Paschitch and Ludendorff, Hindenburg, Joffre and Foch, French and Nikolajewitsch followed.

With peace came Woodrow Wilson—"the man who was heralded as the forerunner of a new world peace. He held the whole world breathless for a time." Then Bonar Law and Baldwin.

"But now we live in the epoch of Poincare," Arndt concludes. "It is he who is now the most mentioned man in the world—and the world will continue to speak of him—at least until the next elections in France."

SILVER FOX BREEDERS TO SHOW PRIZE ANIMALS

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 30 (Associated Press).—The annual Live Silver Fox Exhibit will be held here November 22-26, according to J. E. Smith, Muskegon, Mich., secretary of the National Silver Fox Breeders' Association of America.

At the last show one breeder refused $50,000 for three live silver fozes, Mr. Smith says. Another breeder sold a cub for $10,000 and a Wisconsin breeder refused $27,500 for three animals.

Wisconsin is the leading state in the industry, which embraces a number of northern commonwealths and Canada and Alaska.

Twenty classes of exhibits will be before judges selected to pass upon the merits of animals at the coming show. There, in turn, are divided into classes designated as adult and pup, with other classes arranged according to color of the exhibit. Four prizes will be awarded in each general class. In addition, two sweepstakes trophies will be offered, one to the highest scoring silver fox and one to the highest scoring Alaskan silver fox.

Holders of the sweepstakes prizes now are:

Standard-bred—Borestone Silver Fox Ranch, Ottawa, Me.

Alaskan-bred—Hercules Silver Fox Co., Glencoe, Minn.

Judges of the show will be Robert Pfeiffer, Detroit, Mich. & Robert Fraser, New York, and George B. Herzig, New York.

Principal speakers will include Frank G. Ashbrook, assistant biologist, division of economic investigations, United States bureau of biological survey, and Dr. Carl B. Harrison, in charge of the government fox farm, Keeseville, N.Y.

In addition to the exposition, there will be a program of addresses and lectures by authorities on the subject of raising and marketing the domesticated fox and its pelts.

Russian Rumour False News

BUCHAREST, Oct. 30 (Associated Press).—Despite the reports frequently heard in Bucharest of an impending invasion of Red hordes across the Dniester and down through the Bessarabian plains, competent observers—both Roumanian and foreign—who have recently had opportunities to study conditions along the frontier seem to be agreed that relations between Soviet Russia and Roumania are now better than they have been at any time during the past four years.

In Bucharest at least, it is confidently believed that Russia a formal recognition of Roumanis right to the province of Bessarabia is imminent. At the same time, however, Roumania is not taking any chances by reducing her military strength, and, while definite information on this point is impossible to obtain, it is generally believed that there are not far from 100,000 Roumanian soldiers in Bessarabia, most of them being scattered along the more than 200 miles of frontier formed by the river Dniester.

While they are there primarily to stop possible Soviet raids into the rich granaries of Bessarabia, their main job at present is to keep back the swarms of refugees who try, often successfully, to cross the Dniester into Roumania, many of them with the hope ultimately of getting to the United States.

The trade agreement between the two countries which has been under negotiation for several months, and towards which the commercial classes of Roumania have been looking forward with much hope, is slow in coming to a conclusion. A number of difficult points have been satisfactorily settled, but a hitch now seems to have occurred over the fact that the Soviets are apparently insisting that all trading must be between the Soviet government on the one hand and the Roumanian government on the other—thus practically forcing Roumanian recognition of Soviet Russia.

SCORES COSTLY DRESS

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 30 (Associated Press).—Costly raiment for the poor working girl is the target of a campaign just launched by the leaders of the Catholic Women's Syndicates. They claim that the profit-hungry employer insists that his fair or otherwise subordinates be fashionably clad because its a "good business measure." He doesn't, however, give them a dress allowance and, to hold their jobs, many times the senoritas must skimp on the frijoles to buy Tut blouses, silk mosquito net stockings and French heeled pumps. It isn't fair, the reformists claim, and have begun their push without, it must be stated, very active cooperation from the oppressed class they hope to benefit.

JOHN M. R. FAIRBAIRN

John Morrice Roger Fairbairn, Chief Engineer of the Canadian Pacific Railway, was born in Peterboro on June 30, 1873, the son of Thomas McCulloch and Jane (Rogers) Fairbairn. He was educated in Peterboro and in Toronto University, where he graduated in the faculty of Applied Science in 1893.

Mr. Fairbairn has had a distinguished career, serving his company in all parts of Canada since 1892 when he was appointed Assistant Engineer on surveys in Ontario and in the North West Territories for the Dominion Government. In 1894 and 1895 he was assistant engineer in the Department of Militia and Defense, and in 1896 he was construction engineer on the Park and Island Railway, Montreal. For two years, 1897 and 1898, he was assistant engineer in land survey at Kalso, B.C. and entered private practice as a mining engineer in B.C. for a time. He was successively, land surveyor, Kalso and Greenwood, B.C., 1898 and 1899; assistant engineer, C.P.R. contruction department, Winnipeg, 1899 and 1900; assistant engineer, Department of Railway and Canals, Beaverton, 1900 and 1901; assistant engineer C.P.R., Montreal, 1901 and 1902; engineer, CP.R. Ottawa, 1902 to 1905; division engineer, C.P.R. Toronto, 1905 to 1907; division engineer, C.P.R. Montreal, 1907 and 1908; principal assistant engineer C.P.R. Montreal 1908 to 1910; engineer, maintenance of ways department, C.P.R. 1910 and 1911; assistant chief engineer, C.P.R., Montreal, 1911 to 1918; chief engineer, C.P.R. Montreal, 1918 to date.

He married Hannah Louise Macfarlane, daughter of Thomas Macfarlane of Ottawa on November 30, 1898. His clubs are the University; Kanawaki Golf; Hermitage Country; Magog; R.C.Y.C. He is a member of the Institution of Civil Engineers; member and past vice-president, Engineering Institute of Canada; member, American Society Civil Engineers; and member and director American Railway Engineering Association. Grand Jury Paid Fare Home

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Oct. 30.—Lula Wade, 20, who has been in the Westchester County Jail since S3pt. 15, has the Grand Jury to thank for a trip home to Roanoke, Va., which began last night. She was charged with stealing a watch and chain.

When called before the Grand Jury she said she left her home to take a position in Bridgeport, Conn., but found it did not pay, so she worked as a waitress in a Westchester hotel. That did not pay, either, she said. In order to get funds to send home, she said, she stole the watch and chain, the property of the negro chef of the hotel and pawned them.

Her plea was effective. The jurors found no bill against her, took up a collection so that the young woman might leave at once for her home, and two of them offered to drive her to the Pynnsylvania Station, New York City, by automobile.

WOMEN STORMJAIL

PUEBLA, Mex., Oct. 30 (Associated Press).—Sixty women, armed with pistols and knives, recently stormed the jail at Ajalpan, according advices received here, and liberated three women and one man, incidentally wounding the mayor and clerk of the court. The four were imprisoned because they protested against the action of the mayor in cornering the town's water supply and selling it at exorbitant prices.

Radio News For Amateur

(By BEVERLY B. DUDLEY, Member A. R. R. L.)

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 30.—A short antenna has the advantage over a long antenna inasmuch as the shorter antenna permits sharper tuning, i.e., the short antenna permits the operator to select the desired station more readily than a long one would. For this reason, owners of short antennæ often get results superior to those obtained on a long antenna. For the reception of broadcasting stations operating below 360 meters a shorter antenna than was formerly used is necessary. It would be a very good idea to keep the total length of the antenna—this includes lead-in and ground lead—under 100 feet so that amateur signals from American Radio Relay League stations may be received. For best results the antenna should not exceed 120 feet for broadcast reception, or 80 feet for amateur reception.

Effective Height Counts

Apparently the height of the aerial makes little difference to most radio fans. A very high one will be able to pick up more radio frequency energy than a low one; however, the high aerial, beside being able to pick up fainter signals, also collects more static, which may seriously interfere with reception, so that too high an antenna is to be avoided. It is the effective height of an antenna that counts; not always the height above ground, but 10 feet above a grounded tin roof, would have an effective height of 10 feet, not 50 feet.

Choose Insulators with Care

The antenna wires should be kept as far away from the aerial supports as possible. The antenna insulators should be of a good grade, and should be so designed, so that they do not absorb water, and have low capacity between their terminals. Glazed porcelain insulators are the best with genuine Electrose second. Avoid purchasing porous or unglazed porcelain, or cheap imitation composition insulators. Keep the antenna insulators clean and preferably replace them every year; they don't work so well when dirt gets an inch thick on them. The long thin shaped insulators are better than short thick ones, as the capacity is much lower. See that the lead-in enters the house through a good porcelain tube, and that it does not touch the house other than at insulated points.

Preventing Corrosion

The antenna should be a wire conductor of large area and should be selected with care. Flat copper ribbon, copper stranded cable and large size copper wires are all good. Don't use iron wire that has a mere film of copper plating on it. Copper plated iron wire is used much, but in view of the fact that copper wire is so cheap, it would be advisable to use Number 12 or 14 copper wire throughout the entire antenna system. Insulation on the antenna wires is beneficial inasmuch as it prevents corrosion to the wires, and does not detract from the general efficiency of the aerial.

Be sure to solder all joints in the antenna. A well designed antenna and ground system contributes materially to successful reception.

SAYS HIS WIFE IS A POOR HOUSEKEEPER

Did Not Mend His Socks Nor Sew Buttons on His Clothes.

DETROIT, Oct. 30.—Floyd E. Woodruff, traffic manager for the Detroit branch of the Washburn-Crosby Milling Co., filed in Circuit Court a cross-bill to his wife's suit for divorce filed Aug. 3.

His wife, Gladys R. Woodruff, had charged him with non-support, cruelty and attentions to other women. She said he was away from home every night.

Woodruff denies these charges, and in his cross-bill, says these things about his wife:

She was a poor housekeeper.

She used to go about the house in her bare feet.

She didn't mend his socks nor sew buttons on his clothes.

She ran him into debt for unnecessary things. Once the corner druggist handed him a bill for $21 for candy and magazines, contracted by his wife.

She went to the theaters five times a week, on which nights he had to get his own supper.

She and her mother refused to allow him to practice on his musical instruments in the house.

They also objected to his smoking in the house.

His wife had a habit of sitting on other men's laps at parties and putting her arms around them.

Woodruff asks a court order prohibiting both from remarrying for two years. He also asks mutual custody of their daughter, Shirley, 4 years old.

They were married in 1911.

"I Avoided an Operation Appendicitis Disappeared"

Mrs. James Wells, Udora, Ont., writes:—

"I took a severe pain in my right side. It was very bad at times. I tried oils and tablets without gaining any relief. The doctor pronounced it chronic appendicitis. I dreaded an operation and a friend advised Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I used them and not only obtained relief from pain, but I believe it has completely freed me of appendicitis, as it is now over a year since I have had any of the old symptoms."

MAKES PLEA FOR THE INDIANS

Beaverton, Ont.,
Oct. 28th, 1923.

Editor of Peterboro Examiner,
Peterboro.

A friend of ours in Beaverton is a subscriber to your paper and we often read it. Now in nearly every paper we read articles concerning the Indians of Hiawatha and neighboring reservations, and notice that they are referred to as braves or bucks, and squaws. These names are applied to the Indians because they are considered inferior to the white men. When the whites first came to this land, the Indians were a primitive uncivilized race. They did not have the advantages and education of the invaders, so the white men "put one over them," and got the country. The Indians were crowded into tiny reservations, mostly of poor soil.

The present inhabitants call themselves Canadians, while the real Canadians are given a name belonging to a people living in a country hundreds of miles away.

Now I think that the Indians, as they are called, have made remarkable progress towards civilization considering the short time they have had and all the disadvantages compared with the time it took for the white people to reach the state of civilization which they are in.

When the white men first came, the wild Indians were considered very, very much inferior to the white men. Of course, they were in intellect, not being developed. They were called any low name. The word "squaw" is a dirty name in the Indian language, naturally Indians hate to hear their women called that as much as the women hate it themselves.

In the Ojibway and Mississaga tongue it is Mi-squaw-sub and O'-jis-quaw in the Mohawk Iroquois and Six Nations dialect. In English it means the female pelvis. The dictionary says squaw—an Indian woman. This was probably given them by the high and mighty white men who, when they saw an Indian woman, said she was "just a squaw."

Now if you have any respect for your paper and yourself, I think an apology should be made to the Indians for calling them such names, however ignorantly or unwittingly used.

Please do not consider this an insult to your paper. Peterboro being so close to the Indian Reserves has more news concerning them, but take it as an explanation or correction of a long misused term, which I think should be made.

COMMUNITY FUND CAMPAIGN

Much has been said in the Toronto papers recently about a campaign being carried on under the name of Federated Charities. The name sounds good, but what does it mean, what is it all about? The Examiner, during the next two weeks, will endeavour to present in its columns the answer to the above question, and also come of the details in connection therewith.

The same campaign is being carried on every year in a great number of cities in Canada and the United States and it is believed after going into the subject more fully it may be made a subject of discussion for the benefit of Peterborough.

This yearly campaign can be found under various names, Federated Charities, Community Fund, Community Chest, Social Service Fund, etc. For convenience sake we will call it Community Fund, which is used more often.

The Community Fund is commonly understood to be a sum of money raised among the citizens once a year to meet current operating deficits of social service organizations, which provide relief to the needy and sick and upbuild the young life of the city in morals and character. This money they would have to raise by many individual campaigns if there was no Community Fund. These relief and service organizations are prepared by leadership and experience to do this necessary work in the most economical, careful way, so as to secure the best results.

Advantages of the Community Fund are considered in the next article on Thursday.

OBSERVED NO EGGS MARKED AS GRADED

Seems Regulations Are Not Generally Followed On Local Market.

Observation at the farmers' market on several recent Saturday mornings has failed to uncover a graded basket of eggs that was so marked. In other cities inspections have been made, and seizures made of eggs which did not come up to standard, or which were not marked with their grade.

This inspection of eggs on the public markets is in accordance with "Regulations respecting the Grading and Marking of Eggs" which became effective last July, administered by the Dominion Livestock Branch. The regulation covering these seizures provides for every case or container of eggs that is exposed, displayed or offered for sale direct to consumers in a public place or manner to be marked with the name of the class and grade of eggs in the container. A further regulation provides that when such markings are used, the quality and weight of the eggs must be equal to or better than the class and grade stated.

On the St. Lawrence Market, Toronto, last week a stall holder was requested to take her eggs off the market. An egg inspector was present and he examined the eggs in question and found that of the eggs in her basket those that were not spot rots were musty, and in his opinion the eggs were at least a month old and had been kept during that time in unfavorable conditions.

Progress is being made in the administration of the regulations, which if carried out in their entirety, the Department says, provide protection for producer, distributor and consumer. On another market last week the eggs were all graded by an inspector and he reported on the whole the eggs were good, grading in many cases above the marked grade. Only one lot of "firsts" was found, the remainder being "specials" and "extras." In the Toronto markets if a farmer arrives without labels the sale of the eggs is stopped until they have been graded and labelled. So far, it is believed, nothing of this kind has occurred in Peterboro and there is no apparent change since the grading law became effective.

BLACK SEA PIRATES DRIVE SHIPS TO PORT

VARNA, Bulgaria, Oct. 30 (Associated Press).—The Black Sea is fast winning an unenviable reputation for piracy and lawlessness upon its waters. Seafaring men are terrified by two acts of violence in the past fortnight, and in some cases have declined to take their ships out of the harbors.

The tale of the destruction of the Bulgarian sailing ship Biala was hardly out of men's mouths, when there came the recital of how the crew of the Amon were done to death by Turkish ma[illegible] from the [illegible]. The Amon sailed from this port for Constantinople, laden with turpentine. A few miles out she was approached by two large motor boats. The captain, not liking the appearance of these strange craft, crowded on all sail in an effort to get back to port, but the motor boats were too quick for him. One approached him from starboard and the other from port, and ranging alongside with grappling irons soon had a strong hold.

Then armed men went aboard the sailing vessel and made her their own. They overpowered the crew and lashed them to bulwarks and boat davits. Torture made them disclose the whereabouts of the ship's treasure, 26,000 golden Turkish pounds.

This was quickly gathered in, and the pirates made a quick getaway, but before they cast off they set the Amon on fire. She was soon doomed, and so were her crew, still lashed to the deck stanchions.

Only one man succeeded in working himself loose. He dove overboard and swam to the Bulgarian shore, where he related the story.

Canadian Interest In Conference

LONDON, October 30. — An official report of the speeches at the Imperial Economic Conference on Friday, which dealt mainly with the admission of Canadian cattle to Great Britain, showed that Premier Massey of New Zealand, alluding to the fact that South America gradually taking possession of the entire beef market in Great Britain and the immense difficulty of the British farmer in competing with South America, said he thought the interests of the British agriculturists came before even those of the New Zealand farmer.

"I'm not worrying about lamb and Mutton," declared Mr. Massey. "We can beat them in lamb and mutton every time, but we simply cannot stand up to them with beef. I have advised New Zealand to drop the shipment of beef, and to go into something else."

ICE CREAM BECOMING DAILY SUMMER FOOD

That ice-cream is becoming a daily summer food with a great many people is indicated by a statement by G. A. Gillespie of the Peterboro' Milk Products this morning that 20,000 gallons were consumed here from his plant alone during the year. In addition to the local product there is a great quantity shipped to Peterboro' from Toronto.

Up to a few years ago ice cream was considered a luxury, but it has recently been endorsed by physicians as a health-giving food. It is generally accepted that the first ice cream was made in Italy, perhaps about the time America was discovered, but it remained for this continent to develop the industry on a large scale.

It is thought that ice cream was introduced into France about 1550, and the earliest printed record of it in England was found in a housekeeping magazine published in 1786. In 1851 the first wholesale house was started in Baltimore by Jacob Russell. The rapid development of machinery, trade journals and instructions in colleges in the art of ice cream making have done much to increase the business, dealers say, but to the man in the street the greatest popularizing feature was the ice cream cone, invented in 1904.

SHORT ORGAN RECITAL VERY MUCH ENJOYED

A short organ recital was given Sunday after the evening service at St. John's church, by Frederic G. Mann, organist and choirmaster. The programme was decidedly varied and gave the organist every scope for exhibiting his technique. The numbers were as follows:

Prelude in C sharp minor..Rachmaninoff
Caprice in B flat.....Botting
Nocturne in G minor.....Chopin
Bells of Aberdovey.....Stewart
Vocalito in A.....Blakeley
Postlude in E.....Vincent

The primary object of the recital was to obtain funds, for the purchase of new music for the choir. About $25.00 was realized.

GIRL ATTORNEY IN TEARS

Pleads Hard for Negro Slayer, but Verdict is Guilty.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Oct. 30.—Despite the pathetic appeal to the jury here by Miss Ann B. Hogan, a young woman lawyer of Jersey City, a verdict of guilty of murder in the second degree with a plea for leniency was rendered against Theal Robertson, a negro brickyard worker of Little Ferry, who a few weeks ago shot and killed John Barnes, also a negro.

It was Miss Hogan's first appearance in a criminal trial, her two years as a lawyer having been confined to chancery cases. Miss Hogan, who is small in statue and only 23 years old, was in tears near the close of her plea that Robertson had shot Barnes in self-defense.

Mining Toll In England

LONDON, Oct. 30.—(United Press).—Three crushed, burned, drowned or otherwise violently killed men is the average daily toll of English mines.

The most recent disaster in the pits occurred on Sept. 25, when forty-three miners were penned by rushing underground water and drowned near Falkirk.

The accidental deaths by quarters since the summer of 1921 are as follows:

1921, third quarter—196;
1921, fourth quarter—254;
1922, first quarter—249;
1922, second quarter—232;,
1922, third quarter—279;
1922, fourth quarter—289;
1923, first quarter—313.

The total for the ninety-one weeks is 1,812.

LADIES, DO YOU KNOW

(By MARIAN HALE)

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Do you know what is in the cold cream that you rub on your face each night, or the powder you keep between you and the public by day?

Or do you buy your cosmetics because they come in fancy little boxes and bottles that add to the looks of your dressing-table?

"No furniture dealer, if he knows his business, uses a furniture polish whose ingredients are unknown to him," says Madame Denna Zenda Denny, beauty specialist, "and women should be equally particular about their complexions.

"I thoroughly believe no woman should use cosmetics she has not had analysed by a chemist to see if they contain harmful ingredients. There are many excellent preparations on the market that are all their labels claim for them, and there are others made from materials no woman would touch if she saw them in the raw state.

Beware Impostors

"The desire for beauty is so universal among women, and our vanity is so easily worked upon, it is no wonder that unscrupulous people try to impose upon us and in doing so, work inestimable harm to the very thing we are trying to keep."

For years, Madame Denny made just her own preparation over her own kitchen stove. Then friends besought her to supply them until now she has built up a thriving business. But she still supervises every ingredient that goes into them.

"Likewise, I formulated my own beauty exercises," she told me. "Many women try hard to keep wrinkles away, but never seem to realize that faces sag before the wrinkle.

"To keep the face firm and smooth nothing is better than inflating the cheeks, and applying the cleansing cream and tissue foods over the taut flesh.

Suggested Exercises

"To keep the mouth firm and unlined, try this exercise of opening it and closing it into as small an opening as possible, doing this gradually under perfect control.

"To correct a double chin—and that is one of the most disfiguring evidences of age, elevate the chin as far as it will go, and in this position contract and expand the muscles as for swallowing.

"In all massage and manipulations of the face, remember to use a light, firm touch, not a heavy, rolling one, and always rub upward. As you do so, keep a mental picture of what you want to be ever before you.

"It will do you little good to massage your face while you are worrying about the rent, but if you are concentrating your thoughts on beauty, as well as your muscular efforts, there is no end to what you can accomplish."

WHAT IT COSTS TO MAKE A REAL HAT

(By JOHN O'BRIEN)

PARIS (By Mail to United Press).—What does it cost to make a woman's hat? A strike of milliners' helpers, taking in practically all the well-known houses in Paris, which has just been ended by an increase of 33 per cent. in wages, brought the question up before the official referee appointed by the Government and the workers. The milliners contended that their profits did not permit them to grant the wage increase demanded.

Here are statistics which show the exact cost of a hat sold by such a firm as Lewis or Jeanne Lanvin for 300 to 400 francs, or about $20 to $25, which is above the average price for a hat except for the wealthy:

Felt	70 frs., or	$5.00
Wire, muslin, etc.	30 "	2.00
Trimming	30 "	2.00
Wages (3 to 4 days)	50 "	3.25
Total	180 frs., or	$12.25

The milliners insisted that rent, insurance, publicity and general expenses must be added to these figures. Therefore, they pleaded, if they were required to increase the wages of their girls they would be obliged to raise the prices of their hats. The girls are to get in future 350 francs a month, or about $24, with a noon-day meal. Most of the girls complain the "meal" is only a shadow and that they have to go to a restaurant to feed themselves.

SILK

Silk is no longer an emblem of luxury. Which, by the way, is chief reason the silk hat is not worn by modern sports to display their ability to pay.

Americans this year will consume about 70 million pounds of silk. Over half of it will be artificial silk, made from wood fibre, seaweed, etc. Getting to be too big a job for the silkworm. Chemists had to come to its aid with substitutes. Few can tell artificial silk from the real thing, just as only an expert can distinguish a genuine ivory billiard ball from one made of buttermilk.

SAVED

The American people have over 17 billion dollars banked as savings accounts. Twice as much as a year ago.

We seem to have learned our lesson during the last period of hard times. Another stretch of depression would find the public well prepared for a rainy day. The feeling of security, engendered financial preparedness, should help keep hard times away. For hard times originate in epidemic of fear.

THE ROTARY CONCERT

The music-lovers of Peterboro have the Rotary Club to thank for the programme of rare merit and charm given under its auspices last night by Jules Falk, well known violinist, and Miss Vanette Van Sweringen, soprano, assisted in no small degree by Miss Gladys Shailer as accompanist. The concert was an artistic triumph, replete with good things, and in bringing to Peterboro musicians of last night's calibre, the Rotarians have merited the gratitude of the citizens who appreciate the rich metal of the best music.

Seldom has a Peterboro audience had an opportunity of hearing a violinist of such outstanding ability as Mr. Falk, whose performance last night proved him to be a veritable master of his art. His numbers covered a wide range of compositions, designed to show the flawless technique and musicianly understanding of the artist, and his complete mastery of violin and bow, and throughout his ten programme numbers and three encores, the violinist succeeded in securing a tone remarkable for its fulness of volume and richness of quality.

From the opening number, Henri Eccle's Suite in G Minor to the last brilliant excerpt from La Csardas, by Hubay, Mr. Falk's performance was a revelation to his hearers, who paid him that most sincere of all compliments, of almost seeming to hold their breath at times, as if in fear one lovely note might be lost. Amidst so many gems it would be difficult to single out any particular selections as deserving of more praise than the rest, for Mr. Falk's offerings included many of the numbers featured on the concert programmes of Herfetz, Elman and Kreisler, but the audience seemed to appreciate most thoroughly the artist's brilliant execution of the well-known Saint-Saen's number, "Introduction" and Rondo Capriciso, which was interpreted with masterly skill, and received with enthusiastic applause. Tschaikowsy's "Andante Cantable," Fritz Kreisler's arrangement of the Arab song from "Scheherezade," S. Auer's arrangement of Schuman's "Bird as a Prophet," with its remarkable exhibition of double stopping, Mendelssohn's "On Wings of Song," arranged by Achron, and Valdez's brilliant Serenade du Tsignane (Gypsy Serenade) were other high lights of a striking and most delightful programme.

Miss Van Sweringen, a mezzo-soprano, with a voice, pure and even in quality, sang two groups of songs most acceptably, her first offering being the dramatic Santuzza's air from Cavalleria Rusticana, "Voi lo Sapete," (Well you know, Good Mother), followed by Massenet's song of mourning, "Elegie," with violin obligato, most effectively contributed by Mr. Falk; two other French songs, "J'ai Pleure en Reve" by Hue, and "Ouvre les Yeux Bleus" by Massenet, Alvarez's Spanish song "La Partida" and the sparkling "Carmela" in Italian.

Later in the evening she sang a group of four English songs, "Come up, Come in, with Streamers," "My Little House," "Thank God for a Garden," and "Love's in My Heart," four numbers that were sung with an evident appreciation of their charm. Miss Van Sweringen is a vocalist of promise, her voice being one of much charm, while she sings with much feeling and enunciates very clearly.

Much of the success of the evening was due to the sympathetic and intelligent accompaniment furnished by Miss Shailer at the piano, who carried out her exacting role in a most successful manner, her beautiful tone and delicacy of touch making her performance a truly remarkable one.

Before the programme opened Rotarian Rev. Harold Young welcomed the audience and thanked them for their attendance, which was, he said, another evidence of the interest of the people of Peterboro of the work of Rotary, an organization that stood simply for service.

Canadian Stock Exchange — And Mines — | New York Stock Exchange — and Curb Prices

Today's Quotations and Opinions and Reviews of the Markets.

NEW YORK, October 30 (Special to The Examiner). — Overnight news had little bearing on securities' values, and active stocks on the Stock Exchange continued the rally in progress at the previous close. Studebaker was the leader of the industrial list, reaching a new high on the present recovery. Marine Preferred, Baldwin, and other speculative favourites scored fractional gains, while the rails were generally higher, reflecting the favourable character of the incoming earnings statements. Stocks developed further strength after the opening, some sharp advances occurring in Dupont, Baldwin, and other industrial leaders but an easier tone set in before 11 o'clock, which effaced the greater part of these additional gains. American Ice was a feature of the specialties, recovering more than 2 points to 80 1-4. At Monday's low this stock was off 3 3-4 points from the high of the year, on the $7.00 annual dividend basis it now yields around 9 per cent. There have been no developments to account for the weakness of the stock. Opening prices included Studebaker 96 1-4 up 1-8, Dupont 129 off 1-4, Baltimore and Ohio 56 1-2 up 3-8, Bethlehem Steel 47 off 5-8, United States Steel 87 1-2, Union Pacific 128 3-8 off 5-8, American Woollen 68 off 1-4, Great Northern Preferred 52 7-8 up 1-8, Marine Preferred 31 1-4 up 1-8, American Can. 92 3-4 off 1-8, Southern Pacific 84 3-4 off 1-8, American Sugar 51 5-8 up 5-8, Baldwin 116 3-4 up 1-4, Pan-American 55 1-8, B 52 up 1-8, Erie 13 1-2 up 5-8, Northern Pacific 51 5-8 off 1-8.

ANOTHER LEANING TOWER

Describing the city of Mosul in Mesopotamia, the only building of importance is the Great Mosque, whose remarkable leaning minaret forms a landmark which can be seen by approaching travellers long before the low-roofed city comes in view. It is probably considerably more than 200 feet in height, and, to an untrained eye, appears to be as much out of the perpendicular as the Leaning Tower of Pisa. If the Great Mosque were in Europe, instead of an inaccessible city of Inner Asia, it would be visited by thousands of tourists and picture postcards of it would be seen everywhere.

OLD CUSTOMS

Palm Sunday customs formerly included the sanctification of flowers and branches of palm, or boughs of various trees when palm could not be procured, and the flowers and branches were then distributed and carried in procession after being fumed with frankincense from censers. After the Reformation Henry VIII. declared the carrying of palms on this day to be one of the ceremonies not to be contemned or dropped, and the custom still holds, palm from Spain being available, though not in such demand as in parts of the Continent, and falling far below flowers in public estimation.

Can You Afford to Speculate?

EVERY time you buy something you are either speculating or making a definite investment.

Few people can afford to speculate. Yet many do it continually, in making their every-day purchases. And it is so unnecessary! The advertisements make it easy for anyone to avoid taking a chance.

The merchant or manufacturer who advertises, realize that the good-will of his customers means money in the bank to him. He knows that public confidence in his product and public respect for his own character are as valuable as his credit at the bank.

So he makes the individual satisfaction of his patrons, their loyalty and their friendship paramount issues in his business.

When you buy an advertised product, you can know in advance what to expect in return for your money. You can count on it being right. You are making an investment.

But when you buy nameless, unbranded merchandise, you are taking a chance. You are speculating.

Know what you buy. The advertisements will tell you.

O.A.B.A. MEETING NEXT SATURDAY

OSHAWA, Oct. 30.—(Special to The Examiner).—Official notices of the semi-annual meeting of the Ontario Amateur Baseball Association to be held at the Carls. Rite Hotel on Saturday, November 3rd beginning at ten o'clock in the morning have been sent out. This is one of the most important meetings of the Association, and while no actual business can be done in the way of changing the constitution it will give delegates an opportunity to offer suggestions for the betterment of the association and its management, and if thought advisable to make recommendations to the annual meeting held in April of next year.

Among the matters to come before the meeting will be suggestions that the executive be granted more power to deal with individual cases with regard to residence qualifications, as this frequently came to the executive's attention during the past season. The mileage allowance for teams in the senior and intermediate series will also come up for discussion. Also a system of grouping the same as that now in force in the Ontario Hockey Association will be given consideration.

Along with the announcement of the semi-annual meeting of the Association will be the resolution moved by R. D. Adams of Belleville and seconded by C. M. Anderson of Oshawa that the annual meeting of Central Ontario Amateur Baseball League be held the second Wednesday following the meeting of the Ontario Association and that the secretary be instructed to notify clubs that the entrance fee of fifteen dollars to the Central Ontario League will be due on or before the annual meeting. This will bring the date of meeting on Wednesday, November 14. According to Article no amendment or alteration shall be V of Central Ontario consitution made in any part of the constitution except at the annual meeting and by a two thirds vote of the members present. Notice of any proposed alteration or amendment must be made to the secretary treasurer at least one week before the date of the annual meeting. This date for receiving such alterations or amendments will be Wednesday, November 7, after which same will be mailed out to the different clubs in the league for their consideration.

NEW YORK TEAMS EXPECT TO WIN 1924 PENNANTS

By HENRY L. FARRELL

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(United Press).—"We dropped you twice and we'll do it again next year," the defeated players hurled at the victorious Yankees in good natured joshing after the game of the world's series.

The two rival clubs occupied adjoining dressing rooms under the stands at the Polo Grounds and although there had been bad spirit shown on the field during the series, the players were friends again after the last game.

The spirit in which the Giants accepted their defeat was interesting, inasmuch as it plainly expressed the opinion of the losing players that the two New teams would win the major league pennants again next season and play against each other in the fourth straight series.

Mere thoughts of such a thing may cause consternation in the cities outside of New York where the opinion has already been expressed that the monopoly of this city on the series is killing interest in baseball. To argue the question about what effect the continued success of the New York teams is having upon baseball in general, is beside the present point.

The Yankees and the Giants feel sure that they will win the pennants again next year and from a casual glance right now over what they will have to beat, it is reasonable to assume that the two pennant winners are not outclassed for the 1924 races.

During the winter, when changes may be made to strengthen rival clubs, just remember that under the present conditions the Giants and the Yankees will have a lure for a reward that not other major league club can offer to encourage its athletes.

"My good young boys, if you win the pennant and the world's series you will be enriched $7,000 over your salary. If you win the pennant and lose the series, you will still get $5,000.

The players will get more money next year, if the series is played in New York than they received this year, if the weather is better, because the attendance failed to capacity because of threatening weather.

There is no question that the hope of the rich reward from the series brought the Giants staggering through to the National League championship last season and the same bag of gold drove some sense into the heads of the tempermental Yankees when all other means had failed.

As they are at present fortified, and as the other teams now shape up against them, the Yankees look like a sure penannt winner again next season, but much can happen before the next season gets under way.

Two or three of the star Yankee pitchers may be off next season. Babe Ruth may take a slide and any number of things can happen.

If the Yankees need new strength they cannot turn to the Boston Red Sox for relief, because the Boston club is under new ownership that has no desire to see New York win, if Boston has to lose.

From the ease with which the Yankees won the pennant last season it might be reasoned that they can suffer a 10 per cent decrease in form and yet win another pennant, unless what opposition they had last season from Detroit and Cleveland should be increased 20 per cent.

The Yankees are a good ball club. They have a powerful attack, a good defense, reliable pitching and they have been developed or encouraged and humored to the point where they play smart baseball.

With complete control over the team and the confidence that he can command as the manager of the world's champions, Miller Huggins should have very little trouble with his athletes.

Huggins, however, will have one big job on his hands to keep the Yankees from getting too much of an exalted ojinion of themselves. If they assume too many privileges next year as attributes of their position, they will not win the pennant.

In the National League the Giants are by no means sure. McGraw is desperately in need of pitchers. The same staff he has now will not be better next year. Scott and Nehf do not stand to improve, McQuillan is erratic and Jack Bentley, it is safe to assume, will never be a success with the club, because he is on the outs with McGraw and does not like the club.

Even the Reds and the Pirates are no stronger next year, the Giants will be no stronger and they were none too strong last year. The Chicago Cubs will have to be figured next year, and if the Reds get anything out of Sheehan, their new pitcher, McGraw will have plenty of trouble.

SOFTBALL LEAGUE PLAYS TWO GAMES

Last evening two soft ball games were played in the Club section. The first game, which should have been between the Rotary Club and Belmonts, was postponed, so to fill in Alex. Kay gathered up a bunch of youngsters who stood off the champions in a practice fixture.

In the first game L.O.L. emerged with the long end of 9 to 6 score, when they clashed with the Rangers. Sam Calladine's men put up a hard fight and the game was fast in the first five innings, then a few homers gave the followers of the fife and drum their chance, and they piled them up.

The line-ups were:

L.O.L. — Batten 2b, "Jeff" Hardill ss, Dobson c, "Hp" Hardill 1b, Hines R. ss, Hall 3b, Helson lf, Spencley lf, Nichols p.

Rangers — Vaily cf, Whitlow 2b, Maudsley 1b, Hensley lf, Dunkerly p, Whitehouse 3b, J. Lebar c, G. Gimblett jr., ss, S. Calladine r ss.

Score by innings:

L. O. L..... ....00104112—6 11 2
Rangers .. ..02010012—6 7 4

Triple Link Won.

In the second game the Triple Link gave the Kiwanis a bad jolt, when they let them down to the drop of 12 to 3. The Triple Link had things easy, loose play giving them many runs.

The line-ups were:

Kiwanis — Morphet 3b, Mackey ss, Green ss, Browne c, Byers lf, Gordon 2b, Parker 1b, Lang R. F., McLean p.

Triple Link — Dugan 1b; Munro p, Crowe 2b, G. Butcher ss, Long lf, A. Butcher 3b, Ackford c, McGill rf, McIntyre ss.

Score by innings:

Kiwanis ....10000002— 3
Triple Link .. ..1305003x—12

CAN'T OVERLOOK HECKMAN.

The fans east of Toronto also have a kick coming on Norman Albert's All-Star Ontario selection. Harry Mills can hit them just as far as Harry Samuels and can also field his position at first just as well as the next one. He also leaves a pitcher off like Al. Heckman. Come on down and take a look at a real right hander, Mr. Albert, in this neck of the woods. Given equal defensive strength he will outpitch Joe Spring every day in the week and Friendly Graham is included. Also in centre field he puts Pete Irwin down. How about W. Ross, Belleville's center fielder. Ross led this league with a nice average .351 and fielded .978, and a boy that can cover acres of ground. Mr. Albert thinks they play bush league ball down this way but it is a pretty hard place to cop off any honours. Of course, probably, he left out some of the Belleville boys on account of their poor showing against Royals, but the team had the satisfaction of showing a battery to Toronto fans that had them popeyed all the afternoon.—Bellevue Ontario.

Monte Attell, Once Boxer, Stone Blind

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Oct. 30.—Monte Attell, once a star bantamweight, whose fame almost equaled that of his more gifted brother, Abe, former holder of the featherweight championship, is stone blind.

Monte is now conducting a newsstand here, having been backed financially by old friends.

Attell was in the ring fifteen years. One of his greatest fight was a 42-rounder against Frankie Conley at Vernon, Calif.

COLUMBIA DEFEATED IN SPECTACULAR RACE

Weather Was to the Liking of the United States Challenger—Finish Was Close Walters Overshadowed.

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 29.—(Canadian Press. Blue Nose of Lunenburg, Canadian defender of the international fishermen's trophy, today defeated Columbia of Gloucester, American challenger, in perhaps the most spectacular race in the history of the contest to date, by one minute and twenty seconds over a forty mile course off Halifax harbor. The wind, blowing at six knots at the start, increasing to seventeen knots and veering from due west to south-west, provided the challenger with weather conceded to be to her liking, but the burdensome Blue Nose, considerably lightened in ballast over her trim of last year, surprised her friends with her light weather sailing qualities and demonstrated she had the edge of the challenger on all points of sailing under the conditions obtaining to-day.

Apart from the question of boats, however, Captain Ben Pine, it is freely admitted in Halifax to-night, had it all over his Nova Scotia rival, Captain Angus Walters. Walters drew first blood at the start, beating the Gloucesterman out by thirty seconds which he might have increased to upwards of a minute had he not proved himself gun shy by running down the line to leeward of his opponent. Then having established a lead of two minutes seventeen seconds as a result of two reaches to second mark, and having the race well in hand for the thresh to windward, he threw his advantage overboard by over-standing the third mark and disregarding the fundamental law of racing to keep yourself between the mark and your opponent.

Canny Ben Pine followed the Lunenburger about with the result that when the mark was reached the official timers decided it was a dead heat between the two boats. Then came a fight for the weather berth, limited only by the jagged rocks of Chebucto Head, jutting out to weather of the competing schooners. With everything filling and racing neck and neck, Pine kept edging Walters up to weather.

Columbia Hung On.

Try as he might the Lunenburger could not shake his Gloucester rival. The schooners tore along Blue Nose not more than a biscuit's throw from the Three Sisters, one of the most dreaded shoals on the coast.

They neared Bell Rock buoy, another shoal. But Pine was obdurate. He all but scraped the whiskers off the buoy ,forcing Walters through the green water inside the mark. Then according to the Canadian skipper the pilot aboard the Blue Nose shouted to the helmsman, Captain Himmelman to bear away. "Bear away and we strike him," Albert yelled back. "Strike him, or strike the rocks," the pilot retorted. Blue Nose bore away, with Pine still trying to luff. Walters doused his staysail and swung his foresail wing and wing. He blanketted the Gloucesterman. Next his main boom touched the main shrouds of the Columbia. Still Pine tried to luff. The Canadian's main boom swept the forestays of the American, doubling up the sheer rod. Finally it caught in the down haul of Columbia's jib and for upwards of a minute the defender towed the challenger. Then the Lunenburger cleared, and opening up a gap raced for the finish line with the result never in doubt.

Protest Rumoured.

To-night the controversy which seems to be inseparably connected with schooner racing is in full swing in Halifax and rumors of a protest are being discussed on all sides. But up to a late hour to-day Captain Ben Pine had lodged no protest with the sailing committee and it was freely stated among the American contingent that no protest would be lodged.

Captain Ben Pine seemed more concerned with having been beaten out at the start than with anything else. "We will be nearer the starting gun to-morrow than we were to-day," he told newspapermen after the race this afternoon. Rule six of the rules governing the contest provides:

"When a vessel is approaching a shore, shoal, rock, vessel or other dangerous obstruction, and cannot go clear by altering her course without fouling another vessel then the latter shall on being hailed by the former at once give room; and in case one vessel is forced to tack or to bear aawy in order to give room, the other shall also tack or bear away as the case ma ybe, at as near the same time as is possible without danger of fouling."

PREU CROWDS CHEER FIRPO

Dignitaries Also Greet Boxer When He Lands at Callao.

CALLAO, Peru, Oct. 30.—Luis Angel Firpo, arriving here from Colon, was greeted by a demonstration such as is seldom accorded distinguished visitors to Peru. Cheering throngs line the docks and the main thoroughfare as the boxer left the steamer.

Firpo was enthusiastically welcomed and greeted by numerous Government officials and by members of the Argentine Legation. He proceeded to Lima, where numerous affairs have been planned in his honor.

Tom Sharkey? No, Choynski is Name, My Boy

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 30.—Tom Sharkey, famous heavyweight of days gone by, opened a health school in New York. after the old fighting spark had died. Naturally boxing was featured, and many youngsters, lured by ambition and Sharkeys' fame, came for instruction.

In those days the custom of adopting high sounding fighting names was more in evidence than now. Hence Young Corbetts, Young Jeffs, Young John L's and Young McGoverns abounded in endless numbers.

One day a Young Sharkey bobbed up. Apparently he was the first to name himself after the old gladiator. Old Tom was obviously pleased, and instructed his assistants to send the new Sharkey to him. "I'll take him and develop him myself," he promised.

Two days later Young Sharkey blew in for another workout. He was an East Side youth of decided Hebraic features, and his sharp nasal twang left no doubt as to his racial origin. He was sent to see old Tom. It was a big moment in the kid's life, this meeting his Irish idol face to face.

"So you are Mr. Sharkey?" beamed the boy.

Sharkey took one quick glance at his namesake.

"You are mistaken. Mr. Sharkey is out. I am Joe Choynski.

UHLE PITCHED IN MOST GAMES

Cleveland Ace Also Won More Than Any Other in League.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 29.—George Uhle, Cleveland American League pitching ace, not only won more games than any other pitcher in the League in 1923, but also pitched more games and more innings than any other pitcher in the League. He appeared in the box for the Indians no less than fifty times. Eight times the game was won or lost by some other pitcher. Of the other 42 games, 26 went to Uhle's credit as victories and 16 were charged to him as defeats.

All told, Uhle pitched 359 1-3 innings, during which his opponents made 379 safe hits. He gave 99 bases on balls and struck out 109 batters. He made two wild pitches and hit seven batters.

By winning 26 of 42 games his percentage of victories is .619.

Only Detroit and Chicago beat Uhle more than twice during the season. Uhle had a batting average of 363, driving out 53 safe hits in 146 times at bat.

Only twice in recent years has any big league pitcher worked to so many decisions as Uhle's 42 games in 1923. Grover Alexander won 30 games and lost 13 in 1917 and Jim Bagby won 31 and lost 12 in 1920, the total in each case being 43 games.

PAPYRUS RACE AN EXHIBITION

Facts Were Kept From the Public, Says Bert Collyer, and Gamblers Won Big Staeks.

(By Collyer's News Bureau)

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 30.—That the much advertised international match between Zev and Papyrus, winner of the English Derby, was nothing more than an exhibition and not a seriously contested race is the charge made by Bert E. Collyer, American sporting authority, in the current issue of his newspaper, The Referee. Despite the fact that the British horse was here, he claims, merely for exhibition purposes, millions of dollars were wagered and lost by English partisans who thought the race to be a real contest. Mr. Collyer brands as ridiculous the claims that the result of the match establishes the supremacy of the United States turf over that of England, which, he says, is still as much an open question as ever.

Here is the Collyer article, which has already stirred up a storm of discussion in the States:

"Naturally the Canadians, loyal to British traditions, were disappointed in the defeat of a colt good enough to win the English Derby. The more so as it is a tradition, long established in all the vast territory over which waves the Union Jack, that an English Derby winner is King of Three-Year-Olds. While the spectacle of Papyrus trailing a horse that even Americans do not regard as an exceptionally outstanding three-year-old in a race run in remarkably slow time, making allowance for track condition, was not calculated to contribute to British joy and pride, our cousins across the line have no reason to feel downcast. The race proved exactly NOTHING, AS FAR AS RELATIVE MERITS OF THE THOROUGHBREDS WAS CONCERNED. It did not prove how successfully FAME AND SENTIMENT CAN BE PROSTITUTED BY MERCENARIES, who know no boundary lines and feel no respect for the finer impulses of national pride.

From the first, we warned our readers what to expect. It was apparent Papyrus was coming to America FOR AN EXHIBITION. Considering the time necessary for proper acclimating and getting accustomed to the dirt course, so unlike the turf on which English races are run, it was ridiculous to think that the owner of Papyrus entertained for a moment any idea of a seriously contested match race. Large as was the purse hung up for the event, even this sank into significance when compared with the value of an English Derby winner in the stud, which in modern times has never dropped below $1,000,000. Does anyone believe that the owner of Papyrus would take a chance of ruining his $1,000,000 colt by pushing him to the limit in a real race on a strange course and in a strange climate?

"But while its was intended that Papyrus should give MERELY AN EXHIBITION, this fact was kept carefully from the public on both sides of the Atlantic. How adroitly the international sentiment was worked up, and the propaganda of Papyrus' great work-out and Zev's ailments played with until the American sure-thing went to the post at 4 to 5, are now matter of history. How certain mercenaries acted as the beneficiaries, raking in a golden harvest estimated in the millions of dollars from the six-pence, shilling and pounds of the English public, and wired it back to America to be bet on the American sure-thing, is now being gossiped about. The truth or falsity of these rumors should easily be established, if the matter is gone after in the right way.

"If any good can come from the incident, which certainly has worked an incalculable harm to the thoroughbred up to the present time it will be through a sweeping and fearless inquiry that may involve many high personages high on the financial, theatrical and sporting calendar. We respectfully urge upon our English cousins that they demand the inauguration of such an inquiry and its vigorous prosecution regardless whom and where the fire may strike."

Renault Forging Ahead May be Next for Title

Outside of Gibbons and Firpo, Canadian Is Only Present Heavy Conceded Any Chance With Dempsey.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 30.—It's rather a reflection on the heavyweights of the day after two big fights this year Jack Kearns, manager of the greatest of fighters, Jack Dempsey, is figuring on the same pair of opponents for next year. Return matches with Tom Gibbons and Luis Firpo look best to him this far in advance. Of course, there is always the possibility of a Wills match to harp on, but the Brown panther is in awfully bad with the two Jacks for trying to stop the Firpo fight. It's better than even money that Jack and Harry never fight unless an enormous bona fide offer happens to be made the champion.

There is a chance that some new heavy will be boomed along this Winter, but about the only one in sight is Jack Renault, Dempsey's sparring partner of Atlantic City days of 1921. Renault knocked out George Godfrey, Dempsey's camp mate this season; knocked out Fred Fulton and knocked off in three rounds the other night the Joe Downey that Firpo did not stop in ten rounds with big mittens at Indianapolis. Renault has displayed other flashes of class. Outside of him, what is there?

There has been some talk about a Renault-Tom Gibbons battle at Havana. Gibbons may fight in the New York Garden for Tex Rickard this Winter. Tom will have to be careful not to lose a fight, else the Dempsey match don't do again, even if Gibbons did last fifteen rounds with the champion at Selby. In Montana Tom simply impressed as a man who could bother the champion over some distance, not as one who really had a chance to knock him over.

At that Gibbons says he got no more chin shot at Dempsey than Jack got at him, which speaks much for the champion's boxing skill. It may be that Gibbons still believes he can hurt the champ if he lands the proper sort of a right-hander. Anyway, Tom is in line for another big chance, provided he does not get a pasting in the meantime. Harry Greb got a decision over him, you know, and a guy like Renault might upset the dope.

Leo P. Flynn has Renault. Leo P. made much money with and for Bill Brennan. He was in Brennan's corner both times when Dempsey knocked out Bill. The first time, at Milwaukee, before Dempsey was champion, we heard Nate Lewis tell Leo that Brennan was in for a socking. Leo did not know much about Dempsey, but respected Lewis' judgment and turned pale. He was still paler when it was over. After the second scrap Leo was highly pleased that Brennan lasted as long as he did and did right well with his fighter on the strength of it.

Leo P. Flynn has made a pile of coin in the boxing game. He has handled good fighters for years and has prospered as matchmaker of the New York Garden under Tex Rickard for some time. Leo's ambition is to manage a heavyweight champion and show that he is just as smart if not smarter than Jack Kearns. He hardly has another Dempsey in Renault, but Flynn keeps mentioning that Jim Jeffries once was Jim Corbett's sparring partner.

Dempsey knew a whole lot about Renault two years ago last Summer. He boxed with him often. Right after Dempsey knocked out Carpenter Renault climbed into the same ring for ten round with Billy Miske. He was bested, but put up a good argument despite his inexperience.

H. Wills, who played a sap trick on himself in passing up a hundred thousand or so by not fighting last year, has at last seen the error of his ways. Harry has started fighting again, but not matter what he accomplished, the two Jacks never will quite forgive him for trying to have the courts halt the Dempsey-Firpo fight and knock them out of a half million.

FALCONS OUT OF LUCK.

The Fire Hall Falcons Hockey Club lose another very valued member in the person of Walter Northcotte, who has accepted a position out of the city. Northcotte since joining the Falcons in 1918 has always played to win. He was always a tower of strength to his team and a dangerous adversary to his opponents. Northcotte's loss will certainly be felt by the Falcons because of the fact that the team this year is somewhat crippled for material. He succeeded to the Secretary's position of the Falcons A.C. in 1919, a position which he held till the time of his departure from the Falcons.

RUGBY

MAY SPRING SURPRISE.

(Lindsay Post)

Peterboro scored most of their points on end runs, some for forty yards or more. Lindsay proved to be better on the line and scored two touchdowns on bucks, but were decidedly weak on tackling and not so good on kicking. With a little brushing-up on tackling and some kicking practice, Lindsay should surprise Peterboro in the return game.

Peterboro Collegians are a manly lot of young fellows and they enjoyed their visit to Lindsay, more so on account of their victory. Following the game they witnessed the basketball game between Port Perry and the L.C.I. girls. Frequently their college yells were heard, only to be responded to by the yells of the L.C.I. students.

Bookout, one of the Peterboro halves was in the limelight for the Petes, as was Young, the quarterback whose kicking was a feature of the game. He never missed.

The Choice of the Champions

Nearly all the hockey players of such crack teams as these use C.C.M. Automobile Skates:—

Edmonton "Eskimos," Western Pro. Champions.

Stratford, O.H.A. Intermediate Champs.

Kitchener, O.H.A. Junior Champions.

Winnipeg "Falcons," Manitoba Senior Champions.

Souris, Manitoba Intermediate Champs.

"Sons of Ireland," Quebec Province Champions.

"Abegweit," Champions of Maritime Provinces.

All the Alberta Amateur Champion Teams, senior, intermediate and junior, use C.C.M. Automobile Skates.

Ottawa "Senators," World's Professional Champions, won on C.C.M.-made Skates.

Many of the best hockey players in the United States also use C.C.M. Automobile Hockey Tubes or Model "D".

Such racing stars as Miss Gladys Robinson, the International Women's Speed Skating Champion; Charlie Gorman, the holder of the 440-yard world's record, and Jackie Marr, the Boy Wonder, use C.C.M. Skates.

C.C.M. Skates are The Choice of the Champions because of their speedy qualities and their wonderful strength. For the same reasons, they should be your choice, too.

Whether for Hockey playing, for Racing, for Figure Skating or for Pleasure Skating, there are C.C.M. models to meet the most exacting requirements.

The Chrome Nickel Steel blades of C.C.M. Automobile Skates are practically unbreakable. Inside their hard, brilliantly finished exterior is a "core" of tough steel that makes C.C.M. Skates capable of withstanding very severe shocks and strains without snapping or bending.

Even Full of Near Beer, Siki Retains World Courtesy

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Battling Siki has weathered some rough moments in the cafes of Paris without paling, but when the near beer of Harlem's little Africa began workin on his friend Oswald, Battling Siki faded gently out of the picture and hastened for the police.

Until near beer came between them, Battling Siki and Oswald Des Vernie were the best of friends. Des Vernie held a commission in the 15th infantry, New York's negro regiment, during the war and is a man of distinction in the black belt. Oswald sells automobile and is fastidious about his raiment.

He and Siki and a third negro swaggered into Scalberd's Cafe, at 131st street and Seventh avenue, the very apex of the high life of the neighborhood, Thursday afternoon. John Elliot, the bartender, served the dress trio with near beer.

After three or four rounds of the mild beverage Battling Siki and Oswald and their friend became touchinlgly affectionate in their attitude toward each other. They stood at the bar with their arms over each other's shoulders and delivered a tripled monologue, two-thirds English and one-third French.

Siki, being the middle, with one arm over Oswald's shoulders and one over his friend's was handed goblets of near beer first by one companion and then by the other. Mr. Elliot, a white ribbon man himself, smiled at the innocent pleasure they derived from the innocuous beverages.

Suddenly Oswald reached into his pocket and produced a .44 calibre pistol. The action broke up the triple entente and dismayed Siki, at whom the weapon was inadvertently or otherwise directed, to such an extent that he fell silent, his arms upraised in horror.

His expression was that of a negro about to adjure his feet to do their duty and his legs to follow after, but even in this moment of terror Battling Siki retained his Old World courtesy. He did not leave the gathering without excusing himself, and, moreover, he presented his apology in the language of his companions.

"Me, I like play," he explained, "but to pull a gun is bad business." With that remark he was on his way. In fact, the closing of the cafe door behind him put a period to the sentence. Siki hastened to the sentence. Siki hastened to the West 135th street police station and returned presently with Detectives Boyle and Nelson. Oswald and his friend still stood at the bar, on which lay Oswald's pistol.

Elliot diplomatically motioned Siki into the rear room the two detectives placed Oswald under arrest. He was charged at the West 123rd street station with attempted felonious assault and violation of the Sullivan law. Siki, who is named as complainant, is written down on the blotter as Louis Fall, of 519 Yonkers avenue, Yonkers.

FIRPO IN DISFAVOUR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Luis Angel Firpo, the Argentine heavyweight, is no longer a national hero in his own country, according to Horatio P. Mendozan, an Argentine business man, who arrived to-day on the Pan-American. He said the projected popular reception in his honor had been abandoned.

The heavyweight's step in taking out first naturalization papers in the United States, although later trying to cancel them, had caused a feeling of resentment through the Argentine, Mr. Mendozan said.

60 Years Old, Senior Champion Is Pan Golfer in Big Tournaments

BY JOE WILLIAMS.

Hugh Halsell of Dallas, Tex., at the age of 60 shot 36 holes in 156 strokes and won the national seniors' golf championship. To be able to play tournament golf at the age of 60 is unusual. To be able to travel at a par clip over an extended stretch is remarkable.

In many respects the veteran Halsell is the most unique figure in American golf. A nervous breakdown drove him to the game at the age of 42. Prior to then he was not a player. Halsell developed a fine game and at 57 became the champion senior player of the country, shattering, among other things, the theory that to acquire rare skill one must start as a youth.

Three years pass and Halsell repeats as champion of the seniors. This times he scores a splendid 156. In 1920 when he first won his score was 162. Instead of slipping he is getting better. A six-stroke improvement is noted in the comparative figures. Incidentally, Halsell's total of 156 is a new record for the event.

He's Two Under Even 48.

Keeping his tee shots straight and playing his irons with a professional deftness the Texan was flirting with par most of the time. On his first round he scored a 77. Taking his second fling at the difficult Apawamis links he tallied a 79. His best golf played on the first nine in the first round where he was two under even 48 for six holes—a spurt that Bobby Jones might well have envied.

There were no youngsters in the tournament Halsell won. You must be 50 or better to play in the national seniors. However, Halsell is probably better than a large percentage of the youngster and young men who win club championships throughout the country. Few players in the game could afford to give him a stroke on the long holes and hope to beat him.

That's why golf is a great game, possibly the greatest of all games. It brings youth and age together on a somewhat similar basis.

We recall that Mrs Caleb Fox of Philadelphia, 60 and a grandmother of 10, defeated Glenna Collett a few months after the young Providence girl had won the national championship.

And Harry Vardon at 50 was preeminently better than any so-called boy wonder ever know to the sport

Age and Youth Meet

In what other sports are the competitive boundaries of age and youth so closely related?

No 60-year-old pitcher ever goes out and works in a world series game.

In golf the odds aren't exactly even. Over a long hike the young bloods, with stamina on their side, unruffled nerves and a keenness for the fight, will carry the main issue.

But the test is not altogether one-sided. Now and then one of the oldsters will break through with a glittering performance and sparkle just enough to show that golf is pretty much a game of all ages.

HUGH HALSELL.

MOVIE TREATS OF CRIMINAL REFORM

Operation on Brain in "Skin Deep" Reveals Startling Possibilities.

The Police Force of Peterboro need not worry about their jobs for a long time yet! The startling announcement accredited to Rev. John Roach Stratton to the effect that within a few years doctors would be rapidly replacing the police force in the war against criminals, by performing operations upon jail inmates which, when completed, would send them out solid citizens, has few supporters in Peterboro. Interviewed, representative citizens and medical men on Monday and found that all of them scoffed at the idea, although admitting that in certain cases cures might be effected.

Judge Huycke was somewhat amused when the question was laid before him. His Honor stated that he had never had any direct contact with a case where an operation sent a habitual criminal into the world a good citizen, although he had heard of a few from time to time. "In certain rare cases," he said, "it is quite possible that an operation would improve the morals of a prisoner, but in such a case the prisoner would verge toward the insane rather than the habitual criminal, I believe. A man who has inherited criminal instincts will never be made a good citizen by the use of the surgeon's knife, I believe."

Chief of Police Newhall recalled a case in which a confined kleptomaniac was cured of thieving by an operation in which a blood-clot was removed from his brain. When told of the Rev. Stratton's remarks about the police being replaced by the doctor's knife, the Chief had a hearty laugh.

"It will be a long time yet," was his comment. "I think that crime is either the result of youthful surroundings, inherited weakness, or, in some few cases, dire necessity such as when a starving man steals a loaf of bread. I don't believe that the cure for these types is found in any operating room. Of course, some cases where the trouble is purely mental, an operation is more or less effective."

Dr. A. Moir, of the City Clinic, declared that such cures as one reads about from time to time in which prisoners are set free following an operation and found to be normal in all respects, are really not cases of confirmed criminals at all. He explained that these were mostly cases where medical men could see by examination that the cause of the trouble was purely mental, due to a clot on the brain caused by a fall or some other accident. He knew of no case where a criminal, apparently sound in mind, had been made a good citizen by an operation.

Mrs. Kate Morris was another who scoffed at Dr. Stratton's remarks, but pointed out the necessity of parents taking care of their children and securing medical attention without delay where the child has had a severe fall on the head. Mrs. Morris also emphasized the value of proper training and desirable surrounding for infants as a combative against the development of viciousness. She felt that heredited criminal tendencies would require a good deal more than a surgeon's knife to cure.

Mrs. Arthur Stevenson explained that she had not read much on this subject, but felt little confidence in surgery in most cases, and believed that ideal surroundings had a great deal of influence upon the direction a child's mind developed. She favored the right bringing-up, which would eventually eliminate criminals.

Dr. Jessie Birnie, of the Babies' Clinic, was another who placed emphasis upon the influence of their surroundings on children. She did not relish the idea of having to live in a world where doctors had replaced the police, for she felt very little confidence in surgery as opposed to the gun-man.

"A new method of reforming criminals is that of hypnotism or mental suggestion," stated Dr. Birnie. "I understand that some little success is being met with in experiments along this line. However, it will be a long time yet before it has reached a practical stage, and in the meantime I strongly favor the old adage, 'bring them up in the right way and they'll be alright'."

Citizens of Peterboro who are interested in this question will find a movie that treats of a criminal who is reclaimed by an operation on his brain in "Skin Deep," which is being shown at the Capitol Theatre today and to-morrow. In this story the criminal was affected by a clot on the brain, so not even the movies support the arguments of Dr. Stratton.

GUS HILL of Gus Hill's George Evans Honey Boy Minstrels at the Grand next Saturday.

THEATRES

HONEY BOY MINISTRELS.

Gus Hill can be given the title of Theatrical Architect Par-excellence, as he has constructed a bridge of ministrelsy that reaches from the early '80s to year of 1920—a bridge of sweet songs, whistling melodies, Mississippi river romance and all the charm of minstrelsy of a bygone era. Perhaps the best reason one can give for the never ending popularity of a ministrel show lies in the fact that it is an "American Institution". Gus Hill has accomplished something that many a manager has tried, but failed in the attempt—that is—Mr. Hill has dovetailed across the break which separates the older from the modern school of ministrelsy. The old-time features are all in evidence, mingled with a number of up-to-the-minute novelties introduced by James Gorman Jr. Gus Hill's and Geo. Evans "Honey Boy" Minstrels will be hte attraction at the Grand Opera House matinee and night, Saturday, November 3. It is quite evident that Mr. Hill knows just what the American theatregoers want in the way of entertainment rendering familiar songs that are pleasing to audiences that never fail to extract joy from a ministrel performance. Probably if the same songs and dances, esembles and drills were not presented, the folks who never miss a minstrel performance would be sadly disappointed. It is a well know fact that audiences delight in the melodies that are most reminiscent songs of a quarter of a century ago. However, old "King Jazz", the monarch of American harmony, plays a prominent part in the performance. Homer Meacham and Billy Williams the famous black-face comedian are two of the principal funmakers. The management promises fifty other sorrow-defying, gloom-dispelling, joy-inspiring, laugh-provoking burnt cork celebrities.

AT THE ROYAL.

HOLD-UP MEN UNDISTURBED BY OFFICIALS AS THEY PLUNDER COACH—REASON: THEY WERE SUPERVISING SCENE FOR BIG FILM, "LOYAL LIVES."

For the first time in the history of the Mail Service, post office officials calmly stood by and watched two heavily armed, masked bandits break into a speeding train and made no attempt to stop the hold-up. Without moving a hand to interfere, these officials saw one of the desperadoes escape, while his companion seemingly went to his death by drowning in a river over which the train passed when he jumped with a mail pouch. The mail pouch was recovered by a clerk who leaped after his assailant into the channel. The post office officials even went so far as to tell the bandits how to make a neat job of it.

This seeming malfeasance on the part of postal authorities occurred in the filming of one of the remarkably thrilling scenes in "Loyal Lives," a screen romance of the Mail Service, which will be exhibited at the Royal Theatre on Tuesday.

The officials supervised the filming to make it accurate.

Tom Blake and Gil Rooney, actors, played the parts of the bandits in the picture. Brandon Tynan, Mary Carr and Faire Binney complete the all-star cast. Charles Giblyn directed the photoplay which is being distributed through Vitagraph.

Three hundred residents of adjoining towns participated in the filming of the hold-up scene. Attracted by the arrival of the film players party, they volunteered to participate and were used as "extras" to fill the passenger coaches of the mail trains.

"Loyal Lives" is a super-production portraying the life of the average Post Office Department employee in the average city. It depicts the great pathos, the tremendous heroism and the unflinching sacrifices to duty in the face of a myriad of obstacles of the postman, an unsung hero, to serve his fellowmen.

"MARRIED LOVE" BIG ENGLISH PRODUCTION AT THE ROYAL

A well-filled house greeted the opening of "Married Love," the much discussed book by Dr. Marie Stopes, famous psycho-physiologist, who has cut a wide swath in both the literary and medical world. The film has created a lot of talk in Peterboro, owing to rumors that it should not be shown but the writer fails to see anything but a moral in it. It is all well done and although the English performers are not known locally, the parts are well taken. There is much food for thought in the underlying theme and the direction of parts of the film is inspired. Last night's audience seemed to enjoy it very much and no doubt it will be the subject of much conversation today. Two half-hour comedies, "Roll Along" and "Dropped from the Clouds," are both clever and a Canadian Travelog completes what we would call very satisfactory entertainment.

AT THE CAPITOL.

Milton Sills, one of the most popular of screen actors, and deservedly so, for he gives to his characterizations a sincerity and force that make them very likeable, is the hero of "Skin Deep," an entertaining and worth-while feature picture of the Capitol Theatre for the first three days of this week.

It is a drama of the underworld, of the crook whose courage takes him to the battlefields of Europe, whose wandering morals bring him back to crooked ways after the war whose crooked face comes straight through an accident, and whose crooked soul comes fine and true through the fires of sacrifice. A story with an intriguing twist, it has as a main woman character a wife who betrays her husband into the hands of his enemies. Florence Vidor 'plants the evidence which sends her husband to prison then urges him on to escape so that he may kill the District Attorney who threatens herself and accomplices. The escape is a thrilling affair, with the convict leaping from the top of a moving train to catch the trailing ladder of an aeroplane. Thrown from his hold later he sustains the accident which eventually straightens out his crooked countenance and brings him happiness at last. It is an interesting picture with a novel twist to an old subject, and the art of Milton Sills to make it outstanding good.

The first pictures of the Japanese catastrophe are vivid delineations of the horrors of earthquake and fire and there is an amusing comedy, "Hurry Up," involving a hotel elevator and its 'nutty' patrons.

ISSUE NEW FORM OF MONEY ORDER

After November 1 the postoffice department will issue a new form of money order to United States which, it is believed, will be more economical than the one in present usage, local officials say.

The salient point about the new form is that it is payable without advice. At present a carbon copy of the money order issued to the purchaser is forwarded to the paying station, and identification is secured by means of comparing the signature of the payee on the two forms. The new order resembles the United States money order, being in check form with a coupon attached in which will appear the number, amount and date of issue. A safety margin is part of the order and the figures remaining on the order shall be the same or for the next higher amount than that marked in the body of the order in words. The purpose of this marginal check system is to prevent loss through fraudulent alteration.

On the face of the new order, directly to the right of the safety margin, is stamped the words "War Tax Paid." Postage stamps to the value of two cents or four cents, according to the amount for which the money order is drawn, will therefore not be affixed to the new form of order.

EAST

Japan had only 12,500 licensed autos before the earthquake. Inadequate roads. On the other hand, we Americans have over 13 million autos.

Three-fourths of the cars sold in Japan are Fords. A man loses his social standing over there if he drives his own car. Custom decrees that he must have a chauffeur.

East is East and West is West, all right. If the twain ever do meet, a wide gap to bridge.

A THOUGHT

When the righteous are in authority, the people rejoice; but when the wicked beareth rule, the people mourn.—Prov. 29:2.

Authority intoxicates,
And makes mere sots of magistrates;
The fumes of it invade the brain,
And make men giddy, proud and vain;
By this the fool commands the wise;
The noble with the base complies;
The sot assumes the role of wit,
And cowards make the base submit.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR
Some untruths are so absurd, that they require quite a few additional untruths to make them appear at all plausible. Take for example the denial of the scriptural declaration, "the soul that sinneth shall die." Not only the heathen nations, but a large portion of so called Christian nations practically and emphatically say "the soul that sinneth will not die.' They say man (who is a living soul) cannot die, that death is not real only an illusion. This false doctrine is widely propagated by many and goes to prove something very serious, in regard to those who do so. They are in reality taking the word of Satan "Ye shall not surely die" Gen. 3:4; instead of the word of Jehovah God "thou shall surely die" Gen. 2:17. —M. T. Butcher.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

To the Editor of The Examiner,—

Dear Sir,—The recent awards for life-saving recall the fact that John Murphy of Smith street, whose record is a long and very brave one still goes without any public recognition. The Examiner has done its full share in calling public attention to the matter and I brought it directly to the attention to the matter and I brought it directly, to the attention of the city but so far nothing has been done. Others get recognition but Murphy gets nothing What is the matter? I appeal to G. N. Gordon, M.P. and Mr. W. H. Bradburn M.P.P., to take this matter up. Private parties do not represent the public and it is the public that is called upon to take notice of these courageous and self-sacrificing acts. —J. H. Burnham.

MANY ESCAPES WINNIPEG FIRE THIS MORNING

Eight Persons Were Injured and Forty Others Narrowly Escape Death

BUILDING GUTTED

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 31.—(Canadian Press. — Eight persons, one of them a fireman, were injured, and at least forty others narrowly escaped death, in a fire which swept through the Hammond Building, a five-storey office structure on Albert street, this morning. The unconscious men and women were carried down ladders to safety. It is expected everyone in the building escaped.

B. A. Brandon, of Toronto, was slightly burned about the face and partially asphyxiated by smoke.

James Shields, elevator operator, in the building, had not been accounted for at noon. There was a report that he had been seen after the fire, but the police were unable to trace it.

At one p'm. the fire was brought under control, and it was believed the loss would total in the neighbourhood of $250,000.

PETERBORO CASE FOR AUTO REPAIR

Case Heard Yesterday in The Court of Appeal.

TORONTO, Oct 31.—The Court of Appeal yesterday afternoon dismissed an appeal brought by S. T. Medd, Esq., of Peterborough, on behalf of James E. Carter, formerly a used-car salesman, of Peterborough, against White & Ackford, garage and repair men.

Mr. Carter had taken his automobile to White & Ackford for repairing, and he claimed that an agreement had been made to repair it for $150.00, and to furnish parts necessary; while White & Ackford claimed they were entitled to the regular charges and refused to give up the car until their bill was paid.

Mr. Carter then brought an action for $1,500.00 damages, of which $1,000.00 was for the value of the car, and $500.00 damages for detention; and White & Ackford resisted the claim, and calimed their bill for repairs.

Judge Huycke, of Peterborough, gave judgment for White & Ackford, for $230.00 and costs, and this appeal was from Judge Huycke's judgment. The Court of Appeal was unanimous in dismissing Mr. Carters' appeal, with costs, and allowing White & Ackford the same amount that Judge Huycke awarded them in judgment at trial.

Mr. G. N. Gordon, K.C., of Peterborough, appeared for White & Ackford.

FINDS SPIRITS OF NEXT WORLD QUITE ELUSIVE

Scientist Malcolm Bird's Long Study Convinces Him That No Communication Whatever Exists

PHENOMENA PSYCHIC

NEW YORK, October 31. — Exhaustive research over a period of itism and psychic phenomena has many months into the realm of spirled J. Malcolm Bird, associate editor of The Scientific American, and secretary of the Committee of American Scientists, that has been investigating such phenomena for more than a year, two two definite conclusions.

On the one hand, he finds no evidence that communication between the living and the dead has been established, nor any demonstration of the survival or activity on the physical plane of deceased humans. On the other hand, he declares that some of the phenomena he has witnessed were genuinely psychic, and that telepathy, or subconscious communication between minds does exist.

Mr. Bird, formerly a professor of Columbia University, has given virtually all of his time in the last year to this work As an official of the scientific committee he has taken part in many test seances. In addition he has travelled over the greater part of the United States and much of Europe, searching for evidence. His experiences and findings are included in a volume which he calls "My Psychic Adventures," published this week by the Scientific American Publishing Company.

Much of the investigation carried on by Mr. Bird was done in connection with research by The Scientific American. Early this year he went to Europe and sat with the leading mediums in England and in France and in Germany. Sir Arthur Conan Doyle introduced him in England, and he spent much time in seance circles. In this country he has had seances with Ada Bessinet in Toledo, George Valentine of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and Mrs. Josie Stwart of Cleveland.

Through all his investigations Mr. Bird says he has tried to act merely as a scientist and with a wide open mind, but speaking of what he calls his "emotional preference," he says it makes no difference to him whether physical phenomena do or do not occur, but it does make a difference through what agency they occur. His emotional preference is therefore, he says, "against any explanation involving the action on this sphere of departed humans."

"Doing all I can to discount this preference," he continues, "I am still unable to find that anything whatever has occurred in my presence that is in the last degree demonstrative of survival and communication and activity on the physical plane by deceased humans. Beyond one seance, I must say that I find nothing in my experiences which, of itself, would constitute very strong evidence against the spirit hypothesis. But, bringing all my experience together, I regard the probabilities as overwhelmingly in favour of some other explanation for whatever psychic phenomena, subjective and objective alike, may occur."

Against this conclusion and subjected to the many reservations which Mr. Bird admits he puts in its way, he says:

"Of all the physical phenomena which I have witnessed, there are many for whose fraudulent production, under the given conditions, I can without serious difficulty, see a way. There are many more for whose production by fraud I can still see a way, but only with serious difficulty—that is to say, so far as I can see, to account for them in this fashion one would have to make assumptions so far-fetched that the question would arise whether they were not more objectionable than the outright hypothesis that some psychic force was at work. And finally there are many for whose fraudulency, under the given conditions, I can conceive no possible way.

"It is understood that I do not know all there is to know about fraud and sleight of hand. But making due allowances for this, it is my best judgment that of physical manifestations that baffled me altogether or forced me to make objectionable assumptions in the effort to explain them as due to fraud, I have been enough to establish a good degree of probability that some of them were genuine psychic phenomena."

In every seance in which there was scope for it, Mr. Bird declares, he observed the most amazing precision of movement in the dark. On the other hand, a medium who, according to Mr. Bird, was too ignorant to employ trickery, has struck a high level of performance from the beginning with no chance for preparation. Mr. Bird says that for

A TAXLESS TOWN FOR FUTURE GENERATIONS

Novel Plan in Municipal Finance to Unshackle All Tax Fetters Forever — A Two-Fold Plan

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 31.—No taxes to pay!

Smacks Utopian and too good to be true.

But under a novel plan in municipal finance just gotten under way here, this city hopes to realize the vision a century hence.

True, the first 100 years will be the hardest.

But after they have run their course, Milwaukee expects to unshackle all tax fetters forever, and thus provide a nice little altruistic present for its progeny.

Between 20 and 50 years from now, the city will no longer have a bonded debt, and taxes even then, will have started on their downward course.

All this will be brought about through the medium of a gradual amortization scheme, aimed to retire all the city's indebtedness and make it a municipal Croesus, in a few decades.

As the plan has been conceived, operating expenses of the city will be defrayed as the years go on, by interest accumulating in a two-fold fund invested in conservative securities.

Two-Fold Plan.

One is the Civic Foundation, established through the efforts of Mayor Daniel Hoan, with Oliver C. Fuller, president of the First Wisconsin National Bank, appointed as its head.

This organization begins to function January 1, 1924.

It provides an opportunity for the wealthy to make besuests and donations to the city for the benefit of future taxless generations, in a perpetual private gift to remain intact.

The second source is a public trust fund, accumulated from surplus city revenue.

This fund has been given a start of $400,000, which will be increased by about $250,000 a year, representing interest on the city's bank account.

For the first 25 years the city will receive annually 25 per cent. of the interest from the fund of the Civic Foundation; 50 per cent. during the next 25 years and 87½ per cent.

after the first 50 years. All interest held back will remain in the fund to be compounded.

Let Money Grow.

Interest from various city funds in banks has heretofore gone into the general fund, to help lower taxes a little. Now, this interest is to be re-invested, to help, through accrued interest, the amortization fund.

Diverting this interest from the general fund will not increase present taxes over 35 cents per $1,000 assessed valuation, so no protest is expected from Mr. Taxpayer, in view of the fund being created.

The present generation, therefore, will pay a trifle more in taxes, but it will postpone some of the heavy expenditures through the issues of bonds for the future generation to pay. The plan will be a guarantee of lower taxes each year as the fund accumulates and the future generation will find itself favorably situated through the amortization plan.

Has Good Start.

The fund, which starts with $650,000 on Jan. 1, will pass the million mark in 1926. In 10 years, it is estimated, it will reach $3,500,000, and by 1943 nearly $16,500,000. Accounting officials predict the city then will be without any indebtedness whatever.

Forty years from now the tax rate will be one-third what it is now. Some years later there will be no taxes at all. After 50 years of putting $250,000 into the fund annually, this may be stopped and merely the interest turned back. Fifty years more of this and the total fund will amount to $432,143,478.21.

The interest on this tidy little sum would pay all the taxes. So in 2033 Milwaukee won't be such a bad place in which to live.

FAIR WEATHER CLOSING DAYS

Calgary Was The Coldest Place in Canada Last Night.

TORONTO, Oct. 31.—(Canadian Press).—With the exception of the Maritime Provinces, where rain is falling to-day, the Dominion is experiencing fair and for the most part cold weather for the closing day of a glorious October.

Calgary, with a temperature of 12 degrees during the night above zero, was the coldest place in Canada to report to the Meteorological Office here, while Halifax with 52, recorded the highest temperature during the night. The maximum temperature of 58 was reported from three widely separately points—Calgary, Kingston and Halifax. In Ontario the mercury went under the freezing mark at Sault Ste. Marie, Kingston and Ottawa, touching 22 at the latter point, six degrees lower than Montreal.

Slight snow flurries are reported in northern and north-western Ontario. Toronto had its first snow flurry of the season this morning, lasting about five minutes.

SOMETHING NEW IN ADVERTISING

Attractive Little House Makes Home For Betty Brown Chocolates.

For some time past, an advertising innovation has been attracting much favorable comment in the drug store premises of McDermid & Jury. As a mode for displaying the Betty Brown chocolates, for which this firm has the agency in the city, the makers have put out a very attractive little house, whose pure white frame walls, chocolate-colored small door, and tiny windows draped with stimulated curtains, make a dainty base for the triple white shelves above which form the second storey and hold samples of different dainty Betty Brown confections.

On the little white shelves are arranged various delectable tidbits, in chocolates, large and small, with soft and hard centres, in paper-wrapped carmel dainties, in cream bon-bons in all the tints of the rainbow.

The original advertising novelty occupies a small space and draws the attention at once, in its simple color scheme and unique effect.

FIGHT REVOLVER DUEL IN CORRIDOR OF HOTEL ESCAPED CONVICT SHOT

Fugitive Wounds Man Who Says He "Gave Away" One of Six Who Made Their Escape From Jail With Him.

WOMEN SEE BATTLE

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Two men were wounded in a pistol duel in a corridor of the Hotel Langwell, 123 West Forty-Fourth Street, near Broadway. One of them, Thomas J. Gillen, 23 years old, of Philadelphia, was shot three times in the abdomen. He was reported at Bellevue Hospital to be dying. The other, Joseph F. McLean, of 447 State Street, Brooklyn, was wounded five times, getting bullets in the jaw, arm, hand, side and chest. He will recover.

More interesting to the police than the shooting was the fact that the duel gave them, in Gillen, the leader of six convicts who on the morning of July 14 escaped from Eastern Penitentiary, Philadelphia, after beating two guards, they climbed over the yard wall with an improvised ladder and rope, stole a motor truck at revolver points, and compelled a driver they kidnapped to accompany them in his automobile to Elkton, Md., where they tied and gagged him in the woods after having held up a Delaware farmhouse and bound and gagged its occupants.

The police were somewhat indefinite in their theories as to the cause of the shooting, but McLean made it plain that he had been intent on Gillen's life, accusing Gillen of being a "squealer" who had enabled the police to arrest James Brown, another of the fugitive convicts, in a Brooklyn rooming-house last Friday.

Send For Dying Man's Mother.

A Philadelphia woman, it was said, gave to the police information on which Brown was arrested, but McLean insisted Gillen was the informer. Whether the woman who gave the information was one of those living at the hotel with the duelists the police would not divulge. They said that the woman living there with Gillen was known as Julia, of Philadelphia, and that she had served a term for shoplifting.

Though violently abusive toward each other on their adjoining cots in the prison ward of Bellevue Hospital, and later on adjoining operating tables, neither Gillen nor McLean would give any information to the police. In an effort to induce Gillen to talk, the police have sent to Philadelphia for his mother, Mrs. Thomas Brown.

Gillen, according to the police, spent the last several weeks in New York engaging in a number of hold-ups that netted him the funds with which he lived in comfortable style, and which paid for bottles of champagne found strewn in the rooms of the duellists.

When Gillen and Brown, abandoning the other four fugitives in Maryland, came to New York they met a man named Watson, believed to have been McLean. For a time they concealed themselves in a Broadway hotel. Then they went to the home of Thomas Finn, in Waverly Avenue, Brooklyn. Finn eventually took them to a furnished room at 338 Schermerhorn Street, Brooklyn. There the police last Friday night arrested Brown as a fugitive from justice, and Finn for concealing a fugitive from justice. Finn eventually was accused of a hold-up in which Gillen engaged.

Duel Follows Drinking Party.

Gillen was absent from the house when the detectives arrived. So was McLean, who had been a frequent visitor. A few days ago McLean and Gillen took rooms under assumed names with women posing as their wives at the Hotel Langwell. Apparently they were on good terms. But detectives believe that McLean was pretending friendship, and, believing Gillen had given the information leading to Brown's capture, was waiting for an opportunity to kill Gillen.

After an all-night drinking party, Gillen and McLean, occupying opposite rooms on the ninth floor, quarreled, McLean calling Gillen a "squealer." Each drew a pistol. Twelve shots were fired from their slightly opened doors. The two women dodged down the corridor into the street and escaped.

An elevator operator who saw the duel hurried to the main floor and notified Manager William Howard. While Howard hastened upstairs the elevator boy ran to the street and called Traffic Policeman Michael Roach. They found McLean barely conscious on the floor of his room. Across a bed on the eleventh floor was Gillen. He pointed a pistol at Roach, but he was so weak he could not pull the trigger. "I've had enough battle," he gasped, relinquishing the weapon.

Howard told Gillen he was dying and suggested a priest. Gillen declined. At the hospital, where he was told again he would die, he admitted that the name he had given to the police, Luke McDonald, was fictitious. He gave his right name and asked that his mother and brother in Philadelphia be notified. It was then that the police surmised he was an escaped convict. They fingerprinted him under difficulties. Though almost unconscious, he

CHIEF REASON FOR LIMITING NEW PARLEY

TO WIDEN SCOPE

LONDON, Oct. 31. — (United Press).—A desire to cooperate with the United States is understood to be the chief reason which moved the British Government to accept the proposal for a restricted reparations conference.

It is stated here in sources close to the Government that England finally decided to continue in the movement for a reparations inquiry because the United States appeared over the conference so enthusiastically, although the British resent the French attitude and fear Poincare's attitude will nullify the project. Now that Britain is alligned with the United States in carrying out the modified Hughes' plan, it is hoped here, that Anglo American cooperation may accomplish something in the face of what the British term French obstruction.

In the meantime the government has begun conversations with Paris with the aim of widening the scope of activities to be undertaken by the committee of experts. So far it is plain hat London does not share Washington's receptive frame of mind on the Poincare restrictions.

It is felt that, however, every effort should be made to meet any gesture from America that promises co-operation in settling European troubles.

RELATIVE VALUE OF WATER ROUTE

Millers Give Evidence before the Crain Commission Today.

TORONTO, Oct .31. — Relative value of improved canal system operating in connection with the deep waterways of the St. Lawrence route and other grain routes, were subjects of discussion before the grain commission to-day. Further complaints of the millers as to the character of the grain received also added zest to the sessions to-day.

Major A. C. Lewis, M.L.A., secretary of the Canadian Deep Waterways Association, discussed at length the advantages of the deep waterways project, and was cross-questioned vigorously. He insisted that Hydro power developed by the canal projects would pay the cost ultimately of construction, and the Hydro market for energy was unlimited.

A. C. McLeod, miller of Stratford, described what he termed "dirty wheat," received, especially by water, from Fort William.

That coming by rail from Fort William was much cleaner. He especially complained of shipment of wheat which had some burnt and blackened kernels in it. It smelled so bad that losses were met in flour milled from that source. Claims for damages were made and adjusted. It was No. 1 Northern. He refused to say when questioned that he believed this cargo came from a mixing house or if mixing houses were abolished such troubles of the millers would be abated.

EFFORT TO CAPTURE MUCH WANTED MA

Newspaper Offers $1,000 For Apprehension of the Melbourne Bank Robber.

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 31.—Descriptions of George Ernest (Pat) Norton with the announcement of The Advertiser's $1,000 reward for his capture before January 1, 1924, will be broadcasted all over Canada and United States by Chief Robert Birrell of the London Police Department.

Chief Birrell has signified his willingness to aid in the capture of the notorious Melbourne bank robber in every possible way.

The posters containing a picture of Norton and a full description of him will be printed immediately and sent out by Chief Birrell.

"No time will be lost in the matter," stated Chief Birrell.

"The Advertiser is to be greatly commended for the public-spirited action it is taking towards bringing Norton to justice, and I am willing to do what I can in the matter."

ANDREW BONAR LAW TO BE BURIED ON MONDAY

LONDON, October 31 (Canadian Press). — The body of Andrew Bonar Law, former Prime Minister of Great Britain, will be buried in Westminster Abbey at noon next Monday, it was decided to-day.

The funeral service will be fully choral, conducted by the Dean.

It is believed that the body will be cremated before the funeral, and that the grave will be somewhere in the nave of the Abbey.

IMAGINATION AND FUN DOMINATE HALLOWEEN' THE "NUTCRACK NIGHT

Wins Award

This year's Nobel prize has been conferred on Dr. F. G. Banting of the medical department of the University of Toronto for his gift to humanity through the discoverey of insulin adjudged a successful treatment for diabetes.

But Police Are Prepared To Argue Point With Local Fairies and Witches Whose Pranks Assume a Destructive Nature.

OLD SUPERSTITIONS

There is perhaps no night in the year which the popular imagination has stamped with a more peculiar character than this evening, known as Hallowe'en.

The leading idea respecting Hallowe'en is that it is the time, of all others, when supernatural influences prevail. Divination is believed to-night to attain its highest power, and the gift asserted by Glendower of calling spirits "from the vatsy deep" becomes available to all who choose to avail themselves of the privilege of the occasion.

There is a remarkable uniformity in the fireside customs of the night all over the world. Nuts and apples are everywhere in requisition and consumed in immense numbers.

Hallowe'en is known as "Nutcrack Night" in the North of England, indicating the predominance of the former of these articles in making up the entertainment of the night. They are not only cracked and eaten, but made the means of vaticination in love affairs.

Burns' poem, "Hallowe'en," describes the scene:

"The auld guidwife's well-hoordit nits
Are round and round divided;
And mony lads' and lasses' fates
Are there that night decided.
Some kindle, couthie, side by side,
And burn thegither trimly;
Some start awa' wi' saucy pride
And jump out-owre the chamly
Fu' high that night.
Fu' hight that night."

This superstition holds that if the nut placed on the bars of the grate cracks or jumps, the lover for whom it is named will prove unfaithful; if it begins to blaze or burn, he has a regard for the person making the trial. If the nuts named after the girl and her lover burn together, they will be married.

Games With Apples.

As to apples, the grand sport of the evening is to set them afloat in a tub of water, into which the juveniles, and often their elders, duck their heads with the object of catching an apple. Some plunge manfully overhead in pursuit of a particular apple, and having forced it to the bottom of the tub, seize it firmly in their teeth and emerge, dripping and triumphant, with their prize.

In recent years a practice has been introduced, probably by some careful mothers, of dropping a fork from a height into the tub among the apples; but this is but an indifferent substitute for the joyous merriment of "dookin'" and diving.

The use of nuts and apples on Hallowe'en comes from the Roman feast on 1st November to Pomona, the goddess of fruits and seeds, the stores laid in the summer for winter use being opened on that day.

The Druids also conducted a great feast at this time called the Autumn Festival to the Sun, in which they celebrated in thanksgiving for their harvest.

Some Superstitions.

If a young lady will mount the stairs backward to-night, enter a dark room alone and look in a mirror, she will see there the face of her future husband. If she desires to know whether she will ever be married, she must put two bowls on a table, one filled with water, one empty. Then, blindfolded, she must turn round three times and put out her finger. The spirits that are abroad will guide it to the right bowl, and if it is empty she will remain a spinster, but if it is full she will be happily married.

If she wishes to know her lover's initials she must peel an apple and swing the apple peeling three times around her head, then let it fall so as to represent his initial and though none else can see it, she will.

A method that is supposed to be infallible is to put a glass of water on a table by the bedside. When she sleeps she will dream of falling from a bridge into a river. A young man will dive in and save her, and his face will be the face of her true lover.

Stunts for Tonight.

All kinds of stunts can be arranged to make a merry Hallowe'en party, taking only a few minutes in

COLLIES HEAD LIST IN CITY

Are More Numerous Than Any Other Kind With Hounds Second.

There are over 500 dogs of all kinds in Peterboro, according to the police records of licenses issued. These cover all kinds of animals from those classified as mongrels to the aristocratic Spitz, and from the perky Pomeranian to the massive St. Bernard, but Collies are by far the most popular dogs. Many who appear at the police station to register their dogs of unknown ancestry are quite as proud of them as others are of their setters and prize terriers.

Eighty Collies have been registered this year, and the next highest is 63, the high mark for Hounds. Spaniels were next, numbering 49, and Boston Bull Terriers were not far behind with 47. Fox Terriers were well up in the list, 43 being registered; Airedales numbered 34 and Pomeranians and Mongrels were close with 24 and 23 respectively. Dogs for which no classification was given numbered 15, and plain terriers appeared with a force of 14. Beagle Hounds were registered to a total of 12; Cockerel Spaniels numbered 8, the same as French Poodles. There are 5 Irish Terriers in the city, and Belgian Police Dogs and Newfoundlands number 4 each. Toy-Terriers, English Bulls and Bull Terriers muster 3 each, while Bulldogs, St. Bernards, Scotch Terriers, Wire Hair Terriers, Yorkshires, Poodles, Spitz, Coach and Red Cockerels number 2 each.

There is only one each of the following: Water Spaniel, Pekingese, Black Spaniel, Buff Spaniel, Scotch Collie, Yorkshire Terrier, French Bull, Huskie, Fox Hound, Red Spaniel, Rat Terrier, Irish Setter, and Shepherd.

One dog was entered as "Dinty Moore," without intimation as to his classification in the "Who's Who" of dogs.

In all, 513 licenses have been taken out this year, some of them for kennels. Seven kennels are registered, each including several dogs.

NEWS FROM LAKEFIELD REVEALS MANY EVENTS

Young People Had Social Evening—Water Needed In the North Country.

LAKEFIELD, Oct 31.—The regular meeting of the Young People's League of the Methodist church was held on Monday evening in the basement of the church and was well attended. After the business was disposed of a committee, composed of G. Warren Payne, fourth vice-president, and Mr. and Mrs. Elwood N. Northey entertained the company with a Hallowe'en surprise party. The appropriate decorations and the numerous dainty surprises provided the company with one of the jolliest evenings ever spent in the village. The increased interest and growing enthusiasm for the league work is very marked and the prospect is for a splendid season's work.

On Sunday night, near Phalen's Corners, two motor cars collided with disastrous results, as both cars are very badly damaged, but luckily the occupants were unhurt. One car was owned by John Trennum of Peterborough and the other by D. H. Charlton, of Lakefield.

Held At Home.

The first At Home of the Catholic Woman's League for this season was held in the Hotel Lakefield on Tuesday night and in spite of adverse weather conditions, was a great success, guests being present from Douro, Ennismore and Peterborough as well as the village. The evening was spent in cards and dancing and was very enjoyable. Music for the round dances was provided by Hendren's orchestra and for the square dances by Mr. Victor at the piano and Mr. T. Sullivan with the violin. The decorations were suggestive of the Hallowe'en season, and both young and old spent one of the jolliest evenings ever spent in the village. The reputation of these C.W.L. At Homes is widespread and there is always a particularly nice crowd. Bountiful refreshments were served at midnight, after which dancing was resumed for an hour or two longer.

Mrs. R. Miles passed away suddenly on Tuesday, October 30th, at the home of her sister, Mrs. W. J. Little, on Prospect street. Mrs. Miles had not been well for a few days and was visiting her sister when her death occurred. The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon and proceed to Warsaw cemetery for interment.

The need of rain is still very great in many parts of the country, as there are so many dry wells, and in many cases the farmers are driving their stock several miles for water and drawing it for home use. This has been felt so much in the Selwyn district that it is feared that the making of cheese will have to be discontinued. This is a very unusual condition of affairs.

On Thursday night an athletic tournament will be held in the rink, under the auspices of the soft ball league The final game of the league between the Grove and the Firemen will be played off and there will be a series of good races run off, which includes an open half mile race, girls' and boys 'races, obstacle race and tug-of-war .The committee is composed by Dr .M. P. Kennedy, Dr. S. J. Gibson, J. J. MacFadden, J. R. Hill and E. H. Northey.

The story of "Alice in Wonderland," illustrated with lantern slides, is to be told in St. John's Sunday school room on Friday, Nov. 2nd. The entertainment is primarily for the children of St John's Sunday school ,but any children who like to hear stories and see pictures will be welcome. On the last occasion one of these picture stories was told well over 100 youngsters were present.

A vestry meeting of the members of St. John's Anglican church is to be held on Monday, November 5th, to consider the question of a successor to the Rev .C. Grant King, whose appointment to Coldwater was announced in a recent issue of the Gazette and whose resignation as priest in charge of St. John's church takes effect on November 30th.

Anglican Church Mission.

The members of St. John's church are looking forward to the mission which is to be held from Sunday, Nov .11th to 18th. The Rev. R. Seaborne of Toronto, is to be the missioner who will hold special services throughout the week. A personal letter from Mr. Seaborn has been received by all the members of the congregation, inviting them to make the mission, so far as the human element is concerned, a success, by prayer and presence.

The Methodist League are putting on a series of four moving pictures from the Manger to the Grave, which will be given in the Methodist church on the first Tuesday night of November, January and February.

IMAGINATION AND

preparation. When the guests arrive, a sheet-draped ghost can stand at the door and flash a light on a notice reading, "Follow the Rope." The rope leads them to the top of the stairs, dimly lighted by pumpkins and skeleton lanterns, while someone makes unearthly sounds with a bow string and a metal tub.

At the stair head stands a witch, who compels each guest to take the following vow:

"I promise that I will not shirk
My part in Hallowe'en merry work;
In all the fun I'll do my share
To make it an evening beyond compare."

Blindfolded, they are then taken into the room of the party.

The superstitions mentioned above may be adapted to a party by giving a lady a folded paper on which one of the following conundrums is written while the gentleman is given the answer.

What nut grows close to the sea? (Beechnut.)

What nut grows the lowest? (Groundnut.)

What nut has the colour of a girl's eyes? (Hazelnut.)

What nut is good for a naughty child? (Hickory.)

What nut is like an oft-told tale? (Chestnut.)

What nut grows on the Amazon? (Brazil nuts.)

What nut is like a Chinamans eyes? (Almond.)

What nut is like a good cow? (Butter.)

Another game is to hide some nuts, a ring, a thimble, and a copper. The one who finds the most nuts will be the luckiest during the coming year; the thimble indicates single blessedness; the ring a speedy marriage; and the copper, wealth.

Chief Walks, Too.

With witches and mischief-making elves abroad to-night, it is natural that humans should be imbued with the spirit of the occasion, and here is where 1923, in the form of Chief of Police Newhall, steps on the customs of centuries.

Putting fire crackers into letter-boxes and hallways, removing gates from their hinges, breaking fences, and smashing of glass are prohibited. The police are prepared to argue the point with fairies and witches alike. They will not travel on brooms to the scene of trouble, but have secured extra automobiles and men, and are fully determined to lock up any offenders.

Chief Newhall said that the trouble is usually caused by rowdy boys returning from parties, and if any disturbance is caused to-night, outside of innocent fun, the offenders will be locked up until Magistrate Langley appears to-morrow morning in Court.

CORNED BEEF.

When boiling corned beef, add a small onion, a bit of ginger, a few cloves and several bay leaves to improve the flavor.

FALL OF STRESEMANN COALITION PREDICTED AS WEDNESDAY CRISIS

Socialist Ministers Expected to Resign as Protest Against Government's Policy Toward Saxon Communists.

NATIONALISTS ACTIVE

BERLIN, Oct. 31.—It seems extremely improbable laste night that the 'great coalition" government can survive to-day. Events in Saxony are responsible for a new crisis which it is believed can hardly be surmounted by negotiations.

In well-informed quarters it was stated that the Cabinet headed by Chancellor Stresemann likely would fall through th, withdrawal of the Socialist ministers as a protest against the Government's policy toward the former Communist-Socialist Cabinet in Saxony.

Leaders of the Socialist Party in the Reichstag were conferring to de cide whether, in view of the events in Saxony further collaboration by the Socialists with the Government is advisable. All present indications are that their decision will be adverse and that the Socialist Ministers, Sollmann, Radbruch and Schmidt, who hold respectively the portfolios of Interior Justice and Reconstruction, will resign.

The situation will be definitely de cided to-day at a conference of the Executive Council of the Socialist Party and Reichstag members.

Nationalists Armed

A sensational story of Nationalist military preparations in Bavaria was furnished by the usually reliable "Socialist Parliamentary Service," which asserts that large forces of fully armed Nationalists supplied with heavy guns, have been distributed along the Saxon and Bavarian frontiers with Bambert as their base It was said that at Bambert they have supplies vehicles, artillery, machine guns and also airplanes bearing the Swastika emblems of Captain Ehrhardt, of Kapp Putsch fame against whom a warrant for arrest is still out. Ehrhardt is said to be playing a prominuent part in training these illegal forces. The Government is investigating the truth of the Socialist allegations.

Socialists to Resign

Late last night it was stated that the three Socialist ministers of the cabinet had already notified the Executive Council of the Socialist Party of their intention to resign, but that the Council asked them to postpone such a step pending today's conference. One reason for the requested delay was a desire on the part of the Socialist leaders to await developments in Saxony.

CANADIAN FLOUR GOES TO GERMANY

Better Quality and Also Better Terms of Payment.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—(Canadian Press).—Canadian flour is giving United States flour sharp competition in the German market, partly because of its quality, but also in consequence of the fact that Canadian mills are satisfied to accept payment in cash documents at Hamburg, whereas United States mills will only sell against sight draft New York, says a report received by the United States Department of Agriculture from its commissioner in Berlin.

WHITNEY MONUMENT.

TORONTO, Oct. 31.—Work upon the monument to the late Sir James Whitney, which was abandoned last year by the Drury government, is now to be undertaken, Premier Ferguson stated yesterday. The Premier said that a sculptor had been retained and that the monument would be placed on the east side of Queen's Park.

UNIVERSITY APPOINTMENT.

SASKATOON, Sask., Oct. 31.—(Canadian Press). — Dr. George Weir, who has been appointed Professor of Education and Psychology at the University of British Columbia, is at present Principal of the Saskatoon Normal School.

CHURCH UNIONISTS ARE ON THE TRAIL

No More Controversy, But Joint Campaign of Education.

TORONTO, Oct. 31.—(Canadian Press).—"Church Unionists have struck camp and are on the march." This was the announcement made yesterday afternoon after a joint meeting of Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational representatives from various parts of Ontario to plan for a joint campaign of education and inspiration in preparation for the forthcoming United Church of Canada. It was stated that the Union movement had entered into a new phase; controversy was past. There was going to be no more discussion on the question of whether Union is to be or not to be. It was assumed that the question had been decided and had merely to be put into effect.

WILL NOT EXEMPT INSULIN FROM TAX

King Administration Makes This Announcement, But Premier Ferguson Protests.

TORONTO, Oct. 31.—(Canadian Press). — Notice has been received by the Ontario Government from the King administration at Ottawa to the effect that insulin cannot be exempted from the special levies of the Federal authorities, and that it will have to pay a sales tax in common with other commodities. Premier Ferguson, in a statement made upon the matter yesterday, said that the Ontario Government would lodge a strong protest against the import.

Since its discovery, insulin has never been commercialized, but is manufactured at the Connaught laboratories and distributed free to those who are not able to pay for it, and at a cost to those who are.

"Insulin," Premier Ferguson pointed out in regard to the matter, "is not sold for profit, but is distributed at a cost for the relief of the sick. The free distribution will cost the Province in the neighborhood of $50,000 this year."

In Premier Ferguson's opinion, a discovery of the nature of insulin should not be regarded as a source of revenue where the Canadian people were concerned, but should be made as available as possible to the sufferers to whom it will be beneficial.

PREMIER KING MADE A REPLY

Says Taxpayers of Canada Need a Compassionate Allowance More Than Stockholders.

LONDON, Oct. 31. — (Canadian Press).—The request of junior stockholders of the Grand Trunk Railway for a compassionate allowance has been decided.

Yesterday, Lord Askwith, chairman of the junior stockholders' committee, had a long private conference with Premier King, Sir Lomar Gouin and Hon. Geo. P. Graham, and he submitted to them the junior stockholders' case.

Lord Askwith, it is understood, made no legal claim, but pressed for compassionate allowance. He was informed that the Canadian Government is not prepared under present circumstances to entertain such a claim. The taxpayers of Canada, Lord Askwith was told, were entitled to a compassionate allowance. Canada had taken over the road to prevent it going into bankruptcy.

Girls Seek Wages Of Bricklayers

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—A score of young women paraded through the financial district Monday in a campaign to enlist office clerks in the Bookkeepers' and Stenographers' Union, which has as its objective the enrolling of 400,000 "white collar" workers in New York City. They distributed pamphlets calling upon clerks to unionize in order to "get bricklayers' wages."

Employees who were questioned admitted the drive might get results, but added the time was inopportune as many banks and other financial institutions were cutting their forces.

Ernest Bolm, manager of the union, said a fund of $100,000 was under way to finance the white collar union.

MOVING GRAIN TO VANCOUVER

Record Loadings By Both Railways For the Pacific Port.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 31.—Handling the heaviest loadings in its history the record movement of grain to the port of Vancouver continues and far surpasses the corresponding period of 1922 ,according to information obtained at local railway offices to-day. Since the commencement of the crop year, Sept. 1 the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways have loaded 3,127 cars on the Prairies for the coast port.

Total loadings for the prairies aggregated 2,361 cars on Monday and marketings amounted to 4,190,406 bushels.

MOST FOR BUFFALO.

FORT WILLIAM, Oct. 31.—Six out of twelve boats which cleared with grain yesterday were United States' vessels which included the big freighters F. B. Squire and C. O. Jenkins, both with a capacity of over three hundred thousand bushels of wheat. The twelve took out 2,391,000 bushels of grain, the majority clearing for Buffalo, nine out of the twelve having that port as destination. Six vessels are reported as loading yesterday, four of them American bottoms, while there are seventeen boats on their way up here.

ELECTROCUTED BUT HE SPEAKS

An Engineer Meets Death Through Current Attracted to His Body by Signet Ring.

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—"Pardon me, it was my mistake."

With those words, after 22,000 volts had passed through his body, John A. Grimmons, assistant engineer of the Malden and Melrose Electric Co., crumbled at the feet of a party of engineers he was showing through the company's new plant, dead.

The fatal accident was the result of a signet ring Grimmons wore on his right hand. Without touching a switch, the ring attracted the current to his body as the engineer waved his hand in explaining the intricate details of a high tension switch.

Warned of Danger.

A few minutes before the tour of the station was started, Grimmons warned the visitors of the dangers, and cautioned them against touching any of the switches or wires. Because of the great danger, a panel door shut off the high tension switch. Danger warnings are pasted on the door.

The young engineer braved the danger and removed the panel so the visitors might obtain a thorough view. He began his explanation of the tremendous power flowing through it, rather unconsciously placing his hand inside of the door. A contact through the ring immediately was effected, though his hand was 6 inches away, the volts passing through the body of the engineer.

Was to Be Married.

Efforts to revive the man were futile.

Grimmons was 24 years old. He was to have been married within a few days.

OPPOSE WINNIPEG'S MAYOR.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 31.—(Canadian Press).—Robert Jacob, M.L.A., will oppose Mayor S. J. Fraser in the civic election November 23, it was announced here. He was Attorney-General of Manitoba during the regime of the Norris Government, and has served as a member of the Winnipeg School Board for ten years.

BALDWIN SAYS LABOR SHOULD SUPPORT HIM

Free Trade Leaves Workers Unprotected Against Cheap Foreign Labor.

TARIFFS NEEDED.

SWANSEA, Wales, Oct. 31. — The proceedings of the political meeting which Premier Baldwin addressed here yesterday, were overshadowed by the death of Andrew Bonar Law, to whom the Premier paid eloquent tribute. His speech dealt almost entirely with trade and unemployment questions, but he gave no details of his contemplated protectionist policy, beyond saying it was under examination and he still thought the changes he had proposed for fighting unemployment were essential.

"We must not be exposed to the merciless attacks of foreign competition," said the Prime Minister, "while our competitors can shield themselves behind the wall of their high tariffs."

Free Trade Dream.

He justified the workers standing fast by trade unionism, but argued that it was a very lopsided form of protection that trade unionism gave the worker, since it left him entirely unprotected against attacks on his standard of life, by free and unrestricted imports produced by labor with which he could not compete.

Contending that the system of free trade, introduced when steam was in its childhood and electricity had not been utilized, was surely ripe for revision, he remarked: "The dream of universal free trade was only a dream, and cannot be dreamed today."

Conquer Unemployment.

Elsewhere he said: "With tariffs, as with armaments, the unarmed nation will never make an armed nation disarm."

Predicting that he would get much support from labor ,which naturally was protectionist, the Prime Minister concluded: "The only thing I care for is to fight the unemployment evil ,and ,if possible, conquer, and when the time comes to take my political life in my hands, I am prepared to stand or fall by that cause."

NEW YORK PRESS LAUD BONAR LAW

Says Late Statesman Unswerving in His Duty At all Times.

NEW YORK, October 31 (Canadian Press). — New York newspapers pay outstanding tribute to the memory of Andrew Bonar Law, who died yesterday.

The Tribune says he was justly lauded as a "high-minded and patriotic doer, not talker, pursuing unswervingly what he considered his duty, fairly, honourably, and honestly, and in the daylight."

The World, after paying tribute to his character and achievements, says he is remembered affectionately by both supporters and opponents, "because throughout his political life he played the game with conspicuous fairness, unselfishness, integrity, and candour."

The Herald says Bonar Law was "stable ,cautious, trustworthy, and possesed of an integrity which no political excitement or temptation ever hook."

MAY BE INTERRED AT WESTMINSTER

Funeral of Late Bonar Law in Historic Abbey, Monday.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—(Canadian Press). — The funeral of Andrew Bonar Law, former Prime Minister of Britain will be in Westminster Abbey at noon Monday, it was announced to-day. High officials of State will attend.

It was reported today that the body of the former Prime Minister would be probably buried in Westminster Abbey.

GLAND TREATMENTS ONLY EXPERIMENTS

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 31.—Glandular treatment has not progressed beyond the experimental stage, even in animals, Dr. Charels Mayo, of Rochester, Minn., declared in an address here before the Interstate Assembly, formerly the Tri-State Medical Associtaion.

If the newspapers would devote as much space to constructive medical articles as they do to items featuring freak medical performances ,the surgeon declared, their readers would find more profit in reading them.

Dr Mayo said his own opinion of gland treatment was "mostly humorous."

RADIO MESSAGE FROM NORTH POLE

CALGARY, Oct. 31.—(Canadian Press.)—Again in communication with the Bowdoin, MacMillan's Arctic exploration ship, ice-locked, seven hundred and sixty miles from the north pole, the Calgary Herald radio station picked up a message from the Bowdoin yesterday. Although somewhat fragmentary ,the message said that all was well on the ship. They reported high winds and breaking ice in the Smith Sound. The bear and caribou hunters had not been very successful. Radio concerts were coming in well from stations in North America. The message was sent in morse code on a wave length of 220 metres.

SNOW PRECEDES MOOSE HUNTERS

Fell Yesterday Over the Sudbury District—Some Game Already Shipped.

SUDBURY, Oct. 31. — (Canadian Press). — The big bulk of hunters coming north over the Canadian Pacific are dropping off between French River and Sudbury, and little game has yet been shipped out. Others are proceeding west to Metagama and Biscotasing, and reports from there say hunters generally have had good luck. On the Canadian National lines north and west of Capreol, several hunters have brought in their moose. In Mattawa district, up to noon yesterday, sixteen moose had been shipped out over the Kipawa branch of the Canadian Pacific. The real rush of hunters from Southern Ontario starts today, both railways running special trains out of Toronto. Snow has been falling over the district, and the bush will be very wet.

HELEN HAYES DIED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Daughter of Former Peterboro Electrician And St. Joseph's Hospital Nurse Killed in U. S.

Helen Hayes, daugther of Frank Hayes, Lansing, Michigan, and granddaughter of Patrick Farley, of Indian River, was killed in an automobile accident in Lansing on Sunday, according to a telegram received yesterday.

Mr. Hayes formerly lived in Peterborough, learning his trade with the C.G.E., and Mary Hayes (nee Mary Farley) was a nurse in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Their little daughter, who was killed, was seven years of age.

MINORITY GOVERNMENT BY SAXON SOCIALISTS

DRESDEN, Oct. 31. — (Canadian Press).—The Socialist Parliamentary party has decided to form a Socialist minority government. Dr. A. Fellisch, who prior to the setting up of the deposed Socialist-Communist government, was Minister of Economics, has announced his intention to undertake the formation of such a Cabinet. The Democrats have avowed to support a Socialist government.

BLUNT ARROWS IN FILMING OF BUFFALO HUNT

Two Thousand Surplus Bisons Will Be Slaughtered By Marksmen With High Power Rifles.

ONLY FEW IN MOVIE.

OTTAWA, Oct. 31.—(By Canadian Press).— An answer to criticisms of the manner in which surplus buffalo at Wainwright Park are being slaughtered was given yesterday by officials of the Canadian National Parks branch.

It was explained that only a very few animals were dispatched, when a moving picture firm filmed a revival of pioneer days. The Indians shot harmless wooden arrows against the shaggy sides of the beasts, while concealed sharpshooters brought down a few of the bulls with high-powered rifles.

During th, next two weeks two thousand of the surplus buffalo, mostly bulls will be killed in the same fashion—that is, they will be shot on the run with high-powered rifles.

The meats of the best of the animals will be placed on the markets in both Canada and the United States and the refrigerating plant of Wainwright will no doubt get some of the choicest cuts in prime condition for Christmas Day. The less choice portions of the animals are to be converted into pemmican under Government supervision at Edmonton. Approved Indian methods are to be employed, and the pemmican will b, available for members of the R.C.M.P. on northern patrols and for Arctic expeditions and other journeys where concentrated food is essential.

Methods for marketing the robes and heads have not yet been completed. It is to be remembered that on, of the few mementoes which H.R.H. The Prince of Wales carried back to England with him after his visit to his Alberta ranch was a pair of cowboy chaps or overbreeches, made of Buffalo leather. In accordanc, with custom, the Prince declined them as a present, and paid ten dollars for the memento.

Herd too Large

Th, decision to slaughter two thousand of the buffalo at Wainwright Park during the next two weeks was made after due consideration of other methods of disposal of these animals by the Dominion Parks Branch it was stated. Wainwright Park has an area of 160 square miles which provides pastur age for a herd of some 5,000 animals during normal years. The herd has now reached the proportions of 8,000

While the cows and calves are fed with hay during the Winter months, the bulls are left to find for themselves, and it has been found that the grass supply is insufficient for the large number of animals. Hence dis ease is feared, owing to malnutrition

Experiments in the nature of crossing domestic cows and yak with buffalo which has been carried on for the past eight years, has proved mainly successful and Wainwright Park now has three separate herds of th, crosses which while showing a team beef animal have a more general covering of the thick fur found on the forequarters of the buffalo. Twenty-five per cent. buffalo has proved sufficient and crosses with Aberdeen, Angus and Hereford cows and buffalo bulls have given excellent results.

For Public Parks

With regard to supplying Canadian cities and municipalities with buffalo for public parks it was said at the parks branch that every request received so far has been complied with where the necessary monies were forthcoming for transportation of tht animals with an attendant and a bond could be given that the buffalo would be provided with a pasturag, area of 30 acres for each pair.

STRICKEN WHILE ON GOLF COURSE

Toronto Minister Died After Being Removed To His Home.

TORONTO, Oct. 31.—Rev. J. H. Turnbull, D.D., pastor of High Park Presbyterian Church, Roncesvalles avenue, died suddenly last night at his home here. He had been ill only since Monday morning. He was on the golf links when he suffered a seizure and was taken to his home.

Rev. Dr. Turnbull was one of the foremost ministers of the Presbyterian church in Canada.

GETTING FROM IN UNDER.

Citizens of the counties of Gaspe and Bonaventure have suggested to Sir Henry Thornton the taking over and operating of 202 miles of privately-owned railway which unites those sections of the Province with the old Intercolonial Railway.

The President of Canada's National Railways is not likely to accept the suggestion with open arms, nor can anyone blame him for refusing to consider any such proposition.

The taxpayers of Canada have quite enough railway obligations upon their shoulders already without adding privately-owned lines that have not proven their ability to meet their fixed charges.

It would be, of course, a very nice thing for the owners if the system could be unloaded upon the Canadian National, and the deficits could be charged to the policy of public ownership.

But viewed from the standpoint of the taxpayers and in the light of the problems Sir Henry Thornton already has on his hands, the attempt to get from in under on the part of the private owners is likely to meet with scant success.

Canada has all the railways on her hands now that her people want to see her burdened with for the present.

ANDREW BONAR LAW.

No section of the British Empire, as Premier King has pointed out, heard of the death of Andrew Bonar Law with more sorrow than Canada, which claimed the ex-Prime Minister as one of her native sons.

Bonar Law was, in fact, the only Canadian who had ever risen to the position of Premier of Great Britain.

Canadians, as do citizens of the British Empire everywhere, consider that the dead statesman gave his life for that Empire, or at least that the great strain of his responsibilities hastened his end.

He was one of the dominating personalities in Europe during the war and immediately afterwards, and had a tremendous following from all parties and all ranks of life.

As right-hand man for Lloyd George during the dark days of the war, Bonar Law was a great source of strength to the Allies.

Lloyd George himself declared of his former colleague: "During the last years of the war and the first years of the peace we worked in closer co-operation and partnership than probably any two Ministers of the Crown ever worked before. No man could wish for a more loyal, sagacious and helpful partner in times of emergency."

There could be no more convincing tribute than that.

In his death the British Empire has lost a staunch bulwark, a devoted statesman and a genuine patriot.

GETTING DOWN TO BUSINESS.

Hon. J. D. Robb, Federal Minister of Immigration, in calling a conference of all the Provincial Ministers of Agriculture at Ottawa next month to discuss immigration problems, has taken a businesslike step that should materially assist him in developing a policy that will put this country on the map again, so far as immigration is concerned.

The Provinces are naturally as much interested in this question as is the Dominion Government, and each of them has its own problems and its own viewpoint.

From a conference of the Provincial representatives a comprehensive survey of the situation can be obtained, and the Federal policy can eventually be shaped so as to satisfy the wishes of each Province as far as possible, and at the same time to produce the best results for Canada as a whole.

There is no disguising the fact that Canada has fallen sadly behind in the immigration race.

We have lost to Australia, New Zealand and the United States thousands of people who would have made splendid Canadians.

They would have been very useful assets to Canada, and it is a pity indeed that they were allowed to get away.

However, there is much that can be done to make up our drifting policy of the last few years, and next month's conference is an important move in the right direction.

RURAL CREDITS.

The announcement of Hon. Mr. Fielding that President Tory of the University of Alberta, who has been appointed Chairman of the Research Council of Canada, will institute a full inquiry into the subject of agricultural credits will give satisfaction not only to the farmers, but to all other citizens who recognize the need of placing agriculture upon the soundest possible basis.

Representatives of the farmers claimed during the last session of Parliament that their needs were not met by either the chartered banks or the loan companies.

Their chief want, they declared, was a system that would make it possible for them to obtain temporary credit accommodation as the varying nature of their operations made such credit necessary for one, two or perhaps three years.

From the chartered banks for the most part credit could only be obtained for brief periods, and there were difficulties about renewals, while the loan companies provided credit only on mortgages and usually for a lengthy period.

The Research Council may not be able to solve the problem of developing a better system, but at least the announcement that an attempt is being made to deal successfully with this most important matter will be welcomed.

No possible avenue of bringing strength to Canada's basic industry, upon the prosperity of which the prosperity of almost everybody else depends, should be overlooked, and so Canadians generally will wish President Tory every success in the vital problem he and his associates are tackling.

THEY WENT TO WORK.

Lieut. H. Gordon Hooten and six of his friends came from the Old Country to Canada as harvesters, says the London Advertiser. The day they arrived at Winnipeg they found the place full of men who were complaining about their lot, because they had not found work. Lieut. Hooten and his friends decided that there would be no farm work in Winnipeg, so when the C.P.R. announced a train that would take them 600 miles farther west for $3.20, they all went. They arrived at Kerrobert, Sask., at nine in the evening and were all hired that night to go to work at $4 a day.

They might very well have stated that stooking sheaves was not their business, for the trades or followings of the seven in the party were: Navy telegraphist, insurance manager, garage owner, insurance clerk, garage mechanic, painter and timber salesman.

Work has been hard and hours long, but the pay went from $4 to $5 and then to $6 per day when threshing started. The farmers have fed them well, put up with their inexperience, and there has been a kindly spirit toward them when they visited the town near them.

The writer of the experience, Lieut. Hooten, and one of the party have found permanent work, one as the clerk in a hotel and the other in a local garage; the rest of the party are threshing, and have put aside enough money to keep them for some time, or until they get settled.

Lieut. Hooten sums up his experience and hands out these rules to others who may be going through the same experience:

1. Get away from the cities.
2. Show a willingness to work.
3. Don't expect easy money.
4. Adapt yourself to Canada.
5. Forget the way you did things in the Old Country.
6. Digest the Canadian point of view.

Every word of which is true. Canada has room, opportunity and reward for men whose hands are ready to work, and who are not too particular about what they do in the way of honest labor.

THE EUROPEAN SITUATION.

The matter immediately under discussion is Germany's ability or inability to pay her war debts, says the London Advertiser. The thing runs in a circle. Germany owes France, Britain and the rest of the Allies large sums of money; her financial system has been riddled and exploited until her currency quotations are reckoned in terms of white paper alone. Britain, France and Italy, in turn, owe United States billions of dollars, and Britain alone has come forward with a plan to pay pound for pound for everything she owes. It is for that reason alone, if for no other, that she is qualified to address United States on the subject of a conference where the method of German payment can be discussed. Had Britain flunked the question, she could not have spoken.

The Allies owe United States the following amounts, reckoned in dollars:

Great Britain	$4,166,318,355
France	3,358,104,083
Italy	1,648,034,050

United States has a great deal at stake. She should be interested in listening to any plan whereby a movement toward repayment can be started. If Germany pays France, France can pay Britain; or if a basis of working can be arranged Germany could also start to pay Britain, for they both owe her money. Britain could then, with less of a crushing burden on her resources, go on with the payments she has already started to make to United States. The big thing is to get the work started.

To assist in the rebuilding of a financial fabric in Europe to make this possible, United States might be asked for a large loan. This would put her in the favorable condition of being able to dictate the terms on which this would be granted, and it is not out of reason to suppose that one of the stipulations would be that the powers cease the building of navies and the piling up of armament, which has been a tap on their vitality that has crushed useful and sane development in other fines. In making such a stipulation United States would, of course, be a party to it. The world must get the smell of gun powder out of its nose.

It looks like a big event, big enough to drive serious people to their knees in prayer that it may be a success.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Canadians like to read of the success of Canadian apples at the Imperial Fruit Show even if it is difficult to get hold of a good one at home.

Toronto policemen who shot and killed a suspected rum-runner are to be tried for manslaughter. They might have had to face a murder charge.

Chicago packers are going to put buffalo steaks on the market. Tough.

Port Colborne men caught in Buffalo harbour with 510 cases of ale on board their boat claim protection as navigators, probably basing their case on the number of schooners they would be able to fill.

An Ottawa man convicted of a breach of the Ontario Temperance Act, and also of reckless driving, was fined $200 on the first count and only $25 on the second, although he had injured a couple of girls. It looks as if somebody must have nodded here.

Hamilton continues to lead the way in unsolved murder cases. The Lindsay shooting is on a par with other, mysteries that have marked the history of the Ambitious City.

Niagara Falls reports the nut crop very light in that vicinity. They seem as plentiful as ever around Lindsay, however.

Edmonton civic buildings are to be heated with gas this winter. The Council Chamber likely will depend upon hot air, as usual, however.

A report from Edmonton declares that moving pictures were taken of the slaughter of the surplus buffalo in Wainright Park, Indians aiming at them with their bows, while the killing was done by concealed sharpshooters armed with rifles. The assurance was given not long ago that the massacre would not be filmed. There seems to be an explanation due from someone in authority.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, October 31. — Of the 7,000 cattle on the market at the Union Stock Yards Monday 4,608 were sold and weighed. Yesterday's first run was 630 cattle, 151 calves, 2,129 hogs, and 1,125 sheep and lambs. The early business yesterday morning consisted mainly of loads of stockers which ranged in price from $3.25 to $3.75 a cwt.

Mondays left-over butchers were of poor quality, and only a few good ones came in yesterday morning's batch. The exporters bought 680 head all told yesterday, and will try to make up 1,000 of all kinds for the week.

Swifts took six loads of heavy steers on Monday at a flat price of $7.10 a cwt. This was about 25 to 35 cents a cwt. lower than that of two weeks ago. The high price paid for export was $7.25 and the low $6.25. For feeders the range was $5.25 to $5.75, and for bulls $3.50 to $4.85 a cwt. Western cattle sold well compared to the natives. Butchers heifers brough $4.90 a cwt. and 1,100-pound steers $5.50 a cwt.

Comparing the prices of cattle with those of a year ago, commission men say there should be no complaint, as on the average yesterday's prices were higher. This time last year heavy shipments of Western cattle were being received, and this made bad low-priced markets. Real good butchers are selling well, and an upstanding young bull went to the packers yesterday morning at 5 1-4 cents.

Two loads of export cattle sold at $6.50 a cwt., and a nice load of short keeps went to Amos Graul at $5.70 a cwt. Common and medium butchers were decidedly slow, and several salesmen left the alleys early owing to the state of trade. Western steers, which sold on Monday at $5.50 a cwt., were said to have cost $5.10 in Calgary, and to this $1.14 a cwt. has to be added. Returns such as this are expected to curtail Western shipments.

Veal calves have firmed up again and one choice vealer was sold by Fred Dunn yesterday morning at 12 1-2 cents a pound. Good mediums are selling from 9 to 10 cents. Heavy calves are draggy and seldom cross 6 cents.

Lambs were quite steady from 11 1-2 cents to 12 cents a pound. The strength in lambs is thought to be due to the packers beginning to storage them. Sheep are slightly easier and good handy weights are quoted at 6 to 6 1-2 cents and heavy bucks at 3 cents a pound.

Hogs closed strong on Monday, and some f.o.b. sales were reported at $8.50 a cwt. Yesterday's market was steady at $8.25 to $8.50 a cwt. f.o.b. on the thick smooth.
